CALCIUM-25
Calcium Mineral Supplements. Increases crops yields 20 to 40% & more over the past 24 years. Works equally well in both calcium rich and calcium-deficient soils. Increases plants ability to absorb nutrients more efficiently. By foliar feeding this to any plant, it increases the cell structure. By doing this it increases the growth & yields to the plant. I know I have proved it for 5 years with excellent results. Last year my soybeans did not freeze.

Hallock to see major downtown street reconstruction soon

Hallock - Kittson County commissioners accepted the $88,637 bid from Davidson Construction for the downtown road construction project on Second Street South in Hallock.

Kittson County Engineer Kelly Bengtson recommended awarding the bid to Davidson at the May 17 meeting. The bid was below the engineer's estimate of $951,255.

Second Street South is part of the five-year county construction plan, starting at the intersection of Emerson Avenue east to Cedar, along with a small segment of County State Aid Highway (CSAH) 37. With in-place drainage functioning poorly, road surfaces heaving and settling, sidewalks in poor condition, and sewer and water lines in need of replacement, city and county officials have discussed the necessity of the project over the past few years.

The small segment of CSAH 37 that is in the plan would start at the intersection of Second Street South and Birch (between American Federal and Marshall Bank) and continue north to the intersection of Birch and Highway 175 (near the Post Office).

Bengtson said Davidson will begin the project June 6. A detour will be set up along Highways 175 and 75.

Why is the county participating in this downtown street project? Bengtson said Second Street is a CSAH that just happens to go through the city. - Kittson County Enterprise, May 25, 2005, by Cindy Stewart

School Board makes more cuts

Warroad - In an early Monday morning meeting, the Warroad School Board went through a few things.

One point was to terminate the employment of non-licensed staff effective June 4. These positions can be added or deleted during the summer months if the board sees that it can be done or if there is a need for more dollars to be cut.

Activities Director Craig Oftedahl brought his cuts to the board. He is looking at cutting 15 percent of supplies, officials for ninth grade basketball, cheerleading and suburban van use for hockey and football. There was much discussion on activity ticket prices and at-the-door prices. - Warroad Pioneer, May 25, 2005, by Marlene Schmitz

Program cuts spark student walkout

Red Lake Falls - Following months of discussion, Independent School District 630 Board members voted 6-1 on a measure that cuts several K-12 programs that could have resulted in the loss of six faculty and staff positions through the issuance of unrequested leaves of absence.

In a show of support for having industrial arts as part of the elective curriculum at the high school and saving the job of the 22-year veteran teacher, roughly 80 percent of the student body staged a walkout Monday, starting at 2 a.m. by setting up the protest encampment on the northeast lawn of the school. - Red Lake Falls Gazette, May 25, 2005

Dakota plans Center for Women's Health

A strategic shift in thinking

by David Hill
Editor

A change in philosophy leads to:
- Additional space
- Five Ob-Gyns
- Nurse Practitioner
- New hours
- More resources
- Opens in July

Area residents may have already seen the Center for Women's Health sign at Dakota Clinic - Thief River Falls. It's not there now, but by July the sign should be back up and the center fully operational.

Dakota Clinic - Thief River Falls is positioning itself to become known throughout the region as The center for women's health. It won't just be window dressing.

Philip McKenzie, chief executive officer at Dakota Clinic, said that since February, Dakota Clinic has added two Ob-Gyns, joining three Ob-Gyns and a nurse practitioner. When everyone is in place on July 1, the five physicians will make Dakota Clinic the largest Ob-Gyn practice in Minnesota north of St. Cloud.

While this announcement carries with it the expectation that the Center will focus largely on obstetrics and gynecology, it will be much more. The decision to provide a comprehensive Center for Women's Health also means it will draw upon all of the expertise already existing at the Clinic from Family Practice to Pediatrics to Physical Therapy.

McKenzie explained that the idea for a Center for Women's Health all began with the premise that in general, women are the healthcare decision makers for their families.

Women fill many roles, he said. They fill roles as mother, best friend, daughter, wife and role model.

A note recently issued from his office to employees explains that, in general, it's a woman who brings her son to the clinic for a sports physical; brings her elderly father to the clinic for a hearing test, encourages her husband to come to the clinic for annual exams; and brings her daughter to a mother-daughter educational course on "The Teenage Years."

It seems logical then, that healthcare providers should focus on providing care that is attractive and responsive to women's needs.

McKenzie said this means Dakota Clinic will be focusing on some innovative things, not just frilly decorations and fancy lights, although there may be some of that in the new office space.

The physical space for the Center, which is located on the north side of the clinic near Physical Therapy, is already nearing completion. But McKenzie's plan also calls for seminars that focus on women's health issues, special information kiosks where women can find information on a variety of topics, and expanded hours.

Ready for Memorial Day

As part of the commemoration of Memorial Day, crosses and flags were placed at Greenwood Cemetery in Thief River Falls. The community's Memorial Day observance is scheduled Monday at 10:30 a.m. in Greenwood Cemetery. First Lt. Colin Browning, who recently served in Iraq, will speak at the event. The program will be held at the National Guard Armory in the event of inclement weather.

Region plans for Memorial Day ceremonies

The United States' holiday, known as Memorial Day was officially proclaimed on May 5, 1868. Intended to honor those who fought and died in the Civil War, it was officially observed for the first time later that month when flowers were placed on the graves of Union and Confederate soldiers at Arlington National Cemetery.

New York, in 1873, was the first state to recognize the holiday and by 1890 it was recognized by all of the northern states. Most southern states did not recognize the holiday until after Word War I, when the holiday was changed to recognize those who fought in any American war.

A Congressional act, known as the National Holiday Act of 1971, made Memorial Day a national holiday, to be celebrated annually on the last Monday in May. Prior to 1971, Memorial Day was observed on May 30 each year.

Several Memorial Day events have been planned in northwest Minnesota.

• Badger - A Memorial Day service will be hosted by the Badger VFW Club on Monday, May 30, beginning at 11 a.m. The service will be held at the Badger City Park. In case of inclement weather, the service will be held at the Badger VFW Club.

• Gully - The Gully American Legion Post 603 will hold Memorial Day services at the Gully Community Hall, beginning at 10:30 a.m. on Monday, May 30.

• Goodridge - A Memorial Day service will be held at the Rosendahl Lutheran Church on Sunday, May 29, beginning at 2 p.m. Rev. Robert Dahlen will speak. A pot luck lunch will be served following services. Rosendahl Lutheran Church is located six miles east of the Goodridge corner on Highway 1 and one and one-half miles north.

• Hallock - American Legion Post 63, Hallock, will host a Memorial Day program on Monday, May 30. The program will be held at the Kittson Central High School Auditorium in Hallock, beginning at 11 a.m. The Memorial Day address will be presented by Theresa M. Anderson, Norman County veterans services officer.

Barn Again! begins June 10

Smithsonian Museum on Main Street exhibition opens July 3

by David Hill
Editor

On June 10 the summer-long celebration for one of the most unconventional yet familiar exhibits to ever visit Thief River Falls begins.

Believe it or not, it's all about barns. "Barn Again! Celebrating An American Icon," a Smithsonian Museum on Main Street Exhibition will be on exhibit at Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village between July 3 and August 21. As a result of securing this impressive exhibit, an entire series of events and celebrations have been planned this summer.

The celebration begins with a slide show of barns in Minnesota beginning at 7 p.m. on Friday, June 10, in room 201-203 at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls, and is followed by a tour of area barns on Saturday, June 11.

The slide show on Friday, June 11, will feature Doug Ohman, photographer, and Will Weaver, author of a new book entitled "Barns of Minnesota." The event is free and co-sponsored by NCTC.

Ohman and Weaver collaborated on the book "Barns of Minnesota" that was released in April 2005 by the Minnesota Historical Society. Ohman did the photography and Weaver wrote a fictional narrative that chronicles the parallel lives of a barn and the family that built it. Weaver will do some short readings from the book. Ohman has another book "Churches of Minnesota" that will be coming out this fall, and is working on a "Cabins of Minnesota" book.

On Saturday, June 11, a tour of area barns will be offered from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. The cost of this event is $15 per person. The bus trip includes lunch and a tour of 30 barns of various styles. To pre-register, contact the Thief River Falls City Administrator's office at 681-2943.

Smithsonian Exhibit

The actual Smithsonian exhibit does not open until July 3, and the grand opening event will be on July 8.

As common as barns are to residents in northwestern Minnesota, visitors to the exhibit may be surprised at the variety of shapes and sizes, as well as the history behind them. And if residents take a closer look around, they will discover that residents are finding new uses for barns.

The five-kiosk traveling exhibit tells the history of American barns from the turn of the 20th century to the present. It features pictures and architectural models of barns built in different styles or used for

The Barn Again! celebration in Thief River Falls begins June 10 and 11. On June 10, the photographer and author of this book will give a presentation at Northland Community and Technical College.

A Cold War warrior reflects on service to his country

During his career, L.L. Jones survived three plane crashes, hydrogen bomb tests, and met seven astronauts

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

L.L. Jones, along with his wife Joan, is a Thief River Falls resident and 20-year veteran of the U.S. Navy.

In 1944, at the age of 14 L.L. Jones joined the U.S. Navy. He was set to fight for "the best country in the world."

"I was getting ready to go to boot camp and they told me to come back in four years – they found my birth certificate," Jones said.

Jones, a native of Albia, Iowa, was born a patriot. At the age of 17, he tried out for a spot on the St. Louis Cardinals roster as a pitcher and first baseman. Ultimately, he would turn down the $3,000 annual minor league salary he was offered to serve his country.

In 1948, four years after he was sent home the first time, an 18-year-old Jones enlisted in the U.S. Navy. Over the next 20 years, he would help the United States fight the spread of communism, serving during during both the Korean and Vietnam war eras.

Jones was also involved in what remains one of the most controversial programs in U.S. history – the testing of hydrogen bombs on the Pacific island chain, Bikini Atoll.

Patrol Squadron 46

In 1948, Jones began a three-year enlistment in the Navy, with a rating of aviation mechanic. He started using his initials, L.L., during boot camp and to this day few know what the initials stand for.

Following boot camp, Jones was assigned to Naval Patrol Squadron 46, a group of 150 enlisted men serving in nine planes. Patrol Squadron 46 operated PBM-5 Mariners, a large sea plane that could reach top speeds of approximately 150 miles per hour and could take off at 60 knots. PBM-5 Mariners were known for their ability to land in the Pacific Ocean for rescue missions. Jones said each PBM-5 in Squadron 46, which carried a typical crew of 12 and conducted search and rescue flights all over the southwest Pacific, always returned to the U.S. port in Saipan.

Patrol Squadron 46's home port was moved to Tsingtao China in April 1949, where for two months, the squadron flew observation missions to see how far the communist armies were advancing.

In late May, the communist armies reached

More recipes from St. Pauli Church of Thief River Falls. Today, we have oatmeal cookies of all kinds - so many recipes, so little space...

There's nothing better than a cookie jar filled with these:

MOM'S FAVORITE RAISIN ROCKS
Carolyn Haugen
1 cup shortening
2 cups sugar
2 eggs
2 cups raisins
1 cup water
1 teaspoon soda
4 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
3/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup chopped walnuts

Cream shortening and sugar. Beat in eggs.
Boil raisins and water together for 5 minutes, then cool. Add the soda.
Mix flour, salt, nutmeg and cinnamon and add alternately with the soda/raisin mixture to the creamed mixture. Add nuts.
Drop by teaspoonfuls and bake at 375 degrees for 15 minutes.

Here's another type of oatmeal drop cookie - easy to make and yummy, like a tiny banana bread in your hand:

BANANA COOKIES
Margaret Lian
1 cup sugar
3/4 cup shortening
2 eggs
1-1/2 cups oatmeal
1 cup mashed bananas
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 cups flour

Mix well and place on cookie sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for 10-12 minutes.

And another oatmeal cookie with a great name:

THRILLS
Evie Johnson and Sharon Bugge
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup shortening
1/2 cup buttermilk
2 eggs
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups flour
2 cups oatmeal
1 cup walnuts, chopped

Cream sugar and shortening. Beat in eggs, then add buttermilk. Add dry ingredients and mix well. Drop by round spoonfuls on lightly greased sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for 8-10 minutes. Cool on rack and then frost.

Sharon Bugge's grandma's recipe has 1 teaspoon vanilla and has no nuts in the recipe, but otherwise it is the same. Her recipe also says to bake at 350 degrees.

Frosting:
1 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup cream
1 teaspoon butter
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix all ingredients in saucepan. Cook to soft ball stage and beat to spreading consistency.

Another great name for a cookie and it has chocolate chips as well as oatmeal:

MOM SONDRA'S COWBOY COOKIES
Rev. Terri Jo Skildum
2 cups sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
1/4 teaspoon salt (or less)
2 eggs
1 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 cup packed brown sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups oatmeal
1 package chocolate chips

Sift together flour, soda, salt and baking powder. Set aside.
Blend shortening and sugar. Add eggs and beat light and fluffy. Add flour mixture and mix well. Add oatmeal and vanilla and then chocolate chips. Mixture will be crumbly.
Drop teaspoonfuls onto cookie sheet and bake 12-15 minutes at 350 degrees.

These have got to be one of those favorite "everyday" cookies that grandma used to make:

GOOD COOKIES
Corine Bjorge
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup white sugar
1 cup shortening
2 eggs
1 teaspoon soda
1 cup coconut
1-1/2 cups flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
Pinch of salt
2 cups quick oatmeal
1 cup corn flakes
1 teaspoon baking powder

Cream shortening and white and brown sugars. Beat eggs well and add along with vanilla. Add the flour, soda, salt, baking powder, coconut, oatmeal and corn flakes. Form into balls and flatten slightly. Bake at 375 degrees about 10 minutes.

Novacek assists as student worker at BSU Adventures in Activity Day

Noah Novacek of Greenbush and Brandon Wilson of Brooks were student workers at the annual Adventures in Activity Day at Bemidji State University this spring.

Novacek is a senior majoring in social studies education. Wilson is a senior pursuing a degree in physical education.

The Adventures in Activity Day, is an annual event sponsored by the physical education program at BSU. It provides fun and safe physical activities and social opportunities for mentally or physically handicapped students from northwestern Minnesota.

The students, who ranged from third grade to 21 years old, had an opportunity to participate in a social time, twelve activity stations, and a lunch. The event not only benefits participants but also provides educational experience to the BSU students, many of whom will be going into the education field.

Hospice launches Memorial Day fund appeal

First Care Medical Services Hospice will launch the first of two annual fundraising mail appeals over Memorial Day. Funds raised will help provide hospice care and support to the terminally ill and their family members.

Across the United States, Hospice's cost of care is 10 to 20 percent more than Medicare reimbursement, according to the National Hospice and Palliative Care Organization.

"At First Care's Hospice, patient care expenses average 13 percent more than the reimbursement from Medicare and private insurances," according to Kelly Rogalla, Hospice Fundraising coordinator. "Our Hospice fundraising goal is $75,000 this year to provide support for an estimated 5,000 patient visits as well as expenses of patient medications, supplies, and equipment all provided by our Hospice," added Rogalla.

If you would like to know more about hospice care or schedule a presentation on hospice, please contact Kelly Rogalla, First Care Medical Services Hospice, at 218-681-6189.

During "Safe Wheelin' Weekend," June 3-5, law enforcement officers and off-highway vehicle (OHV) organizations will inform OHV riders in the state on where to ride as well as legal and safe methods of OHV operation. They will also focus on illegal operation of OHVs in road right-of-ways and on public lands.

First-of-its-kind joint effort targets off-highway vehicle safety

The increase in off-highway vehicle (OHV) usage over the past decade has brought an increase in complaints, violations, accidents, and fatalities, and placed excessive demands on Minnesota law enforcement agencies.

Since 1995, 114 Minnesotans have died and another 9,700 have been injured in OHV-related incidents. OHVs include all-terrain vehicles, off-highway motorcycles and off-road vehicles such as four-wheel-drive trucks, but not snowmobiles.

Now, in first-of-its-kind joint effort, Minnesota law enforcement agencies and motorized recreational organizations will work together.

During "Safe Wheelin' Weekend," June 3-5, Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR) conservation officers, municipal police, sheriff's departments, Minnesota State Patrol, and OHV clubs and organizations will inform OHV riders in the state on where to ride as well as legal and safe methods of OHV operation. They will also focus on illegal operation of OHVs in road right-of-ways and on public lands.

Over the past two years, DNR enforcement has taken a lead role in training other law enforcement agencies in laws that govern OHV usage and operation in the state.

Every year, tens of thousands of children are sent to the emergency room with serious and often debilitating injuries from ATV accidents. According to the ATV Safety Institute, more than 90 percent of child injuries are caused by improper driving behavior.

Minnesota DNR is the agency charged with the important mission of offering safety-training programs for youth and adult OHV operators. DNR administered ATV safety training is available for ATV operators ages 12-15.

DNR Chief Conservation Officer Col. Mike Hamm said, "If a 600-pound ATV flips over on a 60-pound kid, the vehicle wins."

Hamm added, "ATVs can be very safe if the operator has had training and they're being supervised by an adult. But the reality is that a lot of kids who are being hurt are not being supervised. Parents are saying, 'It's not going to hurt my child.'" Improper adult operation of OHVs is also a concern since they commit an overwhelming majority of the violations. During a recent 12-month period, DNR statistics show people 18 and older had 82 percent of the violations.

The Safe Wheelin' initiative blossomed from a recognition by law enforcement and requests by OHV organizations to enforce existing laws and take action against those people who give the sport a bad name. For example, an ATV rider in Crow Wing State Forest was issued seven tickets in one day. When issued the citations the violator told the conservation officer he "didn't care about the laws." In another egregious case in Crow Wing County State Forest, four men were ticketed for driving mud trucks in a lake bed. A few hours later, all four men were again stopped and charged with operating an off-road vehicle off trail in a state forest and operating an off-road vehicle without obtaining off-road registration. In each instance, there was substantial damage to the resource.

Participating law enforcement agencies and OHV organizations will work to their strengths. Conservation officers will focus their efforts on DNR lands across the state. Sheriffs' departments and municipal police departments will focus on roads within their jurisdictions, responding to accidents, trespass complaints and complaints of illegal operation on roads and rights-of-ways in their areas. State Patrol is responsible for state highways, responding to accidents and complaints of illegal operation on roads and rights-of-ways. OHV organizations will focus on visibility and education on the trails and report major violations to the DNR.

"We'll do an after action report to see what went well and what needs improvement," Hamm said. "If it shows that the effort had a positive effect, I'm sure each group would be interested in doing it annually. It's only through a unified education and enforcement effort that we will be able to slow down the OHV complaints and accidents in the state."

Warren teen pleads guilty to attempted assault

A Warren teen pled guilty Tuesday to an assault charge. Attempted murder charges were dismissed, according to Marshall County Attorney Mike Williams.

Isaac Contreras II

Isaac Contreras II, 18, pled guilty to second degree attempted assault. According to the Marshall County Sheriff's Department, Contreras allegedly tried to bit a man with a shovel. Using a knife, a 16-year-old Warren male then allegedly stabbed the man in the abdomen.

The man, who was visiting a residence along South Eighth Street in Warren, was hospitalized after the March 28 incident. The incident allegedly occurred after the juvenile got into an argument with individuals at the residence. The juvenile left the residence and returned with Contreras, and the alleged incident occurred.

Local residents graduate from State Patrol academy

Stephen Vanderport, 29, Thief River Falls, and Gerry Hanson, 28, Roseau, graduated from the Minnesota State Patrol Training Academy at a ceremony held May 14 in Brooklyn Center.

They are two of 22 graduates of the 49th training academy class. Vanderport will be assigned to the State Patrol's Roseau District, and Hanson will be assigned to the Mahnomen District.

Hanson's law enforcement background includes more than six years with the Thief River Falls Police Department. He received an associate of science degree from Northland Community and Technical College and a bachelor of science degree from the University of North Dakota.

Hanson said he pursued a career with the State Patrol because he "enjoys enforcing traffic laws" and he's excited to be a part of such an "excellent organization."

Vanderport's law enforcement background includes serving five years with the Winston-Salem, N.C., Police Department. He said he pursued a career with State Patrol because he wanted to serve his community and was impressed by the agency's "professionalism." Vanderport and his wife, Angela, have two kids, Sebastian and Chloe.

The State Patrol Training Academy is a 16-week program that teaches candidates skills they need to become Minnesota state troopers.

Tsingtao and Patrol Squadron 46 and the Seventh Fleet were forced to leave.

By year's end, communist forces had overthrown the existing Chiang Kai Shek led Chinese government and created the People's Republic of China. Patrol Squadron 46 was called back to the United States for what was supposed to be an 18-month stay, but in June of 1950 they were headed back to the Pacific.

Korean War

Patrol Squadron 46 was ported in Sasebo, Japan during the early part of the Korean War. Jones spent the first nine months of the Korean War with Patrol Squadron 46, which picked up fighter pilots, who bailed out or whose planes were shot down. The squadron also picked up marines who were injured at a battle known as the "Frozen Chosen."

During the Korean War, Jones survived his third plane crash. Each crash happened during landings in the pacific and they led Jones to change his rating to yeoman (office worker) in an attempt to gain shore-duty.

In May of 1951 Jones reenlisted for six years, with a promise of shore duty. With Jones attached, Patrol Squadron 46 returned to the Korean War Theater. Over the next three years, Jones would serve with Patrol Squadron One in the Korean Theater and he would see his first shore duty at Naval Air Station Memphis, Tenn.

U.S.S. Lipan

One of Jones' shortest assignments may have been his most memorable. In January 1956, he was transferred to Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, for duty on a sea going tug boat called the U.S.S. Lipan. With a crew of 46 sailors and six officers, the Lipan left Hawaii in March of that year to observe the detonation of seven of the largest hydrogen bombs ever tested.

The bombs were tested on a Pacific Island chain called Bikini Atoll.

Jones said his group was 25 to 30 miles from ground zero for most of the bombs. He said the 11 bombs tested produced explosions that were 10 times the size of the atom bomb attacks on Nagasaki and Hiroshima – the equivelant of 15 million tons of TNT.

"A couple of guys turned around too quick and lost their eyesight," Jones recalled. "We were supposed to keep our backs to it."

Jones, who compared the blasts to the light of about a thousand suns, said that the fireballs produced a light that was bright enough to make human flesh transparent. Jones said during blasts, he was able to see an X-ray-like image of his arm while using it to cover his eyes.

During his stay on the Lipan, Jones witnessed the destruction of a few of Bikini Atoll's smaller islands.

"They said one of these bombs could wipe out any city in the world," Jones said. "[The blast] boiled the ocean for about five miles around it."

The Lipan's portion of testing was completed during a three-month period in 1956. Bikini Atoll would see a total of 23 atomic and hydrogen bombs detonated on and around its islands between 1946 and 1958.

Jones and other crew, like many Bikini Atoll natives, developed skin cancer as a result of his experience with bomb testing. Without going into great detail, Jones said he, like many who were in close proximity to the blasts, still deals with the affects of testing today.

Shore Assignments

Jones sought shore duty after his third Pacific Ocean plane crash in 1950. The order took a while, but Jones would receive several shore duty assignments, starting with a two and one-half year assignment in Memphis, Tenn., working at NAS Memphis.

Jones' first normal tour of shore duty was spent at the Bureau of Navy Personnel, Navy Annex, Pentagon, Washington D.C. Jones' tour lasted four and one-half years. He described it as routine, except the responsibility of choosing three of the first seven astronauts. The Navy was to choose three astronauts, the Air Force would also choose three and the Marine Corps would choose one.

"My office spent many 24-hour days during this selection period," Jones said.

Jones' office also helped Marine officials choose their astronaut. Jones was able to meet all seven astronauts when selection was completed. The first astronauts, known as the Mercury Seven, included Alan Sheppard, Jr., Walter Schirra Jr., John Glenn Jr., Virgil "Gus" Grissom, M. Scott Carpenter, Donald "Deke" Slayton, and L. Gordon Cooper Jr. Jones said he was very impressed with Commander Sheppard, U.S. Navy and Col. Glenn, U.S. Marine Corps.

In 1961, Jones transferred to London, England for a tour of duty in the U.S. Embassy, where he was assigned to Naval Intelligence. He declined to comment on his involvement in Naval intelligence.

In his final tour of duty, Jones was assigned to the Office of Congressional Inquiries, Humanitarian Transfers and Hardship Discharges.

Retirement

Jones left the Navy in 1968, after 20 years of honorable service, attaining the ranking of E-6 (Petty Officer First Class). Having fought in two foreign wars, Jones realizes what modern servicemen and women are going through.

"I know what it feels like to be in an unpopular war," Jones said. "They deserve our thanks. I hope its over soon."

"Everyday of my 20 years in the Navy, I appreciated being an American and thanked and remembered the millions who died making the USA the best country in the world," Jones said. "Millions more served in the armed forces around the world, without questions of why they were sent to such duty stations, since the Declaration of Independence and they are still doing the same today. I thank them every day and support and honor them."

Jim Johnson was among those placing U.S. flags near the graves of veterans Thursday in commemoration of Memorial Day. Thief River Falls will commemorate Memorial Day on Monday at 10:30 a.m. In Greenwood Cemetary. First Lt. Colin Browning will speak at the event, which will be held at the National Guard Armory in the event of inclement weather.

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Dave Hill, Editor

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Remember

Patriotism has experienced a resurgence in America. Some, however, seem to think patriotism is something one can lay claim to, as if it is a commodity that can be purchased, or an entire political belief system that says if you put an American flag on your house, you're a member of the ruling Republican party. As we go into the Memorial Day weekend, we are reminded that patriotism is none of these things.

According to a Memorial Day speech from the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs, VA records indicate that more than 42.3 million people have served in the U.S. military during wartime since the Revolutionary War, and 1.2 million died in service. The United States has 16.5 million living wartime veterans, plus another 8.2 million from various peacetime eras.

These men, and I emphasize women, too because of the current debate about women serving in forward combat support positions, are our greatest patriots. They represent everyone from humble to privileged economic backgrounds, different races, religions, and obviously, held or hold different beliefs. They were, or are, representative of everything that is the United States of America, and they all share one thing in common.

According to its legislative intent, the purpose of Memorial Day observances is to ensure that the sacrifices of America's fallen heroes are never forgotten.

In his Memorial Day address, Congressman Mark Kennedy wrote, "While we enjoy the benefits of living in the greatest democracy in the world, we must be ever conscious of the fact that none of the achievements or freedoms enjoyed in America would be possible without the price that has been paid for by our servicemen and women."

As you go in to the Memorial Day weekend, we remind everyone to pause and remember the sacrifices made in the name of freedom. Our nation has paid a high price for the freedoms it enjoys, and it is only right that we perpetuate awareness of those achievements.

Be a patriot. It's not a hard job. It's a job that everyone can do. What is a patriot? By definition, a patriot is simply one who loves and defends his or her country. Please pause to remember our greatest patriots - those men and women who sacrificed the most and shared one thing in common - a love of their country.

In Flanders Fields

by John McCrae

In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly.
Scarce heard amid the guns below.

We are the dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved, and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe:
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

LETTERS

To the Editor:

Currently, there are huge unfunded transportation needs in Minnesota. Effective transportation plays a vital role in business and economic growth. The Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce Board supports long-term effective transportation funding. Gov. Tim Pawlenty recently vetoed the bipartisan Transportation Bill passed by both the Republican-controlled House and the Democratic-controlled Senate. The future transportation needs of Minnesota's businesses can best be achieved if Pawlenty recognizes the need to fund transportation projects. We encourage our local legislators, businesses and citizens to contact Pawlenty and encourage him to fund the transportation needs of Minnesota's businesses and citizens.

Sincerely,

James Langland M.D.

Chair, Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce

Lundgren receives NJCAA Service Award

Mike Lundgren, Thief River Falls Times/Northern Watch sports editor, can add another award to his mantel. Lundgren has been awarded a Service Award from the National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA).

The Service Award is given to those, most often not an athlete, who have made significant contributions to junior college athletics on a national level for an extended period of time. Each year, one of the Service Awards is reserved for a member of the media. Only four Service Awards are given nationwide each year.

The NJCAA annually recognizes individuals who have distinguished themselves on a national level through service, merit or achievement. The Committee on Service and Recognition is responsible for receiving nominations and recommending qualified candidates to the organization's board for final selection.

Deb Jacobson, Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC) athletics director, nominated Lundgren for the award.

Dr. Orley Gunderson, NCTC president, thanked Lundgren and The Times/Northern Watch for the job they've done in making the community aware of NCTC.

Lundgren was born in Brainerd. He graduated from high school in 1969 and earned his degree in radio broadcasting from the Thief River Falls Area Vocational Technical Institute in 1970. Since that time, he has worked for The Times/Northern Watch as the sports editor.

As a writer and photographer, Lundgren has covered Northland athletics almost from their inception. Lundgren's work has earned him the Distinguished Service Award from the Minnesota High School Athletic Directors Association in 2001 and selection to the Lincoln High School Prowler Hall of Fame in 2003. A year later, he was inducted into the NCTC Athletic Hall of Fame.

Lundgren has served as president of the TRF Men's Slow Pitch Softball Association, Board of Directors for TRF Youth Hockey and Baseball and has coached youth hockey and baseball in Thief River Falls.

Lundgren is also the co-chair of the Annual Cody Lundgren Memorial SIDS Golf Tournament which, in its first two years, raised more than $11,000 for the Minnesota Sudden Infant Death Center. Lundgren resides in Thief River Falls with his wife, Shirley.

Mike Lundgren, sports editor for The Thief River Falls Times/Northern Watch, was recently presented with a National Junior College Athletic Association Service Award. Only four of these awards are given nationwida each year. Lundgren received the only award designated for media. Deb Jacobson, Northlend Community and Technical College ethletics director, presented Lundgren with the awerd.

Making Fun Of The Cold

Gordon was a high school classmate of mine. Everyone had a Gordon in their class. Gordon was the kind of guy who could make you, personally, laugh anytime, no matter what the gravity of the situation. Others might not have found him overly comical, but I was his whipping boy. He would pass notes during an important physics test that contained inanities like, "my foot itches" and he would pass gas during year-end math exams that he could, poker-faced, blame on the unfortunate slob to his right. Usually a blushing and giggling me. Once, while the two of us were being harshly reprimanded in the school office for something that I remember as being entirely Gordon's fault, he used an appropriate turn of the principal's back to display a talent at sticking his oversized tongue into his left nostril. I got an extra detention and a laugh that I remember to this day. Gordon was probably the biggest hurdle I encountered on my way to a high school diploma.

Gordon would concoct his own one-liners. They were never very good, but I couldn't help myself with the laughing. He just managed to make them funny with an odd inflection in his voice or an awkward tilt of his head. During a particularly brutal stretch of east coast winter, I remember him showing up to first period French and proclaiming to the teacher that "It's so cold out there I saw a dog chasing a cat - and they were walking!" Monsieur Burdette appeared unamused, a few in the back row groaned, and I struggled to keep the tears from coursing down my cheeks. I still use that 'dog and cat' line, to this day, to describe early season walleye patterns and tactics. And I always get a hearty laugh out of it, at least from myself.

It's important to have a mental image of what's occurring in the water beneath your boat. It makes sense out of the fishing process and lends itself to success with walleyes. Right now, before the 1st of June, the water is still pretty cold. Factor in a lot of May cloud cover, a less than normal temperature spread in northern Minnesota, and you've got the makings for a slow moving fishery on Lake of the Woods. No, I didn't say 'slow fishing,' I said 'slow moving fishery.' The fishing has actually been quite good, if not excellent, for this time of year. The fish are still feeding, it's just that it's still cold enough that they're like a walking dog chasing a walking cat.

Anchor and jig. It almost sounds like punishment to the restless of us who've just spent the last five months enduring the stationary character of a fish house. We want to drift, to troll, to coast with the wind, anything that involves movement. Unfortunately, not all the fish are up to snuff on that movement thing. Oh, there are a few that'll take a run at a spinner or a shad rap, but the majority is still in the walking mode. Especially those fish with a larger girth and a slower metabolism. Size and age actually slow down the ravenous need for food in most species. Ask any middle-aged man whose waist size increased by two inches over the last six months. I'll still eat a double cheeseburger, I just don't want to jog down the road to get it.

This is not intended as an earth-shaking report on a major change in Lake of the Woods fishing patterns. A couple of sunny, warmer days from now will find those walleyes up in eight to 12 feet of aggressive, spinner chasing water, right where you want them to be. But for the moment, be patient, slow down the presentation, and the action will take care of itself. Remember, it's still early in the season, we've had a snotty spring at best, and it's cold down there. In fact, it's so cold, I saw a walleye chasing a shiner minnow and they were drifting. And speaking of snotty, I remember this one time that Gordon...

WIC clinics to be offered in June

The Women, Infants and Children's Supplemental Nutrition Education Program (WIC) is being held the month of June.

Infants, children up to the age of 5, and women who are pregnant or breastfeeding may be eligible for the program. WIC Quin County is very interested in enrolling pregnant women in the program. It feels that the prenatal nutrition is a vital part of producing a healthy baby. It is important to apply for WIC early during pregnancy. No proof of pregnancy is required.

All potential clients must write or call the WIC Program and complete an application. The following is the schedule of WIC Clinics for the month of June.

- Wednesday, June 1 and Thursday, June 2 at the Warroad Community Center.
- Tuesday, June 7, at the Newfolden Community Center.
- Tuesday, June 7 and Wednesday, June 8, at the Roseau Area Hospital Basement Auxiliary Room.
- Wednesday, June 8, at the Kittson County Courthouse in Hallock.
- Thursday, June 9, at the Red Lake Falls Community Center.
- Monday, June 13, through Thursday, June 16, at Redeemer Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls.
- Monday, June 20, at the Evangelical Covenant Church in Warren.
- Tuesday, June 21, at the Karlstad Community Center.

North Valley Home Health will hold immunization clinics at the Newfolden and Warren clinics from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. An immunization record is needed before immunes will be given. For more information, contact North Valley Home Health at 218-745-5154.

For further information concerning the WIC program, call or write WIC Quin, PO Box 248, Newfolden, MN 56738, phone 874-7845 (Newfolden, Viking, Middle River, Holt or Thief River Falls residents) or 1-800-223-1591, or e-mail quinchs@wiktel.com.

Lancaster man wins GM Hot Button promotion

by David Hill
Editor

Kenneth Anderson of Lancaster is wondering how he could be so lucky.

Anderson was looking at some vehicles at Northern Motors in Thief River Falls about three weeks ago when he entered the GM Hot Button promotion by pushing the OnStar button in a designated Hot Button vehicle. Nothing happened at the time, so he really didn't think about it again... until that is, he received a call the following Tuesday from a GM representative who informed him that there had been a computer glitch that day and he was, indeed, a winner of a 2006 Buick Rendezvous.

Carl Ferber, manager at Northern Motors, said Northern Motors has never been part of a promotion that resulted in a car being given away to a patron. Ferber said, "Anderson has been a wonderful customer, so we're real happy for him."

A total of 1,000 GM vehicles will be given away to 1,000 winners through the Hot Button promotion. According to GM, the odds of winning are approximately 1:3,000.

The Buick Rendezvous is a crossover vehicle, said Ferber. It's a cross between an SUV and a car, he explained. It comes in all-wheel or two-wheel drive and has a base sticker price of $27,000.

Anderson said he's been a GM man for 40 years. He's bought GM vehicles from all over northern Minnesota, but has been especially pleased with how well he has been treated at Northern Motors. It has been the sort of experience, he said, that led him to purchase several of his vehicles from Northern Motors.

Anderson, who raises beef cattle near Lancaster, said he'd heard about the Hot Button promotion, but came to Northern Motors that Saturday to look at some used vans. He and his wife Margaret both pushed the OnStar button, but they notified him that he had won the vehicle. "It was quite a surprise," he said. Anderson isn't accustomed to winning anything, so he said he has to question how he could be so lucky. Everybody, he said, has been real happy for him.

Anderson said it was his understanding that the company would start manufacturing the 2006 models in June and then it would take another six to 10 weeks before they deliver it to him at Northern Motors. He plans on keeping the vehicle, which means he'll also have to pay the taxes, but that doesn't bother him.

City of Thief River Falls

2004 Water Quality Report

The City of Thief River Falls is issuing the results of monitoring done on its drinking water for the period from January 1 to December 31, 2004. The purpose of this report is to advance consumers' understanding of drinking water and heighten awareness of the need to protect precious water resources.

Source of Water

The City of Thief River Falls provides drinking water to its residents from a surface water source: surface water drawn from the Red Lake River.

The Minnesota Department of Health has determined that one or more sources of your drinking water is susceptible to contamination. If you wish to obtain the entire source water assessment regarding your drinking water, please call 651-215-0800 or 1-800-818-9318 (and press 5) during normal business hours. Also, you can view it online at www.health.state.mn.us/divs/eh/water/swp/swa

Call 681-3809 if you have questions about the City of Thief River Falls drinking water or would like information about opportunities for public participation in decisions that may affect the quality of the water.

Results of Monitoring

No contaminants were detected at levels that violated federal drinking water standards. However, some contaminants were detected in trace amounts that were below legal limits. The table that follows shows the contaminants that were detected in trace amounts last year. (Some contaminants are sampled less frequently than once a year; as a result, not all contaminants were sampled for in 2004. If any of these contaminants were detected the last time they were sampled for, they are included in the tables along with the date that the detection occurred.)

Key to abbreviations:

MCLG - Maximum Contaminant Level Goal: The level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.

MCL - Maximum Contaminant Level: The highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.

TT - Treatment Technique: A required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

NTU - Nephelometric Turbidity Unit, used to measure clarity in drinking water.

MRDL - Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level

MRDLG - Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level Goal

AL - Action Level: The concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment, or other requirement, which a water system must follow.

90th Percentile Level: This is the value obtained after disregarding 10 percent of the samples taken that had the highest levels. (For example, in a situation in which 10 samples were taken, the 90th percentile level is determined by disregarding the highest result, which represents 10 percent of the samples.) Note: In situations in which only 5 samples are taken, the average of the two with the highest levels is taken to determine the 90th percentile level.

ppb - Parts per billion, which can also be expressed as micrograms per liter (ug/l) ppm - Parts per million, which can also be expressed as milligrams per liter (mg/l)

N/A - Not Applicable (does not apply).

Contaminant (units)	MCGL	MCL	LEVEL FOUND Range (2004)	Average/Result*	Typical Source of Contaminant
Fluoride (ppm)	4.0	4.0	.91-1.2	1.23	State of Minnesota requires all municipal water systems to add fluoride to drinking water to promote strong teeth; Erosion of natural deposits; Discharge from fertilizer and aluminum factories
Haloacetic Acids (HAA5) (ppb)	0	60	20.3-74.9	43.58	By-product of drinking water disinfection
TTHM (Total trihalomethanes) (ppb)	0	80.0	24.3-121.7	69.48	By-product of drinking water disinfection

* This is the value used to determine compliance with federal standards. It sometimes is the highest value detected and sometimes is an average of all detected values. If it is an average, it may contain sampling results from the previous years.

 Lowest Monthly Percentage of Samples Meeting the Turbidity limits.

Contaminant (units)	MCLG	MCL			Typical Source of Contaminant
Turbidity (NTU)	N/A	TT	87%	1.57	Soil runoff

 Highest Single Measurement.

Turbidity is a measure of the clarity of the water. We monitor it because it is a good indicator of the effectiveness of our filtration system. The percentage of Total Organic Carbon (TOC) removal was measured each month and the system met all TOC removal requirements set by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

Contaminant (units)	MRDLG	MRDL	*		Typical Source of Contaminant
Chlorine (ppm)	N/A	TT	1.8-2.4	2.12	Water additive used to control microbes

* Highest and Lowest Monthly Average

 Highest Quarterly Average

Contaminant (units)	MCLG	AL	90% Level	# sites over AL	Typical Source of Contaminant
Lead (ppb)	N/A	15	7.0	0 out of 20	Corrosion of household plumbing systems; erosion of natural deposits
Copper (ppm)	N/A	1.3	0.08	0 out of 20	Corrosion of household plumbing systems; erosion of natural deposits

Some contaminants do not have Maximum Contaminant Levels established for them. These "unregulated contaminants" are assessed using state standards known as health risk limits to determine if they pose a threat to human health. If unacceptable levels of an unregulated contaminant are found, the response is the same as if an MCL has been exceeded; the water system must inform its customers and take other corrective actions. In the table that follows are the unregulated contaminants that were detected.

Compliance with National Primary Drinking Water Regulations

Contaminants (units)	Level Found Range (2004)	Average/Result	Typical Source of Contaminant
Sodium (ppm) (03/24/2003)	N/A	4.1	Erosion of natural deposits
Sulfate (ppm) (03/24/2003)	N/A	96.0	Erosion of natural deposits

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally-occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity.

Contaminants that may be present in source water include:

Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations, and wildlife.

Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally-occurring or result from urban stormwater runoff, industrial or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming.

Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban stormwater runoff, and residential uses.

Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban stormwater runoff, and septic systems.

Radioactive contaminants, which can be naturally-occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) prescribes regulations which limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. Food and Drug Administration regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water which must provide the same protection for public health.

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline at 800-426-4791.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline at 800-426-4791.

This report is not being mailed to individual customers. However, copies of the report are available by contacting the Thief River Falls Water Department at 681-3809.

■ North Sub-Section 8A tennis tournament

One championship, two runner-up finishes and a third during Wednesday's individual portion of the North Sub-Section 8A boys high school tennis tournament will send all four Thief River Falls entries to Section 8A competition.

It was an all-Thief River Falls final in singles, where Justin Pyle beat Jacob Engelstad 6-3, 6-1.

The two Thief River Falls doubles entries met in the semifinals, where Michael Forney-Cody Bottem outlasted Jon Kays-Joe Ihle 2-6, 7-6 (7-4), 6-4.

Kirby Johnson-Derek Kaiser of Crookston edged Forney-Bottem in the finals, 7-5, 7-6 (7-5), while Kays-Ihle defeated Brady Borshien-Grant Willhite of Crookston 6-1, 6-2 in the third place match.

Section 8A individual competition will be held Wednesday in Park Rapids.

"Sub-section play went very well," reported Thief River Falls coach Troy Hanestad.

The Prowlers' doubles play impressed their coach. "These are the best two doubles entries we have ever had in the individual portion of the tournament, and I know that they will both get better in the next week," said Hanestad. "If they do that, they both will qualify for the state tournament."

Hanestad didn't mind seeing his doubles team face each other, but he hoped it would be in the finals, where the No. 2-seeded Forney-Bottem combination nearly beat the top-seeded Johnson-Kaiser entry.

"Michael and Cody got better with each match played," he said. "They were up 3-0 and 5-4 in the first set (of the title match) and had chances to close it out. But I have to give the team from Crookston credit as they stuck with it and battled."

Forney-Ihle had a strong showing, too, according to Hanestad, who said, "Jon and Joe were really on. It was really evident that they have played together a lot in the last three years. It was like they knew what each other was going to do all the time."

Doubles didn't have a lock on post-tournament praise following the matches in Grand Forks. "Our singles players also had a great day," added Hanestad. "Justin really likes TRF beats Detroit Lakes in North 8AAA softball...

Prowlers win tourney opener

An argument could be made on what was the most newsworthy piece of information that came out of Wednesday's Thief River Falls vs. Detroit Lakes North Sub-Section 8AAA high school softball tournament game at the waterlogged Multi-Events Center. The Prowlers won 3-0 to snap a eight-game post-season losing streak. That's headline stuff. However, maybe an even more remarkable achievement was that the game was even played, considering the miserable weather conditions.

It might have been the wettest hall game ever played here. Had it been a regular season meeting, officials would have labeled it a 'rain-out' that morning. But it was an already once-postponed tournament contest. With Round 2 of the eight-team, double-elimination event scheduled to be played Thursday, there were were few options. Despite a steady game-time rain and soupy grounds that included pools of standing water in the infield, the first pitch was delivered on time at 4:45 p.m.

Fortunately, the rain did subside and the 'grounds crew' that included city workers, coaches, school administrator and parents of the players, was able to doctor up the field, patching, filling and raking the worst spots so the game could be played.

"Those guys worked their butts off to get things ready," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Matt Okeson. "They deserve a lot of credit. That's why Thief River Falls is so special."

It was also a special day for Okeson, who picked up just his third win in 13 post-season starts during a seven-year stint as the Prowlers' head coach.

Despite the conditions, the game was well-played. Thief River Falls did not have an error and pitcher Megan Berg did not walk a hatter. Detroit Lakes pitcher Steph Wilson walked just one, but two Detroit Lakes errors did figure into the scoring.

"Come this time of the year, you can't make errors," said Okeson. "We made the plays. They had trouble with a couple of balls, and we capitalized."

The first Detroit Lakes error was a dropped infield pop-up with one out in the second inning that was followed by a Kindra Trontvet base hit to left and a two-out, two-run DD Rambeck single that fell just inside the right field foul line.

That was enough offense for Berg, who limited the Lakers to four base hits – two of them the infield variety. She struck out eight.

Thief River Falls did tack on an insurance run in the fifth when Brittni Johnson sent a lead-off single to right field and went all the way to third on the play when the hall got hy the outfielder for a two-base error. A swinging bunt single by Amanda Timm made it a 3-0 game.

A sacrifice bunt wes put down by Thief River Fells' Amende Timm in the third inning of Wednesdey's North Sub-Section 8AAA high school softbell tournement geme egainst Detroit Lakes. The Prowlars baat tha Lekers 3-0.

Shining moments for the Prowlers on defense included an inning-ending line drive caught by first baseman Jamie Holgo in the fourth when the Lakers had runners at first and second in a 2-0 game; along with running catches by right fielder Chasity Johnson and left fielder Brittni Johnson in in the sixth and seventh innings, respectively.

The Prowlers, who beat Detroit Lakes 7-1 the previous week, improved to 15-4. The Lakers fell to 11-10.

Berg fans 16 in 4-0 win

Megan Berg struck out 16 Northern Freeze batters en route to a one-hit shutout in a 4-0 Thief River Falls Friday night (May 20) high school softball win.

Only hit by the Marshall County Central/Tri-County cooperative was a bloop single over the second baseman's head by Ashley Hestekind.

It was the regular season finale for the Prowlers, and head coach Matt Okeson put his seven seniors into the starting line-up. A large crowd was on hand for the later-than-usual 7:30 p.m. start.

"The game was a very good one played in front of a big crowd," pointed out Okeson. "It was fun playing with the lights on."

TRF summer wrestling program begins June 1

Summer-long wrestling sessions will be held each Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m.at Lincoln High School .

Scheduled to run June 1-Aug. 11, the program is designed for all wrestlers in grades K-through-12.

Practices will consist of an hour of technique and an hour of wrestling. Prowlers head wrestling coach Kenny Geisler will direct the program.

TRF wins 10-0 in 8AAA softball...

No-hitter, grand slam top Flyers

Megan Berg threw a no-hitter and Jamie Hoglo hit a grand slam walk-off home run in the bottom of the sixth inning as Thief River Falls beat Little Falls 10-0 Thursday in the second round of the 2005 North Sub-Section 8AAA high school softball tournament.

Berg made her final Multi-Events Center home field start a memorable one with her first no-hitter of the year. The hard-throwing senior struck out nine and faced just one over the minimum 18 batters in her six innings of work. She issued a one-out walk to Jenni Zak in the first inning and hit Jessie Olson to start the fifth. Olson, however, was thrown out on a stolen base attempt.

The only threat to Berg's no-hitter came with two out in the third when center fielder Amanda Timm went to her right to make a running catch on a well-hit fly hall hy Izzy Anderson.

Berg's teammates supplied plenty of hack-up. The Prowlers played error-free hall and they hanged out nine hits.

A good-size softball crowd was on hand for the match-up featuring the No. 3-seeded Prowlers, who shut out Detroit Lakes 3-0 the day before, and No. 7-seeded Little Falls, a 3-2 nine-inning upset winner over No. 2-seeded Alexandria Tuesday.

The win pushed the Prowlers' record to 16-4 and extended their season past Memorial Day in the double-elimination tournament format that will be completed at Brainerd - the No. 1 seed.

"We're doing the right things," said Thief River Falls coach Matt Okeson. "We're hitting the ball, playing defense and Megan's throwing strikes. The kids are excited and the fans are excited. It's fun."

The Prowlers got off to a fast start when their first two batters reached base and scored in the bottom of the first inning. Kjelsy Loeffler beat out a hunt single, stole second and went to third on a base hit to left by Brittni Johnson. Loeffler scored on the back end of a delayed double-steal, taking off for the plate on the throw to second. A throwing error on a sacrifice bunt hy Timm scored the second run.

It became a 3-0 game when Johnson was hit by a pitch to start the third inning, stole second, moved up on another sacrifice bunt by Timm and scored on a sacrifice fly to left by Kindra Trontvet.

Little Falls never threatened that lead, and Thief River Falls put an exclamation mark on the victory with a seven-run sixth to end it on the 10-run rule.

A hase hit off the glove of the third baseman by Shayla Torrell started the final inning outburst. A sacrifice bunt by Chasity Johnson and a wild pitch moved Torrell to third. She scored when a sacrifice bunt hy Loeffler was misplayed for an error. Brittni Johnson singled to left and Timm picked up an RBI on a single to center. A pop-up in front of the plate off the bat of Trontvet produced a collision that loaded the bases and knocked Little Falls pitcher Allison Gaffke out of the game.

Angela Kempenich had a short stint as a relief pitcher. Her first pitch hit Allyson Helling to make it a 6-0 game. That hrought Hoglo to the plate with the bases still loaded and she ended the game in dramatic fashion with a line drive homer over the left field fence.

New summer strength conditioning program will be used for TRF students in grades 9-12

Plans are in place for a new Thief River Falls summer strength conditioning program for students who will be in grades 9-12 next fall.

This year's program will feature a partnership between strength training at Lincoln High School and the Super Treadmill workout at the Northwest Medical Center Frappier Acceleration site.

Strength training will be offered in the Lincoln weight room June 6-Aug. 4. The Monday-through-Thursday schedule will include Session I at 6:30 a.m.; Session II 8 a.m.; Session III 9:30 a.m.; and Session IV 5:30 p.m.

The one-a-week Super Treadmill workout will cover eight sessions.

Total cost for the combined program is $150 ($50 for LHS strength training; $100 for Frappier). Registration deadline is June 3. Participants will receive a t-shirt.

Checks should be made payable to the Thief River Falls Weight Room and sent, along with the registration form, to Jeff Mumm, Lincoln High School, 101 Knight Ave. So., Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

Incoming freshmen are reminded that before participating in the summer strength and conditioning program they must attend one of the orientation sessions that will be held at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday, May 31 and and June 2 at the LHS weight room. The sessions will cover program structure, recording, terms/language, proper use of equipment/spotting/lifting.

to play indoors, as do most good ball-strikers. He was really in control of his matches. Justin has the ability to hit with any player in the state."

A freshman, Engelstad is the youngest of the Prowlers' Section 8A qualifiers.

"Jacob had a big win in the semifinals, beating a No. 1 singles player from East Grand Forks," said Hanestad, pointing to a 6-3, 1-6, 6-4 victory over Alberto Arriga. "I really thought he would win in it in two sets, but I think he may have gotten a little nervous. Jacob has had a great year, and has really worked hard to do the things that we have asked of him. This was a very fitting reward for his efforts. If he continues to raise his game in the next week, he too could be a state qualifier."

As the No. 1 seed in the North, Thief River Falls already has a spot locked up in the Section 8A team tournament semifinals Tuesday in Park Rapids.

Free nitrate water-testing clinic to be held June 23 in Oklee

Homeowners who rely on private wells for their drinking water supplies should test for nitrates on a regular basis. Private well owners are encouraged to participate in the free nitrate testing clinic scheduled from 2 to 6 p.m. Thursday, June 23 at the On-site Sewage Treatment Workshop in the Oklee School gym.

The clinic is sponsored by the Minnesota Department of Agriculture (MDA) and the Red Lake County Extension Office. It is part of a series of water-testing clinics being offered in 2005.

Nitrates are the most common contaminants in Minnesota's groundwater, and a significant number of the state's wells have high nitrate levels. With that in mind, MDA Commissioner Gene Hugoson urges people to take advantage of the free clinics.

"Studies indicate that between 5 percent and 25 percent of the private wells in Greater Minnesota have nitrate levels above the federal drinking water standard. Nitrates in drinking water have been shown to cause serious health risks," said Hugoson. "Minnesotans need to determine their risks and, in some cases, take appropriate steps to reduce or eliminate nitrates in their drinking water."

In order to participate in testing, homeowners must bring at least one-half cup of water in either a Whirl-Pak plastic bag or Ziploc-type bag. In order to get a good sample, allow the water to run five to 10 minutes before filling the bag.

Homeowners with distillators, reverse osmosis or other nitrate removal systems should take two water samples – one before and one after the treatment process. This will determine if the nitrate removal system is working. Homeowners with just water softeners need to take one sample, either before or after the water passes through the water softener. Only water from private wells will be tested.

Samples should be taken no more than 24 hours before the testing, and they must be refrigerated. Samples should be cool when arriving at the clinic. To ensure accuracy, homeowners should mark the bags with their name, phone number and a well identification number if more than one well is sampled.

Homeowners may remain anonymous. In that case, they should simply choose another easily recognized number to put on the well samples. It is not necessary to provide information about the well or well location.

Samples are analyzed on the spot. The process usually takes less than five minutes, and results are given directly to the homeowner. If the nitrate level in a sample is elevated, clinic staff can refer the homeowner to certified labs that will re-test the water.

For more information on the clinic, call Deborah Zak at (218) 281-8684.

Street Wizards to host cruise night

The second cruise night of the summer organized by the Street Wizards Car Club will be held Tuesday, May 31. The event will begin at 6:45 p.m. in the Kmart parking lot. Participants will leave for a cruise to Maple Lake and a snack stop at Mentor. The cruise will leave promptly at 7 p.m.

The event is open to all car enthusiasts from Thief River Falls and the surrounding communities. It is open to special interest vehicles, including, but not limited to, antique, collector, street rod, muscle car, classic and convertibles. Cruisers do not have to be club members to attend. The cruise route will be approximately 90 miles. The cruise should return to Thief River Falls at about 10 p.m.

For more information, contact Randy Adamson at (218) 681-1007 (days) or (218) 681-7073 (evenings); or Larry Ohren at (218) 681-3312 (evenings).

Red Lake County Fair Talent Show set for June 23

The Red Lake County Fair is quickly approaching on June 23-25 in Oklee. As part of the county fair, the Fair Board is once again sponsoring the Red Lake County Fair Talent Show.

The talent show will be held Thursday, June 23 at 7:30 p.m. in the Oklee High School gymnasium. Talented amateurs will compete for three top cash prizes in two divisions. The adult division, 13 and older, has a top prize of $100 with second prize set at $75 and third prize set at $50. The youth division, 12 and under, will have the top three prizes set at $75, $50 and $25, respectively. The top winner in each division will be eligible to represent Red Lake County in the State Talent Contest at the Minnesota State Fair.

To participate, call DeeAnn Leines at (218) 253-4484 (evenings) or on weekends. Entries will be accepted until June 19. All types of talent are encouraged to compete in this talent contest.

Warren man sentenced to prison on drug and fleeing charges

A Warren man will serve prison time after 13 pounds of marijuana were found at his home.

Michael A. Boman, 23, was sentenced Tuesday in Marshall County District Court to 24 months in prison on a charge of fifth degree controlled substance crime and 22 months in prison on a charge of fleeing a police officer, according to Marshall County Attorney Mike Williams. Williams said those sentences will be served concurrently.

The charges stem from a Feb. 10 report to the Marshall County Sheriff's Department that Boman allegedly had a large amount of marijuana at his residence. A Department of Corrections probation agent and law enforcement officials from the sheriff's department and Pennington County Sheriff's Department searched the residence.

Boman was not home at the P & P Apartments at the time of the search. He was arrested Feb. 16 after allegedly fleeing from law enforcement officials in Warren. He fled police on foot and was found shortly thereafter at Ron's Barbershop in Warren.

Women's roles and lives have changed. Many families are two income households, meaning everyone works. Dakota Clinic is proposing to change its operating hours in order to accommodate those changes. Dakota Clinic has already implemented a schedule change that allows for urgent care starting at 7 a.m. In the near future, the Center for Women's Health will be open until 7 p.m., and open on Saturdays for scheduled appointments.

Dakota Clinic also expects to attract patients from a much wider area. Through a contract with Riverview Hospital in Crookston, Drs. Beth Helgerson and Eloise-Marie Clark alternate seeing patients in Crookston each Wednesday. Dr. Helgerson is also seeing patients in East Grand Forks. The East Grand Forks patients, said McKenzie, will deliver their babies in Thief River Falls at Northwest Medical Center.

McKenzie said that Dakota's shift in focus will benefit the hospital in Thief River Falls, as well. In fact, McKenzie is very optimistic about the improving relationship between Dakota Clinic and Northwest Medical Center. McKenzie said he's looking forward to working more closely with the hospital.

Northwest Medical Center delivers about 300 of the 1,000 maternity patients in the region each year. With this strategic shift in focus, at Dakota, patient load at both facilities should increase.

"It's a very exciting time," he said.

More security measures announced for pleasure boaters

U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) has implemented enhanced security procedures for small boats arriving in the United States from Canada. The new private boat clearance procedures are part of CBP's comprehensive efforts to enhance security at the country's borders.

Private boaters will be required to report to specified ports of entry for inspection. Only boaters participating in the I-68 program or utilizing an Outlying Area Reporting Station (OARS) videophone station will be allowed to report their arrivals by phone. Participation in the I-68 program requires the payment of a fee and passing a background check by CBP.

Participation in the I-68 program requires each applicant to appear in person for an interview at a Customs and Border Protection port of entry. Fees are $16 (U.S.) for an individual or $32 (U.S.) for a family. U.S. citizens, lawful permanent residents, Canadian citizens and landed immigrants of Canada who are nationals of Visa Waiver Program countries are eligible to apply for I-68 seasonal boating permits. Private boaters are encouraged to apply BEFORE attempting their first trip to expedite the border clearance process.

"These new procedures allow CBP the ability to carry out our twin goals of preventing terrorists and terrorist weapons from entering the United States while at the same time facilitating legitimate travel and trade," said Thomas Hardy, director of CBP's Seattle Field Office. "Those boaters using OARS or enrolled in our I-68 program will reap the benefits of our call-in inspection process."

These new procedures are designed to augment a myriad of security enhancements implemented by CBP at the country's borders since the terrorist attacks on America on Sept. 11, 2001. Boaters are encouraged to contact their nearest CBP office with questions regarding these new enhanced security procedures for boaters. Refer to www.CBP.gov for the listing of the nearest CBP office.

School District 564 Board of Education recently purchased a still-life drawing by Kyle Lunke, a junior at Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls. Every year, the board of education purchases one print for the District Service Center. Merilyn Adams, art instructor at Lincoln High School, believes such efforts inspire students. Lunke said he's thinking about becoming an architect. He said he has always enjoyed drawing, but said it was his third grade teacher in Warren whose guidance motivated him the most to continue drawing.

NW Dairy Day set for June 18

The 56th Annual Northwest Dairy Day will be June 18 at the Pennington County Fairgrounds in Thief River Falls.

Northwest Dairy Day attracts youth from 17 area counties. Organizers expect another good turnout for this year's event, which is open to any youth from kindergarten to one year past high school.

Registration opens at 10 a.m., and the opening ceremony, which includes the flag and Pledge of Allegiance will take place after registration ends at 11 a.m.

Organizers have also invited county dairy princesses from northwest Minnesota to attend the event. They will be helping with a number of activities throughout the day.

There will also be an opportunity for visitors and participants to learn more about showing dairy cattle. A showmanship demonstration will be presented just prior to the beginning of the cattle show.

For more information about the show, contact Rhoda Gust at 218-528-3621, or Sherri Rupprecht at 218-681-6419.

Representatives serving on the Northwest Dairy Day committee include: Lew Wallace, president; Dale Rupprecht, vice president; Norma Hanson, secretary/treasurer; and Polly Ann Bakken, Rhoda Gust, Jim Mattson, Mike Philips, Sherri Rupprecht, Trina Gust and Mark Lehmann as directors.

Weil Band to perform at Warren Church on May 29

The Evangelical Covenant Church in Warren has invited the community to an evening of bluegrass gospel music on Sunday, May 29 at 7 p.m.

The Weil Family consists of Mike Weil, pastor and father, who plays guitar, harmonica, dobro, banjo and sings the harmony vocals. He has composed some of the family's original music. Cathy Weil, mother, plays stand-up bass and composes the majority of the family's music and poetry. Aaron Weil, son, who plays the mandolin, lead guitar, sings the lead vocals and some harmony vocals as well.

Melissa Weil married into the Weil family on December of 2004 when she became the bride of Aaron Weil. Melissa is a 2003 graduate of Christian Heritage School in Karlstad and the daughter of Guy and Marvel Strandberg of Strathcona. She has become the booking agent for the band and helps with sound.

The Weil family has been bringing their faith based ministry to church throughout the United States solely on a faith basis for over nine years. They share God's word through acoustic bluegrass gospel music, traditional old-time favorites, original songs, instruments, Scripture recitation, illustrations and skits.

Refreshments will be served following the concert. The Covenant Church is located at 112 North Sixth Street.

Two local students named ambassadors for 2005-06 UMC academic year

The University of Minnesota, Crookston (UMC) selected 12 student ambassadors for the 2005-2006 Academic Year, including two local students, Jennifer Novak of St. Hilaire and Dion Turgeon of Hallock.

The UMC Ambassador program is an organization of students, who assist in the promotion of UMC to prospective students and their parents, to current UMC students, and to alumni along with serving at special campus events. Adviser for the UMC Ambassadors is Admissions Representative Alicia Stoe.

different purposes.

Barn Again! gives exhibition visitors new ways to consider a familiar icon. It surveys the agricultural changes that led to architectural adaptations on the farm, following major movements in American history such as 19th-century European immigration and westward migration.

The Barn Again! exhibit officially opens on July 3, but the grand opening at Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village will be on July 8. That grand opening will feature "Down on the Farm" Columnist and Author Eric Bergeson, and music by Charlie Maguire and local fourth grade students. The master of ceremonies will be Marv Lundin.

This Barn Again! exhibit in Thief River Falls will feature more than just pictures and models of barns. Numerous activities - tractor parade, milking contests, toy exhibits, dances, plays, and educational presentations will take place while the exhibit is in Thief River Falls. Other events in June include a tour of area barns, and a milking contest on Dairy Day (June 18) at the Pennington County Fairgrounds. Mayors of Goodridge, St. Hilaire, Thief River Falls, and representatives from among Pennington County Commissioners, Extension Educators, and Women in Agriculture will compete.

Many more events are lining up for the summer historical focus on barns, so watch the Northern Watch for more details.

Peterson details developments

TRF area officials request assistance on economic development issues

by David Hill
Editor

Take the sweetener out of CAFTA, take the farm bill off the cutting table, and put Medicare reform before Social Security.

Congressman Collin Peterson began with his update on legislation during an open forum with leaders from the city, council and school district in Thief River Falls with comments on the appropriations bill, and local leaders concluded the meeting by putting their issues of concern before Peterson.

Peterson began by commenting on the surprising progress of the appropriations bills. During this weeklong Memorial break, Peterson was out visiting communities and suggesting that officials present their requests soon. Peterson said there has been very little controversy over the appropriations bill...so far.

Farm Bill

Peterson isn't happy that the budget proposal will force the farm bill to be opened and require $3 billion in cuts. Peterson said he's opposed to opening the farm bill in mid-stream and thought they had an agreement not to open the farm bill. He said the farm bill has saved $15 billion - the only part of government to do so - and now, he said, they want to open the farm bill and cause more problems. "The decision I have to make," said Peterson, "is whether to play ball."

CAFTA

Peterson sees momentum shifting against the Central American Free Trade Agreement (CAFTA), which he added, doesn't make the president very happy. Peterson said some of his Republican friends were called to the White House recently over their opposition to CAFTA, but he said they stood their ground. As far as Peterson is concerned, as long as sugar is not happy they won't get his support.

Sugar is an issue because changes in the market currently put producers in the Red River Valley at a significant disadvantage. In a statement in the House in April, 2005, Peterson said, "The total sugar export availability (production minus domestic consumption) of potential U.S. Free Trade Agreement candidates is 27 million metric tons, compared with U.S. sugar production of 8 million metric tons."

Jail issue and landslide remedies top county board business

Red Lake Falls - Judi Bruggeman of the Northwest Minnesota Multi-County Housing and Redevelopment Authority came before the Red Lake County Board of Commissioners recently to discuss the feasibility of an economic development grant to alleviate the problems in the landslide areas in the county.

Rep. Collin Peterson was contacted, and he, in turn, contacted the state to put together a grant for the affected people in the landslide areas of the county.

The grant writer will meet with the board to discuss the ideas and wishes of the county on this matter. Then the grant will be written, and the county will apply for it. In the end, there would be $600,000 available from the grant. - Red Lake Falls Gazette, June 1, 2005, by Barb Novak

Scrap iron facility receives permit, neighbors appeal

Karlstad - Kittson County commissioners will hear oral arguments June 7 on an appeal against the granting of a permit for a scrap iron facility near Karlstad.

At the end of April, the Kittson County Board of Adjustment allowed a parcel of land in the county to change from agricultural use to commercial use through a conditional use permit.

Requesting the permit were Ron and Troy Peterson of Halma who wish to start a scrap iron facility on their property.

The day after the granting of the permit, a group of neighbors expressed opposition to the business and filed a written appeal to the Kittson Co. commissioners.

According to letters written by Michael Sollund, Donald Lund and Keith Britten and attorney Brian Rokke, the objections to the permit were based upon: noise of operation, history of operation at all hours, considerable increases in truck traffic and lack of containment of pollution. - Kittson County Enterprise, June 1, 2005, by Cindy Stewart

Age makes no difference

Greenbush - On Thursday afternoons, Edith Melby eagerly awaits the visit of a very special young friend, Mason Johnson.

Their conversation is ever so quiet. You see, both Edith and Mason are hearing and speech impaired. Signing with the speed and movement of butterfly wings, their facial expressions clearly show they treasure their bond of friendship.

Edith is an almost 97-year-old resident of Greenbush Community Nursing Home, which is a department of Roseau Area Hospital and Homes. Born in Minneapolis, she was stricken at the age of 2 with German measles and scarlet fever, leaving her impaired.

Born 16 weeks prematurely, Mason weighed 1 pound, 6 ounces. Because of extreme immaturity, he suffered profound hearing loss. Not until 6 years of age was he properly diagnosed.

Last fall, while visiting his late great uncle, Ed Stromlund, at the nursing home, the second grader found Edith. If he could, Mason would visit Edith everyday. Now the Johnson family visits Mason's great aunt, Gladys Rud. You can just about guess where you will find Mason. - The Tribune of Greenbush, June 1, 2005, by Mavis Gonshorowski

Saying Their Goodbyes

Northland Community and Technical College held an open house retirement reception Wednesday in honor of Dr. Orley Gunderson (center), Northland Community and Technical College president. Gunderson retired after serving 25 years as a president of a Thief River Falls college. He and his wife, Elaine (with back to camera), chatted with well-wishers at the event.

Principal bikes for books

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

Randy Pederson will no doubt be watching what he says from now on. The Red Lake County Central – Plummer principal biked 25.1 miles Monday after telling students he would if they met a goal for reading.

"It just came into my head, and I opened my mouth," said Pederson about the moment he decided to announce to students that he would bike to work if they received 600 points in the Accelerated Reader (AR) program. Before he knew it, the kids were screaming and took him up on his offer.

The Thief River Falls resident thought he was home-free, but the kids were confident they could pull off their goal.

"They were determined he was going to no matter what," said sixth grade teacher Angel Mickelson, whose class accumulated the most AR points at the school of second through sixth graders.

"I talked trash back at him," said sixth grader Trisha Braaten, who referred to her principal's trash-talking.

Under the program, students received half a point to 70 points for completing a quiz on a book he or she had selected in his or her reading level. Depending upon grade level, each student had a specific goal to attain by the end of the month. AR Coordinator Pam Kolstoe said second graders had to receive three points by the end of each month; third graders needed five points; fourth graders needed seven points; fifth graders needed nine points; and sixth graders needed 10 points.

If a student reached his or her goal, he or she would receive a reward, such as the opportunity to spend some time at the Plummer Recreation Center. For the computerized tests, students may have had to answer five, 10 or 20 multiple-choice questions about the books they read. The class with the most AR points each month then received a traveling trophy.

The program is awesome because it leads to better reading comprehension and helps students see if they understood what happened in the books, Kolstoe noted.

It gives more incentives for students to read, Mickelson said.

Sixth grader Kali Borene said she liked it because it gave her a reward other than just finishing a book.

The program also gave Pederson an incentive – to work out on his treadmill during the winter months in the event he had to bike to work.

And bike he did. As the last day of competition approached, the 89 students still hadn't met their goal of 600. Then it happened at 11 a.m. that last day of competition in April, the moment when an unidentified student pushed the standing to 600 and sealed Pederson's fate of biking 25.1 miles on back roads from his Thief River Falls home to the school.

The students ended their competition with 622 points from September through April. A monthly average of 86 percent of students met their reading goals, Pederson said.

Now, Pederson is left contemplating what the kids' reading incentive will be next year. Pederson, who until this week had only biked 10 or 15 miles at a time, said, "They'll be expecting something."

Relay For Life

Helping in the fight against cancer

Three area counties will host the American Cancer Society's Relay for Life in the next two weeks.

- Friday and early Saturday (today), Red Lake County hosted the Relay for Life at the Oklee Football Field.
- Marshall and Pennington counties will host their Relay for Life events Friday, June 10. The Marshall County Relay for Life will begin June 10 at 6 p.m. at the Marshall County Fairgrounds.
- An hour later Friday, June 10, the Pennington County Relay for Life will be held at Lowell T. Swenson Field in Thief River Falls.

Relay for Life is an overnight event to celebrate cancer survival and raise money for research and programs of the ACS. During the event, teams of people gather at schools, fairgrounds or parks. They take turns walking or running laps. Each team tries to keep at least one team member on the track at all times. The highlight of the relay is the luminaria lighting ceremony at dusk.

By the end of 2005 Relay For Life events will be held in more than 20 countries around the world.

Soine is proud to serve as Relay For Life co-chairperson

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

Terry Soine has been willing to fight cancer.

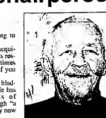
"You can fight or you can acquiesce," said the Thief River Falls resident. "Even if you fight, sometimes you don't win, but it's better if you fight."

Soine was diagnosed with bladder cancer in January 2004. He has undergone a few rounds of chemotherapy and goes through "a little bit of chemotherapy every now and then," he said.

"I'm doing very well," said Soine. "Thanks to western medicine, positive thoughts and many prayers, I've had good health."

Soine is one of three honorary chairpersons for the American Cancer Society's Relay for Life in Pennington County. His fellow cancer survivors and honorary chairpersons are Shari Olson and Jako Philion.

"It's very much an honor," Soine said about being named an honorary chairperson. He noted he may walk in the event if he finds a team with which to walk.



The Relay for Life, which will be held June 10 and 11 at Lowell T. Swenson Field in Thief River Falls, benefits the American Cancer Society (ACS). ACS helped Soine research bladder cancer and provided prompt service, said Soine, who noted it's a worthwhile organization.

ACS isn't the only thing that has helped him during his battle against cancer. Soine noted he has received a lot of support from his wife, Rita; children, Jessica, Wade and Lucas; and the community.

"They were so very kind, supportive," said Soine, a former Lincoln High School principal and current co-owner of T & R Nursery.

Cancer has changed his life. It has given him a greater appreciation of others and their kindness, good thoughts and prayers, he said. It has also given him a greater appreciation of his daily routine, which includes walking or running two miles a day with his wife.

And he's tried not to let cancer or chemotherapy get in his way. As Soine said, the "big bear of self-pity should be liberating."

Tennis team and golfer are bound for State

Paul Sjoberg

Grants have groups seeing in the dark

Sen. Norm Coleman recently announced that police and fire departments throughout Minnesota will be better prepared to prevent and serve the emergencies of their communities due to $102,840 in grants from the U.S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS) Commercial Equipment Direct Assistance Program (CEDAP).

Among those departments receiving grants are the Red Lake County Sheriff's Office and Mentor Volunteer Fire and Rescue. Both departments will receive $3,700 grants to purchase night vision kits.

Minnesota's law enforcement and emergency responder agencies will use CEDAP funding to purchase equipment that will enhance and support regional response, mutual aid, and officer safety.

"The men and women in our fire and police departments will have the ability to purchase equipment that will improve the level of service they provide to their communities," said Coleman. "I am pleased that these funds will help police and fire departments throughout Minnesota."

Agassiz NWR open house

Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge near Middle River will host an open house Sunday, June 5 from 1 to 5 p.m. During that day, the refuge's fire/observation tower will be reopened and dedicated. International Migratory Bird Day will also be commemorated.

Summer is officially here, rain or not, so how about a fresh-tasting salad with those barbecued burgers or dogs:

PATIO SALAD
1 package frozen mixed vegetables (or just peas)
1/2 cup water
3/4 cup salad dressing
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup cooked rice
1 teaspoon minced onion
1 cup chopped ham or tuna (or chicken or roast too)
1/2 cup chopped pickles - dill or sweet
1 cup grated Swiss or American cheese

Cook frozen vegetables only 2 minutes in the 1/2 cup water and salt. Leave pan on stove and add rice and stir to moisten all rice in the liquid in pan. Remove from heat. Let stand 5 minutes.

Stir in salad dressing, pickles and onions. Add ham and cheese, mixing lightly. Serve on crisp greens with tomato wedges.

You'll find this salad a little lighter, but very tasty - make it with the first of your own garden produce:

SPINACH SALAD
Fresh spinach
2 hard boiled eggs
1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms
1/2 cup chopped green onions
1/2 cup sliced radishes
Tomato wedges
5 strips bacon
Oil and vinegar dressing

Wash and stem spinach. Clean other vegetables and prepare for salad. Fry bacon crisp and crumble. Toss all ingredients in salad bowl except eggs and tomatoes. Slice eggs and wedge tomatoes, then arrange on top for looks. Pour light amount of oil and vinegar dressing over top.

Fresh strawberries are great this year - try these if you have leftovers:

AUGUSTA'S HEAVENLY STRAWBERRY MUFFINS
1 (10 ounce package frozen strawberries, thawed and put through food processor
Or 1/2 pint of fresh berries, chopped and sweetened with about 2 tablespoons sugar
3/4 cup sugar
2/3 cup cooking oil
2 eggs
1-1/2 cup flour
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
Nuts, if desired
Glaze:
3/4 cup confectioner's sugar
1 tablespoon or more of strawberry juice or milk

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Prepare muffin tins.

Combine berries, sugar, oil and eggs. Beat 2 minutes and add flour, soda, salt and cinnamon. Add nuts, if desired.

Bake about 18 minutes. Cool and glaze. Mix sugar with juice or milk to make glaze. Store in tightly covered container in refrigerator. Recipe makes 12-14 muffins.

I call these brownies "funeral cake" because I often make them when my circle has to serve a funeral - It's nice to bake something homemade and you won't even need to bring out your mixer for these:

BUTTERMILK BROWNIES
2 cups flour
2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon soda
1 stick (1/2 cup) butter or margarine
1 cup hot water or coffee
1/4 cup cocoa
1/2 cup oil
2 eggs
1/2 cup buttermilk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup chopped nuts

Mix flour, sugar and soda in bowl. Set aside. In saucepan, bring butter, water (or coffee), cocoa and oil to a boil. Pour cocoa mixture over dry ingredients and mix well. Add remaining ingredients and beat until smooth.

Pour into greased 11x17 inch jelly roll pan and bake 15-20 minutes at 350 degrees. Do not overbake.

Frosting:
1 cup sugar
1/4 cup margarine
1/4 cup half and half or buttermilk
1 scant cup chocolate chips
Nuts, if desired

Bring to boil in small pan and boil 3 minutes. Remove from heat, wait a minute or two, and add chocolate chips. Stir with wire whisk until smooth and thick. Spread over hot brownies. Makes 60 squares.

Summer regional meeting to focus on local government issues June 28

The League of Minnesota Cities is conducting several regional meetings this summer in all areas of the state. Those meetings are designed to engage appointed and elected city officials in discussions to timely issues affecting Minnesota cities.

The local meeting will be held June 28 in the lower level of the Red Lake Falls City Hall, 103 Second St. S.W. Registration closes June 23, and the meeting will be held from 2:30 until 8:30 p.m. June 28. Dinner will also be served. To find out more information and/or register, access www.lmnc.org.

Scheduled meeting topics include new rules about the location and marking of utilities service stops; defining costs for services through administrative fees and fines; trends in workers' compensation premiums and claims; and defining roles for city council members.

RCHS to sponsor genealogy sessions June 11

The Roseau County Historical Society will sponsor genealogy sessions Saturday, June 11 at the Roseau School Library, 509 Third St. N.E. The sessions will be held at 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.

Kathryn Otto, leader of the reference department of the Minnesota Historical Society Library, will be the presenter. She has been a librarian/archivist for over 25 years, working at the Wisconsin Historical Society, the South Dakota State Historical Society, the University of Kansas and the Montana Historical Society before coming back to Minnesota. She was the primary editor for "A Guide to Family History Resources at the Minnesota Historical Society," published by the Minnesota Historical Society Press in 2004.

The first session presented by Otto is entitled "Preserving Your Memories: How to Create Archival-Quality Scrapbooks and Why You Should Care." Each generation of a family passes on special objects to the next generation, providing a tangible link between the past and the future generations. Over time, use and the natural forces of decay cause all objects to change or deteriorate. Because deterioration occurs over generations, preventing even the smallest damage contributes to the long-term preservation of photographs and paper-based heirlooms. How a scrapbook is created, stored, displayed and handled will have a great effect on how long it lasts and in what condition it survives. Scrapbooks pose challenging preservation problems because they often contain a variety of components and media, such as photographs, trade cards, valentines, paper dolls, invitations and announcements, newspaper clippings and calling cards. They may have raised surfaces, three-dimensional decoration, or moving parts. They are frequently unique, fragile, damaged, and of significant personal value. Otto will present a workshop on creating new, archival-quality scrapbooks and dealing with older heirloom scrapbooks.

When one thinks of the Minnesota Historical Society, he or she probably thinks of Minnesota history, but what else is there? The 1:30 p.m. session will describe the depth and variety of materials in the library and archives, taking a special look at the genealogical materials available. Participants will peruse what's available on its Web site, including genealogical research they can do from home.

To register or for more information, contact the Roseau County Historical Society at (218) 463-1918.

Warroad Summer Theatre plans 25th season

Warroad Summer Theatre (WST) is planning its 25th summer season, and the WST Popcorn Players are celebrating their 15th anniversary season of children's theatre.

The summer productions include "I Hate Hamlet," a comedy with performance dates of June 16-19 and 23-26; "The Silver Lady," a mystery with performances July 7-10 and 14-17; "Puss in Boots," featuring the WST Popcorn Players on July 26-30; and the season finale, the comedy "Guys and Dolls," with performance dates of Aug. 3-7 and 10-14.

All performances will be held in the Warroad High School Mini-Theatre. Reservations are recommended for all performances by calling the WST Box Office at (218) 386-3435 beginning June 10 during the business hours of 1 to 5 p.m. daily.

WST was founded in 1981 by Thom Karlsen and Alfred Knott. For more information, call (218) 386-3692.

Regional nonprofit managers complete excellence series

Eighteen nonprofit managers and staff members from throughout northwest Minnesota recently received certificates recognizing their completion of the Individual Excellence series of workshops, provided by the Northwest Minnesota Foundation (NMF) and the University of St. Thomas, Center for Nonprofit Management.

The graduates were presented with their certificates at the NMF annual dinner by Barbara Ritter, program manager for the Center at St. Thomas. She noted that she was delighted to attend the event and meet the people who will be putting their knowledge to work.

The two-year curriculum of workshops, entitled the Excellence in Nonprofit Management Series, has been designed to increase the knowledge, skills and effectiveness of nonprofit managers and administrators. Participants are required to successfully complete ten of the 13 classes in the series to receive certification.

By also attending NMF's Leadership Development Workshop and a diversity workshop, the recipients are eligible to apply for a grant for up to $2,500 to pursue other opportunities for professional development.

Completing the program were: Joanne Kellner, Baudette; Michelle Landsverk, Fosston; Miriam Buchanan, Mentor; Marti Lundin, Bemidji; Barbara Ritter, St. Paul; Susan Hoosier, Bemidji; Cindy Gross, Bemidji; Wanda Hoyum, Bemidji; Geri Hickerson, Bemidji; Wesley Roland, Oklee; Colleen Oestreich, Bemidji; Robin Wold, Bemidji; Denise Laymon, Warren; Janet Brademan, Bemidji; Kathy Giannonatti, Mentor; Jeanette Knott, Red Lake Falls; Kylie Strem, Mentor, and Laura Straw, Bemidji.

NMF is a public charitable community foundation that invests resources, creates opportunities and promotes philanthropy to make the region a better place to live and work.

Goodridge man dies after being pinned by mower

A Goodridge man was killed Monday evening after he was pinned by a pull-behind mower of a tractor.

Daniel R. Johnson, 72, was apparently using a grinder to sharpen blades on the mower, which was resting on a five-gallon can. The can tipped over, causing the mower to pin Johnson. He was pronounced dead at the scene in the 25000 block of 130th St. N.E. in Kratka Township.

The Pennington County Sheriff's Department was dispatched to the scene at 6 p.m. Monday.

Sheriff's Dept. investigates woman's death

The Pennington County Sheriff's Department investigated the death of a Goodridge woman Monday.

It was determined that Monna Lee Solberg, 50, had apparently died from a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

At 10:01 p.m. Monday, the sheriff's department was dispatched to the scene in the 18000 block of 360th Ave. N.E. in Reiner Township.

Police await autopsy results in death of TRF man

Thief River Falls police are awaiting autopsy results in the death of a Thief River Falls man.

Robert Ments Kristofferson Jr., 49, was found dead at a residence in the 200 block of 11th St. E.

Police were dispatched to the scene at 6:10 p.m. May 28. The incident remains under investigation.

Make a difference this summer

Now that the school season is over and the summer vacation season is beginning, youth and area residents may be looking for some way to add meaning to the season. There are a number of ways for youth and adults to make a difference in their community. They may wish to volunteer at their church, focus on safety within their communities, participate on baseball and softball teams, or how about Relay For Life?

The American Cancer Society Relay For Life is a fun-filled overnight event designed to celebrate survivorship and raise money for research and programs of your American Cancer Society. During the event, teams of people gather at schools, fairgrounds or parks and take turns walking or running laps.

Relay For Life also shows that one person can make a difference. In fact, it began with one person. In the mid-1980s, Dr. Gordy Klatt, a Tacoma colorectal surgeon, wanted to enhance the income of his local American Cancer Society office. In May 1985, Klatt spent a grueling 24 hours circling the track at Baker Stadium at the University of Puget Sound in Tacoma, Wash., for more than 83 miles. Throughout the night, friends paid $25 to run or walk 30 minutes with him. He raised $27,000 to fight cancer. That first year, nearly 300 of Klatt's friends, family and patients watched as he ran and walked the course. While he circled the track those 24 hours, he thought about how others could take part. Eventually, it became what we call the Relay For Life.

I suggest participation in Relay For Life not because it's better than any other nonprofit fundraising activity. It is, however, an opportune time to raise the subject simply because it has demonstrated that it is a honorable endeavor and because it will soon be taking place in three nearby communities - Oklee, June 3-4, and Warren and Thief River Falls, June 10-11.

Cancer is an emotional subject for many people. Its stigma and the shroud of privacy that used to keep victims and families from sharing their experiences is slowly lifting. This lifting of an imagined veil, is helping others learn about cancer, helping others cope with its effects, and importantly raising funds for research which may someday lead to a cure. For those reasons and more, those people who do participate in the Relay For Life often describe their participation in this event as an emotional journey.

I encourage all citizens to get involved in a project this summer that provides meaning to the season, and makes a difference. Relay For Life is certainly one way you can make a difference.

Army Corps of Engineers offers water safety tips

Drowning is the country's second leading cause of accidental death, yet it is possible – just by wearing a life jacket – to reduce drowning deaths. Statistics show that 90 percent of those who drown at U.S. Army Corps of Engineers lakes may have survived if they had done so. Here are safety tips from the Corps to help recreation seekers keep fun in water-based activities this summer.

Alcohol and water don't mix

More than half of all drowning fatalities involve alcohol. Just one beer can impair balance, vision, judgment and reaction time. Research shows that four hours of boating; and exposure to noise, vibration, sun, glare and wind produces fatigue that simulates drunkenness. Boating fatigue combined with alcohol consumption intensifies the effects and increases accident risk.

Other safety tips

• Know your boat and know the rules of the road. Take a safe boating course. Visit www.cgaux.org for information on boating classes.

• View the Coast Guard federal regulations governing boating at www.uscgboating.org and know your state laws as well.

• Carry a set of navigational charts on board.

• Check your boat for all required safety equipment.

• Don't overload the boat (consider boat size, the number of passengers, and extra equipment before loading).

• Follow manufacturer's suggested procedures before starting the engine.

• Wear a life jacket – don't just carry one on board. Make sure it's U.S. Coast Guard approved and appropriately sized.

• Coast Guard law now requires life jackets for all children ages 12 and younger unless otherwise specified by state law. Know your state law.

• Check the weather forecast.

• File a float plan with family or fiends who are not on the vessel.

• Watch your children at all times when you are around the water.

• Never dive into lakes and rivers – the results can be tragic.

• Never rely on toys, such as inner tubes and water wings, to stay afloat.

• Don't take chances by overestimating your swimming skills.

• Reach or throw a floatation device to help someone in trouble. Don't go in the water.

• Never swim alone.

For more tips on how to be safe in or on the water, visit the Corps' water safety Web site (http://watersafety.usace.army.mil/).

Archery aims to fill a niche at FMS

by David Hill
Editor

Archery will be introduced to students at Franklin Middle School (FMS) in Thief River Falls next fall thanks to some hard work by local residents, administrators and a matching grant from the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources. The grant and matching funds make it possible for the school to participate in the National Archery in the Schools Program (NASP).

"A lot of things came together to make this happen," said Dana Klos of the Thief River Falls Archery Club. Personally, he said, it makes him happy. "The kids," he said, "win on this deal and there's no cost to the School District."

Shane Zutz, assistant principal at Franklin Middle School, said they hope to begin teaching archery in grades 6 through 8 starting next fall. One of the obvious benefits, he said, includes providing children with more opportunities to get involved in an activity. It (archery) is more of an individual activity rather than a team event and that is attractive to many students, he said. As an activity, Zutz said it will improve hand-eye coordination.

Physical Education instructor Bob Johnson noted that in this region of Minnesota, there's a great deal of interest in outdoor activities, like hunting, and archery is something many youth would enjoy.

Chris McLean, another physical education instructor at the school said it's also an activity that can be continued throughout a lifetime.

Zutz said Franklin Middle School staff want children to get involved in something, whether it's church, archery or some other activity.

One of the keys to this activity being introduced at Franklin Middle School is the Genesis Bow. According to industry information, this is the first bow that automatically covers all draw lengths from 15 to 30 inches, meaning it fits virtually everyone.

Johnson said the new bows really allow the kids to catch on and enjoy archery more quickly.

Zutz and Klos said the program is very structured. Teachers must undergo a two-day certification course coordinated by the National Archery Association.

Klos said funds for the program came from the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources and with matching dollars, amounted to a total of $3,500. Klos said all of the equipment was purchased and coordinated through Streiff's Sporting Goods of Warroad, and the matching dollars came from a donation from Scott Marvin of Warroad. Additionally, Jon Marvin, the owner of "Arrow Brake," maker of quality archery targets, Warroad, donated 10 of his archery targets to this program in Thief River Falls. Klos said this allows the program to be supported and held at the school facility, instead of transporting students across town to the Thief River Falls Archery Club's indoor range located above the "Old Arena."

Zutz said the kids are very excited about the archery program.

Archery hasn't been offered at FMS in the past because of liability issues and a lack of equipment. Zutz said most, if not all of those issues, have been resolved.

The equipment provided to the school includes 11 bows, 75 arrows, a 30-foot heavy net, six targets on wheels and tools. Zutz said the shop class at the school will be making bow holders from plans provided to the school.

NW Research & Outreach Center tops DHIA list for April

Northwest Research & Outreach Center was the top dairy herd producer for the month of April, according to the supervisor for the Red Lake-Pennington County Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA).

Randy Rasmussen, supervisor of the Red Lake-Pennington County DHIA, put the following herds in the top 15 of the association for the month of April:

1. Northwest Research & Outreach Center – 112 cows, 88 percent in milk, 71 pounds of milk, 2.6 pounds of fat, 2.1 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 101 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.

2. Todd and Kathy Johnston – 62 cows, 94 percent in milk, 71 pounds of milk, 2.7 pounds of fat, 2.2 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 104 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.

3. Greg Zak – 24 cows, 100 percent in milk, 69 pounds of milk, 2.3 pounds of fat, 2.1 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 105 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.

4. Walter Brothers Farm – 274 cows, 87 percent in milk, 68 pounds of milk, 2.4 pounds of fat, 2 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 103 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.

5. Beyer Brothers Farm – 67 cows, 93 percent in milk, 68 pounds of milk, 2.4 pounds of fat, 2 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 105 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.

6. Gary and Polly Bakken – 24 cows, 88 percent in milk, 68 pounds of milk, 2.4 pounds of fat, 2.2 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 105 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.

7. Wayra Dairy 3X – 183 cows, 85 percent in milk, 67 pounds of milk, 2.4 pounds of fat, 2 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 106 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.

8. Tom and Diane Kolstoe – 40 cows, 95 percent in milk, 65 pounds of milk, 2.5 pounds of fat, 1.9 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 103 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.

9. Leonard and Marge Geske – 41 cows, 98 percent in milk, 63 pounds of milk, 2.2 pounds of fat, 1.8 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 100 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.

10. Merlyn and Debbie Ornquist – 40 cows, 85 percent in milk, 62 pounds of milk, 2 pounds of fat, 1.9 pounds of protein, in unsupervised testing with 113 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.

11. E. Duane and Faith Knott – 87 cows, 87 percent in milk, 61 pounds of milk, 2.5 pounds of fat, 1.9 pounds of protein, in unsupervised testing with 101 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.

12. Lehmann Dairy – 47 cows, 87 percent in milk, 59 pounds of milk, 2 pounds of fat, 1.7 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 99 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.

13. Goodvue Ayrfarms II – 56 cows, 86 percent in milk, 53 pounds of milk, 2 pounds of fat, 1.6 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 105 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.

14. Hamrick Farms Inc. – 66 cows, 83 percent in milk, 50 pounds of milk, 1.8 pounds of fat, 1.5 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 108 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.

15. Kevin and Sheila Tharaldson – 47 cows, 85 percent in milk, 50 pounds of milk, 1.6 pounds of fat, 1.4 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 100 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.

The herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd. The amount of milk or butterfat is averaged out over all the cows. This gives the farmer a record of the earning power of the herd for the month. If too many cows are included in the herd, then the average for the month may be low even though the cow that is milking produces a lot of milk.

Remember this day: an important day

by David Hill
Editor

Over 500 people attended the Memorial Day service at Greenwood Cemetery in Thief River Falls. "Remembering this day," said First Lt. Colin Browning, "might be the most important thing we can do."

American Legion Commander John Sampson reminded those in attendance of the sacrifices made by so many so that the country's citizens would have the freedoms they enjoy today.

Records show that 42.3 million people have served in the U.S. military since the Revolutionary War, and that 1.2 million died in its service. Memorial Day is a day set aside to ensure that the sacrifices of America's fallen heroes are never forgotten.

Browning remembered the sacrifices of the soldiers under his command. He spoke of how three soldiers under his command died and how the survivors continued during the confusion of battle and their conflict with grief.

Looking out over the crowd, and a cemetery accented by red, white and blue flags, small and large gently flapping in the breeze, Browning said he was most thankful he has a town like Thief River Falls to return to.

"It's not the things you send us, but knowing you have a community like Thief River Falls to come home to," said Browning.

Under the warm sunshine of the day, the conflict in Iraq couldn't be further away, but it is with Browning every day, and it's with every soldier who ever fought for this country. Everyone, said Browning, who comes back from war, comes back a changed person, but the memories never become completely colorless.

Lance Cpl. Payton died on Nov. 14 while the platoon was clearing buildings. Though they would never admit it, the platoon was tired and his death hit them hard, said Browning. Staff Sgt. Melvin Blazer told them Payton died behind the trigger fighting. "Take 20 minutes to grieve," he said, "and then we'll get back on patrol." That's the kind of person he was, said Browning.

Sgt. Jeffrey Kirk and Blazer were lost in a firefight that was so overwhelming that afterwards Browning said the rest of them were thankful to be alive. At the time, they were attempting to rescue another comrade.

Browning said he remembers them all. And he is proud of them all and all the things they accomplished. It reminded him that many have made great sacrifices for the freedoms we enjoy. So the most important thing we can do on this day, he said, is to remember their sacrifices.

Browning said these experiences reminded him of how fortunate he is - to have a supportive family, a wife and soulmate (Ensign Amanda Browning, who was also in attendance), and a supportive community like Thief River Falls.

Before this crowd in a cemetery clothed in red, white and blue, Browning reaffirmed his oath to serve and protect this country. The 1999 Lincoln High School graduate returns to Camp Pendleton soon and is anticipating another tour in Iraq beginning next January.

Roseau Scandinavian Festival is June 10-12

The third annual Roseau Scandinavian Festival will be held Friday through Sunday, June 10-12 in Roseau.

Friday's events include a variety show at the Roseau School Theater, beginning at 7 p.m.

Saturday's events will start with benefit breakfast served from 7 to 10 a.m. by the Roseau Lions Club at the Four Seasons Center. Other activities throughout the day include bands in the music tent on Main Street.

Two new additions this year are a flea market downtown and a Cruise In Car Show at the Roseau Pioneer Farm and Village. The cars will parade through Main Street at approximately 4 p.m. Other events scheduled throughout the day include: "How to Create Archival Quality Scrapbooks"; a lecture on genealogical resources at the Minnesota Historical Society Library, a smorgasbord will be served by Maggie's Catering from Karlstad, with two seatings, 4 and 5:30 p.m.; a 7 p.m. concert by the Fiddling Fauske brothers from Dunseith, N.D., and the Overtones quartet from Roseau.

Sunday's events will be held at the Roseau Pioneer Farm and Village, starting with a pancake breakfast served from 7 to 10:30 a.m. The breakfast will be followed by a church service in Norwegian.

Funding is available for well sealing

Cost-share dollars are available through the Marshall County Water Plan Office for the sealing of abandoned wells. The county's 75 percent cost share is provided through the Minnesota Natural Resource Block Grant. The property owner pays 25 percent.

Improperly sealed wells are potential sources of contamination to groundwater, and can consequently affect nearby drinking water wells. Abandoned wells can act as channels for surface pollutants to enter ground water. Many abandoned wells also go uncovered, posing a physical threat to humans – mainly small children who could potentially fall into the open wells.

To get an application, contact Jan at the Marshall County Water and Land Office, 208 E. Colvin Ave., Suite 3, Warren, MN 56762; (218) 745-4217.

Familiar foes return to state line-up

Six of the eight schools who played in the team portion of the 2004 Class A boys state high school tennis tournament will be back this year including Thief River Falls.

Joining the Section 8A champion Prowlers as repeat qualifiers are St. Paul Academy and Summit School (1A), Waseca (2A), Mounds Park Academy (4A), The Blake School (5A) and Litchfield (6A).

The newcomers are Luverne (3A) and Virginia (7A).

Quarterfinal matches will be played Tuesday and Wednesday, June 7 and 8. Mounds Park Academy, the No. 1-ranked team in Advancing to state are Pyle and Engelstad, who finished 1-2, respectively, in singles, along with a title-winning Forney-Bottem doubles team. Submitted photo.

Prowlers repeat as 8A champion

■ TRF successfully defends team tennis title

Section 8A Team Tennis

■ Semifinals - Thief River Falls 7, Perham 0, Crookston 7, Park Rapids Area 6.

■ Championship - Thief River Falls 5, Crookston 2.

Pegged as the team to beat from Day 1, Thief River Falls lived up to expectations Tuesday by winning the Section 8A boys high school tennis tournament team title for the second straight year.

The Prowlers shut out Perham 7-0 in the semifinals and beat Crookston 5-2 in the championship match. The tournament was played at Park Rapids.

Thief River Falls will take a 14-1 dual meet record to the state tournament team competition that will be played June 7-8 at the Northwest Athletic Club in Burnsville and the Nicollet Indoor Tennis Club/Reed-Sweat Family Tennis Center in Minneapolis. The Prowlers will meet Mounds Park Academy of St. Paul in a Tuesday quarterfinal match. The Panthers beat Minnehaha Academy 7-0 in the Section 4A finals.

Lone loss on the 2005 record was an April 23 setback at the hands of Class AA Alexandria when the Prowlers' regular line-up wasn't intact.

A year ago, the Prowlers qualified for their first state tournament as a team since a three-year championship run in 1978, 1979 and 1980. After going 16-1 during the regular season, they lost 5-2 state tournament decisions to Waseca and Litchfield.

"I am very proud of the way our boys competed today and with the sportsmanship they displayed," said Thief River Falls coach Troy Hanestad following the Section 8A wins. "I thought our kids looked very confident in their matches."

In sweeping Perham, Thief River Falls got from junior Justin Pyle, junior Michael Forney, sophomore Cody Bottem and freshman Jacob Engelstad, in 1-through-4 singles, respectively, along with doubles victories from senior Joe Ihle and sophomore Jordan Swanson at No. 1, senior Jon Kays and sophomore Corey Horien at No. 2 and junior Jordan West and freshman Brian Kays at No. 3.

Forney, Bottem and Engelstad won championship match singles matches against Crookston, with Ihle-Swanson and Kays-Horien cementing things with wins in doubles.

"I know the boys were probably a little nervous defending their section title, but it did not show very much in their matches," said Hanestad. "I really believe that this group of boys have done what it takes to be the most prepared team on the court, and when you do that, you are going to be successful."

This time around a state appearance won't be enough to satisfy the Prowlers' appetite, according to Hanestad. "We are very excited to be heading back down to the state tournament again this year," he said, "and the boys plan on winning when they get there."

TRF sending three entries to state meet

Three of Thief River Falls' four entries in the individual portion of the 2005 Section 8A boys high school tennis tournament were state meet qualifiers with top-two finishes during Wednesday's matches played at Park Rapids.

It was an all-Thief River Falls final in singles, where Justin Pyle beat Jacob Engelstad 6-0, 6-0.

Engelstad then outlasted Alberto Arriaga of East Grand Forks 2-6, 7-5, 6-2 in a true-second match.

The Prowlers' Michael Forney and Cody Bottem defeated Derek Kaiser and Kirby Johnson of Crookston 6-2, 6-2 in the doubles finals.

It was another highlight performance for the Prowlers, who won the Section 8A team title Tuesday.

"I have never seen a team send three out of their four entries to the state tournament," offered Thief River Falls coach Troy Hanestad.

The Prowlers' state tournament singles qualifiers both had strong performances, according to Hanestad. "Justin Pyle was striking the ball very well and was unchallenged in the singles division," he said. "Jacob Engelstad had a huge straight-set win over the No. 1 seed in the South (Luke Hentges of Park Rapids Area) in the semis and then battled back in a true-second match from a set down for a state tournament birth."

Results in doubles featured a reversal of fortune for the Prowlers, pointed out Hanestad. "Michael Forney and Cody Bottem dominated the Crookston team (Kaiser-Johnson) they lost to last week in the sub-section tournament," he explained. "They took the net away from the Crookston team early in the match and never looked back."

Thief River Falls' second doubles entry, Jon Kays and Joe Ihle, finished third.

Individual portion of the state tournament will be played June 9-10 at the Northwest Athletic Club in Burnsville following the completion of the June 7-8 team competition.

TRF Legion, VFW teams facing a busy first week

Ten games in five days will kick off the 2005 season for the Thief River Falls American Legion and VFW baseball teams.

The Legion squad, featuring primarily high school juniors and seniors, will play doubleheaders Monday at Stephen-Argyle (5 p.m.), Wednesday at Crookston (5 p.m.) and Friday at home against Roseau (6 p.m.)

Courtney Skjerven is the Post 117 coach.

The VFW 16-year-olds, coached by Shane Zutz, start with doubleheaders Tuesday at home against Moorhead (5 p.m.) and Thursday at Bemidji (4 p.m.)

All Legion and VFW regular season outings are doubleheaders.

TRF reaches North 8AAA softball final

North Sub-Section 8AAA

■ Tuesday, May 31 - Thief River Falls 1, Bemidji 6 (Bemidji eliminated), Brainerd 2, Thief River Falls 0 (championship).

A season-long goal for Thief River Falls coach Matt Okeson was to have his team still playing on Memorial Day. A Monday game would mean the Prowlers had advance through the early stages of the double-elimination North Sub-Section 8AAA high school softball tournament. After three straight years of 0-2 post-seasons, it seemed like a realistic goal.

As it turned out, Okeson was aiming a little low. The Prowlers'

Paul Sjoberg state qualifier

A tie-breaker loss kept Thief River Falls' Paul Sjoberg out of the 2004 Class AA boys state high school golf tournament. This time there was no denying the Thief River Falls senior, who extended his high school athletic career by finishing in a three-way tie for second place during Monday-Tuesday Section 8AA competition at the Greystone Golf Club in Sauk Centre.

Class AA boys and girls state meets will both be held June 7-8 at the Bunker Hills Golf Course in Coon Rapids.

Sjoberg shot a 69 Monday and a 73 Tuesday for a two-over par 146, two strokes behind Bryce Hanstad of Alexandria. Alex Wieme of Sartell-St. Stephen and Tyler Whiting of Alexandria also turned in a 146.

Section 8AA team honors went to Alexandria with a 596 and a 13-shot victory margin over runner-up Brainerd. Thief River Falls was fourth with a 612.

Thief River Falls was the Day 1 team leaders with a 300, followed closely by Alexandria with a 302, Detroit Lakes 303 and Brainerd 305. The Cardinals came back with a second round 294 while the Prowlers slipped to a 312.

"We played really good golf," reported Thief River Falls coach Dick Tyler. "Alexandria played exceptionally well on the second day. We knew we had to play error-free golf the second day, and we just didn't. We had two holes with big numbers."

Rest of the Prowlers' four team-counting scores were recorded by Corey LaSalle with a 154, Lee Peterson 155 and Matt Nordhagen 157. Brady Stanley and Kyle Lunke were also part of the Thief River Falls tournament line-up.

The tournament enjoyed back-to-back ideal days weather-wise, a rarity for the athletes who have had to battle wet, cool conditions most of the spring, mentioned Tyler, who said contender status in the Section 8AA tournament emphasized the strength of the Prowlers' 2005 line-up. "The team had a good season, finishing with four team championships," he pointed out.

Lakers end Prowlers' season

North Sub-Section 8AAA

■ Tuesday, May 31 - Detroit Lakes 7, Thief River Falls 3 (TRF eliminated); Bemidji 9, Brainerd 6 (8 innings); Alexandria 10, Moorhead 1.

■ Thursday, June 2 - Detroit Lakes 6, Bemidji 6 (Bemidji eliminated); Brainerd 5, Moorhead 2 (Moorhead eliminated), Alexandria 3, Brainerd 1 (Brainerd eliminated).

■ Saturday, June 4 - (championship) Detroit Lakes at Alexandria

Thief River Falls' offense started with a bang, then fizzled, leading to a season-ending 7-3 North Sub-Section 8AAA high school baseball tournament loss to Detroit Lakes Tuesday at the Multi-Events Center.

Batting in the lead-off spot, Alec Holen kicked off what would be a 3-for-3 day at the plate when he deposited Max Saarinen's second pitch of the game over the right field fence for a home run and a quick 1-0 Thief River Falls lead. Then, after giving up three runs in the top of the second, the Prowlers tied it in the bottom of the inning when Holen followed a Dan Kauslingen walk and a Justin Brooks single with a two-out, two-run double into the left-center field gap.

As it turned out, that was the last of the Prowlers' offense. Saarinen shut them out on two base hits over the final five innings. The only Thief River have runners during that stretch came on two-out singles by Holen in the fifth and Wyatt Reed in the seventh – the latter an infield hit.

Thief River Falls, after being no-hit by Moorhead's Justin Pieterick in a 4-0 Saturday match-up to start the double-elimination tournament, finished 13-8.

"I don't know why we struggled so much on offense at the end of the year," offered Thief River Falls coach Shane Zutz. "We were doing all the right things..."

Detroit Lakes, meanwhile, put plenty of runners on base with a 10-hit attack led by a 3-for-3 effort by No. 9 hitter Jake Kiebke.

"They hit the ball well," acknowledged Zutz. "We knew they would. We couldn't stop them. We just didn't get it done."

Detroit Lakes got lead-off singles by Saarinen and Zach Fuhs, then two-out RBI hits by Kiebke, Joe Schiller and Kyle Danner – on a bad-hopper over the shoulder of the third baseman – for the 3-2 second inning lead.

The Lakers went ahead for good when Kiebke led off the fourth with a double to right-center and scored on a one-out single to left by Danner.

Saarinen and Fuhs drew back-to-back walks to start the fifth and came around to score as the Lakers pushed their lead to 6-3. A throwing error on a sacrifice bunt by Nick Schroeder produced the first run. A sacrifice fly by Kiebke resulted in a second run when a head-first slide by Fuhs knocked the ball away on a play at the plate.

Fuhs doubled into the left field corner in the seventh and scored on a two-out single to left by Kiebke.

The Lakers, seeded seventh in the seven-team field, took a 14-9 record into a Thursday loser-out match-up with Bemidji. The Prowlers were the No. 5 seed.

Spuds win Section 8AA girls meet by 43 strokes

Moorhead built a big first-day lead and rolled to an easy win in the 2005 Section 8AA girls high school golf tournament completed Tuesday at Thumper Pond near Fergus Falls.

The Spuds had a 23-stroke, 331-354 Day 1 lead over runner-up Detroit Lakes and stretched the final margin to a 43-stroke, 682-725 difference over second place Alexandria.

Thief River Falls shot a 448 Monday and failed to make the cut for Day 2.

Prowlers reach North Sub-Section 8AAA finals

2005 season extended until Tuesday when they lost a 2-0 championship game decision to host Brainerd, the top seed in the eight-team field.

It was a doubleheader finish for the No. 3-seeded Prowlers, who edged Bemidji 1-0 in a loser-out game for another shot at Brainerd (a 7-0 winner in a Monday meeting), that same afternoon. A Thief River Falls win would have squared the series and forced an immediate title-deciding third game between the two finalists.

Thief River Falls ended the year 17-6. A five-game tournament run produced five shutouts – wins over Detroit Lakes 3-0, Little Falls 10-0 and Bemidji, along with the two losses at the hands of Brainerd.

Megan Berg threw a two-hit shutout against the Lumberjacks, striking out 12 and walking one.

The only run Berg needed came in the bottom of the sixth when Jamie Hoglo singled to right field and Allyson Helling doubled over the center fielder's head to score pinch-runner Shawna Rogalla.

Bemidji put just five runners on base, and Thief River Falls catcher Kindra Trontvet threw two of them out on stolen base attempts – the second one coming in the seventh inning following a lead-off single.

Okeson wasn't happy with the Prowlers' lack of offensive punch in that one. "We didn't swing the bat at all," he said. "We stood up there and looked at too many strikes, and we didn't bunt well, either. But defensively we made some plays and won the game."

Brainerd pitcher Hilary Smith, after shutting out Thief River Falls on three hits Monday, did even better in the title game rematch when she blanked the Prowlers on just one hit – a second inning single by Hoglo.

Smith struck out 11 and walked one. Berg nearly matched her, giving up just two hits through five shutout innings.

But Brainerd broke through in the sixth with a walk, a double on an 0-2 pitch to Paige Olson and a two-run double to right-center by Smith.

Thief River Falls did put together a seventh inning challenge that started when Brittni Johnson reached base on an error. Amanda Timm dropped a fly ball into the outfield that would have been a single, but instead went for a fielder's choice because Johnson had to hold up waiting to see if the ball would be caught and wasn't able to beat the throw to second. Kindra Trontvet walked to put the tying run on base, but Smith got out of it with a fly-out and strike-out.

"We made it interesting," noted Okeson. "But again, we didn't swing the bats. We didn't put the ball in play."

After making a living off the bunt – either for base hits or sacrifices – throughout the season, the Prowlers had an 0-for-15 weekend in that department, pointed out Okeson. "We couldn't get the bunt down," he said. "We didn't force them to make plays."

Berg fanned a half-dozen Brainerd batters, giving her 612 career strike-outs. She made her varsity debut with spot duty as an eighth grader when she struck out five and walked 18.

Grant availability announced for fire departments

Sen. Norm Coleman announced Tuesday that Minnesota firehouses will be better prepared to prevent and serve the emergencies of their communities due to grants made available through the U.S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS) SAFER Firefighter Hiring Program. The application period for SAFER grants continues through Tuesday, June 28.

The SAFER Firefighter Hiring Program provides financial assistance to local fire departments for the purpose of hiring additional, front line firefighters, and supporting recruitment and retention programs aimed at the volunteer fire service. The SAFER program will award grants directly to volunteer and career fire departments to increase their cadre of firefighters, enhancing their ability to attain 24-hour staffing.

"The SAFER program will provide the men and women in our community fire departments with the manpower to improve the level of service they provide to their communities," said Coleman. "I am pleased that today's announcement will help our Minnesota firehouses, and I encourage them to apply. Their duty requires them to be in harm's way, and their willingness to help others in the face of danger is to be applauded. I will continue to support and work for grants like these that help support Minnesota's brave firefighters."

The 2005 Department of Homeland Security Appropriations Act included $65 million to fund the SAFER program to provide grants on a competitive basis to local fire departments, and to local or statewide organizations representing the interests of the volunteer fire service. Grant awards will be decided in the fall of 2005.

For more details on where to apply, city administrators and fire department officials are encouraged to visit www.firegrantsupport.com.

Notary services to be transferred July 1

Minnesota Secretary of State Mary Kiffmeyer announced Tuesday that services for Minnesota notaries public will be transferred July 1 from the Department of Commerce to her office, per Minnesota Statutes 359.01. In addition to the transfer, the secretary of state's staff will launch a new completely integrated online filing system.

"We're very pleased to welcome notary public services to the secretary of state's office," said Kiffmeyer. "We're also very pleased to be able to offer complete online filing services for notaries public."

The secretary of state's office will process all notary public applications and renewals. Those filings will also be able to be completed online – from application to payment to printing of the Notary Commission certificate – at http://notary.sos.state.mn.us.

Notary public applicants may also submit filings by mail to Office of the Secretary of State, 180 State Office Building, St. Paul, MN 55155. They may also file forms in person at the new location of the secretary of state's business services public counter at 60 Empire Dr., Suite 100 in St. Paul after July 13.

The Department of Commerce will retain responsibilities for background investigations relating to any court-related activity by notary public applicants.

Calcium Mineral Supplements. Increases crops yields 20 to 40% & more over the past 24 years. Works equally well in both calcium-rich and calcium-deficient soils. Increases plants ability to absorb nutrients more efficiently. By foliar feeding this to any plant, it increases the cell structure. By doing this it increases the growth & yields to the plant. I know I have proved it for 5 years with excellent results. Last year my soybeans did not freeze.

Red Lake County Central – Plummer Principal Randy Pederson biked 25.1 miles Monday, May 23 from his Thief River Falls home to work. As an incentive for the second through sixth grade students to read and attain 600 Accelerated Reader points, he rode bike on back roads to work. The top readers in each class were (front row) fifth grader Marisha Pahlan, third grader Mickala Morinville, second grader Brittney Bray, fourth grader Abby Garardy and (back row) sixth grader Mcaulli Barns.

If the president wants to get it passed, he said, they will have to take sugar out of it.

Peterson believes the president is also facing increased opposition to the bill because of a backlash from the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA). Simply stated, NAFTA hasn't lived up to expectations.

Even if the president gets his way, it may not be approved by other nations participating in the agreement, according to Peterson.

Two of the nations, Costa Rica and Nicaragua, have not approved CAFTA.

What's driving the interest in the United States, said Peterson, is business wanting to get in to Costa Rica where there's a higher literacy rate, lower production costs, and more people in the middle class. But more and more, rural Costa Ricans are opposing the plan because they believe they'll be losing market share in other products.

Peterson concluded his remarks about CAFTA by saying there are lots of problems down there that no one wants to talk about.

Energy Bill

The energy bill is in conference committee, said Peterson. Tax credits were extended for wind turbines, unfortunately the issue now has more to do with transmission lines. The same distribution problem is affecting ethanol producers, too.

Peterson said ethanol production is taking off now that people are seeing its value. The problem is that in the short term, producers may be producing more than can be used because it can't be distributed. He explained that oil companies won't let producers use their pipelines, and environmentalists are threatening to hold up plans to expand transmission lines and distribution pipelines.

Peterson said he's trying to get E85 established in northwestern Minnesota. More effort needs to be focused on educating the public about what vehicles can use E85 and the benefits of using E85. (The current price for E85 fuel is around $1.45.) An issue holding up some potential users involves warranties.

Medicare and Social Security

Peterson believes Medicare needs to be fixed before Social Security. Medicare, he said, is in more critical condition than Social Security. Part of the problem leading to its current crisis is due to the drug benefit. Instead of costing about $450 million, it's costing around $950 million. Peterson said he supported the bill because of its support for rural doctors and hospitals.

He said legislators aren't talking about Medicare because they don't know how to fix it. He suspects that it may only get fixed when the problem becomes more critical. The only way it'll get fixed, he said, is for taxes to be raised, and benefits lowered.

Local Issues

Local officials asked Peterson to support a number of local projects.

School District 564 Superintendent Irv Peterson asked Congressman Peterson about support for Title I funding, noting that demands are increasing and funding just keeping pace. He also asked for support regarding No Child Left Behind. Specifically, Peterson asked for support for tests that measure student improvement.

Economic Development Issues. Ron Lindberg, public works director for Thief River Falls, asked for support for a number of economic development issues.

He explained that the airport is an economic development engine for the entire region. Right now, the airport is in need of a hangar for freight carriers but there are issues keeping the city from obtaining more federal funding. He also asked for support for Essential Air funding, which makes it possible for Northwest Airlines through Mesaba to provide passenger service to Thief River Falls. Though, Lindberg said, he would like to see a third flight reinstated, and the community to have more seats reserved on the airplane for Thief River Falls customers.

Lindberg also noted that Thief River Falls is a growing community. Nearly 25 new homes per year are being built and now the community is facing some growing pains, he explained. As a result, it is in need of funds for infrastructure (sewer and water lines) to support new developments.

Pennington County and Thief River Falls officials also requested funding assistance for improvements to County Ditch 1.

UCare Minnesota to hold informational meetings in June

UCare Minnesota will hold informational meetings about UCare for Seniors, a Medicare Advantage plan now available in Kittson, Roseau, Marshall, Polk, Pennington and Red Lake Counties during the month of May. Members of UCare's sales staff will discuss the UCare for Seniors Grand and Superior plans, the two health plan options being offered in northwestern and other Greater Minnesota counties. The UCare for Seniors Superior Plan features comprehensive coverage plus coverage for prescription drugs, eyewear and hearing aids. The UCare for Seniors Grand Plan offers comprehensive coverage but at a lower monthly premium.

With more than 28,000 members, UCare for Seniors is one of the state's largest Medicare Advantage plans. Eligible individuals can enroll at any time. To register for a meeting or for more information, call 1-877-523-1518 (toll free).

MyPyramid instructs consumers to eat more fruits and vegetables

Want a healthier diet? Then eat more – fruits and vegetables, that is. That's the word coming from the April 19 announcement by the U.S. Department of Agriculture of MyPyramid, the agency's new consumer health education program, reports a local produce industry leader.

MyPyramid communicates the diet and health recommendations included in the 80 plus page dietary guidelines for Americans that were released in January, now organized into a collection of 12 food guide and physical activity pyramids that are individualized based on caloric needs. All the pyramids feature vertical color bands, including green for vegetables, red for fruits – representing recommended diet proportions of the five food groups plus oils. Consumers can visit www.mypyramid.gov to identify their personal pyramid and find other helpful tools.

Most Americans need to double their fruit and vegetable consumption to meet the guidelines' new goal. Consumers should be making half their plates fruits and vegetables at meal and snack time to control their weight and promote better health.

Women, Infants and Children Office – Quin has endorsed a national action plan to help America increase its fruit and vegetable consumption for better health and to fight the ongoing obesity epidemic. The National Action Plan to Promote Health Through Increased Fruit and Vegetable Consumption calls on government, schools, food producers and retailers, restaurants, workplaces, healthcare and other industries and institutions to take action to help consumers meet the new fruit and vegetable consumption goals. It offers a host of short and long-range strategies to create a food environment where the healthy choice is also the easy choice. The plan was introduced by Produce for Better Health Foundation, a national nonprofit nutrition education group; it has already been endorsed by dozens of health, nutrition and policy organizations including American Cancer Society and by notable national nutrition and health experts, including Penn State University's Barbara Rolls, Ph.D., Harvard School of Public Health's Dr. Walter C. Willett, M.D., D.P.H., and New York University's Marion Nestle, Ph.D. M.P.H.

"The experts say eating more fruits and vegetables is the single most important thing Americans can do to be healthier, and we're honored to do our part to support the effort to improve America's health," said Kristen Eggerling, WIC-Quin Coordinator.

Red Lake Falls Flying Club hosts Fly In

Red Lake Falls Flying Club will host its annual Fly In and Drive In Breakfast from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Sunday, June 12, at the Red Lake Falls Airport. The menu will include pancakes, eggs, sausage, juice and coffee. The cost is $5 for adults and $3 for children ages 12 and under. Airplane rides will be offered by club members. Club members are from throughout the region. Please come and join the club for a great meal, and give some thought to joining the club and becoming a pilot.

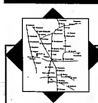
Supporting EAS funding is "plane" to TRF leaders

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

Thief River Falls leaders are supporting a Mesaba Airlines proposal for $842,518 in Essential Air Service (EAS) funding.

"We understand the cost of doing business is increasing daily," wrote Mayor Dale Wennberg to Dennis J. DeVany, chief of the EAS Division of the U.S. Department of Transportation. "We also understand how important the subsidy level is to our community and to the region we serve. We appreciate the contribution the Essential Air Service Program provides to residents and business communities in northwestern Minnesota."



Under the EAS Program, the federal government provides a subsidy to the city of Thief River Falls in order for Mesaba Airlines to provide passenger air service to the Thief River Falls Regional Airport. For the last two years, the airport received $707,000 in EAS funding. The current proposal seeks an increase of approximately $36,000 in the two-year subsidy.

Currently, Mesaba pilots fly 34-seat Saab 340 turboprop aircraft to and from the airport. In the letter, Wennberg asked for more seats for Thief River Falls passengers.

"Because of the tight allocation of seats out of the Thief River Falls Regional Airport, many passengers are forced to fly from Grand Forks, N.D., or travel to Bemidji and board there," wrote Wennberg. "Doing so increases the boarding numbers for those cities, but does not show the true picture of the demand for seats in Thief River Falls."

The company proposes to continue providing 13 weekly round trips (two one-stop round trips each weekday and three one-stop round

Rydell National Wildlife Refuge trails receive national recognition

Erskine - U.S. Secretary of the Interior Gale Norton recently announced the designation of the refuge trails at Rydell National Wildlife Refuge near Erskine as a national recreation trail.

The Rydell Refuge trail, a seven-mile back country trail system, was among 37 new trails in 23 states to be designated by Norton. The trail showcases Sundew Bog and wildlife habitats that developed from the "fire shadow" effects of Maple Lake. This ecosystem represents a unique transitional zone between Prairie Parkland of the Red River Valley and the Eastern Broadleaf Forests. This handicapped-accessible trail system allows for year-round outdoor activities, including hiking, biking and cross-country skiing. - Erskine Echo, June 9, 2005

Warroad shop teacher receives award

Warroad - Bill Erickson was very surprised to see his family, friends and co-workers in the Warroad High School library to show their appreciation.

The U.S. Air Force has been a proud sponsor of the Technology Education Shop Safety Program for the last 20 years. The program is designed to distribute millions of free safety and career publications, posters, teachers' newsletters and student booklets to more than 30,000 high school technology education teachers.

During the past school year, one or more of Bill's students nominated him with a short essay about why he should receive an award.

The Air Force paid special tribute to Bill upon selection as one of the 250 teachers from the nationwide pool of more than 30,000 teachers for the important contributions he has made to his students' futures. - Warroad Pioneer, June 8, 2005, by Marlene Schmitz

Pedaling for dreams

Karlstad - Todd and Bob Buck had a dream. After 10 years of dreaming and planning, that dream is finally coming true and dreams of others will come true because of them.

Todd said this all started one day when he and his brother Bob were sitting fishing. He states that he turned to his brother and said, "Wouldn't it be great to load up the bikes and head for Alaska?" And now here it is 10 years later and they are 1,000 miles into their 4,500-mile bike tour and having lunch at Black Bear Grill in Karlstad.

Starting in Lombard, Ill., where Tom resides (Bob's home is in LaCrosse, Wis.), the two brothers left the Windy City on May 22. They pedaled through LaCrosse, Duluth and are headed north into Manitoba, then across the southern half of Saskatchewan. The Buck brothers will then enter British Columbia to the eastern edge of the Rockies and finally end up in Fairbanks, Alaska. For 11 weeks, they will live as nomads – away from work, family and the comforts of home.

The Buck brothers are riding for the Make a Wish Foundation. Donations to their bike tour will be used to grant the wishes of children with life-threatening medical conditions. - North Star News, June 9, 2005, by Marcia Heath

When lightning strikes

Lightning

- About 1,000 people are struck each year by lightning in the U.S.
- Annually, an average of 67 people are killed by lightning in the U.S. – more than those killed annually by tornadoes or hurricanes.
- An average lightning flash can illuminate a 100-watt light bulb for more than three months.
- The air near a lightning strike is heated to 50,000° Fahrenheit, which is hotter than the sun's surface.

Thief River Falls native ShelRae Vedbraaten and Vedbraaten's cat, "Nicodemus," experienced weather's wrath June 2 while traveling from Albany to Thief River Falls. Half a mile north of Mahnomen, Vedbraaten's vehicle was struck by lightning. Vedbraaten suffered a hyperextended wrist in the incident, and "Nicodemus" was uninjured. Vedbraaten's vehicle, "Charlie," did not fare so well. He was totalled.

Lightning takes out Charlie

Thief River Falls native experiences weather's wrath

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

ShelRae Vedbraaten had decided she was going to keep "Charlie" for a few more years. Yet, misfortune struck "Charlie" June 2 – misfortune in the form of a lightning strike.

Vedbraaten was driving "Charlie," her 1999 Chevy Lumina, near Mahnomen that evening. The Albany resident was looking forward to relaxing on Lake Sarah during the upcoming weekend with her parents, Thief River Falls residents Jim and Renae. It was a hectic year for Vedbraaten with teaching school, going to graduate school, serving as a high school speech coach and advising an honor society. It was her first night of freedom as it was the last day of school.

Vedbraaten stopped to use a restroom at a gas station on the south-side of Mahnomen and heard claps of thunder. "I just remember it was so loud," Vedbraaten recalled.

She got back into her vehicle and drove through the city with her cat, "Nicodemus," who was inside his cat carrier that was strapped in the front seat. Vedbraaten and "Nicodemus" continued to hear loud claps of thunder. Vedbraaten saw a sign marking the mileage to Thief River Falls. It was about 5:03 or 5:04 p.m., she recalled, because she calculated she would be at her parents' home at about 6 p.m.

Vedbraaten and her mom like to talk about weather because, as Vedbraaten said, they're from Minnesota. The claps of thunder were so loud that Vedbraaten thought she should tell her mom about it when she got to Thief River Falls. "I think that thought went through my head and wham," Vedbraatem recalled.

Vedbraaten thinks she turned her head to see a bright light, which was a lightning strike. It struck her car while she was driving half a mile

Northwest Dairy Day in TRF June 18

Lots of activities planned for event

The 56th Annual Northwest Dairy Day will be June 18 at the Pennington County Fairgrounds in Thief River Falls.

Northwest Dairy Day attracts youth from 17 area counties. Organizers expect another good turnout for this year's event, which is open to any youth from kindergarten to one year past high school.

Registration opens at 10 a.m., and the opening ceremony, which includes the flag and Pledge of Allegiance will take place after registration ends at 11 a.m. Local and area dignitaries will also participate in a milking contest.

Organizers have also invited county dairy princesses from northwest Minnesota to attend the event. They will be helping with a number of activities throughout the day.

There will also be an opportunity for visitors and participants to learn more about showing dairy cattle. A showmanship demonstration will be presented just prior to the beginning of the cattle show.

Beauty and the Beast performed in TRF

Lumiere, played by David Abraham, Babette, played by Cyndi Onkka, Wardrobe, played by Stacy Loesse, Cogsworth, played by Cole Bylander, and Mrs. Potts, played by Kari Mooney, discuss the fact that they may never be human again in this scene from the Thief River Falls Community Arts Council's production of Disney's "Beauty and the Beast," which will be at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls 7 p.m. June 14-18, and 2 p.m. June 19. Reserved seating tickets are on sale at Kezar Music.

Jako Philion, center, along with his parents, Robert and Sharon, was an honorary chairperson at the Pennington County Relay for Life. The event began last night at 7 p.m. (Friday, June 10) and concluded at 7 a.m. today (Saturday).

No crying now!

Jako Philion and his family share their experiences with cancer

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

"No crying this time," Jacob Philion said to his mother, Sharon, as she started to recall the events of 1997. He often reminds her not to cry when recalling a time when her son's life was threatened.

In 1997, at the age of 6, Jacob was diagnosed with, and recovered from, a brain tumor. Now 14, Jacob will be one of three honorary chairpersons at the Pennington County Relay for Life, which will be from 7 p.m. to 7 a.m. June 10-11, at Lowell T. Swenson Field in Thief River Falls.

Jacob "Jako" Philion, 14, was diagnosed with cancer in the form of a brain tumor in August 1997. He had been sick for much of the summer portion of that year, about four months in total. His family visited several medical establishments to determine the cause of his illness, but none were able to accurately diagnose Jako's ailment. Jako's cancer, called Medulloblastoma, was finally diagnosed by doctors at Rochester's Mayo Clinic.

Medulloblastoma is the most common occurring malignant tumor in children. Formed from poorly developed cells at a very early stage, in a portion of the brain called the posterior fossa, Medulloblastomas are an aggressive, fast growing type of cancer that can spread to other portions of the brain when untreated, but rarely to other portions of the body.

"Up to that time, we had no idea it would be cancer," said Jako's mother Sharon. "Nobody had indicated or even hinted that it could be cancer."

Jako began receiving treatment immediately after receiving his diagnosis.

"His was a stage four," Sharon said. "At first they gave us no hope, but his oncologist, Dr. Peter Anderson, said, 'there's always hope.'"

Jako began treatment in the form of chemo therapy just days after his diagnosis. Chemo therapy treatments were conducted in a three-week on three-week off format. During off weeks, Sharon would transport her son to Grand Forks, N.D., where an Altru Hospital doctor, Dr. Eric Lunn would examine Jako on a daily basis to see if his blood counts remained high enough. Often they weren't and Jako would be required to stay in isolation until his counts had risen.

Unchosen Journey

Greenbush women who was the subject of an area-wide search shares her struggle with depresion

(Editor's Note: On May 14, WyAnn Jo Janousek, 41, Greenbush, went for a walk. When she didn't return right away, relatives sought help and hundreds of area residents responded. WyAnn returned to her home on May 17 on her own. This is the explanation she sent to several media outlets last week.)

My Unchosen Journey

by WyAnn Jo Janousek

If someone had predicted what I have gone through over the last several months or so, I would have told them they were crazy. Not me, so in control, so organized, the one everyone looks to for strength. My life seemed perfect. What happened to me was so unexpected, it felt like my life was broken in pieces and scattered. It was my job to pick up the pieces and get them back together, not in the same way they were, but in a way that would help me be stronger and wiser.

Little things that would normally seem so insignificant became another excuse for me to feel that my life was useless. I had been so overwhelmed with all my jobs which led to mistakes and I started getting behind, because I was so exhausted and I did not even have the energy to deal with issues. I was getting angry at the hand I'd been dealt. I prayed to God, asking, "Why is this happening to me? When will I see the sun again?" At times, I felt sorry for myself, I didn't care anymore. I had thoughts and attempts of suicide. I felt alone, abandoned, misunderstood, and my self-esteem was terrible. I felt depressed, angry, sad, fearful, overwhelmed, and so many emotions. My ability to concentrate dropped to an all-time low. I tried

If the president wants to get it passed, he said, they will have to take sugar out of it.

Peterson believes the president is also facing increased opposition to the bill because of a backlash from the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA). Simply stated, NAFTA hasn't lived up to expectations.

Even if the president gets his way, it may not be approved by other nations participating in the agreement, according to Peterson.

Two of the nations, Costa Rica and Nicaragua, have not approved CAFTA.

What's driving the interest in the United States, said Peterson, is business wanting to get in to Costa Rica where there's a higher literacy rate, lower production costs, and more people in the middle class. But more and more, rural Costa Ricans are opposing the plan because they believe they'll be losing market share in other products.

Peterson concluded his remarks about CAFTA by saying there are lots of problems down there that no one wants to talk about.

Energy Bill

The energy bill is in conference committee, said Peterson. Tax credits were extended for wind turbines, unfortunately the issue now has more to do with transmission lines. The same distribution problem is affecting ethanol producers, too.

Peterson said ethanol production is taking off now that people are seeing its value. The problem is that in the short term, producers may be producing more than can be used because it can't be distributed. He explained that oil companies won't let producers use their pipelines, and environmentalists are threatening to hold up plans to expand transmission lines and distribution pipelines.

Peterson said he's trying to get E85 established in northwestern Minnesota. More effort needs to be focused on educating the public about what vehicles can use E85 and the benefits of using E85. (The current price for E85 fuel is around $1.45.) An issue holding up some potential users involves warranties.

Medicare and Social Security

Peterson believes Medicare needs to be fixed before Social Security. Medicare, he said, is in more critical condition than Social Security. Part of the problem leading to its current crisis is due to the drug benefit. Instead of costing about $450 million, it's costing around $950 million. Peterson said he supported the bill because of its support for rural doctors and hospitals.

He said legislators aren't talking about Medicare because they don't know how to fix it. He suspects that it may only get fixed when the problem becomes more critical. The only way it'll get fixed, he said, is for taxes to be raised, and benefits lowered.

Local Issues

Local officials asked Peterson to support a number of local projects.

School District 564 Superintendent Irv Peterson asked Congressman Peterson about support for Title I funding, noting that demands are increasing and funding just keeping pace. He also asked for support regarding No Child Left Behind. Specifically, Peterson asked for support for tests that measure student improvement.

Economic Development Issues. Ron Lindberg, public works director for Thief River Falls, asked for support for a number of economic development issues.

He explained that the airport is an economic development engine for the entire region. Right now, the airport is in need of a hangar for freight carriers but there are issues keeping the city from obtaining more federal funding. He also asked for support for Essential Air funding, which makes it possible for Northwest Airlines through Mesaba to provide passenger service to Thief River Falls. Though, Lindberg said, he would like to see a third flight reinstated, and the community to have more seats reserved on the airplane for Thief River Falls customers.

Lindberg also noted that Thief River Falls is a growing community. Nearly 25 new homes per year are being built and now the community is facing some growing pains, he explained. As a result, it is in need of funds for infrastructure (sewer and water lines) to support new developments.

Pennington County and Thief River Falls officials also requested funding assistance for improvements to County Ditch 1.

UCare Minnesota to hold informational meetings in June

UCare Minnesota will hold informational meetings about UCare for Seniors, a Medicare Advantage plan now available in Kittson, Roseau, Marshall, Polk, Pennington and Red Lake Counties during the month of May. Members of UCare's sales staff will discuss the UCare for Seniors Grand and Superior plans, the two health plan options being offered in northwestern and other Greater Minnesota counties. The UCare for Seniors Superior Plan features comprehensive coverage plus coverage for prescription drugs, eyewear and hearing aids. The UCare for Seniors Grand Plan offers comprehensive coverage but at a lower monthly premium.

With more than 28,000 members, UCare for Seniors is one of the state's largest Medicare Advantage plans. Eligible individuals can enroll at any time. To register for a meeting or for more information, call 1-877-523-1518 (toll free).

MyPyramid instructs consumers to eat more fruits and vegetables

Want a healthier diet? Then eat more – fruits and vegetables, that is. That's the word coming from the April 19 announcement by the U.S. Department of Agriculture of MyPyramid, the agency's new consumer health education program, reports a local produce industry leader.

MyPyramid communicates the diet and health recommendations included in the 80 plus page dietary guidelines for Americans that were released in January, now organized into a collection of 12 food guide and physical activity pyramids that are individualized based on calorie needs. All the pyramids feature vertical color bands, including green for vegetables, red for fruits – representing recommended diet proportions of the five food groups plus oils. Consumers can visit www.mypyramid.gov to identify their personal pyramid and find other helpful tools.

Most Americans need to double their fruit and vegetable consumption to meet the guidelines' new goal. Consumers should be making half their plates fruits and vegetables at meal and snack time to control their weight and promote better health.

Women, Infants and Children Office – Quin has endorsed a national action plan to help America increase its fruit and vegetable consumption for better health and to fight the ongoing obesity epidemic. The National Action Plan to Promote Health Through Increased Fruit and Vegetable Consumption calls on government, schools, food producers and retailers, restaurants, workplaces, healthcare and other industries and institutions to take action to help consumers meet the new fruit and vegetable consumption goals. It offers a host of short and long-range strategies to create a food environment where the healthy choice is also the easy choice. The plan was introduced by Produce for Better Health Foundation, a national nonprofit nutrition education group; it has already been endorsed by dozens of health, nutrition and policy organizations including American Cancer Society and by notable national nutrition and health experts, including Penn State University's Barbara Rolls, Ph.D., Harvard School of Public Health's Dr. Walter C. Willett, M.D., D.P.H., and New York University's Marion Nestle, Ph.D. M.P.H.

"The experts say eating more fruits and vegetables is the single most important thing Americans can do to be healthier, and we're honored to do our part to support the effort to improve America's health," said Kristen Eggerling, WIC-Quin Coordinator.

Supporting EAS funding is "plane" to TRF leaders

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

Thief River Falls leaders are supporting a Mesaba Airlines proposal for $842,518 in Essential Air Service (EAS) funding.

"We understand the cost of doing business is increasing daily," wrote Mayor Dale Wennberg to Dennis J. DeVany, chief of the EAS Division of the U.S. Department of Transportation. "We also understand how important the subsidy level is to our community and to the region we serve. We appreciate the contribution the Essential Air Service Program provides to residents and business communities in northwestern Minnesota."

Under the EAS Program, the federal government provides a subsidy to the city of Thief River Falls in order for Mesaba Airlines to provide passenger air service to the Thief River Falls Regional Airport. For the last two years, the airport received $707,000 in EAS funding. The current proposal seeks an increase of approximately $36,000 in the two-year subsidy.

Currently, Mesaba pilots fly 34-seat Saab 340 turboprop aircraft to and from the airport. In the letter, Wennberg asked for more seats for Thief River Falls passengers.

"Because of the tight allocation of seats out of the Thief River Falls Regional Airport, many passengers are forced to fly from Grand Forks, N.D., or travel to Bemidji and board there," wrote Wennberg. "Doing so increases the boarding numbers for those cities, but does not show the true picture of the demand for seats in Thief River Falls."

The company proposes to continue providing 13 weekly round trips (two one-stop round trips each weekday and three one-stop round

Rydell National Wildlife Refuge trails receive national recognition

Erskine - U.S. Secretary of the Interior Gale Norton recently announced the designation of the refuge trails at Rydell National Wildlife Refuge near Erskine as a national recreation trail.

The Rydell Refuge trail, a seven-mile back country trail system, was among 37 new trails in 23 states to be designated by Norton. The trail showcases Sundew Bog and wildlife habitats that developed from the "fire shadow" effects of Maple Lake. This ecosystem represents a unique transitional zone between Prairie Parkland of the Red River Valley and the Eastern Broadleaf Forests. This handicapped-accessible trail system allows for year-round outdoor activities, including hiking, biking and cross-country skiing. - Erskine Echo, June 9, 2005

Warroad shop teacher receives award

Warroad - Bill Erickson was very surprised to see his family, friends and co-workers to the Warroad High School library to show their appreciation.

The U.S. Air Force has been a proud sponsor of the Technology Education Shop Safety Program for the last 20 years. The program is designed to distribute millions of free safety and career publications, posters, teachers' newsletters and student booklets to more than 30,000 high school technology education teachers.

During the past school year, one or more of Bill's students nominated him with a short essay about why he should receive an award.

The Air Force paid special tribute to Bill upon selection as one of the 250 teachers from the nationwide pool of more than 30,000 teachers for the important contributions he has made to his students' futures. - Warroad Pioneer, June 8, 2005, by Marlene Schmitz

Karlstad - Todd and Bob Buck had a dream. After 10 years of dreaming and planning, that dream is finally coming true and dreams of others will come true because of them.

Todd said this all started one day when he and his brother Bob were sitting fishing. He states that he turned to his brother and said, "Wouldn't it be great to load up the bikes and head for Alaska?" And now here it is 10 years later and they are 1,000 miles into their 4,500-mile bike tour and having lunch at Black Bear Grill in Karlstad.

Starting in Lombard, Ill., where Tom resides (Bob's home is in LaCrosse, Wis.), the two brothers left the Windy City on May 22. They pedaled through LaCrosse, Duluth and are headed north into Manitoba, then across the southern half of Saskatchewan. The Buck brothers will then enter British Columbia to the eastern edge of the Rockies and finally end up in Fairbanks, Alaska. For 11 weeks, they will live as nomads – away from work, family and the comforts of home.

The Buck brothers are riding for the Make a Wish Foundation. Donations to their bike tour will be used to grant the wishes of children with life-threatening medical conditions. - North Star News, June 9, 2005, by Marcia Heath

Lightning

- About 1,000 people are struck each year by lightning in the U.S.
- Annually, an average of 67 people are killed by lightning in the U.S. – more than those killed annually by tornadoes or hurricanes.
- An average lightning flash can illuminate a 100-watt light bulb for more than three months.
- The air near a lightning strike is heated to 50,000° Fahrenheit, which is hotter than the sun's surface.

Thief Rivar Falls native ShelRee Vedbreaten and Vadbraaten's cat, "Nicodemus," experienced waethar's wreth June 2 while travelling from Albany to Thief River Falls. Half a mile north of Mahnomen, Vedbreeten's vehicle wes struck by lightning. Vedbreeten suffered e hyperextended wrist in the incident, and "Nicodemus" wes uninjured. Vedbreeten's vehicle, "Charlie," did not fere so wall. Ha wes totelled.

Thief River Falls native experiences weather's wrath

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

ShelRae Vedbraaten had decided she was going to keep "Charlie" for a few more years. Yet, misfortune struck "Charlie" June 2 – misfortune in the form of a lightning strike.

Vedbraaten was driving "Charlie," her 1999 Chevy Lumina, near Mahnomen that evening. The Albany resident was looking forward to relaxing on Lake Sarah during the upcoming weekend with her parents, Thief River Falls residents Jim and Renae. It was a hectic year for Vedbraaten with teaching school, going to graduate school, serving as a high school speech coach and advising an honor society. It was her first night of freedom as it was the last day of school.

Vedbraaten stopped to use a restroom at a gas station on the south side of Mahnomen and heard claps of thunder. "I just remember it was so loud," Vedbraaten recalled.

She got back into her vehicle and drove through the city with her cat, "Nicodemus," who was inside his cat carrier that was strapped in the front seat. Vedbraaten and "Nicodemus" continued to hear loud claps of thunder. Vedbraaten saw a sign marking the mileage to Thief River Falls. It was about 5:03 or 5:04 p.m., she recalled, because she calculated she would be at her parents' home at about 6 p.m.

Vedbraaten and her mom like to talk about weather because, as Vedbraaten said, they're from Minnesota. The claps of thunder were so loud that Vedbraaten thought she should tell her mom about it when she got to Thief River Falls. "I think that thought went through my head and wham," Vedbraatem recalled.

Vedbraaten thinks she turned her head to see a bright light, which was a lightning strike. It struck her car while she was driving half a mile

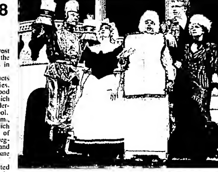
Northwest Dairy Day in TRF June 18

Lots of activities planned for event

The 56th Annual Northwest Dairy Day will be June 18 at the Pennington County Fairgrounds in Thief River Falls.



Northwest Dairy Day attracts youth from 17 area counties. Organizers expect another good turnout for this year's event, which is open to any youth from kindergarten to one year past high school.

Registration opens at 10 a.m., and the opening ceremony, which includes the flag and Pledge of Allegiance will take place after registration ends at 11 a.m. Local and area dignitaries will also participate in a milking contest.

Organizers have also invited county dairy princesses from northwest Minnesota to attend the event. They will be helping with a number of activities throughout the day.

There will also be an opportunity for visitors and participants to learn more about showing dairy cattle. A showmanship demonstration will be presented just prior to the beginning of the cattle show.

Beauty and the Beast performed in TRF

Lumiere, played by David Abraham, Babette, played by Cyndi Onkke, Wardrobe, played by Stacy Loesse, Cogsworth, played by Cole Bylender, and Mrs. Potts, played by Keri Mooney, discuss the fact that they may never be human again in this scene from the Thief River Falls Community Arts Council's production of Disney's "Beauty and the Beast," which will be at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls 7 p.m. June 14-18, and 2 p.m. June 19. Reserved seating tickets are on sale at Kezar Music.

Jako Philion, center, along with his parents, Robert and Sharon, wes en honorery chairperson at the Pennington County Relay for Life. The event began last night at 7 p.m. (Friday, June 10) and concluded at 7 a.m. today (Saturday).

No crying now!

Jako Philion and his family share their experiences with cancer

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

"No crying this time," Jacob Philion said to his mother, Sharon, as she started to recall the events of 1997. He often reminds her not to cry when recalling a time when her son's life was threatened.

In 1997, at the age of 6, Jacob was diagnosed with, and recovered from, a brain tumor. Now 14, Jacob will be one of three honorary chairpersons at the Pennington County Relay for Life, which will be from 7 p.m. to 7 a.m. June 10-11, at Lowell T. Swenson Field in Thief River Falls.

Jacob "Jako" Philion, 14, was diagnosed with cancer in the form of a brain tumor in August 1997. He had been sick for much of the summer portion of that year, about four months in total. His family visited several medical establishments to determine the cause of his illness, but none were able to accurately diagnose Jako's ailment. Jako's cancer, called Medulloblastoma, was finally diagnosed by doctors at Rochester's Mayo Clinic.

Medulloblastoma is the most common occurring malignant tumor in children. Formed from poorly developed cells at a very early stage, in a portion of the brain called the posterior fossa, Medulloblastomas are an aggressive, fast growing type of cancer that can spread to other portions of the brain when untreated, but rarely to other portions of the body.

"Up to that time, we had no idea it would be cancer," said Jako's mother Sharon. "Nobody had indicated or even hinted that it could be cancer."

Jako began receiving treatment immediately after receiving his diagnosis.

"His was a stage four," Sharon said. "At first they gave us no hope, but his oncologist, Dr. Peter Anderson, said, 'there's always hope.'"

Jako began treatment in the form of chemo therapy just days after his diagnosis. Chemo therapy treatments were conducted in a three-week on three-week off format. During off weeks, Sharon would transport her son to Grand Forks, N.D., where an Altru Hospital doctor, Dr. Eric Lunn would examine Jako on a daily basis to see if his blood counts remained high enough. Often they weren't and Jako would be required to stay in isolation until his counts had risen.

Unchosen Journey

Greenbush women who was the subject of an area-wide search shares her struggle with depresion

(Editor's Note: On May 14, WyAnn Jo Janousek, 41, Greenbush, went for a walk. When she didn't return right away, relatives sought help and hundreds of area residents responded. WyAnn returned to her home on May 17 on her own. This is the explanation she sent to several media outlets last week.)

My Unchosen Journey

by WyAnn Jo Janousek

If someone had predicted what I have gone through over the last several months or so, I would have told them they were crazy. Not me, so in control, so organized, the one everyone looks to for strength. My life seemed perfect. What happened to me was so unexpected, it felt like my life was broken in pieces and scattered. It was my job to pick up the pieces and get them back together, not in the same way they were, but in a way that would help me be stronger and wiser.

Little things that would normally seem so insignificant became another excuse for me to feel that my life was useless. I had been so overwhelmed with all my jobs which led to mistakes and I started getting behind, because I was so exhausted and I did not even have the energy to deal with issues. I was getting angry at the hand I'd been dealt. I prayed to God, asking, "Why is this happening to me? When will I see the sun again?" At times, I felt sorry for myself, I didn't care anymore, I had thoughts and attempts of suicide, I felt alone, abandoned, misunderstood, and my self-esteem was terrible. I felt depressed, angry, sad, fearful, overwhelmed, and so many emotions. My ability to concentrate dropped to an all-time low. I tried

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere
email: lacours@mnrable.net

Today we'll have some summer recipes made with popcorn that would be great for outdoor parties and picnics or just snacking at family time. They are all from the Jolly Time popcorn website.

What a hunt - salad with popcorn in it. Wouldn't this be great for a patio party? It has nutritional info too:

CRUNCHY POPCORN SALAD
1/2 cu fat free sour cream
1/4 cup fat free mayonnaise
1 tablespoon white wine vinegar
1-1/4 teaspoons dry buttermilk ranch salad dressing mix
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 teaspoon black pepper
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup shredded carrots
1/2 cup sliced green onion
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
9 small ripe olives, halved
3 slices (3/4 ounce each) fat free sharp cheddar cheese
1 (3 ounce) bag 94% fat free microwave pop corn, popped

In medium bowl, combine sour cream, mayonnaise, vinegar, salad dressing mix, mustard, pepper and salt. Mix well. Add carrots, onion, green pepper and olives.

Slice cheese into thick strips and add to above. Mix well. This mixture may be covered and refrigerated overnight, if desired.

Just before serving, place popped corn in large bowl and remove any unpopped kernels. Add vegetable mixture and gently stir until blended. Serve immediately. Recipe makes 6 (1 cup) servings. Each serving contains 122 calories, 5 g dietary fiber, 2 g fat, 20 g carb, 6 g protein, 552 mg sodium, 5 mg. chol)

Another great snack food for that outdoor party or movie night, and so easy to fix ahead:

CROWD-PLEASER POPCORN
1 (3 ounce) bag 94% fat free microwave popcorn, popped
2 cups fat-free mini pretzels
4 teaspoons dried chives
1 tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese
1 teaspoon dry ground mustard
1/4 teaspoon salt free seasoning blend butter flavor non stick cooking spray

Place popped corn in large bowl, removing any unpopped kernels. Add pretzels and toss to combine.

In small bowl, combine chives, Parmesan, mustard and seasoning blend. Mix well. Spray popcorn mixture for 5 seconds with non stick cooking spray. Sprinkle with 1/4 cup of the seasoning mixture and toss. Repeat spraying with cooking spray and sprinkling with seasoning mixture 3 more times, tossing well after each addition and ending with seasoning mixture.

Best served within 24 hours of preparation. Store in tightly covered container. Recipe makes 12 cups or 6 (2 cup) servings.

Nutritional info. 127 calories, 4 g dietary fiber, 3 g fat, 21 g carb, 4 g protein, 305 mg sodium, 1 mg chol.

This side dish tastes so much better than chips with burgers or brats, and also with your barbecued meats:

SAVORY POPCORN SNACK MIX
3 quarts popped corn
2 cups miniature pretzels
1/2 pound bacon, chopped
1/4 cup butter or margarine
3 tablespoons chopped green onion with tops
1-1/2 teaspoons spicy brown mustard
1/4 teaspoon season salt
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

Remove any unpopped corn kernels. Combine popcorn and pretzels in large bowl.

Cook bacon crisp and drain well. Melt butter in saucepan and stir in onions, mustard and season salt. Sprinkle bacon and Parmesan over popcorn and then pour butter mixture over all. Toss well and serve at once. Makes about 3 quarts.

This is a tasty dessert and makes a nice holiday snack too:

WHITE CHOCOLATE PECAN CORN
1 (3.5 ounce) package microwave popcorn, popped
10 ounces white chocolate or almond bark, chopped
1/2 cup pecan halves

Place popped corn in large bowl and remove any unpopped kernels.

Place white chocolate in glass measuring cup and micro on high for 1 to 1-1/2 minutes, until it is shiny. Stir to melt all the way - do not over-micro. Stir in pecans and then add to popcorn mixture. Spread on cookie sheet to cool completely. Makes 2 quarts.

These make mighty tasty little dessert packages for your picnic:

HONEY COCONUT BALLS
3 quarts popped popcorn
3/4 cup coconut, toasted
1/3 cup honey
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
Dash of salt
3 tablespoons butter or margarine

Line a shallow pan with aluminum foil. Placed popcorn in pan and keep warm in 250 degree oven. Spread coconut in shallow baking pan and toast, stirring once, about 8-10 minutes.

Combine honey, cinnamon and salt in small saucepan. Heat to boiling and boil 2 to 2 1/2 minutes, stirring constantly. Add butter and stir to melt.

Pour honey mixture over popcorn. Add coconut and stir to coat well.

To make balls, place 1 cup mixture in center of 8 inch square of plastic wrap and shape into balls. Twist wrap and tie securely. Makes 10 popcorn balls.

One more really yummy popcorn bar recipe:

ROCKY ROAD PEANUT BUTTER POPCORN BARS
3 quarts popped corn
1/2 cup raisins
1 cup light corn syrup
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1/2 cup peanut butter pieces
1/3 cup chunky or creamy peanut butter
3/4 cup miniature marshmallows
1/2 cup peanuts
1/2 cup semi sweet chocolate pieces
1 teaspoon vegetable shortening

Place popped corn and raisins in large bowl.

In saucepan, heat corn syrup and butter to a boil and boil 3 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in peanut butter pieces and peanut butter until smooth. Pour mixture over popcorn, tossing gently to coat all pieces.

Press into buttered 9 inch square pan. Sprinkle marshmallows and peanuts over top, pressing lightly into popcorn mixture. Melt chocolate pieces and shortening over very low heat and drizzle over top. Cool several hours before serving. Recipe makes 36 2-1/4 x 1 inch bars.

Nelson granted NSCS membership

Anneliesse Christine Nelson of Roseau accepted membership in the National Society of Collegiate Scholars (NSCS). Anneliesse will be honored during a campus ceremony in the fall at the University of North Dakota.

NSCS is a highly selective, national, nonprofit honors organization. Membership in NSCS is a symbol of outstanding academic achievement, and a doorway to jobs, scholarships, service opportunities and a unique community of scholars.

"NSCS provides the opportunity for students, like Anneliesse, to be recognized for their outstanding achievements early in their college experience," said Steve Loflin, NSCS executive director and founder.

Shoulder procedure offers new option

Ardis Hanson of Karlstad is the first person in Minnesota and North Dakota to benefit from a new surgical procedure for the treatment of shoulder joint disease or damage. Dr. Colin Fennell, an orthopaedic surgeon associated with RiverView Orthopaedic Clinics in Crookston and East Grand Forks, has begun doing the surgical procedure known as Contoured Articular Prosthetic (CAP) resurfacing.

Fennell repaired a tear in Hanson's left shoulder that occurred when she was injured in an automobile accident in 2001. Other surgical procedures available at that time could not successfully treat the problem. In January, Fennell did a partial resurfacing of the humeral head, replacing the damaged segment of Hanson's joint surface with a metal implant. With this new procedure, cartilage-resurfacing implants are custom matched to each patient, using a patented three-dimensional mapping technology.

Hanson, who had injured both shoulders and had a total of six shoulder surgeries since 2001, experienced chronic pain and loss of movement. "Until this last surgery, I never gained much strength on my left side," she said. "It's good to feel like I'm finally moving forward."

"Only about 100 of these procedures have been performed nationwide to date," said Fennell. "Advantages of this procedure include relief from current pain, a more rapid return to normal activity and the restoration of a smooth load bearing surface in the shoulder."

The technology helps manage pain and disability in middle-aged patients who are not good candidates for a total shoulder replacement, he explained. For instance, in Hanson's case, the injury was more limited to a smaller surface of the shoulder than what would be warranted for a total joint replacement.

Fennell performs CAP resurfacing at RiverView Hospital in Crookston. RiverView Health is the first healthcare provider in Minnesota and North Dakota to purchase and install the necessary equipment to perform this surgical procedure.

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Dave Hill, Editor

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Unless specified otherwise, the editorials are written by Editor Dave Hill and do not represent opinion of other staff members. Opinions in items from other publications may not coincide with the editor's own views but are offered for their general interest.

Target practice best done by hypocrits

In a recent editorial appearing on the National Newspaper Association Web site, Paul K. McMasters addressed a problem that all journalists have to face from time to time: being the bearer of bad news. Even though it is said often enough, the bearer of bad news is more often than not, a convenient target of frustration. The latest national spat that has pundits taking aim at the media involves the unmasking of Deep Throat.

The use of anonymous sources is a vexing problem, but in this situation, a cancer on the government was removed. One might think that with the passing of time anger and frustrations might have subsided, but not so. So many years later, one cannot wonder at the hypocrisy and opportunism, and acrimony still taking place.

McMasters addresses the use of anonymous sources in the news media and its impact and repercussions. "There is a whiff of hypocrisy and opportunism on the part of government officials, especially," said McMasters, "who rail against anonymous sources. It is, after all, government officials who insist on background briefings and anonymity when floating a proposal, promoting an agenda or punishing an enemy. They see no wrong in the 'authorized leaks' they make but view as treasonous the 'unauthorized leaks' someone else makes."

Despite the appearance of placing oneself squarely on the wrong side of the shooting range, I doubt the practice of using anonymous sources will ever end. I agree with McMasters when he states, "Government and private officials will continue to speak off the record to avoid accountability. Whistleblowers will continue to speak in secret to avoid punishment. Journalists will continue to use them to avoid being scooped."

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

The townspeople in Disney's Beauty and the Beast look on in horror as Gaston, played by Rob Burkel (third from left), describes what the Beast will do to their children and homes in this scene. The Thief River Falls Community Arts Council's play will be performed at 7 p.m. June 14-18 and 2 p.m. on June 19 at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls. Reserved seating tickets are available at Kazar Music.

"Tally ho!" yells Cogsworth, played by Cole Bylander, holding Fork, Umelee Holecak, as the rest of the flatware - Trisha Bernier, Micheela Myhrer, MacKenzie Krute and Melisse Paredis (not in order) - join the charge on the townspeople who have invaded their castle in this scene from the Thief River Falls Community Arts Council's production of Disney's Beauty and the Beast. Show times for this production will be June 14-18 at 7 p.m. and June 19 at 2 p.m. at Northland Community and Technical College. Reserved seating tickets are on sale at Kazar Music.

Only His Hairdresser Knows For Sure

We're a month into the new, open-water, Lake of the Woods fishing regulations. The public has had nearly 30 days to taste and digest this season's upgraded and downsized limit of walleyes. As a launch driver on the southwestern portion of the lake, I'm subjected to a lot of the opinion surrounding the changes and, as a guide who relies on the fishery for a bulk of his personal summer income, I'm often asked for my assessment of the revised laws. In short, I'm being asked a lot of questions. "Why the new limits?" "Is four fish enough to keep people coming to Lake of the Woods?" "Is this the way it's going to be forever?" "Is the rest of the state going to change to four fish?" "Is it that big a deal to keep one larger walleye?" "Why is Donald Trump's hair that way?"

But there's one line of discussion that inevitably comes up, regardless of the original direction of the inquiry. We might be lamenting the lack of quantity in the cooler or mourning the demise of the "one over 19.5 law." It could be a discussion about the fate of northern Minnesota tourism or a debate over the quality of northern Minnesota's finest fishery. The dialogue, no matter which line it takes at the onset, seems to always arrive at the same location. "Isn't this," comes the unavoidable query, "a law we can get around quite easily?"

And my answer is a simple, non-judgmental - "yes." If you, as a Lake of the Woods angler want to take six walleyes home instead of accepting the new, reduced bag limit of four, you can do it. Go ahead. Your chances of getting fined for such effrontery are between slim and none. I'm certainly not going to stop you.

Look. Consider the odds. You put four walleyes in your freezer today. Congratulations! You got a limit. And tomorrow you go out and have shore lunch and then bring two more walleyes in to bring the stash in your freezer to a grand total of four. Who's gonna know? Who's gonna check? When was the last time a DNR official stormed into your cabin or residence and performed a fish count? You're free and clear.

And if you're transporting those fish south to Des Moines or Minneapolis, what're the chances that you'll be pulled over by the once-a-year road-block that challenges Highway 72? There's that 'slim and none' line again. And, if you've somehow managed to slip to that level of misfortune, heretofore occupied only by Lot's wife and John Bobbitt, what's to prevent you from blubbering out some form of white lie claiming that those fish came from a lake north of Blackduck or a remote Canadian camp? Remember, it's not the number six that makes this illegal, only the fact that those six came from the confines of Lake of the Woods. Anywhere else in the state, except actually on the waters of Lake of the Woods, six fish is a rational, ethical, legal limit.

However! (Come on, I'm a self-righteous Episcopalian, you didn't think I'd let you off the hook that easily.) I'd like to believe that there's a fishing conscience out there. I, like you, am not totally convinced that this new and improved limit is the panacea (look it up) to this lake's fishing future. However, (there's that however thing again) given my limited perspective on what is good and not good for Lake of the Woods, I'm going to give this thing a try. Remember, I am but a humble guide. My grasp of aquatic biology ranks right up there with my understanding of Trump's coif. I'll attempt to make a living with fewer fish going into the cooler each day. I'll try to make those guests from Des Moines happier with the quality of the fishery while continuing to put back those "picture takers." If it's for the good of the whole, then I'll creep out to the end of my ultra-light and proclaim that I'm all for it.

And when I'm on the launch and I get asked those tough questions concerning the logistics about getting around the edges of these new regulations, I can answer directly. I won't look you in the eye and deny that I'm somewhat apprehensive about our ability to sell these restrictions to the public. It's going to be tough. But I also won't deny that I'm willing to give them a try. I'd like to see the fishery improve, not simply stumble along trying to avoid the potholes that other big Minnesota lakes have encountered.

So when that seemingly inevitable question arises about a fisherman's ability to circumvent the new regs, I try to be objective. Of course you can get around them, I'll say, but that's really not for me to decide. Don't let your guide be your conscience, I tell them, let your conscience be your guide.

Bethlehem Church to host homecoming service on Aug. 21

The annual homecoming service for the Bethlehem of New Solum (rural Newfolden) will be held on Sunday, Aug. 21. There will be a potluck dinner at 12:30 p.m., with a program to follow at 2 p.m. Any ideas for the program should be forwarded to Pam Hackstedler, 523-3246.

Flag day in Elks Park on June 14

Thief River Falls Elks Lodge 1308 will hold its annual Flag Day ceremony at 5:30 p.m. on Tuesday, June 14, in Elks Park, Thief River Falls.

The public is invited to attend this ceremony honoring the flag and its history. The park is located on Third Street behind the Kum and Go. In case of inclement weather, the ceremony will be held in the Elks Lodge, which is located on the corner of Third and LaBree.

Our Seamless gutters are manufactured from .032 gauge pre-painted aluminum, the heaviest gauge used in the industry. If your home is 20 feet or 200 feet in length our seamless gutter is made in one continuous length, eliminating any joints or seams in the middle. Inquire before you purchase "Seamless Gutter" about the thickness of the material used and be certain that it is made in one continuous length.
Seamless gutter is formed, cut and installed on site by a two-man crew - saving on labor cost. Freight charges are eliminated. Waste is almost unheard of due to gutter being measured and cut on site to exact lengths. No need to store left over odds and ends that got damaged before they can be used. Most jobs can be completed the same day. Call us for complete information and free estimates of your job at no obligation to you.

Paul Sjoberg closed out his Lincoln high school athletic career by competing in the Class AA boys state golf tournament Tuesday and Wednesday at Bunker Hills in Coon Rapids. Thief River Falls head coach Dick Tyler (right) accompanied Sjoberg to the state meet.

Sjoberg plays in state meet

■ TRF senior competes in Class AA golf tournament

There's no better way to close out your high school athletic career than to be playing in the state tournament. And that's the way it ended for Thief River Falls senior Paul Sjoberg, who competed in the Class AA boys state golf meet Tuesday and Wednesday at Bunker Hills in Coon Rapids.

Sjoberg was involved in a three-way tie for 12th, just four strokes behind leaders, after Day 1 with an 18-hole 37-37–74.

He was still in the hunt for a top-ten finish on Day 2 before running into troubles down the stretch that dropped the Villanova University-bound Sjoberg into a tie for 21st with a 39-41–80 and a two-day 154 total.

Eagan's Ryan Peterson, a sophomore, and Trent Peterson, a senior, finished as co-medalists in the 87-golfer field with matching 141's.

The tournament began with a two-hour weather delay Tuesday that forced officials to go with a shotgun start.

Trent Peterson and Noah Lawson were the first-day leaders with 70's. Lawson, a senior from Forest Lake, finished the tournament fifth with a 147.

Class AA Boys State Golf

■ Team totals - Eagan 591, Alexandria 601, Grand Rapids 616, Totino-Grace 619, Woodbury 619, Litchfield 629, Minnetonka 639, Bemidji-St. Margaret's 658.

■ Top ten individuals - 1. (tie) Ryan Peterson, Eagan, and Trent Peterson, Eagan, 141, 3. Bryce Hanstad, Alexandria, 144, 4. Jordan Ensrud, Anoka, 145, 5. Noah Lawson, Forest Lake, 147, 6. (tie) Tyler Whiting, Alexandria, Matt Schneider, Grand Rapids, Paul Swanson, Hastings, Robbie Kelley, Hopkins and Jon Musser, Woodbury, 149.

■ TRF results - 21. (tie) Paul Sjoberg 37-37/39-41–154.

TRF Junior Olympic tournament June 14 at three school sites

Second annual Thief River Falls Junior Olympic volleyball tournament will be played Tuesday, June 14, at three sites: Lincoln High School, Franklin Middle School and Challenger Elementary School.

Twenty-four area teams, including six entries from Thief River Falls, will compete in four age-group divisions starting at 3 p.m.

The 18U bracket will be played in the LHS main gym; 16U in the LHS auxiliary gym; 14U at Challenger; and 12U at Franklin.

Elks Lodge 1308, American Legion Post 117 and the St. Hilaire Lions are sponsors of the Thief River Falls Junior Olympic volleyball program.

Win-E-Mac shortstop Tyler Burslie could not pull down this high throw on a stolen base by Kittson Central/Kittson County North runner Justin Mortenson during Tuesday's Section 8A high school baseball tournament being hosted by Northland Community and Technical College. Because of wet grounds, both semifinal games were moved from the NCTC diamond to the Multi-Events Center.

Eagles, Patriots win in 8A baseball semifinals

Designation as host for the 2005 Section 8A high school baseball tournament still belonged to Northland Community and Technical College, but because of rain-soaked grounds, officials had to pack up things and make the short trip from the NCTC diamond to the neighboring Multi-Events Center for Tuesday's semifinal doubleheader.

Although the new location was soggy, it was playable as East Grand Forks Sacred Heart beat Laporte and Wine-E-Mac defeated Kittson Central/Kittson County North in a pair of 4-2 games.

The Section 8A champion will advance to the Class A state tournament June 16-17 at the Chaska Athletic Field and the Mini Met in Jordan. State quarterfinals will match Section 8A vs. Section 2A in a 10 a.m. Thursday game at Chaska. Defending state champion Sleepy Eye St. Mary's and New Ulm Cathedral were the Section 2A finalists.

Section 8A Baseball

Prowlers lose close first round match to top-ranked Mounds Park Academy; beat Litchfield, Virginia...

TRF tennis team takes Class A consolation title

It was a trophy-winning performance for Thief River Falls in the Tuesday/Wednesday team portion of the 2005 Class A boys state high school tennis tournament as the Prowlers bounced back from an opening round quarterfinal loss at the hands of eventual champion Mounds Park Academy of St. Paul to beat Litchfield and Virginia for consolation honors.

It took a 4-3 win by the unbeaten, No. 1-ranked Panthers to knock the Prowlers out of the championship bracket. Thief River Falls breezed to 6-1 consolation round wins over both the Dragons and Blue Devils.

Ranked No. 7 in the final Class A poll prior to tournament play, the Prowlers finished the year 16-2 overall. Their only regular season dual loss came in an early-season match against Class AA Alexandria when they were at less than full strength.

A singles sweep carried Mounds Park Academy past Thief River Falls in the Tuesday morning quarterfinals.

Dan Melum, Bryan Kelly, David Croonquist and Connor Hart were straight-set winners at 1-through-4 singles, respectively over Justin Pyle, Cody Bottem, Jordan West and Brian Kays.

The Prowlers answered with a sweep in doubles as Michael Forney-Jacob Engelstad beat Jake Sheenhan-Connor Brown 7-5, 6-4 at No. 1; Jon Kays-Joe Ihle defeated Dan Mammel-Nate Eigenfeld 6-2, 6-2 at No. 2; and Jordan Swanson-Corey Horien downed Dan Stang-Paul Shapiro 6-4, 6-4 at No. 3.

It was a revamped Thief River Falls line-up that took six of seven matches against unranked Litchfied Wednesday morning in the consolation semifinals.

Pyle remained at No. 1 singles, where he lost to Kevin Goihl. Everybody else moved around.

Forney and Engelstad went to singles, where Forney rallied to beat Brian Holmgren 4-6, 6-1, 6-2 at No. 2 and Engelstad came back to defeat Jeremiah Johnson 4-6, 7-6, 6-0 at No. 4.

Bottem remained in singles, but went to No. 3, where he handled Patrick Johnson 6-1, 6-0.

The Prowlers' second-match doubles combinations produced another sweep as Ihle-Swanson outlasted Peter Zender-Andrew Tancabel 7-5, 1-6, 6-3 at No. 1; Jon Kays-Horien handled Calvin Pehle-Scott Hentges 6-1, 6-0 at No. 2; and Brian Kays-West overcame Corey Lyon-Dominic Devine 2-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Thief River Falls coach Troy Hanestad stayed with the semifinal line-up in the afternoon consolation final and got another 6-1 win out of it against No. 10-ranked Virginia.

This time is was a singles sweep for the Prowlers as Pyle beat Mark Skube 6-3, 6-2 at No. 1; Forney outscored Brian Villa 6-7, 7-6, 7-6 at No. 2; Bottem got by Nico Sacchetti 6-1, 1-6, 6-4 at No. 3; and Engelstad swept Trevor Asbach 6-3, 6-2 at No. 4.

In doubles, Ihle-Swanson beat Andrew Erickson-Casey Sloth 6-2, 7-6 at No. 1 and Jon Kays-Horien handled Mike Villa-Kyle Attobelli 6-1, 6-0 at No. 2.

Mounds Park Academy was a 6-1 semifinal winner over No. 5-ranked Waseca and a 4-3 championship match winner over The Blake School, the No. 2-ranked team in the final poll.

State tournament championship round and third place matches were played at the Northwest Athletic Club in Burnsville. Consolation round matches took place at the Nicollet Tennis Club in Minneapolis.

Post 117 opens with a sweep

Thief River Falls American Legion Post 117 baseball team opened its 2005 season Monday with a 6-1, 8-1 doubleheader road sweep over Stephen-Argyle.

Lucas Genereux, Michael Benedict and Alex Carlson had two hits apiece in the Game 1 win. Genereux homered.

Thief River Falls starting pitcher Justin Brooks worked the first six innings for the win. Craig Johnston pitched the seventh. Together, they gave up just three hits.

Game 2 ended early due to darkness. Ryan Kruse had two hits for the winners, while Ross Helling had a complete-game pitching performance.

A Wednesday doubleheader at Crookston was called off due to the weather.

Thief River Falls coaches Courtney Skjerven and Duane Kjono are working with a 14-member squad that includes Johnston and Jesse Lian, a pair of 19-year-old college students; 18-year-olds Drew Kjono, Wyatt Reed and Carlson; 17-year-olds Toms Heaton, Daniel Kaushagen, Jon Drees, Genereux, Brooks and Helling, along with Red Lalls' Thomas Johanneck; and Benedict, a 16-year-old.

Post 117, following a Friday (June 10) home opener against Roseau, will host Moorhead in a Monday, June 13, twinbill that has a 6 p.m. start time at the Multi-Events Center.

Kids life jacket law put into effect by governor

A new requirement, for children under age 10 to wear a life jacket while boating on Minnesota waters, went into effect May 6. Called the "Grant Allen Law," the measure was named in memory of the child who drowned after falling out of his father's boat in 2003.

The new law requires that a U.S. Coast Guard approved life jacket be worn by children younger than age 10 in boats that are underway or otherwise not tied up to a dock or permanent mooring.

There are a few exceptions to the law. Children are not required to wear a life jacket if they are in a boat's enclosed cabin or below decks, or on an anchored boat that is being used as a platform for swimming or diving. Also, children on board commercial or charter vessels with a licensed captain are exempt from the life jacket wearing requirement.

Boat operators who violate the law are subject to a written warning for the first offense and a petty misdemeanor for a second offense.

Chemo treatments appeared to be effective, so a stem cell transplant was scheduled. Unfortunately, Jako's cancer returned later that year before a stem cell transplant could be completed.

A different approach was taken when Jako's cancer returned in December 1997. This time he received seven weeks of radiation treatment.

During radiation treatment, Jako and family stayed at the Ronald McDonald House in Rochester. Jako said he met several friends at the hospital and RMH. He especially enjoyed the RMH game room.

The RMH had a 24-family capacity at the time of Jako's treatments. Each room had a bed and sleeping sofa for patients and their families to stay, while the patient is being cared for at the hospital.

"We stayed there a lot during that year," said Sharon, who noted that the RMH allowed relatives to stay with the family. "I think at one time we had 10 family members staying in that one room."

Jako's sister Adrianne, 8 years old at the time, stayed with relatives and friends, while her parents lent their support to her brother. Bob's employer, the U.S. Postal Service, arranged for him to work in Rochester so that he could be close to his son during treatments; while Sharon, an employee of Thief River Falls Schools was granted a leave of absence for the entire school year, so she could care for Jako.

Jako was scheduled to received a stem cell transplant after his radiation treatments were complete. But first, he needed to make a wish.

The Make a Wish Foundation, a non-profit organization dedicated to granting the wishes of children with life-threatening medical conditions, granted Jako's wish to go to Disney World in Orlando, Fla. Sharon said that Make a Wish typically schedules the wish to take place between treatments.

"They kind of want you to do something fun before going back in for a few weeks," Sharon said.

The Disney World trip brought a lifetime of memories to the family.

"We saw one of the Ghost Busters," Jako said recalling his trip to Disney World. "We also met Hercules and Xena.

Philion family members stayed at the Give Kids a World Village during Jako's Make a Wish trip.

Jako just finished seventh grade at Franklin Middle School, his second year in the Thief River Falls school district. He continues to receive cancer checkups annually and has remained cancer free for the past seven years.

"It's been a long struggle," Sharon said, noting that Jako has hearing impairment, growth impairment, vision and cognitive impairment from treatments. "It took quite a few years to recover, but now he's very seldom sick. We count our blessings. It's a miracle that he survived. We attribute that to God's plan for him, whatever that may be."

Jako's parents offer some advise to parents who may be faced with a situation similar to their's. "You have to make some tough decisions," Bob said.

Sharon's advice for anyone facing a similar situation to Jako: "Get more than one opinion. We learned that you really need more than one opinion," she said. On cancer in general she said, "For most people the treatments are very effective. Survival rate is good, if you catch it early." She also feels that faith was a strong influence in Jako's recovery. "We attribute his healing to the prayers and the support of the community.

Leslie Fisher, Franklin Middle School media specialist and Relay for Life committee member, talked to Jako and Sharon about Jako being an honorary chair for the event.

"As adults we are faced with many obstacles, however a child's toughest challenges should be things like learning to ride a hike and writing in cursive," Fisher said. "So whenever a child battles cancer and wins, it's a huge relief. Jako is a wonderful young man who is incredibly friendly and has a great sense of humor. He has met and overcome challenges most adults would find daunting."

Jako and family have participated in Relay for Life events in Red Lake County since Jako recovered from cancer. The June 11-12 Relay for Life will be the family's first in Pennington County.

Thief River Falls Community Arts Council will present Disney's Beauty and the Beast June 14-18 at 7 p.m. and June 19 at 2 p.m. at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls. Reserved seating tickets are on sale at Kazar Music.

north of Mahnomen. She doesn't remember a lot about it. However, she does remember pulling off to the side of the highway, and her vehicle wasn't working properly.

The vehicle's electrical system had died, causing the vehicle's inside lights to stay on Thursday evening and Friday morning. The passenger-side airbag deployed, smashing the right side of the front windshield and causing glass to fly all over the front of the car. There isn't much left of the vehicle's radio antenna.

"Charlie" also sustained a flat tire. Two other tires were losing air pressure, flattening two other tires by the next afternoon.

Somehow in the midst of it all, Vedbraaten hyperextended her right wrist. "I don't know even how I hit my wrist," said Vedbraaten, who couldn't remember if she had one hand or both hands on the steering wheel at the time. She recalled the lightning strike was scary at first.

"Nicodemus," who was sitting beside her in his cat carrier, was also scared. He was uninjured in the lightning strike.

"I'm fine. 'Nicodemus' is fine," Vedbraaten said after the incident. "That's all I care about."

Vedbraaten and "Nicodemus" got out of vehicle. Ironically, Reed Hanson, a Thief River Falls resident, happened to be driving in that area at the same time. Hanson gave them a ride to the Mahnomen Cenex gas station, so Vedbraaten could call her parents.

Vedbraaten told her parents what happened. She recalled that her dad wasn't too surprised by her misfortune. "I've always been rather accident prone," she said.

Vedbraaten's mother, on the other hand, had a different reaction. "I think my mom was more freaked out than I was," Vedbraaten said.

She recalled that her pulse was constantly monitored by her mom, a nurse, after they were reunited.

However, it was a little over an hour before the Vedbraatens were reunited. Vedbraaten and "Nicodemus" waited in the gas station for her parents to pick them up.

"He didn't meow once when we were there, and he usually would," she said about her cat.

"Nicodemus" has since recovered. "He's doing fine," said Vedbraaten. "He's biting again and being naughty."

Vedbraaten's parents arrived, and the family drove past the location of the lightning strike. Vedbraaten remembered seeing a hole in the road, where her vehicle was struck by lightning.

The Vedbraaten family hauled "Charlie" to Thief River Falls after the damaged, inoperative vehicle was pushed onto a trailer by a Mahnomen County Sheriff's Department vehicle. Vedbraaten's mom suctioned glass out of Vedbraaten's hair. Vedbraaten's pulse was checked numerous times. "It's like, 'Mom, it's OK,'" Vedbraaten recalled saying to her mom.

Even though "Charlie" was paid off and she wasn't planning to buy a different vehicle, Vedbraaten is looking for a replacement for her apparently totalled vehicle. She's waiting for the claim check, but she's not afraid of driving again in perfect or stormy weather.

At least she can laugh about her experience with lightning. She said, "You gotta laugh about it."

And she knows she'll have a fascinating story to tell her students. "Who had the most interesting summer?" asked Vedbraaten, who raised her hand. "I think I did."

One person injured in Roseau Co. crash

One person suffered leg injuries Thursday evening after an accident in Roseau County.

The person, whose name was not listed on the Minnesota State Patrol report, was taken to Roseau Area Hospital.

The accident occurred at the intersection of Highway 89 and County Road 120. At the time of the accident, Lindsay Kay Rognerud of International Falls was driving a 2002 Jeep Liberty. According to the report, she failed to yield to a 1993 GMC S-15 driven by Frank William Hauhrick of Grygla. The injured person was a passenger in Hauhrick's vehicle.

Both vehicles sustained moderate damage. The State Patrol was dispatched to the scene at 6:04 p.m. Thursday.

trips each weekend), according to Wennberg's letter.

However, Wennberg and other city leaders requested 14 weekly flights, which was the number of flights Mesaba was providing in 2003. At that time, a review process was completed, and the number of weekly flights was changed to 13 weekly round-trip flights.

Wennberg went on to write that Thief River Falls is the "hub" of northwest Minnesota, with four international companies each employing more than 1,500 people and several more thousands of people employed by several other companies.

"They travel the world and have clients that visit from all over the world," wrote Wennberg. "It is the business traveler that can make an airport profitable and two round-trip flights per day does not satisfy the need. We hope a third flight will be added. Perhaps in the future, a subsidy would not be necessary."

Besides waiting for the outcome of that proposal, city leaders are waiting for a decision regarding President George W. Bush's proposal to cut EAS funding. Under Bush's proposal, the city would be required to contribute 10 percent of the cost for EAS, which would amount to $70,700. If the proposal passes, city leaders would have to find a way to cover that $70,700.

This is not the first time Congress has seen a proposal to cut EAS funding to $50 million. Bush proposed a similar action in 2004, and it was defeated in Congress.

many over the counter medications to make myself feel better, but these just made my illness worse and had adverse effects on my body and my mind. I couldn't even think rationally.

Day after day, night after night, time just kept passing. I thought this was just me and I would overcome it and tomorrow would be a better day. Somewhere along the way, I lost days, weeks and months. So for months, I basically slept my time away and my greatest hope was to not wake up. I got to the point that I felt I was no good for my family, friends, my jobs and myself. I mislead my husband, family and friends. I was afraid to tell my family, friends or anyone what I was thinking and didn't even have the strength to ever deal with certain issues in my life. The morning it started for me was just like any other Saturday morning. I couldn't breathe, my heart raced and my mind went a million miles an hour. When I thought this was going to pass, the new but frightening thoughts of sleeping away came. So I went for a walk, and not knowing what my next move would be as I was walking, it got to the point as I was walking that sleeping away felt better than being awake. All I wanted to do that morning, as I was walking, was to crawl in a corner and sleep away, which is basically what I tried to do.

I'm not exactly sure what brought me home that early Tuesday morning, but when I got there I told my husband that there is something wrong with me, although I was in denial all along, and to please take me in as I needed help. As someone who was a take-charge person and worked out everyone else's problems, it was difficult for me to seek help. This is difficult to admit, but I was recently diagnosed with hereditary depression and have also just recently found out there is a history of this illness in my family. While heart disease, hypertension, and depression are among the illnesses that are common to certain family trees, depression runs in my family. Depression is like diabetes, heart disease or any other other medical problem, it can be treated and it's not our fault.

I can't say with any accuracy how many years of my life were buried under the burden of depression. I had been scared to admit I had this illness, and afraid that taking medication would somehow rob me of my ability to express myself creatively. The hospital's program educated and helped me learn strategies to deal with stress and depression. With the help of my wonderful husband, children, phycologist, family and friends, I regained control of my life.

Although hindsight is always 20/20, if I could change everything that has happened, I certainly would. I feel embarrassed and have so much guilt with everything that has happened and I know that there are some individuals out there that probably don't understand. I didn't until I went through it myself. I am amazed to hear the stories from so many individuals who have gone through the same ordeal as I went through and that this illness is more common than cancer, diabetes or heart disease. Notable individuals such as Abraham Lincoln, Kirk Douglas, Beethoven, Kristi McNickel, Martin Luther, Bette Midler, Isaac Newton, Ernest Hemingway, Michelangelo, Charles Dickens, Princess Dianna, F. Scott Fitzgerald, Merielle Hemingway, Tipper Gore are just a few that have also experienced this type of illness.

I feel we all must join together to be heard and we must also fight stigma. We have a lot to offer, so we should always dare to dream. What I want to share is – never give up hope. This has been the most significant fight of my life. I am thankful I didn't follow through with my initial intentions. I have a lot to see and do yet in my life. I am NOT finished and I want to live another 100 years. I am a worthwhile person who deserves to be here. I have a lot to offer people, and so do you. Just because we suffer an illness does not make any of us less of a person. We are the strong ones. I hope this helps anyone out there who is afraid to find out that its not the end of the world. Today I'm dedicating part of my time to encouraging anyone else like me to take that big step. Because I know what it is to feel good again! And I want you to know that it can happen for you, too

I changed my perspective of life, my relationships with others, and how I deal with things in general, along with many other things. This in turn, created change in my life. I learned to make decisions and I became empowered again. I learned to communicate and have feelings again. I give feedback and receive it. I gained positive role models in my life and I took advantage of what life had to offer me. My attitude today is knowing that each day brings a new challenge. I have learned to rest, keep a routine, eat a healthy diet, drink lots of water, exercise, relax, and enjoy my time alone and with others. I also have the opportunity to try and to fail, and then try again.

It has now been a few weeks since this incident and I have gained a strength that I never knew I had. I am mentally and emotionally stronger than I have ever been in my whole life. I am ready to return to work and continue my life. I know now that it was exactly the right thing to do. I couldn't do it alone. With the caring and help from my family, phycologist, doctor, and friends, I am now a stronger person than I ever thought I could be. I now take time for myself, which I failed to do in my busy life. God has blessed me with the ability to tell my story to others. It is still painful to me, but I know that he has made me like this for a reason.

In closing, I would like to thank everyone who has helped me through this. I am certainly amazed how everyone came together searching for me, even though I didn't realize this had happened until I came home. Thank you also for all the the unending cards, flowers, food, kind gestures, visits, self help books, prayers, etc. we receive on a daily basis. I do not want to mention any names as there are hundreds and I know I would forget someone and feel guilty, but you, me and our families all know who you are...you all "Rock". Once again, THANK YOU from the bottom of my heart...words cannot express my sincere gratitude and appreciation.

Kaitlyn Mumm, 10, and Brittany Johnson, 11, opened a lemonade stand in front of Narverud Cleaners in Thief River Falls. Sales from their lemonade and cookies went to the American Cancer Society's Relay For Life in Pennington County. Kaitlyn is a member of the Big Daddy team that participated in the Relay For Life event June 10-11 in Thief River Falls. Last year, Kaitlyn raised $275. By 2:30 p.m. on June 9, Kaitlyn and Brittany had raised just over $400. Their lemonade stand was made by her grandfather, Don Narverud.

Lemonade stand sales used in cancer fight

by David Hill
Editor

Last year, Kaitlyn Mumm opened her lemonade stand, which consisted of a folding table and a cardboard sign, near Highway 32 north in Thief River Falls. When people found out she was selling lemonade for the American Cancer Society Relay For Life, word spread quickly. During that first year, she raised about $275.

When asked why she was selling lemonade and cookies for the Relay For Life event in Pennington County on Thursday (June 9), Kaitlyn's practiced response was to help find a cure for cancer. She also said she wanted to help her Mom (Sally Mumm) who is on the Relay For Life organizing committee, which was scheduled for Friday and Saturday, June 10-11.

With a few changes and a little more luck this year, Kaitlyn, age 10, thought she could surpass a goal of $300. She was back selling lemonade and cookies on Thursday, alright but she had enlisted her friend Brittany Johnson, age 11, to help her and to help her sell lemonade and cookies from a new lemonade stand and at a new location.

She explained that her grandfather, Don Narverud, made her a new lemonade stand, and that she and Brittany painted the stand, which was placed in front of Narverud Cleaners in downtown Thief River Falls. She also explained that the cookies had been made by her Mom and grandmother, Carol Narverud.

Kaitlyn is on the Big Daddy Relay For Life Team. Big Daddy is a reference to Duane Holland, former deputy police chief in Thief River Falls who died of cancer. The Big Daddy team is one of the most active teams participating in Relay For Life in Pennington County.

Gail Holland, team leader, said Kaitlyn is a great kid and works hard for the team.

In addition to a new lemonade stand and new location, this year Kaitlyn and her Mom spent some time getting the word out, too. They made and distributed flyers beforehand, and contacted Thief River Falls Radio and The Times. As of 2:30 p.m. on June 9, Kaitlyn and Brittany had raised over $400 for the Relay For Life.

Kaitlyn and Brittany are excited about being a part of the Relay For Life event in Thief River Falls, and exceeding their fundraising goal of $300, but they're also looking forward to the rest of their summer - a summer filled with volleyball, skating, and the fair, which is of course, just the way it should be for two energetic youngsters.

Street Wizards to host cruise night Thursday

Street Wizards Car Club will host its next summer cruise night Thursday, June 16. The event will begin at 6:45 p.m. in the Kmart parking lot in Thief River Falls and leave for a cruise to Red Lake Falls and a snack stop promptly at 7 p.m. The cruise route will be about 50 miles in length. Cruisers should return to Thief River Falls at about 10 p.m.

The event is open to all car enthusiasts from Thief River Falls and the surrounding communities. It is open to special interest vehicles, including, but not limited to, antiques, collectors, street rods, muscle cars, classics, convertibles, etc. Cruisers do not have to be club members to participate.

For more information, contact Randy Adamson at (218) 681-1007 (daytime) or (218) 681-7073 (evenings); or Larry Ohren at (218) 681-3312 (evenings).

Tabor Czech Days features parade, dances and fun

Tabor will host Tabor Czech Days on June 18. West of Angus on Marshall County Highway 23, visitors will be able to dance the day and night away.

Events begin on Saturday, June 18, with a parade at 10:30 a.m. Kids games and a horse shoe tournament follows at noon. At 4 p.m. Cathy Erickson will entertain residents during a Polka Mass.

Admission to the live music and dancing is $5, or $20 for families. Children under 12 are admitted free of charge. Performers include Cathy Erickson from noon to 3 p.m., Allen Vasek and Matt Hodek from 3 to 5 p.m., Whiskey Sam from 5 to 9 p.m., and Deliverance from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Food and beverage vendors will be on hand. Visitors can buy their Czech favorites, such as kolache, and bohemian shorts, as well as brats, burgers, and pig roast.

Other activities during Tabor Czech Days include hay rides, kids games and Crayonland Bounce. Visitors will also be able to meet Lauren Hindi, Miss Minnesota Teen USA, and Carrie Lee, Miss Minnesota USA.

For more information about Tabor Czech Days visit www.taborczechdays.com. For parade entry information, contact Mike at 218-773-1456, or Shane at 218-773-2151.

Rydell to host wildland fire management program June 19

On Sunday, June 19, Rydell National Wildlife Refuge (NWR) will host the second in its weekly Learning at the Lakes program series by Steve Schumacher of the Detroit Lakes Wetland Management District.

The program is titled Wildland Fire Management in Minnesota. It will begin at 2 p.m. at the refuge's Visitor's Center. The program is free and open to the public.

Schumacher will discuss prescribed fire, wildfire suppression, pre-suppression planning and mitigation. The program will also include why the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service uses prescribed fire and will provide information on how to improve the wildfire survivability of homes and cabins.

Rydell NWR is located three miles east of Mentor on Highway 2, then south 2.5 miles on Polk County 210. For further information, contact Rydell Refuge at 1-800-841-0172.

UMC students from Oklee, Plummer receive awards

Students included: Rhonda Miller of Greenbush, Outstanding UMC Ambassador; Dion Turgeon of Hallock, Outstanding Crookston Student Association; Doug Moen of Oklee, Achievement in Information Technology Award; Casey Francis of Fosston, women's basketball; Richard Laager of Lancaster, Student Achievement Award; Mike Hanson of Plummer, Achievement in Information Technology Award and Joe Linder, First Year Experience Student Leadership Award.

Financial assistance is available for septic treatment systems

An Ag Best Management Practices loan program offers low-interest financing to property owners with failing septic systems. Existing systems in need of upgrades or replacement are eligible on a first come first served basis. Loans can be taken out through any of the participating lenders for interest rates as low as 3 percent.

Septic systems showing seepage or surfacing of sewage onto the ground are considered an imminent health hazard. These conditions pose a threat to the groundwater and consequently could enter wells of drinking water.

For more information or an application, contact Andrea at the Pennington County Soil and Water Conservation District, 201 Sherwood Ave. S., Thief River Falls, MN 56701; (218) 683-7075.

Summer science contest announced iScienceProject, the leader in portable data loggers for K-12 science education, recently announced the HOBO Summer Science Contest, a free, company-sponsored contest for K-12 teachers.

The contest, which will be held until July 15, enables teachers to borrow a HOBO data logger for the summer, perform science experiments and submit results in order to win the data logger ($200 value). HOBO data loggers record temperature, humidity and light, and can be used in a broad range of experiments, from comparing the insulating properties of different container types to looking at how the temperatures of ponds and pools vary in a given area.

"The HOBO Summer Science Contest is a great way to bring out the scientist in today's science teachers while giving them the opportunity to learn about, and possibly win, new equipment for their classrooms," said Rich Marvin, program manager for iScienceProject. "And since HOBO data loggers are portable and don't need to be tethered to a PC to collect data, they can easily travel with the teacher wherever he or she may venture this summer."

Teachers can sign up for the HOBO Summer Science Contest now through July 15 at www.iscienceproject.com.

CLARIFICATION

In a photo of the winners and participants in the 2005 Northwest Minnesota History Contest in the last edition of the Northern Watch, the cutline failed to note that Kord Maurer received first place, Giles Lien received second place and Kampton Carpenter received third place. The cutline also failed to mention all three boys were from Warroad; however, that information was not provided to the Northern Watch.

Planners for the seventh annual Red Lake County Relay for Life "hoped" that the goal of raising $50,000 could be reached. They should have known that the 20 teams that did fundraising would have no trouble reaching that goal.

By midnight June 3, the Red Lake County ACS Board was astounded at the $57,000 that had been tallied at that hour with more money coming in. Red Lake County has been in the American Cancer Society's Top 10 nationwide for per capita Relay For Life fundraising for the last four years.

Weather was again a factor in the opening ceremonies as rain fell off and on throughout the day June 3. The opening ceremony was moved to the Red Lake County Central (RLCC) gym and set up began when a popular vote by those involved concluded that the Relay had to be held outside.

By 6 p.m., the rain had stopped and with mild temperatures, the program began with the presentation of colors by the Plummer American Legion and the national anthem sung by Susan Lee. Cliny Haugen, Oklee mayor, welcomed the large crowd that had gathered, and Pastor Bob Paulson prayed for blessings on the event and for those with cancer. Honorary chairman Wilmer Sevigny of Brooks shared his story of the history of cancer in his family, and at that point the 2005 Relay For Life began with 46 survivors taking the first lap. They were followed by caregivers and finally the 275+ team members took a lap.

At that time, nine Star Supporters were recognized as they individually raised $1,000.00 or more. They are Connie Parenteau, Pam Paradis, Beth Skallet and her daughter Tammy Doll, Ruth Schultz, JoAnn Derosier, Sharon Naplin, Karen Schirrick and Terry Weiss. Seven Clans Casino donated a Casino package which was won by Skallet for her fundraising success.

A new feature in this years program was the donation of hair to the Locks of Love. Char Lee and her daughter Shelly Flatgard, licensed beauticians, cut 10 inches or more of the hair of Dukka Agnes, who has contributed to this hair donation program twice, and 6-year-old Lexi Carpenter, who had her hair cut for the first time. This hair is used to make wigs for those who have lost their hair to cancer treatments, etc.

Throughout the early evening, 4,480 luminary bags were placed on the field under the direction of Dianne Gagner, luminary chair, and her "army" of volunteers. At 10 p.m., the emotional luminary ceremony began.

The Red Lake County Relay For Life was deemed a huge success by event co-chairpeople Barb Melby and Mary Lynn Bachand, and plans are underway for the 2006 Relay which will be held Friday, June 2. The relay committee is grateful for the use of the RLCC football field in Oklee, and the volunteer efforts of so many who helped make this event happen in a big way.

New $6,000 bonus for Army Reserve recruits

A new $6,000 bonus has been announced for qualified individuals who enlist in the Army Reserve for the Officer Candidate School or Warrant Officer Candidate Flight Training program.

"Officer candidates who apply for eligible areas of concentration (AOC), such as aviation, ordnance, transportation, petroleum supply, engineer and health services, may now qualify for a $6,000 bonus," said Warrant Officer 3 Wendy Wayman. "Eligibility is based on the applicant's civilian education or technical skills, length of enlistment, previous military service and assignment to an Army Reserve troop program unit in the selected AOC for six years. Bonus payments are contingent upon satisfactorily completing all phases of training. Bonus amounts, eligibility criteria and qualifying AOCs are subject to change."

Mesaba selected to continue flights

Mesaba Aviation has been tentatively selected to continue providing essential air service to Thief River Falls, according to U.S. Rep. Collin Peterson. The U.S. Department of Transportation this week issued an order for two nonstop round trips on weekdays and two round trips each weekend to Minneapolis.

The plan reduces number of subsidized flights each week from 13 to 12. However, there will not be a 10 percent reduction in the subsidy that the city will be responsible for, as initially feared.

"While I'm pleased to see that Thief River Falls will continue to have air service, I'm disappointed that there won't be as many flights as the city requested," Peterson said. "City officials have worked hard to have continuity in air service, but with the current administration's budget cutting, there's just less to work with."

Thief River Falls currently has 14 flights per week, 13 of which are subsidized. This proposal cuts one subsidized flight.

Ron Lindberg, public works director, explained that Mesaba has 10 days in which to approve or reject the proposal. He said he didn't know whether they would drop the unsubsidized flights. He said he contacted a representative and asked they they continue the unsubsidized flights.

The proposal would subsidize flights at $777,709 per year or roughly $1,200 per flight. The previous subsidy was roughly $770,000. Mesaba had asked for a subsidy of $842,518.

Lindberg said they are obviously pleased they don't have to chip in for the subsidy. Such a plan could open the door to increases. He doubted city representatives would support a subsidy. He believes the elimination of the 10 percent contribution to the subsidy explains the reduction in the number of subsidized flights.

As noted earlier, Lindberg said the city would like to see more seats reserved for flights in and out of Thief River Falls, and more flights, too. Without more flights, he explained, Thief River Falls will never reach 10,000 enplanements. If the city ever reaches 10,000 enplanements, it would become eligible for $1 million in federal

Corps proposes flood diversion route

Roseau - Where to send the water?

The answer to this ever-perplexing question may have been answered by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Thurs. night (June 2).

In a preliminary report presented in a public meeting at the Roseau High School, the people of Roseau were able to see an option that had been arrived upon by the Corps after analyzing all the pertinent data.

With everything considered, and assuming all of their information and calculations are accurate, the plan developed by the Corps would be a diversion ditch that would run east of Roseau.

The fact that a plan has been developed at all is a note of good news, according to Roseau Mayor Jeff Pelowski. "Sometimes the Corps is not able to create a diversion plan at all," said Pelowski. – by Timothy Holmseth, Roseau Times-Region, June 11, 2005

Those golden days are gone forever

Golden Magic Butter Creamery is torn down

by David Hill
Editor

At one time it was a thriving business...and so was the town. Thursday, May 26, the dilapidated wooden structure was razed, pushed into a pit and burned. A part of history was gone perhaps, but there's still activity in the area and who knows, with a new town hall on the spot of the Golden Magic Butter Creamery, the town of Highlanding might see another age of popularity.

Laverne Vad grew up about a half mile west of the creamery. His family milked 40 some cows on their farm and Laverne remembers making many trips to the creamery. People, he said, used to come here from miles around. There was something about the butter that people craved.

Gunnut Gunstenson owned and operated the Golden Magic Butter Creamery between April 1925 and December 1946. Vad doesn't recall who it was sold to or whether it continued to operate for a time after that. He knows that it eventually ended up in the hands of the Milton Lund family, which used it as a storage shed. More recently it was sold to someone in Oregon, who recently passed away, and then about three months ago the Highlanding Town Board purchased the building. They plan to put a 26-foot by 30-foot structure on it and use the structure as the Highlanding Town Hall.

The current Highlanding Town Hall is just across the gravel road. Vad said an archery club plans to Ernie Swenson takes a last look at the Golden Magic Butter Creamery building in the town of Highlanding. At one time, the building and business was a busy place. The building was razed recently to make way for town hall that will be built on the spot. Several members of the Swenson family, Ernie, Alan, Michael and Aaron, were on hand to help.

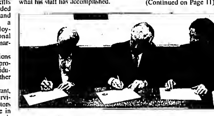
Bits and pieces of history, or someone else's junk cluttered a building in Highlanding. The building that at one time housed a thriving business called the Golden Magic Butter Creamery has been torn down. A new Highlanding Town Hall will be built on the site.

College and ODC receive $372,183 workforce grant

Occupational Development Center Inc. (ODC) will benefit from a two year workforce development partnership grant signed Friday, June 10, at Custom Products, a division of ODC located in Thief River Falls.

The Minnesota Job Skills Partnership (MJSP) awarded Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC) a $372,183 grant to enhance employee skills, develop organizational efficiency, and improve their marketability.



The ODC and its 12 subdivisions throughout northern Minnesota provide job opportunities for individuals who have disabilities or other barriers to employment.

During the course of the grant, about 288 production staff, supervisors, coordinators, forklift operators and job coaches will participate in the continuous improvement, project-based training. Specific training will include welding; manufacturing process development; ergonomics; supply chain; manufacturing systems automation; creating standardized work processes; project management; and new product diversification.

Peter Lavalier, president and CEO of ODC, said this is a testament to what they've attempted to accomplish in the social-entrepreneurial market. Through this grant, he said, they will be able to provide increased opportunities in northern Minnesota to a segment of the population that is typically underserved. He added that he was real proud of what his staff has accomplished.

Paul Moe of Minnesota Job Skills Partnership said that this was an atypical grant because it went to a nonprofit organization. He said that and the fact that $372,183 out of a possible $400,000 was awarded to Northland Community and

Morning Out and other LSS programs help care providers

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

A Lutheran Social Service (LSS) program is giving full-time caregivers the chance to take a break.

The LSS program called Morning Out, part of LSS's Caregiver Support and Respite Program, is held every Tuesday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Riverside Terrace in Thief River Falls. Morning Out is intended to help the care receiver, by providing him/her with a social outlet that he/she desperately needs, while giving care providers the opportunity for a break from the full-time job that is being a care provider.

"It gives the caregiver a break, but the care receiver gets somebody else to talk to also," said Diane Robson, program coordinator of the LSS Caregiver Support & Respite Program.

Typical Morning Out activities include socializing over coffee, crafts, table games and cards, guided reminiscing and discussion, gentle physical exercise, movies and old radio shows and various other activities.

Participation in Morning Out is limited to care receivers over the age of 60, who are ambulatory with minimal assistance, able to participate in group settings and independent in taking medications.

An in-home assessment is done before participants can begin the program. The in-home assessment is used to determine eligibility and a sliding fee, based on the care receiver's financial situation and disability. The sliding fee is based on the income within the household. Said Robson, some people will pay less, some will pay the max.

Respite Care and support groups

Besides morning out, LSS offers two other programs that are intended to alleviate the stress of providing care. Called Respite Care and Respite Plus, the programs offer care providers with the opportunity for a break much like "Morning Out" does. The difference, is the opportunity for care providers to schedule respite care based on one's own schedule.

Robson said respite care is not only available as a break for care providers, but it is very rewarding for the care receiver. Robson gave an example of a care provider who reported that her husband would wait eagerly for his respite volunteer to visit.

The need for respite care providers who can provide short-term respite care services continues. According to Robson, there is no age limit for providers, adding that LSS desperately needs more men to volunteer their services to provide short-term care.

Similar to LSS' basic respite

Allen Knollenberg and Diane Robson, LSS program coordinator are engaged in a fierce game of Rummy during a recent Morning Out Session. The LSS program, Morning Out, offers a change of pace for both caregivers and care receivers. Morning Out meets every Tuesday, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Riverside Terrace in Thief River Falls.

Werren council epproves adult entertelnment ordlnance

Warren - Warren City Council adopted an ordinance regarding location of sexually-oriented businesses at its meeting Tuesday night.

The action follows many weeks of consideration of various approaches to the ordinance.

About a year ago, the council passed a one-year moratorium prohibiting the licensing of businesses such as adult book stores. The moratorium recently expired.

The new ordinance does not prohibit the starting of an adult entertainment business, but it is designed to make it very difficult for a potential adult-oriented business to get started. – Warren Sheaf, June 15.

The Trinity Lutheran Church 100th Anniversary Cookbook (1993) is where today's delicious recipes came from. They're all about meats.

If you need a nice meal for a special dinner, but don't want to roast a whole turkey, this is the recipe for you:

BREAST OF TURKEY ON DRESSING
Bess Lang

1 turkey breast, 4-6 pounds, thawed
1 (8 ounce) package herb seasoned stuffing mix
1 (4 ounce) can sliced mushrooms, drained
1/2 cup shredded carrots
1/4 cup chopped onions

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Wash breast and pat dry. Salt and pepper the underside.

Prepare stuffing according to package. Add remaining ingredients and toss to combine. Mound the dressing on a large piece of foil. Place breast on top. Bring foil up to the edge of the turkey. Crimp tightly around base of turkey.

Place in 9x13 inch pan, brush with butter, and bake at 325 degrees for 2-1/2 to 3 hours. Serves 8-10 people.

If you plan to have ham for that family get-together, roast it with this tangy sauce. It's great for the main meal as well as for tangy sandwiches the next day:

SAUCE FOR HAM
Murray Melgaard

1/4 cup butter
1/4 cup orange juice
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 cup plum jelly
1 tablespoon flour
1/3 cup honey
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/3 teaspoon cloves

Melt butter and add flour, orange juice, honey, brown sugar, spices and jelly. Bring to boil, stirring constantly. Serve, hot over ham or baste ham with sauce while it is baking.

Spicy pork chops might be just the thing to spike those lazy taste buds - use it with chicken too. (I had planned to cook chicken the day I wrote this recipe, and used the same method as this for barbecued chicken legs - delicious):

PORK CHOPS CREOLE
Beverly Holm

4 center cut pork chops
Salt and pepper
1 tablespoon oil
1/3 cup ketchup
1/2 cup water
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon celery seed
3 tablespoons cider vinegar
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon flour

Combine all ingredients except chops, salt, pepper and oil in saucepan. Heat and simmer while chops are browning.

Sprinkle chops lightly with salt and pepper. Brown on both sides in oil in heavy skillet. Remove chops to casserole or baking dish.

Pour hot sauce over chops in baking dish and marinate. Bake, uncovered, at 325 degrees for 1-1/2 hours. turn chops after first hour of baking.

Tip: Brown chops right after breakfast, fix and bake casserole at dinner time.

Nothing tastes better than a good beef roast - unless it is sandwiches the next day. This one sounds so easy:

VERMOUTH AND MUSHROOM GRAVY ROAST
Avis Houm

1 (3-4 pound) beef shoulder or rump
Flour
Pepper
4 tablespoons butter
1/2 envelope dry onion soup mix
1 can golden mushroom soup mix
1/2 cup dry vermouth
1 (4 ounce) can button mushrooms, drained

(You can probably use your Dutch oven for the browning and baking.)

Dredge roast in flour and pepper (no salt needed because soup is salty). Brown meat in butter or shortening (right in the Dutch oven, if you're using it). Put into roaster (or leave in Dutch oven). Combine remaining ingredients and pour over roast. Cover and cook at 325 degrees for 3 hours (or until tender and done to your liking).

Place roast on platter and slice. Adjust gravy thickness.

One more little recipe that the kids will love:

GOLDEN CHICKEN NUGGETS
Kathy Bolstad

1 egg
1/2 cup water
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup flour
1/4 teaspoon season salt
Sesame seeds (optional)
4-5 boneless, skinless chicken breasts

Bake batter of egg, water, salt, flour, season salt and sesame seeds. Cut chicken into 1 inch cubes, dip in batter and fry until golden brown.

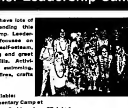
For more information, contact LaVerne Hamre, at 686-4722, or Pennington County Fair Board representative.



TRF Drivers Watch for Detour!

Berzen Avenue in Thief River Falls will be closed to traffic beginning Monday. Berzen Avenue, which is located behind Digi-Key and Arctic Cat, is heavily traveled. Employees and residents who use Berzen Avenue are asked to take some time to plan alternate routes and add a little time to their travel plans because of the construction. According to Ron Lindberg, public works director in Thief River Falls, Mark Il of Fosston, the general contractor on the project, believe it will take a couple of weeks to complete construction. Lindberg said they plan to lower the profile of the road by two feet, re-slope the ditches, and put bituminous paving on it to bring it up to a nine-ton route.

Middle River to host all-school reunion June 24-26

Middle River will host an all-school reunion June 24-26. Registrations are still being accepted.

Letters were mailed to alumni along with a registration form. If there are alumni or teachers who didn't receive a letter, contact Arlys at (218) 222-3310 or alumni@middleriverreunion.com. As of June 13, organizers had received registrations from over 450 alumni, with a few more coming in each day.

Among the activities planned that weekend is a Texas Scramble golf tournament on Friday, June 24 at 11 a.m. at the Karlstad Golf Club. It is open only to graduates of Middle River and their spouses. The first 24 paid four-person teams will be accepted. Contact Leland at (218) 222-3223 to register.

A quilt show will be hosted Friday from 3 to 6 p.m. at the Community Center. In addition, registration will be held from 6 to 9 p.m. in the lobby of the school. Classrooms will be available for individual class get-togethers at that time. Memorabilia will be on display at the school at that time.

On Saturday, June 25, the Steve Holmes Memorial Walk-a-thon will start at the Community Center at 8 a.m. This is a fundraiser for the Steve Holmes Memorial Hiking/Biking Trail to be constructed in Middle River. To participate in the four-mile walk, contact Janice at (218) 459-3435 or Danny at (218) 222-3376 for pledge envelopes or to make donations.

In addition, school tours will be held at 9 and 10 a.m., and 1 and 2 p.m. Saturday. The all-school choir will practice at 10 a.m., and the all-school band will practice at 11 a.m. Organizers are seeking more entries for the all-school band and choir. The band will be playing "Anchors Aweigh." If you are in need of an instrument or would like the music ahead of time to practice, call Arlys at (218) 222-3310.

Children's games will be held at the school from 12 to 2 p.m. Parade entries will start lining up at 1:30 p.m. behind the school, and the all-school parade is scheduled to start at 3 p.m. Alumni who are veterans of the armed forces are reminded they are asked to march together in the parade. Transportation will be provided for those unable to walk the parade route.

After the parade, volleyball games will be held near the American Legion post from 5 to 8 p.m. Teams will consist of three guys, three girls and are open to all ages. Pre-registration by June 22 is required. Call Lorie at (218) 222-3413 to register a team.

A free throw shooting contest is scheduled at 5 p.m. Saturday. City tours will be held at 5 and 6 p.m. The street dance and light show with Ultimate Entertainment will be held from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m.

On Sunday, Garden Cafe will serve brunch at the school from 9 a.m to 1 p.m. An ecumenical church service will be held at the school at 10:30 a.m. with the all-school choir performing.

For more information, e-mail alumni@middleriverreunion.com.

Seamless Aluminum Guttering Heating, Air Conditioning
378-4641 378-4585

Our Seamless gutters are manufactured from .032 gauge pre painted aluminum, the heaviest gauge used in the industry. If your home is 20 feet or 200 feet in length our seamless gutter is made in one continuous length, eliminating any joints or seams in the middle. Inquire before you purchase "Seamless Gutter" about the thickness of the material used and be certain that it is made in one continuous length.

Seamless gutter is formed, cut and installed on site by a two-man crew...saving on labor cost. Freight charges are eliminated. Waste is almost unheard of due to gutter being measured and cut on site to exact lengths. No need to store left over odds and ends that get damaged before they can be used. Most jobs can be completed the same day. Call us for complete information and free estimates of your job at no obligation to you.

The congregation and friends of Telemarken Lutheran Church, which is located seven miles south of Goodridge, will observe the centennial anniversary of the formation of the church on Sunday, June 26 with a service at 10:30 a.m. and a program at 2 p.m.

Telemarken Lutheran Church observes Centennial

Telemarken Lutheran Church, located seven miles south of Goodridge, will observe its centennial anniversary on Sunday, June 26, with a service at 10:30 a.m. and a program at 2 p.m. The morning speaker will be Rev. Elden Nelson, vice president of the Association of Free Lutheran Congregations. In the afternoon, there will be written and oral greetings given. Both events will include special musical numbers.

A catered noon lunch will be served to all. During the afternoon program, an anniversary cake and coffee will be served.

The day will also mark the closing of Telemarken, which was organized in 1904, at the Halvor Waale home in Kratka Township. The present church was completed in 1920. Members of the church will be transferring to congregations of their own choice.

All interested friends are invited to come and share in this historic day at Telemarken. Rev. Raynard Huglen, Newfolden, has served the congregation for the past 26 and one-half years.

Nominations for Outstanding Seniors being sought

Nominations from Pennington County residents are now being solicited for Outstanding Senior Citizen awards.

Both a man and a woman who are 70 by August 1 will be selected for this award. Winners of the award will be selected because of their outstanding community involvement, and service to others in the county. Winners of the award will be honored at the Pennington County Fair on Friday, July 15, at a special program in the curling building.

Winners will receive special certificates from the Governor, and their names and applications will be submitted to the Minnesota Board on Aging for the state process for the Outstanding Senior Citizens in the State.

Persons wishing to make nominations for the county awards can obtain official nomination blanks by calling Cliff Larson at 681-1190, or Norma Hanson at 378-4380. Nomination forms may also be obtained at the Heritage Community Center in Thief River Falls.

The deadline for submitting nomination forms is June 29. Once completed, they should be mailed to either Cliff Larson of Thief River Falls, or Norma Hanson of Goodridge.

Midsommar Fest will be held June 22 in Lancaster

Agassiz Swedish Heritage Society's annual Midsommar Fest will be on Wednesday, June 22 in Lancaster. The Swedish heritage program will begin with decorating the maypole and dancing around it to the rhythms of music. This will take place in the city park on Highway 59, beginning with the decorating of the maypole under the direction of Lyndon Johnson of Hallock at 1 p.m. ASHS members are asked to bring greens and flowers to decorate the maypole.

Music will be provided by the Stanley Visness family of Karlstad for the traditional ring dances. Treats will be provided by ASHS members following the ring dances. Anyone interested in taking part in this traditional midsommar event which marks the summer solstice and the time when Gustav Vasa, the national liberator, entered Stockholm in 1523, is cordially invited to join in the festivity. Raising the flower bedecked maypole will be about 2 p.m.

The ASHS event is being piggy-backed with the Sion Lutheran Church of Lancaster, which is serving its annual smorgasbord supper, beginning at 4:30 p.m. About 500 people have been served in recent years, with the menu consisting of meatballs and ham, lefse, herring, special cheeses, Finnish bread, Norwegian rommegrot and other Scandinavian goodies.

Junior golf offered in June

The Swenson Endowment Fund is offering a junior golf program this June at the Thief River Golf Club.

Golf will be offered Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. The sessions are scheduled from 8:30 to 11 a.m. On June 13, introductions will be said and participants will learn the basics in groups. With 35 minutes at each, learning stations will be held June 15, 17, 20 and 22. June 24 is the mini-tournament with lunch to follow. Volunteers are needed.

The blue group will include 7- to 8-year-olds (beginners). The yellow group will include 9- to 10-year-olds. The tan group will include 11- to 13-year-olds (advanced golfers).

There is a limit of 20 golfers per group. There will be some golf clubs for students to use. Golfers are encouraged to bring all golf clubs each week. The cost is $20 for beginners and advanced golfers. The cost includes lessons, a hat, range balls, the mini-tournament and the lunch on June 24.

Lessons will be taught with two things in mind: Learn how to play golf and have fun. Tommy Greelis, Joseph Haj, Lee Peterson and Shane Peterson are the instructors.

To register, go to Community Education, 230 LaBree Ave. S., Thief River Falls.

Initial claims for unemployment benefits increase in April

Minnesota Department of Employment and Economic Development Commissioner Matt Kramer recently announced that the number of initial claims for unemployment benefits filed in April rose by more than 2,400 from one year ago – an increase of 13.3 percent on a seasonally adjusted basis.

On a seasonally adjusted basis, the number of initial claims filed in April rose over the prior month by 6.3 percent – an increase of more than 1,400 over March.

As has occurred frequently in recent months, temporary layoffs in the manufacturing industry account for essentially all of the increase in initial claims filed. New claims due to permanent separations from employment are actually down by 800 over April of last year.

"With most other sectors of the economy showing improvements over one year ago, I am optimistic that the manufacturing industry in Minnesota will soon rebound, offsetting the increase due to temporary furloughs," Kramer said.

Karlstad EDA awarded Rural Development funds

U.S. Rep. Collin Peterson (D-7th Dist.) has announced that the Karlstad Economic Development Authority has been awarded a USDA Rural Business Enterprise Grant of $88,959.

The grant will be used to create a revolving loan fund for two businesses in the Karlstad area that will create or save 13 jobs. The businesses that will use the loans are The Variety Store, that opened after a local drug store closed, and the Black Bear Grill, which needed additional seating.

"I'm very supportive of the Karlstad EDA's efforts to provide these loans to local business," Peterson said. "Their work will help two important business to continue providing necessary services to the community. Thanks to the hard work of the EDA, and also the work of Karl Frigaard who wrote the application, this fund will be an important tool in future economic development."

Is there something you regret?

Can't imagine finding anyone who hasn't done something while intoxicated that they haven't regretted later. Judging by the number of consumption under age charges being filed lately, not much has changed over the years. It seems youth still have to learn that lesson on their own. On the other hand, and in the event that it's still possible for them to learn by reading, here's an interesting story - an extreme example - but an example of what you don't want to happen, nevertheless.

An AP story in the Grand Forks Herald recently detailed reports of a 17-year-old male from Roseville Area High School who was killed by a single punch while trying to calm his assailant. Interestingly, just before he was hit, the youth who was killed had told his assailant, "You're drunk just let it go. Don't do something you'll regret in the morning." The assailant broke free from others who were holding him back and punched the victim once in the face. The victim fell to the ground and died.

There's nothing in the story, other than the victim's comments, to show that the assailant was intoxicated. At least, we're not provided any proof. The assailant is understandably distraught. "How can that be?", he said. And then he told the investigator, "I'm not a murderer." It's a sad story, and gets even sadder because he has been charged with first-degree manslaughter.

I think there's a lesson or two about personal responsibility in this story.

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Kiffmeyer applauds passage of Help America Vote Act bill

Secretary of State Mary Kiffmeyer applauds the passage of the Help America Vote Act (HAVA) Bill HF 874, signed by Gov. Tim Pawlenty on June 3 and authored by Rep. Laura Brod and Sen. Linda Higgins.

"This is landmark legislation that authorizes the use of federal money efficiently to pay 100 percent of the cost of new election equipment for cities and townships that gives every single voter privacy, independence and the benefit of technology to detect errors before the voter casts their ballot," said Kiffmeyer.

For the first time in Minnesota, as required by the federal HAVA law, this same equipment will give individuals with disabilities the ability to vote independently and privately under HF 874. Kiffmeyer said, "It is so encouraging to know that in our federal elections, starting with the state primary and state general elections for 2006 in Minnesota, all our citizens, especially those with special needs, will be able to vote in the same manner as the rest of us take for granted."

This bill provides $35 million in federal funds to buy voting equipment and includes money to pay initial operating costs for each polling place in the state of Minnesota. The federal law requires states and local units of government to keep their spending on elections at the same level as the fiscal year 2000 to make sure that the federal money was added on top of the necessary spending by state and local governments for elections.

"I am glad to have the assistance of the federal money to help close the gap and get all of Minnesota into proper statewide standards of election equipment that formerly only the metro and large cities had," Kiffmeyer said.

The federal money is available for the purchase of assistive voter technology for voters with a disability, operating costs of that equipment and for the purchase of precinct optic scan voting equipment. In very small precincts, a single piece of equipment could serve all the voters, and in larger precincts, the needs of the voters may require two pieces of equipment. The use of this equipment will reduce the number of spoiled ballots at the general election and will be especially helpful in primary elections where the error rate in partisan primaries is much higher due to voters voting for more than one political party.

Minnesota is poised to meet the federal mandate starting with the next round of state primary and general elections in 2006 and then adding local election starting Jan. 1, 2008. Each county is required to have a countywide plan developed by a committee of local election officials and approved by county commissioners that gives all voters this standard of equal treatment in how ballots are cast. Local jurisdictions currently have authority to have combined polling places with up to four precincts working together for cost-effective and efficient use of shared equipment when it serves the voters to do so.

"I know that all local jurisdictions will carefully consider the needs of their citizens in making their countywide plan," said Kiffmeyer.

The secretary of state will have additional authority to allow more than four precincts in a polling place, polling places with more than one county involved and non-contiguous precincts in their county plan.

"Sometimes the road and driving patterns of local citizens needs a plan that state law cannot always anticipate, so I am grateful for the additional authority to assist in serving the needs of voters in local areas," Kiffmeyer said.

Funding is also provided to continue improvements to the Statewide Voter Registration System to provide voter registration data to cities and towns, to provide voter education on new equipment and for other election improvements and HAVA administrative expenses.

The Office of the Secretary of State is in the process of developing a request for proposals to solicit bids on the purchase of voting equipment. A state master contract is to be established from which counties and municipalities would purchase their equipment after submission for review by the secretary of state of their local equipment plans. These plans must be completed no later than Sept. 15 or 45 days after state equipment certification.

HF 874 authorizes the secretary of state to form an Election Equipment Advisory Committee to advise the secretary of state in reviewing and evaluating the merits of proposals submitted from voting equipment vendors for the state contracts.

During this same time, the work of certification of new voting equipment will take place as vendors submit their equipment for review to the Dffice of the Secretary of State.

Feelin' Fit 'N Fine scorecard contest held in five county area

The public health departments in Kittson, Roseau, Marshall, Pennington and Red Lake Counties are promoting an eight-week contest this summer to encourage healthy behaviors among children. These departments, along with Quin Community Health Services in Newfolden recently surveyed area residents to find out their public health priorities.

The assessment found that area residents are concerned about childhood healthy eating, physical activity and healthy behaviors, in addition to other issues. One of the ways public health is addressing these concerns is to implement a fun contest for school-aged kids that promotes a variety of healthy behaviors, while awarding prizes. The contest will take place this summer, over eight weeks from June 13 to Aug. 5.

The contest goes like this: each school-aged child has received a scorecard with 24 squares on it. Each time they complete a qualifying activity, parents or personnel at scorecard sites can initial a square and specify the activity. Scorecard sites include summer recreation programs, pools, childcare centers, camps or schools. Once all the squares are filled, students can bring their scorecard into on of the prize pick up locations and pick out a prize. The scorecard will then be entered into a weekly drawing for the eight-week program. Additional scorecards can be picked up at prize pick up locations. At the end of eight weeks, students from each of the five counties, with the most completed scorecards will receive a grand prize.

Activities include sports, bike riding, skateboarding, dancing, attending summer camps or school, watching no television in a day, wearing a bike helmet, wearing a seat belt, cutting out consumption of pop, gardening, eating five-nine servings of fruits and vegetables a day, active in games and mowing the lawn to name a few. The prize pick up locations in Marshall County are: North Valley Home Health in Warren, Greenbush/Middle River School in Middle River, Grygla School in Grygla, Stephen-Argyle Central School Stephen site, Inter-County Nursing in Thief River Falls and the basement of the Red Lake County Courthouse.

Six candidates vying for Miss Marshall County

Sabrina Gullemette

Teria Anderson

Lisa Widner

Sarah Lynn Huener

Jordan Holthusen

Brittany Johnston

The 20th Annual Miss Marshall County Scholarship Pageant will feature six candidates vying for the title on June 26 in Warren's school auditorium. Candidates for the event, which begins at 4 p.m., include Teria Anderson of Grygla, Sabrina Guillemette of Argyle, Jordan Holthusen of Viking/Newfolden, Sarah Huener of Middle River, Brittany Johnston of Angus/Warren, and Lisa Widner of Stephen.

This year's theme is "In My Daughter's Eyes."

The winner of the pageant will compete in the Miss Minnesota Scholarship Pageant in June of 2006. These events are part of the Miss America program and include competition in talent, interview, evening gown, swimming suit, casual wear, and on-stage presence.

Mark Allen of KTRF Radio, Thief River Falls, will be the master of ceremonies.

Candidate profiles

Sabrina Guillemette is the daughter of Dick and Delores Guillemette of Argyle. The 2005 graduate of Stephen/Argyle Central High School plans to attend the University of North Dakota and focus on a major in chemistry.

As a high school student, Sabrina was awarded several awards and honors including the President's Award for Educational Excellence, the National Scholar/Athlete Award, Academic Excellence Award, the Academic All-State Award, and was named to the National Honor Roll. She has received a Marshall Manor Good Samaritan Center Educational Scholarship, Cenex/Farmers Union Oil Educational Scholarship, Sister Mary John Memorial Scholarship, Hogberg-Gerszewski Post 353 Legion and Legion Auxiliary Scholarship.

She was a 2004 Girls State Representative, Captain of the basketball team, Captain of the track team, speaker at the Drug Prevention Program, leader at Quest Retreat, Yearbook Editor, and is currently the president of Post 353 Argyle American Legion Junior Auxiliary.

She was also involved in numerous music and athletic competitions and activities. She also has been a Web page designer and had roles in school musicals.

Her talent number for the Miss Marshall County Pageant will be "Nocturne" from "A Midsummer's Nights' Dream," a french horn solo.

She is a certified nursing assistant at Marshall Manor Good Samaritan Center, a waitress at the Farmer Dell Steakhouse and Lounge and has been doing a chemical inventory at Stephen-Argyle Center.

Her platform is on "Problems with Underage Drinking." If chosen as Miss Marshall County 2005, she will speak to young people on the consequences of drinking.

Teria Anderson of Grygla will sing "Breakaway" as her talent number for the Miss Marshall County Talent competition. Teria is the daughter of Duane Sletten and Kim Sletten. She is a graduate of Grygla School who hopes to acquire an associates degree in nursing. She has completed nusing assistant classes, was a special education student's peer teacher and has assisted students in meeting their IEP goals.

In high school, Teria was a Minnesota Girls State representative, student council secretary-treasurer, yearbook editor, newspaper editor, and member of honor choir. She received several awards as a high school cheerleader.

Her scholastic achievements include Who's Who Among American High School Students, Who's Who Among American High School Students - Sports Edition, Northland College General Scholarship, and Young Poets of America.

She worked as a production worker at Marvin Winows and Doors during the summer of 2004, and as a waitress at Diamonds in 2003.

Her platform, "Prevention of Fetal Alcohol Syndrome" is based on her experience and interest with students with this problem. Her goal as Miss Marshall County would be to inform expectant mothers of the dangers of drinking while pregnant, and to inform the public of Fetal Alcohol Syndrome.

Lisa Widner is the 18-year-old daughter of Neil and Leslie Widner and will represent Stephen in the June 26 pageant.

Widner graduated from Stephen/Argyle Central High School in the spring as an honor student. She plans to attend North Dakota State University this fall.

For her talent performance during the pageant, she will sign a Broadway tune, "Vanilla Ice Cream" from "She Loves Me." She has a strong musical background that includes playing three instruments, composing music and performing at weddings, church services and community events. She recently performed her senior recital at the Stephen Arts Center.

Her accomplishments during school include numerous vocal music awards, and academic achievements. She was on the A honor roll in grades 9-12, was a Minnesota Girls State delegate, a member of the Junior Engineering Technology Society, and a DARE role model. She also has achieved several athletic accomplishments, including track team captain, football cheerleading captain, several track awards, and a member of a record-setting 4x200 meter relay team.

She received scholarships from the Stephen Arts Council, Stephen Lions Club and Stephen American Legion.

She has worked on Widner Farms for six years as a landscaper and operator of large equipment. She also teaches Sunday School at her church.

Alzheimer's Awareness is her chosen platform topic, believing knowledge will help alleviate her fear of this disease. Being Miss Marshall County would allow her to share information with families and victims.

Sarah Lynn Huener is the daughter of Joel and Cindy Huener of Middle River. She is a graduate of Greenbush-Middle River High School and is attending the University of Minnesota, Twin Cities Campus. She is seeking a bachelor's degree in graphic design with a minor in Business Management.

She is a University of Minnesota admissions ambassador, a Habitat for Humanity volunteer, and was awarded the University of Minnesota Northern Star Leadership Award. Sarah was on the University of Minnesota College of Human Ecology dean's list fall 2004 and spring 2005. She has received the University of Minnesota Presidential Scholarship; Jay and Rose Phillips Scholarship; Trident Scholarship, Middle River Community Theater Scholarship; Middle River Community Club Scholarship, Middle River Legion Post #444 Scholarship; and Garden Memorial Scholarship.

She was a officer of the student council, a Target Team member, and on the school newspaper staff while in high school. She had a lead role in a high school musical, was Dne Act Play Subsection Runner-up, and was a vocal and instrumental Solo and Ensemble State Star Winner. She designed sets for high school and community theater, developed and applied window design for Middle River Community Theater, and had early admittance into the Graphic Design Program through successful completion of her Portfolio Review.

Sarah was named Miss Middle River in 2003 and was the personal interview winner. She has choreographed show numbers for the Miss Middle River Pageant and created pageant backdrops. She has been employed by Nelson Ink Promotional Products and Freelance Mural Painting.

She will sing a Broadway number "Roxie" in the talent competition. Her platform is "Giving Back" which encourages today's youth to be volunteers in their community.

Jordan Holthusen, the current Miss Newfolden, will represent Newfolden and Viking in the Miss Marshall County Pageant. She is the daughter of Gene and Jodie Holthusen of Viking and a graduate of Marshall County Central High School.

Jordan is attending the University of North Dakota (UND) at Grand Forks, where she is pursuing a master's d gree in communication sciences and disorders. She is on UND's dean's list, and the National Society of Collegiate Scholars. She is a member of the University of North Dakota women's basketball team.

She was also a member of the National Honor Society in High School, where she received the AAA-Arts, Athletics, and Academics Award. While in high school she participated in basketball, volleyball, and track; was cheerleading captain, student body leadership council member, student council treasurer, class officer and basketball coach for grade school children. She received Star Rating for four years in vocal solo competition and was named MVP for volleyball two years, basketball two years and track for four years. She was All Conference in volleyball and basketball for three years and was named National Scholar Athlete. She had a role as "Dorothy" in the "Wizard of Dz" musical.

She has been coaching assistant for UND basketball camps; grounds keeper for New Solum Township and a waitress at the Hobo Haus Bar and Grill. She teaches Sunday School and is a volunteer for the Grand Forks school district.

Jordan chose a vocal selection for the talent competition. Her platform is "Connecting the Generations", with the goal of bridging the gap between the generations and teaching children and elderly the importance of connecting with one another.

Brittany Johnston will represent the Warren community in the Miss Marshall County Scholarship Pageant. She is the daughter of Kathy and Todd Johnston of Angus. Her talent entry will be a dance number to "Ain't She Sweet."

Brittany will be in her second year at Texas Christian University (TCU), where she is pursuing a bachelor of science degree, majoring in interior design with a minor in art.. She is a graduate of Warren/Alvarado/Oslo High School.

She was valedictorian of her graduating class and a member of Warren/Alvarado/Oslo high school National Honor Society. She received the All State Academic Award for Track; Arts-Athletics-Academics Award; Lyle Engelstad Scholarship; Warren Education Foundation Scholarship; and Pony Booster Scholarship. She was a four-time Minnesota State Track Qualifier; Warren/Alvarado/Dslo high school record holder; an officer of Warren/Alvarado/Dslo high school student council and honor society.

She has also won awards and honors at Texas Christian University, receiving TCU Academic Scholarship, TCU dean's list; TCU Scholar, and is a National Society of Collegiate Scholars Member. She is a member of TCU Chi Alpha Leadership, leader of the youth gathering "Unquenched"; winner of First Annual TCU Hunger Week 5K Walk/Run; and organizer of TCU's Sherley Dormitory donation for Fort Worth's Women's Haven.

Brittany was born and raised on a dairy farm and was 2004 Polk County Dairy Princess. She was Little Miss Warren in 1992. She has taken 10 years of dancing lessons with Nancy Pasley Ballet Studio. She teaches Sunday School, works at the Warren Food Shelf, and especially enjoys preparing for marathons, which raise funds for those with needs.

Her platform essay is "Living Beyond Yourself- Encouraging Volunteerism." As a volunteer worker for her community and school, she stresses the importance of participation which encourages teamwork, self-discipline and motivation.

Team awards were presented to five Prowlers following completion of the 2005 high school softball season. The group included, from left, Kindra Trontvet, top offensive player and co-most valuable player, DD Rambeck, top defensive player; Megan Berg, co-most valuable player; Chasity Johnson, recipient of the Prowler Award; and Brittni Johnson, most improved.

Thief River Falls 2005 high school softball awards...

Berg, Trontvet named co-MVP

Thief River Falls pitcher/catcher combination of Megan Berg and Kindra Trontvet shared most valuable player honors when the Prowlers announced team awards for the 2005 high school softball season.

Trontvet was also named the Prowlers' top offensive player.

Other special recognition went to DD Rambeck, named the team's top defensive player; Brittni Johnson, most improved; and Chasity Johnson, recipient of the Prowler Award.

Thief River Falls finished 17-6 this spring. The Prowlers were 5-1 in the Agassiz Conference, where they matched the point total of Badger/Greenbush-Middle River, but conceded the pennant to the 4-0 Gators.

Berg, Trontvet and Jamie Hoglo were Thief River Falls all-conference selections, with Allyson Helling listed as honorable mention.

Available to qualifying seniors, academic all-state status went to Berg, Kayla Gallagher, Jenny Grove and Angie Blom.

It was a banner spring for the Prowlers, who finished with a winning record for the fifth straight year and reached the North Sub-Section 8AAA finals for the first time. The 17 victories were the most wins for the Prowlers under Matt Okeson, the team's head coach the past seven seasons.

"It was no secret," said Okeson. "We thought we'd be one of the top three or four teams in North 8AAA, along with Brainerd, Bemidji and Fergus Falls. "The girls played well. I told them all year we couldn't afford to lose two in a row, and we never did."

After three straight years of 0-2 double-elimination post-season showings, the Prowlers had an extended tournament run this spring when they beat Detroit Lakes 3-0, handled Little Falls 10-0, lost to Brainerd 7-0; and edged Bemidji 1-0 to set up a rematch with Brainerd in the North Sub-Section 8AAA finals. Brainerd won the second game, too, 2-0.

"It was exciting to be in the finals, " noted Okeson. "We got some lucky breaks as the season went along; got the big hits; and made the plays when we needed them."

There were seven seniors on this year's roster: Berg, Trontvet, Gallagher, Grove, Blom, Shayla Torrell and Trudy Erickson.

The loss of probably the best battery combination in the area will certainly be felt, acknowledged Okeson. Berg finished her high school pitching career with 612 strike-outs. Trontvet not only caught Berg's zippy fast ball, she threw out runners on a regular basis and carried a .381 batting average this spring.

"We'll miss Megan and Kindra, no doubt, along with the rest of the upperclassmen who provided senior leadership," said Okeson.

Seven starters are scheduled to return, including Kjelsy Loeffler, Helling, Hoglo and Rambeck in the infield; Brittni Johnson, Chasity Johnson and Amanda Timm in the outfield. Helling was the Prowlers' No. 2 pitcher this spring.

Earning Agassiz Conference honors during the 2005 high school softball season were four Thief River Falls players. The all-conference Prowlers included, from left, Jamie Hoglo, Kindra Trontvet, Megan Berg and Allyson Helling, an honorable mention pick.

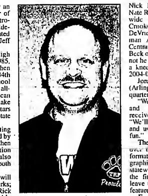
Mumm ready for all-star game

■ Prowlers' coach to lead Outstate football team

Being named head coach for an all-star game isn't just a matter of showing up for the pre-game introductions, then standing on the sidelines watching a bunch of talented athletes "do their thing." Not for Jeff Mumm.

Thief River Falls' head high school football coach since 1985, Mumm was honored this year when he was selected to coach in the 34th annual Minnesota High School Football Coaches Association all-star game. Mumm's American Express Outstate All-Stars will take on the NovaCare Metro All-Stars Saturday, June 25, at St. Cloud State University. Game time is 7 p.m.

The contest features graduating seniors who were first nominated by their respective coaches, and then chosen by a statewide selection committee. The committee also picked the coaching staff for both teams.



Mumm's Outstate assistants will be Bruce Nelson, East Grand Forks; Bryan Olson, Sauk Centre; Rick Theisen, Rocori; Bill Hudspith, Esko; and Carl Fruechte, Caledonia.

Mike Korten of Champlin Park is the head coach of the Metro squad.

"I was overwhelmed when I was told that I had been selected," said Mumm, who looks at the appointment as a reflection upon the Thief River Falls program, and a tribute to the Prowlers' reputation as a quality football team. "I need to thank my coaches, past and present, this community for allowing me to coach their sons, and especially the players. I wouldn't be coaching this game if it wasn't for them. They win, I don't."

An opportunity to coach in an all-star game doesn't come around that often, and Mumm has been busy making sure it's a memorable experience for his players and coaches. Since first learning of his selection in March, he has been busy corresponding with the 42 players on his team while meeting on a regular basis with members of his staff.

Mumm will and his coaches will run the players through four hours of practice each day Sunday-through-Friday at Gustavus Adolphus College in St. Peter leading up to the Saturday game.

Jeff Mumm

They will be working with quite a collection of football talent. Every one of the players on the Outstate team will be playing college football this fall. "I didn't realize just how talented these kids are until I started reading their bios that I had them fill out," explained Mumm. "They're all big, fast, multi-sports athletes. It should be a lot of fun working with them."

A week's worth of practice might not work out all the kinks, but Mumm says the talent should compensate for cohesiveness that develops between high school teammates. "There might be some confusion relating to terminology," he acknowledged, "but these guys are the best of the best, and they should pick it up quickly."

Some special rules are used to help simplify things for the players and coaches. Teams are limited to four offensive formations, one basic defense and one goal line defense. You cannot blitz. And the two teams share their offensive and defensive information with each other.

Area players on the 2005 Outstate roster include quarterback Nick Mertens and wide receiver Nate Rambeck of East Grand Forks; wide receiver Kenley Wahlin, Crookston; defensive back Levi DeVries, Mahnomen; offensive lineman Andrew Urbaniak, Kittson Central, and defensive lineman Dan Beck of Pelican Rapids. Wahlin will not be able to play, however, due to a knee injury suffered late in the 2004-05 basketball season.

Jordan Berg of Sibley East (Arlington) is the other Outstate quarterback.

"We have two great quarterbacks and some outstanding wide receivers," pointed out Mumm. "We'll go with the spread offense and use the shotgun. It should be fun."

The Outstate has a 13-10 edge over the Metro since the original format was switched to create a geographical rivalry and increase statewide attention. This year marks the first time the game site will leave the metro area and will also feature the series' first night contest.

Four Thief River Falls players have been selected for the summer contest: Tony Dorn Jr. (1973), Nick Chiodo (1996), Matt Myers (2000) and Trent Christensen (2002). All four were on winning teams.

"It should be an interesting week," said Mumm. From talking to people involved in the event in the past, and in the feedback he has received from this year's players, the opportunity to meet and greet new people, and the chance to form new friendships is one of the highlights of all-star week.

Mumm's biggest challenge and greatest reward as a coach is developing team concept, and that will be the goal, too, during his one-week stint with the Outstate squad. "The all-star football game is so much different than the other all-star games," he said. "Why? In the other sports, an athlete or two can control the game. In football, you need to have 11 people doing the same thing on offense and defense if you're going to be successful. We have to put in a new offense and defense in one week. Can we do it? Can it be done? I'll let you know when I get back."

Bemidji beats Post 117 twice

An offense that stalled out near the end of the spring high school baseball season is still struggling in the early portion of Thief River Falls' 2005 summer Legion campaign.

Minus two top hitters – Michael Benedict and Lucas Genereux – due to other commitments, Post 117 mustered just 10 hits and six runs in a doubleheader at Bemidji Wednesday. Without much pop in his line-up, Thief River Falls coach Courtney Skjeren watched his team lose two, 9-4 and 4-2.

Scheduled to compete in the East Grand Forks Invitational this weekend, the 3-3 Post 117 squad will be back at the Thief River Falls Multi-Events Center for a 6 p.m. Tuesday doubleheader against Detroit Lakes.

care, Respite Plus is available for families whose loved ones are more medically fragile and need more than just a friendly visitor. According to Robson, the Respite Plus program screens and trains people who have prior experience working with medically fragile individuals. Most respite workers in the program have CNA training, are RNs or LPNs, have worked in nursing homes or have experience doing in-home care for families.

LSS also offers support groups for caregivers, including one that meets at Trinity Lutheran Church on the second Monday each month, beginning at 10 a.m.

"Basically its a safe place to go and discuss what you as a caregiver are going through," Robson said. "And if you want to just listen, that's fine."

Robson said it is common for people in this part of the state to be stubborn when asking for help, but wonders, "If you can't take care of yourself, how can you take care of that loved one."

The support group meetings are aimed at keeping care providers mentally and physically healthy, which often means the care provider can continue caring for his/her loved ones much longer than without support.

"We want to make it possible that the care receiver can stay at home longer, because they do much better in their home environment," Robson said.

Caregiver's story

Dory Vevea, president of the seven county LSS Caregiver Support and Respite Advisory board, has been a volunteer care provider for LSS since its respite care programs began six years ago. Prior to that she was a 38-year employee of Norwest Bank and a full-time care provider for her late husband, Lloyd, who was home bound for nine years.

"I went to the first meeting and then I never missed," Vevea said. She said caregiver support group meetings offer caregivers a chance to speak their mind or just listen. "You can say what you want and if you don't want to say anything, you don't have to."

Vevea said caring for her husband was hard physically but very easy emotionally, but admitted that others may find caring for a loved one emotionally difficult. She wishes more people would attend the support group meetings, because of the opportunity for care providers to share stories with one another that let them know they are not alone. The meetings can also be beneficial for providers who are caring for someone who is mad at his/her situation and takes out their frustrations on their caregiver.

Like Robson, Vevea encourages men to volunteer for respite care and participate in caregiver support group meetings. She used her husband's case as an example. Friends of Lloyd would see Vevea at the grocery store and ask how's Lloyd doing. She would give a report of Lloyd's health and suggest that his friends stop by to visit sometime. Most times they didn't.

Again using her husband's case as an example, Vevea said that there are many cases where a wife is caring for her husband, that would be benefited by a male respite care volunteer.

"I wish we could encourage more men to participate in the programs," Vevea said. "I wish more men would [volunteer]. With Lloyd there was me and we had nurses, but no men."

Lloyd succumbed to Beijing Flu after a nine-year battle on Nov. 28, 2002. Vevea is again caring for a loved one in the Fargo-Moorhead area.

The LSS Caregiver Support and Respite Program is funded with federal funds through the Older Americans Act, which is administered by the Minnesota Board on Aging and the Land of the Dancing Sky Area Agency on Aging.

For more information on LSS caregiver programs, contact Diane Robson, program coordinator of the LSS Caregiver Support and Respite programs, 532 Merriam Ave. So., Thief River Falls, MN 56701; call 218-681-2885; or e-mail drobson@lssmn.org.

4,000 Minnesotans hospitalized each year for traumatic brain injuries

The Minnesota Department of Health (MDH) recently released a six-year report on hospitalizations for traumatic brain injury (TBI), a public health issue that frequently creates lifelong disability.

"Most people don't realize the impact of traumatic brain injury because it's a disability that is often invisible," said Dianne Mandernach, Minnesota health commissioner. "This report provides numbers indicating how TBI affects Minnesotans. Most traumatic brain injuries are preventable, and we'll be using the data to plan TBI prevention programs for the state."

TBI is damage to living brain tissue caused by external injury. It may result in temporary or permanent cognitive, physical, behavioral or emotional changes.

Some highlights of the report, covering 1998 to 2003:

- Each year, about 4,000 Minnesotans were hospitalized with a TBI, for a six-year total of 25,328 new cases.
- Unlike other conditions, TBI affects many ages. The peak age groups were infants, for whom the leading cause was falls; youth and young adults, for whom the leading cause was motor vehicle crashes, and older adults, for whom the leading cause was falls.
- The data showed an increase in TBIs in Minnesota over the six years. Previous national data showed a decreasing trend in TBIs/ Epidemiologists are exploring the possible reasons for the difference between the state and national trends.
- Males were more likely than females to sustain TBIs.
- The correlation between alcohol use and motor vehicle crashes was evident. Where blood alcohol concentration level was reported by hospitals, higher levels were associated with a higher percentage of crashes.
- Although usage of personal protective equipment (helmets for bicyclists and motorcyclists, seat belts for motor vehicle occupants) was not consistently reported, it appears that not wearing helmets was associated with more injuries for motorcyclists and bicyclists.
- The rates of TBI were higher in the seven-county metropolitan area than in Greater Minnesota.
- African Americans and American Indians were hospitalized for TBI more often than their numbers in the population would indicate. Asian Americans, on the other hand, were under-represented.

The Brain Injury Association of Minnesota (BIAM) offers a wide range of resources to brain-damaged Minnesotans through its Resource Facilitation program. The program provides information, resources and access to services and support for children and adults with brain injuries and their families.

"Every brain injury is unique," said Tom Gode, BIAM executive director. "Our program offers flexible services to meet the diverse needs of each individual with a brain injury."

According to Gode, service, support and educational needs for persons with TBI and their families often exist well beyond the time of hospital discharge. To address this need, Resource Facilitation provides support beyond hospital discharge. Persons with a brain injury, their family members and professionals may call BIAM for information about aspects of brain injury, for referral to professionals and services, or for help during a crisis. Consumers are referred to the program at the point of hospital discharge, but they can also self-refer anytime. Interested Minnesotans should call BIAM at 1-800-669-6442.

The MDH report, titled "Nonfatal Hospitalized Traumatic Brain Injury, Minnesota 1998-2003," was produced by the MDH Injury and Violence Unit (IVPU) based on data reported by 133 Minnesota hospitals. The full report can be found online at www.health.state.mn.us/injury/pub/index.cfm.

Lyme disease cases hit record high in 2004, spread to new areas

The number of Minnesota residents contracting Lyme disease hit a record high level in 2004, and the areas where people are most likely to get the tick-borne illness appeared to expand north and westward, state health officials recently said.

A total of 1,023 Lyme disease cases were reported in Minnesota in 2004, according to Minnesota Department of Health (MDH) records, surpassing the previous high number of 867 cases in 2002. Also, a substantial number of Lyme disease cases in 2004 occurred in several counties that have had few reported cases in past years. The new areas are the eastern two-thirds of Becker County, southern Beltrami County, southern Clearwater county, all of Hubbard County, southern Itasca County and eastern Todd County.

"Clearly, the threat of Lyme disease is increasing in Minnesota," said Dr. Harry Hull, state epidemiologist with MDH. "People need to recognize when they are at risk and take steps necessary to protect themselves."

Deer ticks (also called black-legged ticks) carry the bacteria that cause Lyme disease, an illness that can cause debilitating arthritis as well as serious heart and nervous system problems.

"We're approaching the peak time of year for Lyme disease, when the risk of being exposed to the illness is greatest," said David Neitzel, an MDH epidemiologist specializing in diseases carried by ticks and mosquitoes. "Eighty percent of Minnesotans who develop Lyme disease are exposed to infected ticks between mid-May and mid-July."

About 70 percent of the people who get Lyme disease in Minnesota are exposed to it in wooded, brushy areas in 24 central, east-central and southeastern Minnesota counties where deer ticks are commonly found. Most of the other cases involve Minnesota residents who were exposed in western Wisconsin.

Areas in Minnesota where a person is most likely to find deer ticks include Aitkin, Anoka, Becker, Beltrami, Carlton, Cass, Chisago, Clearwater, Crow Wing, Hubbard, Houston, Isanti, Itasca, Kanabec, Mille Lacs, Morrison, Pine, Ramsey, St. Louis, Sherburne, Todd, Wabasha, Washington and Winona counties. Much of the Twin Cities area lies outside of this high-risk zone.

Although deer ticks are typically active from April through October, the weeks between mid-May and mid-July represent the period of greatest activity for the nymph stage of Ixodes scapularis. The ticks are most likely to spread disease during the nymph stage, when they are very small and can feed without being detected.

Deer ticks are smaller and darker in color than the common wood ticks that people may also encounter this time of year. They also lack the wood tick's characteristic white markings, and the back end of the female deer tick is reddish in appearance.

To be protected from tick bites, health officials suggest:

- Knowing when you're in tick habitat – brushy, wooded areas – and that you will need to take precautions. Unless you spend time in wooded areas, simply being in a high-risk county won't place you at risk.
- Using a good tick repellent, such as products containing permethrin (which can be used on clothing) or DEET, and following the manufacturer's directions.
- Wearing clothes that will help to shield you from ticks. Long-sleeved shirts and long pants are best. Tuck your pants into the top of your socks or boots to create a "tick barrier."
- Checking frequently for ticks, and removing them promptly. Ticks actually have to bite you – and remain attached for one to two days – to transmit Lyme disease.
- Removing ticks slowly and gently, using a pair of tweezers. Avoid folk remedies like Vaseline, nail polish remover or burning matches – they are not a safe or effective way to remove ticks.

If you do develop signs or symptoms of a tick-related illness, you should see a physician right away, Neitzel emphasized. One early sign of Lyme disease is a characteristic "bulls-eye" rash, consisting of a reddened area, sometimes with a clear area in the middle, at the original site of the tick bite. The rash may expand in size to cover a very large area (usually greater than two inches) or even appear in several places on other parts of the body.

Not everyone develops the rash, so it's also important to be alert for symptoms of Lyme disease – fever, headache, chills and pain in the muscles or joints – if you've spent time in "tick country" during the past month.

Deer ticks can also transmit two other serious illnesses – human anaplasmosis (HA), formerly known as human granulocytic ehrlichiosis, and babesiosis. The symptoms of HA and babesiosis do not include a rash, but they are otherwise similar to the symptoms of Lyme disease. Symptoms of HA can include a sudden onset of fever of 102 degrees or more, chills, shaking, severe headache and muscle aches. Babesiosis is characterized by high fever, muscle aches, fatigue and loss of appetite. Some people can be infected with more than one disease by the same tick bite. For example, 20 of the 149 HA cases in 2002 also had evidence of Lyme disease.

Minnesota recorded 473 cases of Lyme disease in 2003, compared to 867 cases in 2002. Reports of the illness have been on the increase in recent years. Only 283 cases were reported to MDH as recently as 1999.

During 2004, both HA and babesiosis also increased substantially. There were 139 cases, up from 78 cases of HA in 2003 (the record was 149 cases in 2002). Babesiosis cases reached a new high of nine cases in 2004 (there was one in 2003 and seven in 2002).

More information about Lyme disease and other tick-borne diseases is available at www.health.state.mn.us/divs/idepc/diseases/lyme/) or by calling MDH at (612) 676-5414.

Broken doors, windows and siding, are sad reminders of what at one time housed a thriving business called the Golden Magic Butter Creamery in Highlanding. The building has been torn down to make way for a new Highlanding Town Hall.

Lynn Vad, Laverne's son, said the club has plans to develop some ATV trails from the location, too.

Just as the creamery has a history, so does this building.

Laverne said it was the community's dance hall in the 40's and 50's. At times it was so busy, he said, all of the people couldn't fit in the hall.

At one time, Highlanding was a thriving community. It had a grocery store, a creamery, a dance hall, and two taverns, one of which had a post office. The Postmaster was Andrew Ellingson.

Highlanding is quiet. Except for traffic on Highway 219, fishermen, an occasional dance, and voting at the dance hall/town hall, not much happens in Highlanding today.

Laverne said he isn't sure why the community didn't survive, but suggested that it may have been due to changes in the economy, new roads, and competition from other communities.

Most of Highlanding residents moved away. Laverne returned. He now lives about a quarter mile east of the old creamery.

Ernie Swanson, who was there with his son, and two grandsons, on Thursday, offered that there was quite a rivalry between the Goodridge Creamery and the Golden Magic Butter Creamery, back then.

The Goodridge Co-op Creamery still exists as a business.

Ernie and Laverne suggested that they are getting rid of the old and making way for the new, and younger generation, who were busy in the background preparing the machinery that would raze the building.

Lynn came back from inspecting the building and said there were some items of interest inside. They hauled out an old engine.

Laverne was on hand at the demolition, not only because he lives nearby but because he's a member of the Goodridge Area Historical Society. The organization is active in the area and has restored nine buildings in the Goodridge community. This day, he recovered a motor that will go on display in one of their restored buildings.

Highlanding will be 100 years old next year. Laverne said the new building should be completed in time to be dedicated during the centennial.

Just then, Glen Jensen, a Highlanding Town Board representative, began trenching a ditch for the old building.

Who knows, maybe a new town hall and an active sportsmen's club, will bring a little more life back into Highlanding.

The Golden Magic Butter Creamery occupied an idyllic setting on the Red Lake River and at one time, a good location for a creamery. The building was torn down recently. A new Highlanding Town Hall will be built on the site.

Technical College says a lot for the importance of this project and the College.

James Retka, manufacturing specialist at NCTC, said this was an exciting time for the college and ODC. He explained that the first module of training under this grant was completed last Tuesday. He said he has already seen some real positive things come from this grant, and they were ready for the next level of training.

In a news release issued by the Department of Employment and Economic Development, Commissioner and MJSP board chair, Matt Kramer, said, "This grant will enable the ODC to expand its knowledge base and incorporate best business practices within its organizations to remain competitive. In addition, Northland Community and Technical College will further refine curriculum for the associate of science degree in manufacturing technology."

MJSP offers technical, financial and job training assistance to thousands of businesses, communities, educational institutions and workers. The MJSP board brings businesses with specific education needs together with educational institutions to design customized training programs.

Mesaba selected to continue flights

entitlements. Currently, the Bemidji airport gets $1 million in federal entitlements because it reaches that level of service and enplanements. In comparison, the city of Thief River Falls receives $150,000 per year. If Thief River Falls wants more funds for the airport, it has to compete with all other airports for discretionary funds. And even with discretionary funds, the federal portion will only pay for 95 percent of a project cost.

The order is tentative because Mesaba's proposal to the DOT was for 13 subsidized round trips each week and they will only be subsidized for 12. The carrier has 10 days to accept the department's offer.

Brooks and Plummer air concerns with County Board

Red Lake Falls - The Red Lake County Board heard the concerns of the cities of Brooks and Plummer at its regular meeting June 14.

Plummer Mayor Anne Jaeger came to the meeting with a letter reflecting the views of the council about the jail contract. She stated, "It is our feeling that the citizens of Plummer, most of them being senior citizens and on fixed incomes, would be better served if the county went with the Pennington County jail offer."

Mayor Ernie Kolling and councilman Perry Moriaville of Brooks also stated that they thought the county should consider contracting with the Pennington County Jail. - Oklee Herald, June 23, 2005, by Barb Novak

GF Air Force Base changes would likely have Impact on Warren

Warren - Wednesday and Thursday were big days for Grand Forks, N.D., as community and state leaders tried to convince a federal belt-tightening panel to let the current refueling tanker mission of Grand Forks Air Force Base continue.

The federal Base Realignment and Closure Committee (BRAC) was scheduled to tour military facilities Wednesday. A formal BRAC hearing was scheduled for Thursday.

Warren City Clerk/Treasurer Robert Brooks, who also is a member of the Grand Forks City Council, said he has anecdotal evidence that two to five Warren families have a member who is employed at the air base. He also knows a significant number of other Warren residents are employed in Grand Forks. Potential job losses among these people if the present BRAC proposal goes through would be significant in a small community the size of Warren, he said. - Warren Sheaf, June 23, 2005

"Kandy Kids" – How sweet it is

Greenbush - Have you ever taken notice how the young and the aged relate to one another? It's almost as if there is a sprinkle of magic in the air. That feeling was prevalent last Thursday afternoon when a group of young people made their weekly visit to the residents at the Greenbush Community Nursing Home.

Coming from the Badger, Karlstad, Middle River and Greenbush areas, they are a group of enthusiastic volunteers. Meet the "Kandy Kids."

Instituted at Roseau's Sheltering Oaks last summer, the "Kandy Kids" were up and running here in Greenbush this spring. Between these two places, there are approximately 75 volunteers, ranging from the second through ninth grades, most of them being in the third, fourth and fifth grades.

The "Kandy Kids" are just a portion of what the Roseau Area Hospital and Homes volunteer program offers. Volunteers are also affiliated with Hospice and offer their time at the hospital as well. - The Tribune of Greenbush, June 22, 2005, by Mavis Gonshorowski

Imperial room for the Engelstad Arena

On June 9, Arctic Cat vendors were among the first people inside the nearly-completed Ralph Engelstad Arena Imperial Room. Work continues on an operable wall that was installed this month. The room's four chandeliers have yet to be hooked up to electricity. The city still needs to purchase chairs and some kitchen utensils for the Imperial Room.

Imperial room nears completion

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

Over $600,000 later, the Ralph Engelstad Arena (REA) Imperial Room is nearing completion.

"I'd say we're 90 percent there with things," said Dale Wennberg, REA interim general manager and Thief River Falls mayor.

The operable wall was installed earlier this month. Wennberg noted a design problem held up the installation, and now there is another problem with the operable wall. Due to a miscalculation regarding the weight of the wall, the doors in the operable wall can't be opened.

There are also several other items on the to-do list. "We need chairs. We need more tables," said Wennberg. "We need some kitchen utensils – pots, pans, different things like that."

REA still needs to purchase projectors for the two drop-down video screens in the Imperial Room. The room's four chandeliers, from City Auditorium and expected to be about 68 years old, have yet to be hooked up. Wennberg said it may cost $5,000 per chandelier to hook them up to electricity.

Despite those items, Arctic Cat became the first user of the room June 9. It held its vendor meeting in the Imperial Room and nearby Dakota Clinic Hospitality Room.

"There's a lot of interest," said Wennberg about the Imperial Room. "It's new and exciting for people that see it."

Wennberg noted that the Imperial Room is booked for at least two more events in June. He said it's also booked for four weddings – two this year and two in 2006.

Centennials and fireworks

Area residents have a lot to look forward to this summer

Fireworks and centennials may be a hallmark of this summer's celebrations. Local residents will have the opportunity to celebrate Fourth of July as well as several city centennials this summer.

Seven Clans Casino, Hotel and Water Park will again host a fireworks display the evening of the Fourth of July.

Joyce Fowler, marketing manager, said "it's going to be huge."

Fowler and staff at the casino are looking forward to the event and invite the public to attend. The display will begin at dusk.

The contractor this year is Melrose Pyrotechnics.

Fowler said they were very pleased with the powwow they sponsored in May. She added that she had not realized that so many people had not seen a powwow before. The event was so successful and the response so positive, that Fowler said they plan to hold another powwow next year. The only downfall, he noted, was the rainfall.

Festivities

Among the festivities are:

• July 1-4 – Greenbush's centennial. Festivities include the veterans wall at the Greenbush Library, Miss Greenbush Pageant, a golf tournament and a street fair.

• July 4 – Warroad is hosting its Independence Day festivities, including fireworks, a parade, entertainment and a chili cook-off.

• July 4 – Goodridge hosts Independence Day festivities, including a parade, child games in the park, a street dance and group tours of local buildings.

• July 20-24 – Warren's 125th birthday celebration, which includes class reunions, a parade, a meal and a dance.

• July 28-31 – Lake Bronson's centennial celebration, which includes the following festivities: a rummage/craft sale, an art show and sale, a flea market, a pie social, a vintage fashion show, a street dance, a softball tournament, an antique/classic car show and shine, a banquet, entertainment and a firemen's rodeo.

• July 29-31 – Viking's centennial. Festivities include motocross racing, school tours, Zion Lutheran Church centennial celebration, pancake breakfast, kids' games, antique tractor and car exhibit, and thrashing.

• Aug. 26-28 – Karlstad's centennial, which includes fireworks, kids' games, entertainment, craft sale, all-school reunion and city-wide garage sales.

• Sept. 30 and Oct. 1 and 2 – Middle River centennial festivities, including parade and Vietnam Memorial wall.

Barn Again!

Smithsonian exhibition opens in TRF; Grand Opening event set for July 8

The Smithsonian exhibit that started an area-wide celebration is expected to open at the Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village exhibition building on July 3. The grand opening, which is free to the public, will take place five days later on July 8 at the Village. The Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village is located at the entrance to Oakland Park Road, near Highway 32 South on the south edge of Thief River Falls.

The five-kiosk traveling exhibit called "Barn Again! Celebrating An American Icon," tells the history of American barns from the turn of the 20th century to the present. It features pictures and architectural models of barns built in different styles or used for different purposes.

Barn Again! gives exhibition visitors new ways to consider a familiar icon. It surveys the agricultural changes that led to architectural adaptations on the farm, following major movements in American history such as 19th-century European immigration and westward migration.

The grand opening celebration begins at 7 p.m. That grand opening will feature "Down on the Farm" Columnist and Author Eric Bergeson, and music by Charlie Maguire and local fourth grade students. The master of ceremonies will be Marv Lundin.

The kick-off event for a summer celebration featuring area barns began with a successful presentation by Doug Ohman, photographer, and Will Weaver, author, on June 10. Weaver and Ohman collaborated on a Minnesota Historical Society Press project. The result, "Barns of Minnesota," was recently published. Over 60 local and area residents attended the event. The next day, area residents were offered an opportunity to travel on a bus tour of 30 area barns. It was a sold-out affair.

The celebration was also worked

Two pioneering families honored this weekend

The families of Ole and Mathea Torkelson, and Carl and Hilda Wennberg will be recognized

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

The historic families of Ole and Mathea Torkelson, and Carl and Hilda Wennberg will be recognized as "Pioneer Families" today (June 25), during the annual Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village's Family Festival, beginning at 3 p.m.

The two families, each playing a significant role in the settling of Thief River Falls area communities, will join nine other families that have been recognized as Pioneer Families. Past Pioneer Families include Noper, Muzzy, Mostue, Christensen, Asp, Beito, Lee, Engelstad and Narverud.

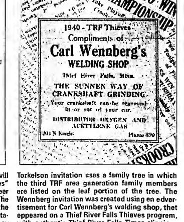
Torkelson family

The Torkelson family's ties to northwest Minnesota date back to Torkel and Sigri Anfinson's arrival in Hawley, Clay County in 1879. When he was 12, Torkel said goodbye to his 21-year-old brother Anfin, who emigrated to the United States from the family's farm near the Norwegian town of Rollag in Buskerud fylke (county). Family stories tell that Anfin and a combination Norwegian and Swedish crew battled rough seas in a wooden sail boat to reach the United States.

For 34 years, no one knew if Anfin had reached his destination. That changed when Torkel received a letter from his brother, stating if he could get enough money to bring the family to New York City, he should go to the Scandinavian American Bank, show the bank staff [Anfin's] letter, and they would be helped on their way to Hawley.

The family sold most of its belongings and hitched a ride on an English cattle boat. Making that first journey were Torkel, 48, Sigri, 50, and three sons, Anfin, 18, Ole, 14, and Kristin, 12 and one daughter, Kristi, 16. After arriving in New York, the family boarded a train headed west.

Upon their arrival in Hawley, Torkel and his family were greeted by Anfin, now 57-years-old.



Smiley Township

In 1887, at the age of 21, Ole Torkelson followed in his father and brother's footsteps, filing for homestead on a quarter section of land in Smiley Township. Ole's brother, Anfin, at the age of 19 had set out on his own to obtain free government land northwest of Hawley. Torkelson family history says Anfin walked to Crookston, the county seat of Polk County, then continued northeast.

Anfinson walked from Crookston, through present day St. Hilaire, before settling on four 40-acre plots near the present day intersection of U.S. Highway 59 and Highway 1. What drew Anfin to the property was a small river - he dreamed of owning a farm with a river. He would later discover the river was just a coulee and after two

The Torkelson (left) and Wennberg families will officially be recognized as "Pioneer Families" during a ceremony at Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village today (June 25), beginning at 3 p.m. The entire community is invited to attend all of the Pioneer Village's events today. Special invitations were created for family members who may not be able to attend the ceremony. The Torkelson invitation uses a family tree in which the third TRF area generation family members are listed on the leaf portion of the tree. The Wennberg invitation was created using an advertisement for Carl Wennberg's welding shop, that appeared on a Thief River Falls Thieves program, with authentic Thief River Falls Times clippings creating the background.

It is definitely time for cool desserts, and I'm going to give you some from my Trinity Church 100th anniversary cookbook this week.

This is a frozen dessert that sounds just yummy for a hot day - and I bet you could mix and match your favorite fruits, too, or use fresh strawberries crushed with a little sugar:

FRUIT FREEZE
Jeanette Hamerlinck

8 ounce package cream cheese
3/4 cup sugar
Large can crushed pineapple (drained)
10 ounce box frozen strawberries, thawed and drained
3 bananas, diced
1 cup walnuts, chopped
8 ounces thawed whipped topping

Blend cream cheese and sugar. Add drained pineapple and strawberries, mixing well. Gently stir in diced bananas, then add walnuts. Fold in whipped topping.

Place in 9x13 inch pan and freeze overnight. To serve, thaw 20 minutes and then cut into squares. Serve plain or garnished with fruit (or mint from your garden?).

This special dessert looks elegant and is really easy to make:

CHERRY CHEESECAKE
Evelyn Hovet

1 graham cracker pie crust
1 (8 ounce) package cream cheese, room temperature
1 can sweetened condensed milk
1/3 cup lemon juice
1 can prepared cherry pie filling (or blueberry or strawberry, as desired)

Beat cream cheese until smooth. Add condensed milk and blend well. Add lemon juice and stir. Pour into prepared graham cracker crust. Top with cherry pie filling and refrigerate at least 3 hours.

Strawberries are all over in the stores right now. Use them to make this tasty treat:

FROZEN STRAWBERRY DESSERT
Anna Hamershoy

Crust:
1/4 cup brown sugar
1 cup flour
1 stick margarine or butter
1 cup chopped nuts

Dessert center:
1 package frozen strawberries (or fresh if you can get them)
2 egg whites
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 cup sugar
1 pint thawed whipped topping

To make crust, mix brown sugar, flour and butter like pie crusst. Add nuts and pat in 9x13 inch pan. Bake 10 minutes at 350 degrees. Cool. When cool, crumble crust until fine. Save 1/2 cup out to sprinkle on top and pat the remainder back into the pan.

To make dessert center, mix strawberries, egg whites, lemon juice and sugar and beat on highest speed for 15 minutes. Fold in the whipped topping and pour over crust. Sprinkle with 1/2 cup of reserved crumbs. Freeze. Cut into squares to serve.

This is one of those recipes that you just know are very good because three ladies have submitted it - try it and see:

MANDARIN ORANGE DESSERT
Vivian Brekke, Edith Etter and Mrs. Adeline Quam

3 egg whites
1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
1 cup chopped nuts
1 cup sugar
1 cup crushed rice crispy cereal
1 pint cream, whipped
1/2 cup powdered sugar
1 package instant vanilla pudding
3/4 cup coconut
2 cans mandarin oranges, drained

Beat egg whites with cream of tartar. Fold in nuts, sugar and cereal. Spread in 9x13 inch pan and bake 25 minutes at 350 degrees. Cool.

Whip cream and add powdered sugar. Add pudding mix, mixing well. Fold in coconut and oranges. Spread over cooled crust and refrigerate at least 12 hours. Recipe serves about 15 people.

Producers now required to report crop acres to FSA

The Pennington County Farm Service Agency (FSA) reminds producers that they must report their acres to the FSA County Office in order to be eligible for benefits under most FSA programs. The deadline to timely file an acreage report for the 2005 crop year is July 15.

Programs requiring an acreage report include the Crop Disaster Program, Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program, Loan Deficiency Payment program, marketing assistance loans, Direct and Countercyclical Program, and Conservation Reserve Program.

The local office has mailed out maps to producers for the farm(s) the county office has them listed as operating for the 2005 crop year. A letter was attached to the maps informing the producer what needs to be recorded on the maps. If producers did not receive maps for all of their farms they are operating in 2005, they should contact the county office as soon as possible to request maps.

As in the past, the county office is taking acreage reports by appointment only. Producers should contact the county office to schedule an appointment to report their acres after they have completely filled out their maps. Producers are reminded that the planting dates for all crops must now be included on each field on their maps.

Producers with crop insurance need to make sure that the planted crop acres and shares they report to crop insurance match the acres and shares reported to FSA. It is suggested that producers with crop insurance first come into the FSA county office to report their acres so the county office can provide producers with copies of their acreage reports and maps to take to their crop insurance agents to ensure that the planted crop acres and shares match. The deadline to report acreage to crop insurance is June 30.

For more information, contact the Pennington County FSA Office at 681-1612, extension 2 before July 15.

Street Wizards to host cruise Tuesday

The Street Wizards Car Club of Thief River Falls will have its next cruise Tuesday, June 28.

Participants will take back roads to the A & W in Fosston. They will meet in the Kmart parking lot at 6:30 p.m. and will leave promptly at 6:45 p.m. The cruise route will be about 135 miles in length. Participants should return to Thief River Falls at about 10:30 p.m.

The event is open to all car enthusiasts from Thief River Falls and the surrounding communities. It is open to special interest vehicles, including, but not limited to, antiques, collectors, street rods, muscle cars, classic cars, convertibles, etc. Participants do not have to be club members to take part.

For more information, call Randy Adamson at (218) 681-1007 (days) or (218) 681-7073 (evenings); or Larry Ohren at (218) 681-3312 (evenings).

Fourtown/Grygla Sportsman meeting scheduled

Currently, rental rates are $300 for up to four hours, $500 for four to eight hours and $50 for use of the kitchen with an outside caterer. Rental rates have not been determined for the rental of half of the room once the operable wall has been installed. Local caterers can provide catering service for events in the Imperial Room.

According to Wennberg, the room provides standing room for about 1,000 people for events like trade shows. He said the room seats 400 people. With banquet sit-down events, he estimated seating for 325 people. The room also has a parquet dance floor.

The Imperial Room is being completed as a result of donations, grants and an interest-free loan. The Engelstad family donated $300,000 for the room's completion. Garden Valley provided a $225,000 interest-free loan. The city has also received two Hartz Foundation grants valued at $25,000 each. Other donations have been provided as well.

The city would not have been able to complete the Imperial Room without the support of the community and the Engelstad family, Wennberg said.

Wennberg is still hearing people marvel at the arena and now the Imperial Room. "It's fun to see the excitement on people's faces when they come in," said Wennberg, who noted many people say "wow" when they enter the arena and "wow" when they see the Imperial Room.

To rent the Imperial Room or for more information, call REA at 681-2183.

Another REA development

A small subgroup of City Council members has been meeting about once a week to determine what direction the council will take and what the job description will be for the REA manager, according to City Administrator Jodie Torkelson.

Wennberg, who assumed the interim REA general manager position in April after the resignation of Tom Goddard, is not to work more than 1,000 hours.

Torkelson expected that the council will make a decision on the job description at the June 28 council meeting. About the decision, Torkelson said, "It's still ongoing."

Torkelson anticipated that the position would be called an arena marketing and events manager. "That's the direction it sounded like from the last council meeting," said Torkelson, referring to what council members said at a May 4 special council meeting regarding REA.

In the meantime, Wennberg is managing the arena. He said, "It's been an eye-opening experience, and I've enjoyed my time here."

Barn Again!

in to the 56th Annual Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls. Area dignitaries were invited to participate in a milking contest.

July Events

Aerial Photos of Barns. Between July 11 and 17, aerial farm photos from the townships of Deer Park, Goodridge and Hickory, will be exhibited at the Village. Area residents are being asked to loan the event organizers their aerial photos for exhibition. Photos can be brought to the Thief River Falls City Administrator's office, which is located in the old Soo Line Depot (681-2493). The staff there will catalogue the photos so they can be properly identified for the exhibit, and so that owners will be able to pick them up after the show.

Parade. A tractor parade will be conducted in conjunction with the Pennington County Fair parade on Saturday, July 16. Owners of antique or unusual tractors in Northwest Minnesota are invited to take part in the parade. To enter, contact the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce at 681-3720. Tractors will be on display at Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village following the parade.

Gardening and Crops Exhibit. Between July 18 and 24 gardens at the Village will be highlighted. Pennington County garden club members will provide guided tours of the Village gardens at 1 p.m. on July 20, 23 and 24.

Fiddler Contest. On July 23, a fiddler contest will be held at Pioneer Village.

Quilt Exhibit. Between July 25 and 31, the Thief River Falls Quilter's Guild will exhibit heirloom, centennial and barn theme quilts.

Important Information

The Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village is open from 1 to 5 p.m. seven days a week. Admission to the exhibits is $3 per person per day, or unlimited visits with a paid 2005 membership to the Pennington County historical Society.

(The exhibition is organized by the Smithsonian Traveling Exhibition Service and the National Building Museum in cooperation with the National Trust for Historic Preservation. It is made possible by the Minnesota Humanities Commission, with funding support from the John S. and James L. Knight Foundation, The Hearst Foundation, National Endowment for the Humanities, Smithsonian Institution Special Exhibition Fund, the Smithsonian Institution Educational Outreach Fund, and the Patrick and Aimee Butler Family Foundation.)

years, he sold his improved property and purchased a quarter of Section 32 in Smiley Township.

In 1883 Torkel sold his 80 acre homestead near Pelican Lake, two years after Anfin's quarter section purchase. Getting just enough money to buy an old wagon, a team of horses, a cow, nine chickens and one rooster, the family made the 90 mile, nine-day trip to Smiley Township, settling in the northeast quarter of Section 30.

Shortly after setting up his own homestead, Ole Torkelson married Mathea Stene in 1889. It was at this time that Ole, who had been using both Anfinson and Torkelson as his last name, decided officially to use the Norwegian custom of taking his father's first name as part of his last name.

The couple's first child, Sophie, was born later that year. In total, the couple would have nine children, Sophie, 1889-1935; Bessie, 1893-1976; Theda, 1895-1951; Pauline, 1897-1972; Melvin Olaf, 1899-1982; Ruth Esther, 1904-1990; Anton Severt, 1907-1982; Bert Otto, 1910-1926; and Thelma Florence, 1913-2001.

Along with being a true pioneer family, the Torkelsons were instrumental in the founding and construction of Brandsrud School and St. Pauli Lutheran Church.

The family still has a strong presence in Thief River Falls. Of Ole and Mathea's 17 (13 living) grandchildren, eight live within three miles of the original homestead and one lives in Thief River Falls. Third generation Torkelson family members include: Marcella (John) Hoffman, 1923-1998; Philip L. (Leola) Lowe, 1920-2002; Francis M. Wiken, 1928-1998; Wallace K. Torkelson, 1931-2003; Geraldine M. Torkelson, 71; Willis D. Torkelson, 1935-1945; Marvin H. (Darlene) Torkelson, 67; Wahna J. (Daryl) Smith, 66; Faye V. (Oliver) Auchenpaugh, 60; Ivette D. (Robert) Garrett, 1946-1972; Pamela J. (Kevin) Kittridge, 56; Corine E. (Lyle) Bjorge, 64; Carolyn K. (Ted) Haugen, 60; Craig K. (Sally) Torkelson, 60; Patricia R. (Oliver) Swanson, 67; Sheila Torkelson, d. 1938; Sharon Torkelson, d. 1938; Herbert O. (Darlene) Torstveit, 57; and Valarie M. Torstveit, 60.

Wennberg family

Carl Wennberg was born on Dec. 5, 1896, near Fertile, the second youngest of seven children. Carl's mother, Oline Otregjeld came to the United States in 1875, to be with her fiance Andre Granley, who emigrated from Norway the previous year. Four children were born to this union. Andre was killed in a logging accident in 1884.

In 1888 Oline married Jon O. Wennberg. In 1902, the Wennbergs and their 11 children moved to Clearbrook, where Jon worked as a carpenter. John died in 1920 and Oline in 1941.

Several of the Wennberg brothers fought in the armed forces during World War I, including Carl, who joined the Navy. Following the war, most of the Wennberg children remained in the Clearbrook area. Carl did not.

Carl went to school at Dunwoody Institute and in 1925, along with Tollack Johnson, started a repair shop in Oklee. Carl sold his share of the repair shop in 1929, and moved to Thief River Falls. He worked in the Ford garage for Bill Sandeen and later for Frank Tunberg and Harry Lund.

Carl, along with Kris Kirk and Bill Carlisle bought an airplane in 1931. According to Levin Anderson, who also worked at the Ford garage, the plane would be used for short flights. Anderson said he would sell $1 tickets for flights led by Carl.

Carl purchased a welding shop from George Erickson in 1934. The shop was located west of the city auditorium. When the auditorium burned down, so did Carl's shop and airplane.

In 1935, Carl built a shop at 206 Knight Ave. North. The shop included living space upstairs, where Carl and his wife Hilda lived for many years. In 1947, the couple moved to Oakland Park Road, where Carl built another welding shop. He would operate that shop until his retirement in 1965.

Carl actively promoted community events in Thief River Falls. He was especially influential in local baseball and hockey endeavors. His children recall driving every Sunday afternoon for a local game, often as far as Clearbrook or Bagley. Locally he built and donated dugouts for the Pennington County Fairground diamond.

Later, Carl would construct an outdoor rink that was located adjacent to the Wennberg shop. Other than the downtown arena, the Wennberg rink, complete with a warming house, may have been the most popular place to practice hockey. Dale Wennberg recalls that his father's rink would have ice long before and long after the downtown arena.

Carl Wennberg and Hilda Bugge were united in marriage on Nov. 21, 1936. Hilda was born in February 1906, the second youngest of five children born to Peder and Petrine Peterson Bugge. Her grandfather, John W. Bugge and father came to the United States from Norway in 1881, first settling in Wisconsin. They continued their westward journey, homesteading in Numedal Township.

Before her marriage to Carl, Hilda worked on the Bugge farm and later traveled to Oregon, working as a waitress. Upon returning to Thief River Falls, Hilda worked at Porter's, presently the city-owned Cat's Lair.

Carl and Hilda had three sons, Jon in 1938, and twin boys Dale and Don in 1942.

Jon played hockey during his high school years, graduating in 1956. Jon, a successful mechanical engineer, is a graduate of the University of North Dakota. He worked for Boeing in Seattle, Wash., before briefly taking over Wennberg's in 1963. Two years later he moved to Brainerd, accepting a job with Northwest Paper/Potlatch that he held for 35 years, until his retirement in 2000.

Jon and his wife Janice (Helund) were united in marriage in 1959. Together, Jon and Jan are the proud parents of three daughters, Julie, Joni and Kelly.

Dale Wennberg owns and operates Wennberg's. Dale continues to be active in promotion of Thief River Falls sports, especially hockey, ice-mites, squirts and pee-wees. Dale was a hockey referee for many years after his playing days were over. On seven occasions he was granted the honor of refereeing state tournament games.

Currently, Dale is in his third year as mayor of Thief River Falls and his 21st year serving on the Thief River Falls City Council. He was instrumental in the development of the Ralph Engelstad Arena - Thief River Falls, and is currently serving as interim director of that facility.

Dale and his wife, Linda (Toomey), are the proud parents of a son, Paul and a daughter, Karin.

Don Wennberg graduated from the University of Minnesota Medical School in 1967. He worked as an intern at St. Paul Ramsey Hospital and later completed his general surgery residency. His medical career was briefly interrupted by a stint in the Navy. He spent one year in Vietnam and another at Quantico Virginia Marine Corps Base.

Don moved to Brainerd after completing his residency. He was the first MD in a group that now totals 45. Don now serves as medical director and president of his group. He also serves on a health services board that represents 72 nursing homes and six hospitals.

Everts Kvintette Ensemble to perform concert in Stephen

In conjunction with the Stephen Summer Fest and all school reunion, the Agassiz Swedish Heritage Society will present the Everts Kvintette Ensemble in concert on Sunday, July 3, at the Stephen High School Auditorium, at 2:30 p.m.

This five member musical ensemble is from Vaxjo, Sweden and is on tour through Swedish-American communities in Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wisconsin. They are Mikael Fernhom Paulson, guitar; Malin Fernholm, flute and voice; Maja Nordblom, voice; Lars Nordblom, string bass; and Sven-Olof Lorentzen, clarinet and voice. Their ages range from 35 to 50 years. Their specialty is music from the '30s and '40s.

The group features a unique Swedish sound, performing wonderful renditions of tunes such as "Lili Marlene," "Side by Side," "We'll Meet Again," and more tunes from the swing era. They perform traditional Swedish folk music as well.

The group has performed for many events in Sweden and has produced a CD for Sveriges Radio Kronoberg called "Everts Kvintette-Nya Gamla Latar."

A freewill donation will be accepted during the concert's intermission. ASHS as well as the Stephen Civic and Commerce Organization and the All School Reunion Committee are pleased to have genuine Swedish music performed as part of their festivities and invite the community to attend the performance.

Midsummer Night's-Mare

It's always about this time of year that the paranoia starts setting in again. I get confused. I begin to feel an evolving doubt about my grasp of the 'big picture.' Maybe it has to do with six weeks of exposure to the public. Perhaps the increasing intensity of the sun at such a northern latitude. Whatever, little things just seem to increase in personal importance. I find myself thinking too much. For instance, when a sturgeon jumps in front of the boat as I cruise towards the mouth of the river, I get flustered with the fact that I can't explain the phenomenon to my guests. Does it have something to do with water temperature or with the increased amount of mud boiling through the water after the recent deluges? Are they looking for something, like food or oxygen, or trying to shed something, like young-of-the-year lampreys? Or are they simply having fun? Anyway, I seem to invest entirely too much thought in such trivial matters and it disturbs an already addled mind.

Why, for example, after handling a northern or a walleye, do fishermen successfully rinse fish slime off their hands in lake water when, despite living their entire existence in that lake water, those northerns and walleyes never manage to rid themselves of that same fish slime?

Recently, I've spent far too much time steering around, by, and, unfortunately, over the tops of much of the floating lumber that's plagued Lake of the Woods this spring. My eyes are sore from unblinking efforts at navigation and my heart is failing from the occasional abrupt sneeze (sounding much like prop-to-wood contact) that randomly pops out of a guest's mouth when we're in a particularly intense log situation. My concern is simple. How much of the constant flotsam and jetsam should I continue to attribute to early century loggers and overzealous beavers? Their contributions should have drifted by long ago. I know, for a fact, that I've narrowly missed the same exact tree stump on three separate occasions this past month and am beginning to wonder if we don't need an updated mapping of the Rainy basin flowage. Is it paranoia or a reasonable possibility that this water doesn't actually end up in Hudson Bay, like we've thought all along, but simply circles back to the south somewhere around Morson and piles right down the same stretch of river again?

What four-letter word did the voyageurs employ when the climactic conditions overwhelmed them the way it's overwhelmed us this past month? I don't think "#&*#$%# *## weather" was available in the 17th century.

How can several thousand cormorants be a problem on Leech Lake, while tens of thousands of cormorants are still considered a working part of the natural landscape on Lake of the Woods?

If a "nautical mile" (the accepted unit of measure on the computer ...) is reflective of a "knot" in speed, why isn't one spelled "knotical mile" or the other "naut"? Are they out to get me? And if a "nautical mile" is simply 1.15 statute miles, why the heck don't we just call them even and be done with all the malarkey? Don't tape measures work over water?

In similar winds, are waves bigger in warmer, less dense water? And if that's the case, should I be rooting for colder weather to make my boating more comfortable, or should I petition for warmer weather, so when the spray from the rollers flies across the launch and drenches the passengers, at least the warmer water doesn't make them too miserable.

I know, it's only June and there's still a lot of summer left to mull over. But the stray thoughts are starting to show up again and it makes me nervous. If the occasional jumping sturgeon now loosens the edges of my fragile existence, what's going to happen in early September when they're spending more time airborne than swimming? Am I to weakly hem and haw my way through an unconvincing white-lie of an explanation? Or should I point out the obvious and most factual rationalization, that they're jumping simply to make sure I'm sufficiently rattled?

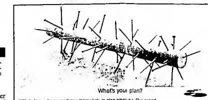
Embassy to host gospel sing-along June 26

The Embassy Community Center in Fosston will hold its monthly Gospel Sing-along on Sunday, June 26, at 3 p.m.

Special musical guests for the day will be the five members of the Dan Woodward family of Bemidji. They will present a varied concert of gospel/bluegrass. All who play musical instruments are welcome to participate in the sing-along portion of the day's program. A freewill offering will be accepted for the Woodward family to assist in their ministry of music. There will be a devotional thought, an attendance gift awarded and potluck refreshments at the day's end.



Greenbush boy dies after accident June 17

A Greenbush boy died June 17 after an accident involving a motorcycle and pickup truck southwest of Greenbush.

Levi John Langaas, 12, was taken to Roseau Area Hospital and Homes, where he later died. At the time of the accident, Langaas was a passenger on the motorcycle.

According to a press release issued by the Roseau County Sheriff's Department, the pickup truck was driven by Tannis Rhondi-Jo Meadows. No further information, including the name of the motorcycle driver, was available.

The sheriff's department, Minnesota State Patrol, Greenbush Police Department, Greenbush Ambulance and Greenbush Fire Department were dispatched to the scene at 8:03 p.m. June 17. The accident remains under investigation.

Supporting an industry

One of the purposes of Northwest Dairy Day is to provide an educational opportunity for youth who are involved in the dairy industry or have an interest in dairy. At the event, youth learn how to show and care for their animals, and what makes a good or ideal dairy cow. As visitors and spectators learn, if and when they attend such events, it's also about the dairy industry and more importantly, people.

Had someone visited the 56th Annual Northwest Dairy Day event in Thief River Falls last weekend, one of the things visitors might have learned is that while the number of dairy farms are dwindling, quality has improved and enthusiasm for doing a good job, remains high.

Barry Visser of Hutchinson was the judge for last week's event. Visser, a relatively young man, grew up in Ada. His connection to the area goes back even further as he explained, he showed dairy cattle at Dairy Day in Thief River Falls many years ago. He fondly remembers showing cattle in Floyd B. Olson Park, but also recalls that there were hundreds of cattle and that the show often took all day.

A lot has changed in even those "few" intervening years. The declining number of dairy farms in the region has become very noticeable. It has become so noticeable that the dairy farm experience has become far removed from the experience of many, so far removed that some schoolchildren - schoolchildren in northwestern Minnesota - don't even know that milk comes from a cow.

There's still a need for dairy and events like Northwest Dairy Day. In addition to his responsibilities as this year's Dairy Day judge, Visser is a dairy nutritionist who works with Vita Plus. He also coaches the judging team for the University of Minnesota. To Visser, the dairy industry certainly remains vitally important to him, his wife and their 6-month-old daughter.

The dairy industry and Northwest Dairy Day is also important to Sheldon "Snooky" Erickson. At Northwest Dairy Day, Erickson of Badger was recognized for his exceptional job of promoting the dairy industry throughout his career.

Commenting on the state of the dairy industry, Erickson acknowledged that there aren't very many dairy farms left in the region. But he also noted that quality has improved. He proudly said that the grand champion award he won with a cow years ago probably wouldn't get a red ribbon today.

Dairy farmers have had to make changes - sometimes drastic changes - or get out of the business. Erickson's son still farms on the dairy farm his family has operated for over 100 years.

Despite the changes in the industry, the purpose of Northwest Dairy Day remains relevant to Erickson and his family.

Mark and Joan Lee provide us with another example of producers working and living on dairy farms. The Lees milk 42 cows and farm 450 acres near McIntosh. Both grew up on dairy farms and are now raising their three children on their family farm. They believe in and promote the dairy industry. They believe in the importance and value of family farms. They are so committed to the dairy industry, that they hosted the annual Breakfast on the Farm event, which served 850 to 900 people. After such an event, one would expect them to take off their rubber boots and put up their feet and rest awhile. Not the Lees. No, the Lees traveled to Thief River Falls to watch Northwest Dairy Day. They were also honored as this year's Northwest Dairy Association's Outstanding Dairy Farm Family.

Northwest Dairy Day is made possible because of the united effort of many individuals like Visser, Erickson and the Lees. It is also made possible because of the contributions made by many businesses in the communities located in the 17 counties of northwest Minnesota. These groups and individuals make up the interesting patchwork quilt of what northwest Minnesota and the dairy industry has become. We wish them all the best. Their interest in preserving and improving dairy, should be our interest, too.

Around 9.2 million cows are being milked on 110,000 farms on the United States. More than 99 percent of all dairy farms are family owned and operated.

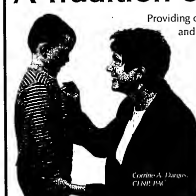
Power outages reported this week in TRF

Thief River Falls residents were left in the dark a few times this week.

On Sunday, according to Utilities Director Arlo Rude, an underground cable failed, causing a power outage along Highway 59 South and Highway 59 Southeast. The bad cable was located Monday, and the repair was completed Tuesday.



Rude noted a "bad cable spot" was located Monday in Countryside Trailer Court. A boring contractor has been hired to bore under the street to install new cable. That work was scheduled for Friday.

On Tuesday, a power outage was reported along Horace and Atlantic avenues and east into the area near Red Lake Boulevard. A fuse blew out when a crew was switching a transformer out of service along Dewey Avenue North.

At about 2:30 p.m. Tuesday, a power outage was reported in the downtown area of Thief River Falls. Rude noted a cable "went bad" in a transformer for the west wing of Northwest Medical Center. Power was restored at about 3:15 p.m. Tuesday for the 30 to 40 customers affected by the power outage.

Plot tours scheduled Wednesday in TRF, Roseau

Plot tours are scheduled Wednesday, June 29 in Thief River Falls and Roseau.

The Thief River Falls tours will start from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. with the winter canola study. Canola was seeded in the fall of 2004. Seeding a fall crop would reduce the number of acres which need to be seeded in the spring. A good snow cover is important for the survival of the plants. This study looked at different residue management strategies and the interaction with different varieties. Topics include winter canola, soybean and Niger variety trials. Directions: From Thief River Falls, go east on Highway 1 past Northland Community and Technical College 1.25 miles, turn south and go 0.75 miles on Johnson Drive. This area is farmed by Lyle Olson.

The second stop on this tour will be from 11 a.m. - 12 p.m. Different cropping rotations are being investigated in order to reduce the incidence of sclerotinia. Sclerotinia is a major disease concern for canola growers and this study is investigating if there are specific systems that can reduce the amount of spores produced from sclerotia. Topics covered during the tour include canola, wheat, and soybean rotation trial with a rye cover crop and a multi-year rotation study. From Thief River Falls, go south on Highway 32 approximately two miles to Highway 7, turn west on Highway 7 and go 0.5 miles. This area is farmed by the Mehrkens family.

Dr. Paul Porter, agronomist with the University of Minnesota, and Dave LeGare, research scientist, will provide the information during the tour. Howard Person, Extension educator for Pennington County, will provide a crop update for the county. Dr. Hans Kandel will provide an update on the Niger and soybean variety trials. The event is organized by the University of Minnesota Extension Service.

The annual Grass Seed Plot Tour will take place near and at the Magnusson research site northwest of Roseau on June 29 starting at 4:30 p.m. From the Cenex C Store in Roseau, at the junction of Highways 11 and 89, go north two miles on Highway 310. Turn left (west) on County Road 16 and travel 3.5 miles. The Research Buildings are on the northside of the road.

The first stop of the tour will be half a mile east of the research farm, on the Rice farm. The researchers will show a Palisade timing x fertility x fungicide trial on perennial ryegrass. There is also another trial at the same location that has Palisade at two different dates and different rates and the growth regulators Apogee and Cerone are included in experiments.

The main tour at the research farm will start at 5 p.m. Professor Nancy Ehlke, plant breeder for the University of Minnesota, will be guiding the tour and be available to address questions. Along with observing the traditional variety plots, Ehlke will discuss and show the university research on Palisade interacting with fertility, and wild oat control in established grass fields. There will be variety plots of ryegrass, birdsfoot trefoil and kura clover for observation as well.

Professor Don Wyse, University of Minnesota weed scientist, will be discussing the research on off-type Management of Kentucky bluegrass including a sterile seedhed study looking at trying to establish new Kentucky bluegrass varieties without contamination with old varieties. He will also discuss the current research on quackgrass management in perennial ryegrass seed production.

Cenex West Plant of Roseau will grill dinner after the tour. The tour is sponsored by the Northern Minnesota Forage and Turf Seed Advisory Committee and the University of Minnesota Extension Service. The refreshments are provided by Cenex West Plant of Roseau. For more information, contact the Roseau Regional Extension Center at (218) 463-0291 or 1-888-241-4546.

A head-first slide put Detroit Lakes runner Taylor Fuhs across home plate before Thief River Falls catcher Lucas Genereux could turn and make the tag after grabbing the throw from the outfield in the first inning of Tuesday's American Legion baseball doubleheader opener at the Multi-Events Center. Fuhs scored from second on a two-out single through the left side of the infield by Kyle Dennar. Thief River Falls scored four times in the bottom of the sixth to win 4-3.

First game rally sets stage for TRF Legion sweep...

Sixth inning offense nets win

One inning of offense was enough to net Thief River Falls a 4-3 win over Detroit Lakes Tuesday in the first half of a Ninth District American Legion baseball doubleheader at the Multi-Events Center.

Shut out on one hit through five innings, Post 117 combined three hits with a walk and a pair of errors to score four times in the bottom of the sixth to erase a 3-0 deficit.

Thief River Falls completed the twinbill sweep with a 5-3 Game 2 victory.

After giving up a lead-off double to Lucas Genereux in the first inning, Detroit Lakes first game pitcher Nick Schroeder shifted into cruise control. He faced just 14 batters from the second through the fifth inning, but ran into trouble in the sixth.

Thief River Falls' comeback sixth began with a walk issued to Michael Benedict and a double to center by Alex Carlson. After an infield fly for the first out, Dan Kaushagen drilled a double into the right-center field gap that scored two runs.

An error on an infield grounder put Wyatt Reed at first and moved Kaushagen to third. A single up the middle by Tomas Heaton tied the game.

Schroeder tried to pick Heaton off, but his throw sailed over the head of first baseman Zach Fulmer, allowing Reed to score the go-ahead run from second.

Thief River Falls pitcher Justin Brooks gave up three hits and two runs in the top of the first, but limited Detroit Lakes to just two singles and one more run the rest of the way.

With one out in the first, Schroeder singled and Taylor Fuhs walked. Max Saarinen and Kyle Danner put together back-to-back two-out RBI singles into left field for the early lead.

Two infield high-hoppers pushed the Detroit Lakes lead to 3-0 in the top of the sixth. The first one was a lead-off single for Saarinen, who advanced on a ground-out and a wild pitch to be in position to score on a high-hop ground-out by Craig Muckenhirn.

Detroit Lakes also had a 3-0 lead in Game 2 – after just one-half inning.

But this time Thief River Falls didn't wait to respond, tying the game in the bottom of the first. Post 117 then pushed single runs across the plate in the fourth and fifth innings for the win.

The winners mustered just two hits in the nightcap. Drew Kjono was hitless in two official at-bats, but still came up with three RBI.

Four Thief River Falls pitchers were used in the second game victory, with Jon Drees. Heaton and Carlson combing for six shutout innings in relief of starter Ross Helling. The win went to Heaton and a save was credited to Carlson.

The Courtney Skjerven-coached Thief River Falls squad took a 7-6 record into the June 24-26 Perham Invitational. Post 117 will be back at the Multi-Events Center Thursday for a 6 p.m. doubleheader against East Grand Forks.

Plummer football field dedication program is slated Saturday, July 9

■ Facility named Brantl Field

Activities and ceremonies are planned Saturday, July 9, for Brantl Field dedication in Plummer.

The day actually starts with a 9 a.m. golf tournament at the Oak Lake course in Erskine. The event will feature a four-person scramble format. Contact Philip Zimpel at 465-4298 for additional details.

Flag football will be played at the Plummer football field beginning at 1:30 p.m. Call Lonnie Longtin at 465-4605 for information.

Ceremonies naming the field in honor of long-time football coach Gary Brantl will be held at 7 p.m. in the Plummer school gym.

Entertainment and socializing will follow in downtown Plummer.

Brantl was the Plummer/Red Lake County Central head football coach for 33 years before stepping down after the 2003 season. Red Lake County Central won back-to-back Section 7 Nine-Man titles in 1997 and 1998, with the Mustangs putting together a 10-1 record in 1998. He also coached in the wrestling program and served as athletics director.

Detroit Lakes runner Joe Schiller was tagged before he could reach the bag by Thief River Falls first baseman Tom Johenneck on a first inning pick-off by pitcher Justin Brooks to start Tuesday's American Legion baseball doubleheader at the Multi-Events Center.

RLF wins TRF Elks title

It required extra work, but a tradition that dates back to 1969 was continued June 17-19 with the running of the 37th annual Thief River Falls Elks Babe Ruth Invitational baseball tournament for 14-15-year-olds.

While the sun and warm temperatures greeted the players, coaches and fans throughout the 24-game event, nearly a week's worth of rain that preceded the tournament necessitated extensive work to get the Multi-Events Center and Northland Community and Technical College diamonds into playing shape.

And a late decision by North Dakota entry Grafton/Drayton to pass on a planned appearance forced officials to rearrange a schedule originally designed to accommodate three four-team groups for the pool play portion of the tournament.

Nevertheless, games were played, with Red Lake Falls beating Thief River Falls Blue 5-1 in the Sunday finals.

Results of the juggled Friday/Saturday schedule advanced Red Lake Falls, Thief River Falls Blue, Bemidji Voyageurs, Bemidji Wolves, Bemidji Lions and Roseau into the Sunday championship bracket.

Tournament entries failing to land a spot in the medal round were Dietz-Kane Insurance of St. Paul, Thief River Falls Gold, Crookston, East Grand Forks and Steichen of St. Paul.

The tournament technically carried over until Monday when the Lions outscored the Voyageurs 11-10 for third place. An agreement between all parties allowed the two Bemidji teams to return home early and use the results of an already-scheduled regular season Monday meeting as the tournament contest, too.

TRF Elks Pool Play

■ Friday, June 17 - Red Lake Falls 7, Dietz-Kane 1; Bemidji Wolves 3, TRF Gold 2; Red Lake Falls 9, Bemidji Wolves 4; TRF Blue 11, Crookston 0; Bemidji Voyageurs 17, Roseau 1; TRF Blue 11, Bemidji Voyageurs 5; East Grand Forks 5, Roseau 4; Bemidji Lions 13, Steichen 11.

Awards presented to Prowlers

■ TRF tennis team wraps up banner 2005 season

Jon Kays was named the most valuable player when awards were presented at the June 20 Thief River Falls boys high school tennis banquet.

Chase Haviland was selected as the most improved player; Brian Kays was voted Rookie of the Year; and Joe Ihle was presented with the Prowler Award.

Statistical awards went to Justin Pyle and Jacob Engelstad, most singles wins (23); Jon Kays, most doubles wins (25); and Michael Forney, most combined singles/doubles wins (32).

Ihle and Jon Kays were recognized as the Prowlers' 2005 team captains, while Pyle and Forney were introduced as the 2006 captains.

Thief River Falls went 16-2 in dual meet competition this year en route to a second straight Section 8A team championship and a Class A state tournament consolation title. The two setbacks came at the hands of Class AA Alexandria (7-0) early in the year when the Prowlers were not at full strength and to unbeaten No. 1-ranked eventual state champion Mounds Park Academy (4-3) in the state tournament quarterfinals.

It was the second straight 16-win season for the Prowlers, who lost only five matches the past two years – three of them at state.

Goals set by the team early this spring, according to Thief River Falls coach Troy Hanestad, included winning every invitational tournament the Prowlers entered; an unbeaten regular season record, and to win at the state level. They accomplished two of the three. The regular season setback came when they were playing without their regular No. 1, 2 and 4 singles players.

After losing to Mounds Park Academy in the opening round of the state tournament, Thief River Falls rebounded with 6-1 consolation wins over Litchfield and Virginia.

The Prowlers also had two consolation champions in the individual portion of the Class A state tournament – Pyle in singles and Forney-Bottem in doubles.

"The boys' performance at the state tournament was a perfect way to end the season," said Hanestad. "We played our best three matches of the season at state."

While the quarterfinal setback was disappointing, the Prowlers' play was not, insisted Hanestad. "We had the opportunity to play the eventual state champion in the first round and gave them all they could handle," he pointed out. "Our boys were completely satisfied with playing their best in that match and losing to a better team. In the two consolation round matches, we proved that we were for real and that the close opening round match with Mounds Park Academy was not a fluke. We beat two very good tennis teams in Litchfield and Virginia."

Thief River Falls' 0-2 state tournament trip in 2004 set the table for a trophy-winning effort in 2005, noted Hanestad. "The experience of being in the state tournament last year was huge," he said. "The boys were very comfortable and confident with the tournament atmosphere."

Hanestad said the Prowlers made a good impression in the Twin Cities. "We received a lot of nice comments from coaches, players and tournament directors concerning the quality of our play and the sportsmanship that our boys displayed," he mentioned.

A comment that really stuck with Hanestad came from Waseca coach Kyle Collins. While being interviewed by a reporter from the StarTribune of Minneapolis following his team's third place victory, Collins was asked how it felt to be the best public school in the state since both teams in the finals were private schools. The response, noted Hanestad: "We were not the best public school in the state. Thief River Falls was."

Hanestad said the Prowlers caught a few tennis people by surprise with their state performance. "I am sure that prior to the tournament, when people talked about tennis powers, they did not give much thought to the northwest part of the state – or anywhere north of St. Cloud for that matter," he offered. "But this team really turned some heads and proved that we are a program that could become a state power."

Thief River Falls will be going after a third straight Section 8A title next spring. "Any time that a state tournament team losses only two players, you have to feel good about the upcoming season," acknowledged Hanestad. "Unfortunately, the Joe Ihle and Jon Kays spots will be tough voids to fill," he said about his two 2005 seniors. "They were excellent leaders and very talented doubles players (not to mention they were both left-handed)."

A talented lot will return. "We return our No. 1 singles player (Pyle), who had a great finish in the individual portion of the state tournament and proved that he could play with the best in the state," said Hanestad. "We also return Michael Forney, who has played in the individual portion of the state tournament in doubles the last three seasons and was unbeaten in singles this year. Then you add Cody Bottem, Corey Horten, Jordan Swanson, Jordan West and Jacob Engelstad to that list, and you have a powerful line-up. These guys can all win in singles and doubles, and they have two years of state tournament experience."

Depth will be a true strength in 2006, according to Hanestad. "We have some great young talent in Brian Kays, Chase Haviland, Tom Kalinoski, Mike Kalinoski and Parker Nessen, who all have great potential to impact our team's success next season."

Obviously, Hanestad likes his team's potential. "I really believe that next year's team destiny lies in their hands," said Hanestad. "If they remain as committed as they have been, they have a legitimate shot at playing for a state championship. The x-factor is just how much can this team continue to improve. Individually they make giant leaps every year. If they do that again in the off-season, they will guarantee themselves continued success."

A Night in the Spotlight - Miss Greenbush Pageant is June 30

The Miss Greenbush Pageant for 2005 will be on Thursday, June 30, and begins at 7 p.m. at the Greenbush School Auditorium. The competition includes five local teens competing for the title of Miss Greenbush. Contestants include Rachael Weets, Mikayla Brazier, Joanna Endrizzi, Kayla Agre and Alissah Rice.

This year's theme is "A Night in the Spotlight." Miss Greenbush Contestants will compete in Interview, Swimsuit, Talent and Evening Gown with On-Stage Personality.

Also included in the program is a Miss Centennial division with girls ages 12 to 15. Four girls will be competing in Interview, Talent and Evening Gown. In the Junior Miss division, ages 8 to 11 group, there are nine contestants. The Little Miss division for ages 5 to 7, has five contestants. Both of these age groups compete in Interview and Party Dress. Twenty-three girls will compete for four titles. This should make for a very entertaining evening.

Ryan Koczak will be master of ceremonies for the evening. Tickets are available at Agassiz Insurance Group and the Greenbush Pharmacy or at the door for $5 each.

Miss Greenbush Contestant Profiles

Rachael Weets is the daughter of Deb and Ronnie Nowacek and John and Marie Weets. She is sponsored by the Greenbush Pharmacy. Rachael will be a junior at Greenbush Middle River High School this fall. She will be singing "Think of Me" from Andrew Lloyd Webber's "Phantom of the Opera" for her talent presentation. Her platform is Prevention of Child Abuse.

Mikayla Brazier is the daughter of Mark and Shawn Brazier and John Lacken. She is sponsored by Total Dollar. Mikayla will be a senior at Greenbush Middle River High School this fall. Her talent is a hip hop dance by "Razor and Tie." Her platform is Anorexia and Bulimia Awareness.

Joanna Endrizzi is the daughter of Jill and Shane Knutson and Paul and Julie Neufeld. She is sponsored by Jeff's Super Service. Joanna will be a senior at Greenbush Middle River High School this fall. Her talent is a dramatic interpretation called "The Next Place That I Go" by an anonymous writer. Her platform is Breast Cancer Awareness.

Kayla Agre is the daughter of Gregory and Elizabeth Wollin and the late Jon Agre. She is sponsored by TG Design. Kayla will be a senior at Greenbush Middle River High School this fall. Her talent is a saxophone solo called "In The Mood" by Joe Garland. Her platform is Depression Awareness.

Alissah Rice is the daughter of Cathi and Brad Blawat and Gregg Rice. She is sponsored by R&B Farms. Alissah will be a senior at Greenbush Middle River High School this fall. She will be performing a dance to the song "I Believe." Her platform is Drinking and Driving.

North Valley Home Health to host foot care and blood pressure clinics

North Valley Home Health will hold foot care and blood pressure clinics on the following dates:

- Friday, July 1, at the Warren Summerfield Place, beginning at 9 a.m. Contact Deb or Kami at 218-745-5154.
- Friday, July 8, at the Grygla Community Center, beginning at 9:30 a.m. Contact Hazel Aune at 218-459-3315.
- Tuesday, July 12, at the Argyle LAH/BNP, beginning at 9 a.m. Contact Pat Crummy at 218-695-3842.
- Monday, July 25, at the Oslo Community Center, beginning at 9:30 a.m. Contact Rose Robinson at 218-695-1025.

Please call the contact person listed to sign up. It is important to know how many are signed up so staff can be scheduled accordingly. Five people must be signed up to hold a clinic.

Nurses from North Valley Home Health will soak feet and trim nails. There is a $10 charge per person for foot care. Blood pressure checks are free of charge. Due to increased costs related to staffing and mileage, the cost for footcare clinics will be increased from $10 to $15 as of Aug. 1.

Commissioners say no to DNR land request

Hallock - It didn't matter what the number of acres, location nor the reasons were, there was no way Kittson County commissioners were going to allow the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) obtain any more privately owned land in the county.

Commissioner John W. Anderson told DNR representative Donovan Pietruszewski, "If DNR wants to acquire that land bad enough, you will supply us with an equal number of acres for sale as well."

Pietruszewski asked the commissioners June 21 to allow the DNR to purchase 724 acres of privately-owned land, some near Beaches Lake and some near St. Bernard's Catholic Church in Kittson County.

Some of the land is located in Deerwood and Arveson townships. Other acres are in Peatland and Klondike. In both instances, the land is mostly wetlands. - Kittson County Enterprise, June 29, 2005, by Cindy Stewart

United States Coast Guard Auxiliary seeking volunteers

Coast Guard Officer Jay Cloy from East Grand Forks spoke to the Warroad City Council about getting assistance with space for operations, and housing and docking a Coast Guard boat. - Warroad Pioneer, June 29, 2005, by Marlene Schmitz

Dulka found not guilty

Red Lake Falls - Julie Dulka of Oklee appeared in court for the last phase of her trial June 17, where charges of aggravated forgery, presenting false information and attempted theft were alleged over situations that occurred while Dulka worked in the Red Lake County Auditor's Office between Jan. 1, 2003 and Oct. 14, 2004.

A 12-member jury returned a not guilty verdict. In a Gazette interview, a juror indicated that, in his opinion, the evidence presented in the case made it look like she (Dulka) probably did alter records, but the jury thought there was no solid proof that placed her at the computer or making the changes. - Red Lake Falls Gazette, June 29, 2005, by Don Johanneck

High winds cause extensive damage early Monday morning

Erskine - Storms producing high wind gusts traveled through this area early Monday morning, causing extensive damage within a small location.

Robin and Craig Ellithorpe, rural residents east of Erskine, were hit with the most damage from the windstorm that lasted about 30 minutes around 2 a.m. Monday.

They lost power due to tree branches falling on the power lines and the pole snapping. Power was restored to their home around 6 a.m. Monday. A trampoline was lifted high into the oak trees, bending around and becoming part of the tree. Numerous trees were uprooted, roofs were blown off sheds and the window air conditioner was blown into their bedroom.

Nobody was hurt, and the house was spared from much damage for which Robin said they were very thankful. - Erskine Echo, June 30, 2005

Impasse results in partial shutdown of Minnesota government

Minnesota deadlocks over budget

by April Scheinoha
Reporter

Thursday was Decision Day for the Minnesota Legislature. Would it have a partial state government shutdown due to its inability to pass pertinent budget bills?

The state will be having a partial government shutdown, but it appears the impact on county and city governments will be minor if it were a short-term shutdown.

"As far as offices, we'll be up and running," said Pennington County Auditor Ken Olson about the partial shutdown of state government and its impact in Pennington County. However, he noted, driver's license tests will not be completed. Yet, residents will be able to renew their driver's licenses.

Olson added that the Pennington County Highway Department has gotten all the state money it could for the contracts related to bids it has already let out for highway work.

Even though county offices will be open, Olson said that a long-term shutdown may affect Pennington County. State aid money, including that for the Department of Human Services, may get stalled.

In Thief River Falls, the city's Local Government Aid (LGA) check could possibly get delayed. Despite that possibility, City Administrator Jodie Torkelson said, "Our cashflow will still be fine at that point."

Torkelson added that the city would be receiving its taxes from the county, which would help the city's cashflow in the event of its LGA check being delayed.

However, if the shutdown lasted for a longer period of time like six or seven weeks, Torkelson noted the city would have to dip into its reserves and look at other funding options.

The local impact may be minor, but the impact may be large elsewhere in the state.

At first, state parks were expected to close as a result of the partial government shutdown. However, on Thursday, the Legislature passed a bill for the environment, agriculture and jobs. The newspaper reported that Gov. Tim Pawlenty said he would sign it, meaning state parks would remain open.

"I am relieved to be able to tell our families that they can continue with their holiday plans in our state parks," said Rep. Brita Sailer. "This is key for our small resort owners and local business that depend on tourism dollars."

Despite that, many state employees will be sitting at home come Tuesday morning. Based on information from Pawlenty's Web site, approximately 9,400 will be considered non-critical employees and laid off in the shutdown.

Those employees, though, will not include state troopers, who are considered to be critical employees.

Also, individuals employed at state colleges and universities will be working, according to a press release. State higher education has been funded already, and classes will remain in session.

Searching for treasure?

Are we there yet? Thief River Falls residents Glen and Derby Kejewski went geocaching, or high-tech treasure hunting, June 24. They used their Global Positioning System to find this location, which is part of the Thief River Falls Multi-Cache. To get to the next location, Glen Kejewski did a little math, and they were on their way.

A high-tech treasure hunt

High-tech gadgets helps geocaching gain in popularity

by April Scheinoha
Reporter

Treasure hunting has gotten high tech, and local residents are taking part in the adventure.

"It's fun to do," said Thief River Falls resident Glen Kajewski, who goes on these high-tech treasure hunts with his wife, Darby.

The 21st century version of treasure hunting is called geocaching. It began in 2000 after Global Positioning System (GPS) signals were no longer scrambled for the military. Dave Ulmer celebrated this milestone by hiding a "bucket of trinkets" in a wooded area outside of Portland, Ore., according to www.geocaching.com. He then noted the coordinates of that location online. Treasure hunters then typed the coordinates in their GPSes and followed the GPS-generated directions to the site.

As part of geocaching, small items are placed in a waterproof container that is then hidden somewhere. The container also includes a log book in which geocachers note when they found the cache and also what they placed in the cache. They are then able to take something from the cache.

Although new to the hobby, the Kajewskis have gone to several caches in the Thief River Falls area as well as in North Dakota. They started geocaching after Darby's sister introduced them to it. They like the adventure and challenge associated with it, and they intend to someday create their own cache.

Several of their geocaching adventures involved caches set up by Rob LaCoursiere of rural Red Lake Falls. LaCoursiere has a multi-cache in Thief River Falls, which takes geocachers to several locations around the city. And for those who hate math, it involves some basic math skills. He also has two other caches located in the Thief River Falls area.

LaCoursiere started geocaching after buying a GPS. "I guess I've always been a gadget-type of guy," he said.

LaCoursiere noted geocaching is a nice way to stop and see an area of a city one would normally not see. He added that it enables travelers to stop and stretch their legs during trips.

Besides the geocaching experiences where one drives a vehicle to a location and looks for a cache, there are other types of geocaching. Some geocaches involve boats or climbing gear, LaCoursiere said.

Some of these high-tech treasure hunts don't include trinkets. LaCoursiere went mystery geocaching in the Twin Cities. For that hunt, he was directed to a water tower and then had to note information found there. He then had to e-mail the answer to the person who hid the cache.

There is also something called letterboxing, which is similar to geocaching. In letterboxing, someone hides a waterproof container that includes a rubber stamp. The hunters then use GPS to find the container. Similar to the caches in

Jaw harpist to perform in TRF

Charlie Maguire to play jaw harp for Barn Again! grand opening on July 8

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

Charlie Maguire borrowed a guitar and spent $2.95 on a book titled "Play the Guitar in 30 Minutes." It may have been the best money Maguire ever spent as he began his slow journey toward a career in music.

As he recalls, his first audience didn't seem too upset by his efforts. Nope, the cows didn't seem to mind at all.

Next week, fourth and fifth grade age students will be given the opportunity to play a unique musical instrument that has existed for over a thousand years with little following in the history books. Maguire will offer a workshop in Thief River Falls that will teach children to play the jaw harp. The event will be from 2 to 3:15 p.m. Friday, July 8, in the Lincoln High School band room.

Maguire, 56, of Minneapolis, also will perform for the grand opening of "Barn Again! Celebrating an American Icon," which is a Smithsonian Museum on Main Street Exhibition, and features a five-kiosk traveling exhibit that tells the history of American barns from the turn of the 20th century to the present.

The grand opening celebration begins at 7 p.m. at the Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village in Thief River Falls Friday, July 8. The event will feature Eric Bergeson, guest speaker, and Charlie Maguire. Children who participate in Maguire's workshop are also invited and encouraged to accompany Maguire in his performances during the opening ceremony.

An Interest in music

Charlie Maguire grew up on a farm in rural Clarence, N.Y., near Buffalo, the son of Don and Hazel Maguire. His father, who was actually born in a city outside of Boston, Mass., had a passion for farming and prior to serving in World War II, worked as a farm hand.

"I always say that my father was born in the city and always wanted to be living in the country," Maguire said. "I was born in the country and love living in a city. The desire to be rural seems to skip a generation."

The elder Maguire attended Cornell University, on the G.I. Bill Act of 1944, after his service ended. He later purchased a farm that would end up being the inspiration for countless stories that would provide the theme for a library of barn dance tunes.

"The farming I remember was from the mid 1950s to '60s, when you could make a living with 500 acres and 40 cows," Maguire said. "It was the golden age of farming."

Maguire's father was known throughout the Clarence, N.Y., area, which at the time was one of the top

Middle River woman receives donor knee tissue from late son

by April Scheinoha
Reporter

Cindy Brandon has learned that sometimes life is stranger than fiction.

In May, the Middle River resident broke her knee, requiring two surgeries so far. She also received donor tissue for her knee since all of the tissue between her tibia and kneejoint were missing.

Cindy wanted to thank the family who made it possible for her to receive the donor tissue. She called the Red Cross, asking if she could write to the donor family. A week and a day after her phone call, she received a letter from the Red Cross.

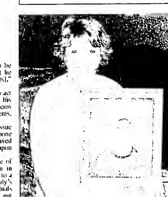
"I literally dropped the letter, and I cried for two days," Cindy said.

Her family was the donor family.

The story begins

Cindy's journey to recovery is being made possible as a result of a decision she and her husband, Scott, made almost three years ago. They made the decision to donate their son Cody's organs. Cody, 17, died after an accident in August 2002.

Even though he was a teenager, Cody discussed organ donation with his mom. "He and I talked about death, funerals and how it'd be nice to carry on after you die," said Cindy, who noted they mowed cemeteries together.



When Cody was able to get his driver's license, he and his mom again talked about organ donation. Cindy recalled telling him that he would be so old when he died that his organs wouldn't be able to be donated. "He just laughed, but he said it'd be so cool to help [others]," Cindy said.

Cindy and Scott later had to act on Cody's wishes to donate his organs. Among the donated items were Cody's eyes and ligaments, and the covering of his heart.

There was also the knee tissue that went to Cindy, who noted bone tissue and ligaments can be saved for up to five years depending upon the donor's age.

Cindy and Scott learned one of Cody's eyes went to a person in Switzerland and the other went to a person in Germany. Since Cody's eyes were donated to individuals overseas, Scott and Cindy are not

UMC names area students to chancellor's list

UMC students orginally from the northwest Minnesota area have been named to the University of Minnesota-Crookston chancellor's list. To qualify for a place on the chancellor's list, a student must complete at least 12 credit hours, while attaining a perfect 4.0 grade point average.

Chancellor's list students include:

- Badger - Jason Smith.
- Erskine - Naomi Schulstad and Veronica Olson.
- Greenbush - Alexis Graff.
- Hallock - Tiffany Johnson.
- Middle River - Jessica Smith.
- Newfolden - Ben Waterworth.
- Red Lake Falls - Carol Knutson and Richard Proulx.
- Roseau - Peter Kvien.
- Thief River Falls - Aaron Field, Joseph Field, Peter Mehrkens, Carolyn Paulson and Ryan Peoples.
- Wannaska - Ryan Ounham.
- Worrood - Nicholas Hazelton and David Ounehith.

Two area students participate in BSU's SOAR program

Mathew Verbout of Grygla and Heidi Matzke of Red Lake Falls attended the April Student Orientation, Advising and Registration (SOAR) program at Bemidji State University.

Verbout and Matzke will be freshmen at BSU this Fall.

SOAR is a day-long orientation program that gives new incoming students at Bemidji State the opportunity to meet individually with an academic advisor, undergo academic assessment, evaluate class placement recommendations, identify University academic expectations, be involved in small group discussions focusing on residential and campus life, and register for Fall Semester classes.

Bemidji State will enroll 930 new freshmen and transfers for Fall 2006.

WIC clinics to be offered in July

The Women, Infants and Children's Supplemental Nutrition Education Program (WIC) is being held the month of July.

Infants, children up to the age of 5, and women who are pregnant or breastfeeding may be eligible for the program. WIC Quin County is very interested in enrolling pregnant women in the program. It feels that the prenatal nutrition is a vital part of producing a healthy baby. It is important to apply for WIC early during pregnancy. No proof of pregnancy is required.

All potential clients must write or call the WIC Program and complete an application. The following is the schedule of WIC clinics for the month of June.

- Tuesday, July 5, at the Newfolden Community Center.
- Tuesday, July 5 and Wednesday, July 6, at the Warroad Community Center.
- Wednesday, July 6, at the Kittson County Courthouse in Hallock.
- Thursday, July 7, at the Red Lake Falls Community Center.
- Monday, July 11, through Thursday, July 14, at Redeemer Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls.
- Tuesday, July 12 and Wednesday, July 13, at the Roseau Area Hospital Basement Auxiliary Room.
- Monday, July 18, at the Evangelical Covenant Church in Warren.
- Tuesday, June 19, at the Karlstad Community Center.

North Valley Home Health will hold immunization clinics at the Newfolden and Warren clinics from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. An immunization record is needed before immunes will be given. For more information, contact North Valley Home Health at 218-745-5154.

More cool desserts for summertime:

This is one of my favorite desserts. It is a great woy to end a spaghetti meal:

FROZEN LEMON TORTE

3 egg yolks
1/2 cup sugar
Juice and rind of 1 lemon
1 rounded teaspoon cream of tartar
3 egg whites
1/4 cup sugar
1 cup cream, whipped
1/4 cup sugar
2/3 cup graham cracker crumbs

Mix egg yolks, sugar, juice and rind of lemon and cornstarch in saucepan. Stir and cook over medium heat until thickened. Set aside to cool.

Meanwhile, whip egg whites, adding the 1/4 cup sugar slowly, until firm peaks. Whip cream and add the other 1/4 cup sugar. Sprinkle 1/3 cup of the graham cracker crumbs in bottom of 9x9 inch plastic or glass pan that can go in freezer.

After lemon mixture is cooled, fold egg whites and whipped cream into the lemon mixture and pour over graham crackers in pan. Sprinkle with remaining graham crackers. Freeze overnight or until firm. Cut into squares to serve.

This is an easy dessert for a bunch. It is just as good made with o grahom cracker crust:

CLUB MEETING DESSERT

Pie pastry to line a 9x13 inch pan. Bake at 350 degrees until light brown.
1-1/2 cups cream, whipped
3 cups miniature colored marshmallows
1-1/2 cups coconut
1/2 cup sugar
3 cups sliced strawberries

Whip cream with sugar. Mix with marshmallows, coconut and strawberries and spoon into crust. Chill. Cut in squares to serve.

Here's o frozen pineopple dessert that is great for hot doys:

PINEAPPLE DESSERT

1 pound vanilla wafers, crushed
1/2 cup butter
1 cup powdered sugar
2 egg yolks
2 egg whites
1 cup nuts
1 cup crushed pineapple, drained
1 cup cream, whipped (can use 9 ounce thawed whipped topping)

Mix egg yolks, butter and powdered sugar and cook until thickened. Cool.

Meanwhile, crush vanilla wafers and place 3/4 of the crumbs in 9x13 pan.

Whip egg whites and fold into cooled egg yolk mixture. Sprinkle with nuts and the pineapple. Whip cream and place on top. Sprinkle with remaining crumbs. Freeze.

If you like pineapple, here's another one for you:

CLOUD NINE CREAM

8 ounce can crushed pineapple, drained and reserving 1/4 cup of the liquid
8 ounces cream cheese, room temperature
1 container thawed whipped topping
3 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup pecans
1/2 cup drained maraschino cherries

Beat cream cheese and gradually add reserved pineapple juice and sugar, beating well. Add whipped topping, pecans, pineapple and cherries. Cover and chill at least 3 hours.

Something different - on opricot dessert tonight:

APRICOT TORTE

3/4 pound vanilla wafers
3/4 cup butter
1 cup powdered sugar
2 beaten egg yolks
2 egg whites
1/2 cup pecans
1/2 pound dried apricots
1 cup cream, whipped with 1/4 cup sugar (or 9 ounce thawed whipped topping)

Do not cut up apricots, but cook and sweeten. Cool.

Crush vanilla wafers and put half of them in 9 inch square pan. Mix butter, powdered sugar and egg yolks and cook thick. Cool well.

Beat egg whites stiff and fold into cooled yolk mixture. Sprinkle with pecans. Orain apricots and lay out over pecans. Top with sweetened whipped cream, then sprinkle with remaining crumbs. Refrigerate a few hours or freeze.

Nothing to making something yummy for the kids ond everybody else too - ond it's good for them:

ORANGE ICE CREAM POPS

1 cup milk
6 ounce can frozen orange juice
1 pint vanilla ice cream

Blend smooth in blender. Freeze in paper cups with sticks inserted.

Here's one more tasty treot for dessert, especiolly if you're watching your diet:

MACAROONS

1 (16 ounce) package one-step angel food cake mix
1/2 cup water
1-1/2 teaspoons almond extract
2 cups flake coconut

Beat cake mix, water and almond extract on low speed for 30 seconds. Scrape bowl and then beat on medium for 1 minute. Fold in coconut.

Orop by rounded teaspoonfuls onto a parchment paper lined baking sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for 10-12 minutes or until set. Remove paper and cookies to a wire rack to cool.

Recipe makes 2-1/2 dozen cookies. One cookie equals 89 calories, 164 mg sodium, 0 chol, 16 gm carb, 2 gm protein, 2 gm fat. Oiabetic exchange is 1 starch.

Holiday travelers urged to prepare and focus

High traffic volume traveling at faster speeds and a spike in impaired driving historically make the Fourth of July weekend one of the deadliest travel periods of the year. This year, the Minnesota State Patrol is urging motorists to make driving decisions that will help them arrive at destinations safely.

During the Fourth of July travel periods from 2000 to 2004 in Minnesota, 35 people died and over 1,600 were injured in traffic crashes – nine died in 2004 alone. To date in 2005, 231 people have died in crashes compared to 295 deaths at this time last year – an 18 percent increase.

"This holiday celebrates 'life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness,'" said State Patrol Chief Mark Dunaski. "Motorists can avoid jeopardizing those if they prepare for their trip, follow the rules of the road and focus on driving."

Supplementing the caution warning, extra shifts of the State Patrol and law enforcement agencies will focus on speeding and impaired driving in the metro area and select corridors across Greater Minnesota.

The State Patrol encourages motorists to buckle up, drive sober, drive at safe speeds and pay attention. Motorists should include enough travel time to avoid traffic congestion and the urge to speed. Orivers should also slow down and move over a lane for law enforcement and emergency workers at the side of the road.

"Tired drivers can be just as deadly as impaired drivers," said Ounaski. He urges motorists to be well-rested for both legs of the trip. "We all know the return trip is no vacation. Orivers need to be prepared and focused for the ride home."

UCare Minnesota to hold informational meetings in July

UCare Minnesota will hold informational meetings about UCare for Seniors, a Medicare Advantage plan now available in Kittson, Roseau, Marshall, Polk, Pennington and Red Lake Counties during the month of May. Members of UCare's sales staff will discuss the UCare for Seniors Grand and Superior plans, the two health plan options being offered in northwestern and other Greater Minnesota counties. The UCare for Seniors Superior Plan features comprehensive coverage plus coverage for prescription drugs, eyewear and hearing oids. The UCare for Seniors Grand Plan offers comprehensive coverage but at a lower monthly premium.

With more than 28,000 members, UCare for Seniors is one of the state's largest Medicare Advantage plans. Eligible individuals can enroll at any time. To register for a meeting or for more information, call 1-877-523-1518 (toll free).

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Dave Hill, Editor

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Unless specified otherwise, the editorials are written by Editor Dave Hill and do not represent opinion of other staff members. Opinions in items from other publications may not coincide with the editor's own views but are offered for their general interest.

Bridging the difference requires leadership

Editor's note: Though legislators were unable to stick to their deadlines or find a compromise, I have a lot less flexibility. Deadlines in the newspaper industry are, more or less, not subject to change or variation. I therefore decided that I would have to write this editorial based on the assumption that legislators and leaders had still not reached a compromise.

Bull-headed, cantankerous, headstrong, inflexible, pig-headed, unmanageable, childish, and unreasonable. These are not words describing members of a dysfunctional family or fellow employees. They are just a sample of some of the words being used to describe Minnesota legislators.

General elections provide voters with an opportunity to vote for candidates we believe will represent our viewpoints. The same is true of candidates we elect to represent us at the state capitol in St. Paul.

Rep. Brita Sailer recently described it by saying that legislators are sent to the Capitol to fight for us - stick up for what we want.'

It hould come as no surprise to anyone that on occasion - O.K., lots of occasions - there are disagreements. As any adult knows, compromise is the only way these disputes are solved.

Faced with what appears to be an inevitable deadlock, our legislators in northwest Minnesota all stated recently that they believe a compromise is the only way to end this current deadlock.

- "I remain optimistic that middle ground will be reached...," Rep. Brita Sailer.
- "There are definitely things worth fighting for, but in my five years here, I have learned that at the end, compromise has to happen to finish," Rep. Maxine Penas.
- "Senate Democrats are committed to reaching a compromise," Sen. LeRoy Stumpf.
- "...I do remain confident that we will eventually work this out," Rep. Bernie Lieder.

Of course, these comments are only short quotes from what was said by these legislators. In their commentaries, they do make some other interesting points that are worth mentioning. For example, Stumpf pointed out that "A lot is at stake during this special session. Lawmakers need to think long and hard about what kind of Minnesota we want to live in." Lieder made a similar point, which I think helps explain why Legislators have had a difficult time reaching a compromise. He said the issues "strike to the very core of who we are and what our state is going to look like a year, two years, and a decade from now."

Yes, I doubt there's anyone out there who doesn't believe the battle is worth fighting.

As our most junior representative from northwest Minnesota, Sailer, pointed out, while the need and desire is there for compromise, "compromise does not mean capitulation."

The threat of closing down state offices that hangs over 14,700 state employees who have been deemed "unessential," is not unconscionable or without principle. To suddenly see your future sitting in limbo, however, must be terribly frightening, disconcerting and unreasonable. Employees who might be affected by a shutdown, have every right to be upset. In truth, nobody has won. Estimates indicate that it could cost taxpayers as much as $350 million. So, everyone one of us has a right to be angry. This is not the way government should work. Legislators have had lots of time to iron out their differences, and their inability to do so is hurting many of us, but what can we do?

In his most recent commentary to The Times, Lieder stated, "Bridging the difference will require real leadership." Taxpayers should let their legislators know how they feel, but they should also let party leaders know how they feel,...or they could wait until the next election.

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

Lake Bronson Centennial celebration July 28-31

Plans for Lake Bronson Centennial Celebration are well underway. The celebration weekend kicks off on Thursday, July 28, with a rummage/craft sale at the Kittson County Day Activity Center (DAC) from 3 to 8 p.m. Beginning at 5 pm, the Lake Bronson Senior Citizens will be hosting a fundraiser supper at the Village Square followed by musical entertainment from 7 to 9 p.m.

On Friday, July 29, the DAC's rummage/craft sale continues running from 9:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. and on Saturday, their sale will run from 9 a.m. to noon. There will also be an open house of their facility from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. They have put together a cookbook commemorating Lake Bronson's milestone and will be selling it throughout the weekend.

The Artists' Unlimited will be holding their art show and sale at the depot on the museum grounds on Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Saturday, from noon to 5 p.m. This art show is open to non-members, too. The club is encouraging past and present artists to bring in their artwork and displays. Artists' would like to have the artwork brought to the museum by Thursday afternoon so they have time to get the paintings ready for the show. For more information, can call Marge Anderson at 762-6371 after 3 p.m.

The North Kittson Rural Water will have an Open House from 10 a.m. to noon.

Registration begins at noon on Friday at the Village Square and on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. This is where banquet tickets, history books and any photos that were submitted for the history book can be picked up.

The food vendors and flea market vendors will begin setting up around 1 p.m. Check in with Lance at the Village Square for vending locations. In the event of rain, the flea/craft market will be held in the school gymnasium.

The Zion Lutheran WELCA will be hosting a pie social from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Zion Lutheran Church. This will be a great place to get a delicious piece of pie and do some visiting.

The Halma/Lake Bronson Legion Auxiliary will be serving lunch at the Legion from 2 to 5 p.m.

A Vintage Fashion Show will begin at 7 p.m. at the school gym. The theme of the program will be focused on fashions during "Bronson's" first one hundred years. The evening will conclude with a street dance from 9 to 1 a.m. with the music provided by Four Wheel Drive.

Beginning on Friday and running through the weekend, there will be commemorative souvenirs for sale at the community center along with VHS movies of past Lake Bronson events. The movies will run throughout the weekend for those who wish to take a break and escape the heat. Other activities throughout the weekend will be Rentertainment Inflatable Fun Games for the kids, an old time photo booth, food vendors and flea/craft market. Centennial buttons are currently being sold at local businesses. During the Centennial weekend, button numbers will be drawn and various prizes will be given away, including two $250 cash prizes. Winners must not be present, but must possess buttons to prove their winning.

Activities begin early on Saturday, with a pancake breakfast from 7 to 9 a.m. at the fire hall, sponsored by the Lake Bronson Fire Department. From 10 a.m. to noon, the fire department will host a Closest Pin Golf Tee Off fundraiser. This will be located north of the museum.

At 9 a.m. the softball tournament begins at the city park. Twelve teams are tentatively scheduled to take part in this two day tournament.

From 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., there will be an antique/classic car show and shine located on the west side of the museum; and an antique tractor display at the County Shed.

Registration begins at 10:30 a.m. at the museum for the kiddie parade. The theme is "Celebrate Lake Bronson." The parade will start at 11 a.m. at the museum. Registration for the main parade will begin at noon at the County Shop. The committee's goal is to have at least 100 entries. The parade will begin at 2 p.m. From 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., main-street will be closed for the parade. There will be a detour for through traffic.

Following the parade, a group of bagpipers from Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada, will entertain at the Village Square for an hour. This will be followed by the banquet catered by Frontier Foods at the Legion. Tickets need to be purchased in advance for the banquet. For more information, call Mary Jane or Cindy at 754-4100.

The Lake Bronson Fire Department will be holding a Firemen's Rodeo from 6 to 8 p.m. by the school.

Four Wheel Drive will again be providing music for the street dance, beginning at 9 p.m.; and "Ramblin' Fever" will be providing the musical entertainment at the Legion. Saturday's events will conclude with a fireworks display beginning at approximately 10 p.m., at the baseball field.

Centennial events continue Sunday. From 7 a.m. to 9 a.m., there will be breakfast at the Community Center, sponsored by the Lake Bronson Senior Citizens. Day two of the softball tournaments will begin at 9 a.m. The Community Covenant Church will be holding its service at the Village Square from 10 a.m. to noon. The Zion Lutheran Church will be holding its Sunday service at 11 a.m. at the church. Also, at 11 a.m., for those who would like to have a country church experience, there will be a traditional Scandinavian church service at the East Emmaus Church in Jupiter Township. Chaplain Gloria Swanson will lead the service with Scandinavian hymns sung by Lyndon Johnson.

The Kittson County Historical Society will be holding an open house from 1 to 3 p.m. on Sunday, with refreshments and musical entertainment.

The Centennial Committee encourages those who come to the celebration to take the time and enjoy the beauty of the area, including Lake Bronson State Park.

Obituaries: Bridges 18-footer, "A Good Rock"

An impromptu memorial service was held last Saturday for the Bridges 18-footer. Most fishermen in attendance marked the passing of the legendary submerged rock by trolling slowly around the reef and reminiscing about their past walleye exploits there. A few anglers, apparently overwhelmed by grief, actually tried to fish the site one last time, though their efforts met with predictable frustration and ended in robust choruses of cursing and shirt rending.

The Bridges 18-footer, known to locals and frequent lake users more familiarly as simply the "18-footer," died early in June after a lengthy battle with immeasurable tangles of de-spooled Fireline and countless stray chunks of Spiderwire, innumerable snagged marker-buoy cords, and a handful of severed anchor ropes.

The reef had successfully maintained its health for decades despite frequent seasonal bouts with discarded lengths of monofilament and Dacron fishing line. Those materials, in spite of cluttering the bottom with months of hook-snagging potential, managed to rot away to an unnoticeable fragility as sunlight and corrosive lake water broke them down. A summer of fishing indiscretions, in other words, could be overcome with time.

The onslaught of the new generations of fusion lines, however, proved more than the old reef could handle and it was declared dead at 11 a.m., on June 2 when longtime lake guide Gary Getsem proclaimed its demise.

"I had four people in my boat that day and we tried three separate drift lines across the rock. Now, anyone who's fished the '18' knows that we're talking an area of about two football fields in size. And you think I could find a clean pass? Heck, every one of us lost at least one rig per drift! So, I stood up and said 'This sucks! Never again will I fish on this rock.' And I haven't!"

Many other anglers around the area have supported Getsam's position. Hank Hogalot, for example, says it broke his heart to see an old friend die right underneath him.

"I could see it comin' from a long way away. The snags just kept gettin' worse about 10 years ago and they wouldn't be gone the next year. And then the next guy gets snagged and leaves another chunk and then the next guy leaves another and we all know that stuff has a half-life longer than plutonium. It doesn't rot away. It's like herpes - it's down there forever. And it's so tough, that guys don't even try to break it, they just have a knife on the dash to cut it off with right by the boat. That's 30 feet of lifetime annoyance for every snagged line! I'm really gonna miss that rock. Why, I remember once on the northwest edge of that thing, the steep edge, and we were banging away on the fish and..."

Hogalot was not completely pessimistic about the situation, however, and when he finally finished his ramblings, he offered some upbeat alternatives.

"I'm thinking, if we can get some zebra mussels imported here, we could clean up the water a bit and get those fish to feed up off the bottom more. Then it wouldn't make a rat's ass what kind of line a guy used. We could troll around anywhere."

The Bridges 18 footer is survived by its sister reefs, the Bridges 15-footer and the Bridges 21. Both are reported to be in failing health due to similar snag-prone issues and their demise is considered imminent. The 18-footer is also survived by its cousins, the Knight Island 15, 24 and 16-foot rocks, though their health has not deteriorated as quickly as that of the Bridges family due to some mapping inaccuracies on the new GPS chips, thereby leaving them less exposed to the new line dangers. The Knight Island 5-footer hasn't suffered any ill effects at all to date simply because its natural terrain was too snaggy in the first place for anyone to want to go there anyway.

FSA announces county committee elections process

Pennington County Farm Service Agency (FSA) Executive Director John Nelson announced that producers can nominate eligible candidates for the 2005 elections to serve on the FSA County Committee. The last day to file nomination forms is Aug. 1.

"County committees play an integral role in the local implementation of Farm Service Agency programs," said Nelson. "I encourage all producers, community-based groups and others who care about American agriculture to participate in the FSA county committee election process by nominating eligible candidates."

Farmers who serve on FSA county committees help ensure FSA agricultural programs adequately serve the needs of local producers. Committees make decisions on county commodity price-support loan eligibility, conservation programs, disaster programs, employment and other issues.

To be an eligible candidate, a person must participate or cooperate in an FSA program, be of legal voting age and live in the county or area where the election is being held. The 2005 county committee election in Pennington County will be held in Local Administrative Area (LAA) 1, which includes the townships of Black River, Bray, Norden, North, Numedal, Polk Centre and Sanders.

FSA will again be implementing an extensive outreach program to encourage greater participation of minority and women producers in the FSA county committee election process.

Individuals may nominate themselves or others as candidates. Ballots will be mailed to all eligible voters LAA 1 by Nov. 4. The deadline to return ballots is Dec. 5. Elected committee members and alternates take office on Jan. 1.

For more information about FSA county committees or to obtain nomination forms, call the Pennington County FSA Office at 681-1612, extension 2 or visit the office, which is located at 201 Sherwood Ave. S. in Thief River Falls. Producers can also go online at www.fsa.usda.gov/pas/publications/elections.

Renewable energy conference to be held in Bemidji July 26

"Powering the Northland" is the theme of the upcoming renewable energy conference to be held on Tuesday, July 26, at the Hampton Inn, in Bemidji. Keynote speakers, along with panel discussions, will address the issue of what is the future of renewable energy in northwest Minnesota. Conference highlights include information on Co-Generation/Biomass, Biodiesel, Ethanol, Hydrogen, Energy Demands of the Future, and Potential Growth in the Region.

Keynote presenters include: Al Christopherson, president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau; Rolph Nordstrom of the Midwest Hydrogen Initiative; Jim Bensen, president emeritus of Bemidji State University; and Gene Goddard, Minnesota Department of Employment and Economic Development. In addition, representatives from Potlatch, Marvin Windows, Northern Excellence, Energy and Environment Research Center of University of North Dakota, Minnesota Department of Agriculture, Agricultural Utilization Research Institute, as well as representatives from Beltrami Electric Cooperative and Otter Tail Power Company. Focusing on the potential growth of the region will be Anthony Schaffhauser of the Minnesota Department of Employment and Economic Development.

Registration information for the conference is available either online at www.mncpoe.org or by calling 800-279-5010 by no later than July 22. The cost for the conference is $25 per person and space is limited to the first 200 participants, so plan now to attend this exciting conference focusing on the future of renewable energy in northern Minnesota.

For more information, contact the following: Larry Young, Joint Economic Development Commission and Bemidji Bio, at 218-444-5757; Teresa Spaeth, Agricultural Utilization Research Institute (AURI), at 1-800-279-5010; or Tom Melin, Center for Producer Owned Energy, at 1-800-279-5010, extension 104.

TRF, Crookston split twinbill

Pitching was the difference Monday as Thief River Falls and Crookston split a Ninth District American Legion baseball doubleheader at Jim Karn Field.

Crookston won the opener 8-5; Thief River Falls took the five-inning nightcap 17-6. It was a make-up from a June 8 weather-related postponement.

Coming right from a championship performance in the Saturday-Sunday Perham Invitational, Thief River Falls simply didn't have enough arms left in the bullpen as Crookston scored five second inning runs for the Game 1 win.

"We battled after a tiring weekend," reported Thief River Falls coach Courtney Skjerven. "We just didn't have enough pitching left."

It was the host Crookston squad that had mound problems in the second game when nine walks and seven hits added up to a double-digit Thief River Falls offense. The winners got 11 of those runs in the fourth inning to shatter a 4-4 tie.

At the same time, Lucas Genereux and Thomas Johanneck performed credibly while stepping out of their normal roles to fill holes on the Post 117 pitching staff.

"Our bats came alive, and their (Crookston) problems throwing strikes took a lot of pressure off our pitching," explained Skjerven. "Lucas and Thomas did a nice job giving us innings. They don't usually see a lot of action on the mound."

Alex Carlson had a 5-for-7 doubleheader at the plate for Thief River Falls. He was 3-for-4 with a walk, drove in three runs, stole a base and scored three runs in Game 2. "Alex hit four balls really hard," noted Skjerven. "He is really carrying us in the middle of the line-up."

The split put Post 117 at 11-7 for the year. Thief River Falls will start July by playing 6 p.m. doubleheaders Thursday at Detroit Lakes and Friday vs. Perham at the Multi-Events Center.

Thief River Falls	112 001 0 -	5	9	5
Crookston	051 200 x -	8	12	3

Pitching - (TRF) Ross Helling 3 1/3 L, 0 runs, 10 hits, 3 strike-outs, 1 walk, Drew Kjono 1 2/3, 0 runs, 1 hit, 1 strike-out, Jon Dees 1, 0 runs, 2 hits. (Crookston) Jeff Chandler 6 W, 5 runs, 9 hits, 3 strike-outs, 5 walks, Shane Reynolds 0, 0 runs, 0 hits, Chris Erdmann 1, 0 runs, 1 strike-out.

Offensive highlights - (TRF) Alex Carlson 2/3, run sacrifice, Dan Kaushagen 2/4, double, walk, RBI, Drew Kjono 1/2, 2 walks. (Crookston) Ethel Hurst 3/3, Jeff Chandler 2/4, Josh Morgan 2/4, Isaac Peralta 2/4, Chris Erdmann 2/4.

Thief River Falls	013 112 -	17	7	1
Crookston	130 20 -	6	4	3

Pitching - (TRF) Lucas Genereux 2, 4 runs, 3 hits, 2 strike-outs, 4 walks, Thomas Johanneck 3 W, 2 runs, 1 hit, three strike-outs, 4 walks. (Crookston) Shane Reynolds 3 2/3 L, 11 runs, 6 hits, 1 strike-out, 6 walks, Reiner Simmons 1 1/3, 0 runs, 1 hit, 3 walks.

Offensive highlights - (TRF) Alex Carlson 3/4, walk, 3 runs, stolen base, 3 RBI, Drew Kjono 1/3, triple, run, 2 RBI, Justin Brooks 1/3, walk, 2 runs, Dan Kaushagen 1/4, double, 2 runs, RBI, Jon Dees 4 walks, Michael Benedict 3 walks, hit-by-pitch. (Crookston) Josh Morgan 2/3, 2 RBI.

VFW offense beats Fergus Falls twice

Fourth of July fireworks arrived early for the Thief River Falls offense as Post 2793 exploded for 31 hits and 34 runs in a Monday VFW baseball doubleheader sweep at Fergus Falls.

A 7-4 Game 1 victory was followed by 27-1 five-inning second-game blowout as Thief River Falls improved to 6-3 for the year.

"We played well," reported Thief River Falls coach Shane Zutz. "We are really hitting the ball well. The thing I like is that we aren't thinking too much; we are getting to the plate and swinging the bat."

Thief River Falls spotted Fergus Falls a 2-0 lead in the first inning of the first game, but went in front with a three-run third when Patrick Barry came through with a two-run double and Michael Blix added a run-scoring single.

A Barry double and Alex Yaggie single tacked on a fifth inning run.

Three sixth inning runs sealed it when Matt Nelson belted a two-run double and Barry followed with an RBI single.

The nightcap rout saw Thief River Falls nearly double a 14-1 lead with a 13-run fifth inning.

"We're right in the running for one of the top three or four places in the (Sixth) district standings right now," noted Zutz, whose team will return from a Fourth of July holiday break with a schedule showing four straight home doubleheaders: Thursday, July 7, vs. Crookston (5 p.m.); Monday, July 11, vs. Fergus Falls (3 p.m.); Wednesday, July 13, vs. Bemidji (4 p.m.); and Friday, July 15, vs. Perham (1 p.m.).

Oak Knolls Junior Golf Tournament set July 26

Oak Knolls Golf Course Junior Tournament will be held Tuesday, July 26, in Red Lake Falls.

Boys will golf in four age groups, with 15-17-year-olds, 13-14-year-olds and 11-12-year-olds playing 18 holes, while those 10-under play nine holes.

Number of entries will determine age group brackets for the girls.

Medal play will be featured in all age groups. Prizes and trophies donated by area business will be awarded.

Entry fee, which includes golf and lunch, is $10 for 18 holes and $5 for nine-hole groups.

Entries are preferred by noon July 25, but will still be accepted before 8:45 a.m. tournament day. A shotgun start is scheduled for 9 a.m. Send entries to tournament director Steve Philion, 518 Champagne Avenue, Red Lake Falls, MN 56750; telephone 218-253-2499.

The event is co-sponsored by the Holy Family Knights of Columbus Chapter of Red Lake Falls for the benefit of area youth.

Thief River Falls 16-year-olds...

VFW baseball squad tops Crookston 13-4

Thief River Falls handled Crookston, but couldn't beat the weatherman in Thursday (June 23) VFW baseball.

The Post 2793-sponsored 16-year-olds overcame an early 3-1 deficit to win the first half of a scheduled doubleheader 13-4.

Delayed by a storm that forced both teams to take shelter in a nearby school, the twinbill opener was completed. However, the weather prevented the second contest from being played.

A game-opening single by Sean Sorteberg and a sacrifice fly by Seth Schmitz provided Thief River Falls with a quick 1-0 first inning lead.

After giving up three runs in the bottom of the inning, Thief River Falls came back with a run in the second back-to-back base hits by Michael Blix and Cole Hunt and a two-out RBI single by Eric Blix.

Another two-out single by Eric Blix that was followed by a two-run double off the bat of Sean Sorteberg added up to a 5-3 fourth inning Post 2793 lead.

Two more three-run innings in the fifth and sixth made it an 11-4 game. Ben Carlson and Eric Blix had RBI singles in the fifth. The sixth inning offense featured singles by Cody Bottem, Schmitz, Cole Hunt and Alex Yaggie, along with a bases-loaded walk issued to Patrick Barry.

A two-out, two-run single by Barry completed the scoring in the seventh.

Scoring/Innings

Thief River Falls	110 333 2 -	13	17	3
Crookston	300 100 0 -	4	7	3

TRF pitching - Sean Sorteberg 7-W, 4 runs, 2 earned runs, 7 strike-outs, 3 walks.

TRF offensive highlights - Eric Blix 4/4, Alex Yaggie 2/4, Cole Hunt 2/4, Patrick Barry 2/4, Seth Schmitz 2/5, Cody Bottem 2/5.

Winter sports dates announced

■ Thief River Falls boys, girls 2005-06 schedules

Pearson meets Secretary of State Mary Kiffmeyer

Brittany Pearson of Newfolden was among the Hugh O'Brian Youth (HOBY) participants who recently met Secretary of State Mary Kiffmeyer.

Kiffmeyer addressed the HOBY Leadership Conference on June 12 at Macalester College.

"It's invigorating to participate in the HOBY conference," said Kiffmeyer. "The students are very bright and ask wonderful questions – they're really engaged and have a genuine interest in good citizenship activities. I know that many of these students will be among our state's leaders in the future – they're already well on the way."

HOBY seeks out, recognizes and develops leadership potential commencing with high school sophomores. It also encourages and prepares the next generation of civic and corporate leadership for America's future. It was founded by actor Hugh O'Brian (who played frontier lawman Wyatt Earp on television) in 1958.

On June 12, Hugh O'Brien Youth (HOBY) participants met Secretary of State Mary Kiffmeyer after she spoke at the HOBY Leadership Conference at Macalester College. Those meeting Kiffmeyer (far right) included (from left) Cevin Berube, New York Mills; Sam Honstrom, McGrath; Carmen Bot, Minneota; Sue Lyne Huynh, Shakopee; Frank Langen, Mahtomedi; Semi Miller, Proctor; Spencer Lien, Pequot Lakes; Brittany Pearson, Newfolden; Cherisse Roby, Cambridge; and Brite Thielen, Wheaton. Roseau County Fair Board to unveil centennial painting

The Roseau County Fair Board will unveil a centennial painting at Church Night at the Fair on Sunday, July 17 at 7 p.m. at the Roseau County Fairgrounds. The unveiling will be the fair's official kickoff to a year of celebration, which will culminate in the 100th Roseau County Fair in 2006.

The original piece was designed and painted by Marv Espe, artist and former Roseau County resident. Espe's love for the fair can be traced back to his grade school days when he would exhibit his artwork as a student. Espe has gone on to produce well over 800 original paintings, some of which he has exhibited as an adult at the Roseau County Fair.

"I have so much history with the fair and so many childhood memories," he said. "Days before the fair started, my brothers and sister and I would be talking about it and planning what rides we would go on and what we would see at the grandstand. We could hardly wait."

The centennial painting depicts the fairgrounds on a warm, July evening as the sun sets on another day at the fair. Espe captures the essence of the fair in his artwork by evoking memories of the past and bridging them with the present.

The original painting will be on display at the Magnusson Building, where prints will also be available for purchase. Espe, who currently resides in Solon Springs, Wis., will be on hand to sign prints and visit with the public. Proceeds from the sale of the prints will go towards supporting the fair.

The 99th Annual Roseau County Fair will be held July 17-22 in Roseau.

Three local students named to SCSU dean's list

Three area students have been named to the dean's list at St. Cloud State University. Students include Brianne Johnson of Argyle, Kurt Remick of Red Lake Falls and Willie Swanson of Roseau. To be eligible for the honor, students must achieve a grade point average of 3.75 or higher on a 4.0 scale.

Walk Pennington County begins July 5

The 2005 Walk Pennington County Program begins July 5. This program is sponsored by Northwest Medical Center (NWMC), Dakota Clinic - Thief River Falls, and the Pennington County Extension Office.

Program participants are asked to log "minutes exercised" in 15-minute blocks on a map of Pennington County. When the "walk" around Pennington County is complete, they are asked to mail the completed form to the Extension Office. The first 50 participants to complete the program will receive a free "I Walked Pennington County" t-shirt. Other participants finishing the program will have the option of purchasing a t-shirt. The program will end Sept. 30.

Walk Pennington County forms can be obtained at the front desk of NWMC, Dakota Clinic or the Extension Office at the courthouse. Questions regarding the Walk Pennington County Program can be directed to Kim Swanson at 683-7030.

House Democrats bring lights on plan to a floor vote

Representative Brita Sailer (DFL-Park Rapids) voted to pass a "lights-on" plan to keep Minnesotans, and their government, working. The bill (HF 99) would continue state funding, at current levels, through July 31. An attempt to bring the bill up for debate failed on a 70 - 63 vote; a 90 vote majority would be needed.

"We still need to resolve the issues of how to fund education, healthcare and transportation for the long-term," said Sailer. "In the meantime, we need to keep the lights-on in our nursing homes and our hospitals and keep those hard-working Minnesotans earning a paycheck.

Sailer noted the Legislature shouldn't hold the "working people of Minnesota hostage" by impacting their healthcare system delivery.

She continued, "Today's vote was not about whether Republicans win or Democrats win; it is whether the people of Minnesota win.

"It is time to vote to choose to keep the lights on while we focus on good solid policy and a fair budget for education and healthcare."

Area students named to UMD dean's list

The University of Minnesota Duluth recently released its spring semester dean's list. The UMD dean's list recognizes students who earned a grade point average of 3.5 or higher on a 4.0 scale. Area students who earned this honor include:

The Passion Lives On...The Steve Holmes Memorial Walk-a-thon

by Barb Geer

A centennial. One hundred years is a long time. The occasion of the 100th birthday of Middle River gave rise to the planning of an All School Reunion, held June 24-26. It was a weekend of memories, most happy, some sad. For those who live in Middle River today, the loss too soon of one of its favorite sons is a memory that refuses to recede, though that son would not want nor seek the attention.

It's just about two and a half years since the community of Middle River was shocked by the sudden death of one of its most respected citizens. Steve Holmes, a lifelong resident and teacher, had a strong influence on those who hailed from that city, but he also affected lives with a far greater reach.

Steve was born in 1948 in Thief River Falls and grew up in Middle River, attending and graduating from Middle River High School in 1966. He received his teaching degree from Moorhead State College and later, his elementary degree from Bemidji State University. In 1977, he married Gail Fuller and they made their home in Middle River, raising three children there; Adam, Alison and Kelsey.

Through the years, Steve taught elementary, physical education, and middle school social studies, as well as special education. He was passionate about learning, both for himself and his students. There was never a dull moment in his classroom and every student was important to him and knew it. He also coached various sports.

Steve served in the U.S. Marines from 1967 until 1978, then with the Roseau 314th Engineering Detachment from 1983 until 1988. He then moved to the 1-188 Air Defense Artillery at Grand Forks, N.D., until 2002. He served in various positions there, serving as Battalion Commander form January of 2001 until September of 2002. At the time of his death, he was operations officer for the HQ 164th Regional Training Institute at Devils Lake, N.D., holding the rank of Lieutenant Colonel. Steve was also passionate about patriotism and serving his country, serving as a long-time member of the American Legion Post 444 in Middle River.

Steve was also passionate about his church. He was a lifelong member of First Lutheran Church in Middle River, serving on the church council. He and his family rarely missed a Sunday, with the exception of Guard duty weekends.

One of Steve's main passions was physical fitness. In addition to what he did at school in phy-ed classes or as a coach, he could often be seen running for miles, or walking side by side with his wife. The walks were a great time for visiting, and many's the time when Gail and Steve would encounter a friend or neighbor and would stop to "shoot the breeze." No one was left out of their "circle of friends."

It is no wonder, then, that even now the name "Steve Holmes" is spoken in reverence in the town of Middle River. He will always be remembered for his kindness, his generosity, his helpfulness, and his smile. Middle River has no intention to forget, and the community has begun raising funds for the Steve Holmes Memorial Walk. The passion lives on.

The first annual Steve Holmes Memorial Walk-a-thon was held bright and early on the Saturday morning of the All School Reunion, hosted by members of the Class of '66, the one with whom Steve should have spent the weekend reminiscing, if only things were always right with the world. Chairpersons for the event were Janice Larson, Danny Geer and Sue Grindeland, classmates. Committee members had thought that they might entice about 15 walkers to make the four-mile trek, but were pleasantly surprised to find 78 people ranging in age from 7 months (in a stroller) to ages unknown. Friends, relatives, citizens, and classmates came to show their support for the project and for the family, thus giving the fund-raising efforts a healthy start.

The walkathon was led by Steve's wife, Gail, and two of their three children, Adam and Kelsey. Gail, too, is a teacher at Greenbush/Middle River School, teaching second grade. She has been there since 1974. Adam, a 2002 graduate of the University of Minnesota with a degree in economics, lives in Minneapolis and works for Target Financial Corporation. Kelsey will be a junior in the fall at the University of Minnesota, Duluth, majoring in psychology.

Alison could not attend the walk-a-thon because she is following in her dad's military footsteps and is currently stationed at Ramstein Air Base in Germany as a second lieutenant. She is a 2004 graduate of St. Thomas with a degree in computer science.

Estimates for the completion of the paved mile walk, which will span Middle River from one end to the other with a loop around the school, have been set at roughly $100,000. Plans are underway to pursue grant monies available, but in order to qualify, the community must show active fund-raising efforts of its own. Members of the Memorial Walk committee are Wendy Carriere, Pam Schenkey, Brian Peterson, Lynnette Brazier, Sybil Cwikla, Mark and Laurie Stromsodt, and Gail Holmes.

About the walk, Gail Holmes said, "Really awesome! I know what a good guy Steve was, but I'm glad to know that other people knew that, too."

Anyone wishing to "help the passion live on" can send contributions to Laurie Stromsodt, Chair, Steve Holmes Memorial Walk-a-thon, P.O. Box 27, Middle River, MN 56737.

Seventy-four walkers joined in the first annual Steve Holmes Memorial Walk-a-thon recently, kicking off a huge fundraising project in store for the committee that is determined to place a permanent walk in Middle River in Steve's memory.

The youngest participant in Steve's Walk, a fundraising event for a walkway in Middle River honoring Steve Holmes, was Adrie Geer, seven months.

Among the participants in Steve's Walk, a fundraising event for a walkway in Middle River that will honor Steve Holmes, were Steve's brother, Kirk Holmes, Steve's daughter Kelsey, his wife Gail, and son, Adam Holmes.

Roseau student wins Drive Your Future scholarship

As if being the first person in your family to attend college isn't thrilling enough, now a number of Minnesota students from area high schools have another reason to celebrate. They have been awarded Drive Your Future scholarships from Mercedes-Benz USA (MBUSA).

Six scholarship recipients reside in Minnesota, including Leah Juhl of Roseau. Juhl will be attending Concordia College in Moorhead this fall.

Through the Drive Your Future scholarship program, co-sponsored in part by MBUSA and local Mercedes-Benz dealers, $2,000, one-time scholarships will be awarded to help students offset tuition and school expenses. Mercedes-Benz will award a total of $1 million in scholarship funding to 500 college-bound students nationwide who are the first in their families to attend college. Nearly 2,000 high school seniors applied for the scholarships this year and were selected based on financial need and exceptional achievement in the areas of academic performance, leadership and school and community activities.

"It is extremely rewarding to have the opportunity to assist so many students across the country – students who have demonstrated significant achievements despite financial hardship or personal obstacles," said Paul Halata, president and CEO of Mercedes-Benz USA.

Now in its second year, the Drive Your Future program was developed to respond to a critical need for scholarships to help students offset the costs of post secondary education. Through support from Mercedes-Benz USA and its dealers nationwide, scholarship awards have doubled for 2005.

15th Roseau County Fair Parade will be July 19 at 6 p.m.

The 15th Annual Roseau County Fair Parade, sponsored by the Roseau Women of Today and the Roseau County Fair Board, is to be held on Tuesday July 19 at 6 p.m. Organizers would really like to see a wide variety of representation from throughout the county and is encouraging all businesses, non-profit organizations, event committees and organizations to bring a float and enjoy the fun.

Trophies will be awarded for the top three floats, so bragging rights are on the line. Any questions about the parade should be directed to Sonya Peterson at 463-9452. More information about lineup will be available closer to Fair Week. z

Embassy to host Jore Family in concert Sunday

The Embassy Community Center, Fosston, is proud to present the Jore Family of Williston, N.D., in a special concert to be held July 3 at 3 p.m.

Phil Jore has performed with the Minnesota Opera Company and has a wide background in plays and musicals. His wife, C'Dale, is an accomplished musician in her own right. She plays string bass, banjo, mandolin, fiddle and guitar. Their daughter, Schatzi, is a talented 13-year-old who plays 16 different instruments. At age 12, she recorded her first CD. She has performed at the Minot Host Fest and is a featured performer at the Medora Musical.

Jaw harpist to perform in TRF

Charlie Maguire to play jaw harp for Barn Again!

milk producing areas in the nation. According to Maguire, back then New York state actually produced more milk than Wisconsin.

The farm setting would eventually provide the backdrop for the beginning of Maguire's music career, but it didn't begin that way. Maguire's parents were fans of clarinetist Benny Goodman and the big band swing style music that he helped make popular for many years. Maguire also developed an early appreciation for music. At the encouragement of his parents, he attempted to learn Goodman's instrument, the clarinet.

Maguire never found success with his clarinet. He feels that may have something to do with his desire to sing, rather than play a wind instrument. He only lasted a couple of weeks on the clarinet and officially gave it up when a friend's older brother left his guitar behind when joining the Navy.

Maguire borrowed the guitar and spent $2.95 on a book titled "Play the Guitar in 30 Minutes." It may have been the best money Maguire ever spent as he began his slow journey toward a career in music. Unsure of his parent's reaction to his new endeavor, he would practice his guitar in the barn, keeping his new hobby and purchase a secret.

"My first audience was actually the cows in the barn," Maguire said. "I couldn't have done too bad, because they (the cows) didn't seem upset."

Maguire continued to perform for the family's livestock for a few months. He finally performed for his family on Thanksgiving Day. Family members were both stunned and impressed.

"It was a total surprise to them, as I had done my practicing out in the barn," Maguire said. "They looked at me as I stood there about to play in public for the first time, as if I had walked in the room carrying a canoe."

By the mid 1960s, Maguire was honing his guitar skills with some of the pioneers of folk music. He attended Northland College in Ashland, Wis., graduating with a liberal arts degree in 1970.

After earning his degree, Maguire served in VISTA, now known as AmeriCorps. There he continued to play his guitar, while teaching English as a second language, collecting songs, making field recordings and publishing a songbook for teachers and children of migrant workers, while serving in the western Nebraska and eastern Wyoming area.

Maguire originally planned to return to New York after his VISTA service was complete. He changed his plans when a friend convinced him to move to Minnesota where he could follow in the footsteps of a folk legend that also began his career in Minnesota, Bob Dillon.

Judy Larson, a friend of Maguire who worked with Dillon, introduced Maguire to Garrison Keillor, who had just started hosting a syndicated radio show called "A Prairie Home Companion."

"He'd done two shows already and I was on the third show," said Maguire, who made regular appearances on the show for 10 years. "Garrison helped me a lot that way. ['A Prairie Home Companion'] really took off once he was able to get some radio stations to air the show."

Maguire has been a Minnesota resident since 1972 and continues to reside in Minneapolis.

Barn dance music

When the Barn Again! Smithsonian project began in January 2004, project leaders wanted someone with firsthand farm experience and a musical background to provide the much needed music for the program.

"They wanted someone who was raised on a farm who could tell authentic stories through music," Maguire said.

Also a plus, Maguire is no stranger to collaborations like Barn Again! He was chosen because of his extensive musical background that currently includes 800 songs and seven albums during a 33-year career as a professional musician.

Describing his music, Maguire said, "My songs are true and I think they're fairly positive."

Maguire, along with guest speaker Eric Bergeson, will share stories of life growing up on the farm. He feels that the program provides an intimate look at a setting that is forgotten as small farms are bought out by empires.

"This is a wonderful program," Maguire said. "After the run in Minnesota it all goes back to the Smithsonian and it may not be back for a while."

Maguire was also complimentary of the effort volunteers, like Faye Auchenpaugh and Nancy Tofte, have made to enhance the Barn Again! exhibit in Pennington County.

"What I really like is each community that hosts Barn Again! puts its own little spin on it," Maguire said. "Every community finds something new to put with the program itself."

Jaw harp

Children participating in next week's jaw harp workshop will be encouraged to accompany Maguire during his performance in the Barn Again! opening ceremony.

The jaw harp is a unique instrument that can be made using a variety of materials. It is a small instrument that is played while being held against the teeth or lips and plucked with the fingers.

The funny part, said Maguire, is it's only complete when pressed against the teeth. He added that the mouth then acts like an acoustic box, allowing the player to have some control over pitch and volume.

The jaw harp itself is estimated to be at least a 2,000-year-old instrument, with the oldest known harps coming from Asia. Maguire estimates that their existence may date further back. He believes that many of the harps mentioned in ancient texts were actually jaw harps.

"They say Homer played the harp, but I don't think it was the harp angels play. I think it was a jaw harp," Maguire said.

His belief is seconded by the Jew's Harp Guild, an organization that is committed to preserving the jaw harp's legacy. According to The Jew's Harp Guild, the oldest known jaw harp was found in Japan in 1990. It's estimated age was 1,000 years.

The jaw harp has been developed in several cultures, England, Germany, Japan, Russia, Siberia, Philippines, Italy, Norway, France and Bali.

Maguire said modern jaw harps are more of a novelty than their predecessors, adding, "You come to a community and reintroduce something that was always there, but people forgot about." "Some people's memories will be awakened."

Jaw harps will be provided free of charge to children who participate in the workshop. Maguire said the instrument is one of the easiest to learn and most children will be able to play in only 45 minutes.

Cody keeps giving...

able to be in contact with the recipients.

"He's seeing things he'd probably never see if he lived," Cindy said.

Cody's gift

Cindy received her son's donor tissue after she became injured while helping her son Jamey move a mini-bike. Due to problems with her shoulder, she decided to drive the mini-bike to its spot in a garage instead of pushing the mini-bike. At the same time, a person was parking a pickup truck near Cindy. Cindy got tangled up in the rear wheel of the truck. The mini-bike landed on top of her.

Her kneejoint was driven down three inches, she said. She had blown her anterior cruciate ligament and the tendons holding her kneecap. All of the tissue between her tibia and kneejoint were missing.

Cindy was transferred from Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls to RiverView Health in Crookston as there are three orthopedic surgeons on staff there. On May 6, she had her first surgery in Crookston and received Cody's donated knee tissue.

After Cindy's surgery, the doctors found that part of her kneejoint was missing. The joint was driven down almost to Cindy's ankle, she said. Cindy added that she lost a lot of bone marrow. Three days after her first surgery, she underwent another surgery for that repair.

In all, 12 screws and two plates were placed in Cindy's leg. She will need another surgery one-and-a-half years from now to remove a plate from her leg.

"I really think this was Cody's way of telling me to slow down," said Cindy, who noted he didn't have to break her leg to get her to slow down.

Cindy was in the hospital for 11 days. She was confined to a wheelchair for six weeks after her surgery, but she is now using a walker. When someone asked her why she was using a walker instead of crutches, she recalled, "I said, 'I'll break my other leg.'"

Cindy continues her recovery, and she feels Cody has made his presence known to her. "He's with me a lot," she said.

Ever since she received the donor tissue, Cindy has been wearing her seat belt. She didn't even notice it until Scott mentioned it to her. It's ironic because Cindy said, "Cody preached so bad about [wearing a seat belt]."

Cindy has also started sleeping like a teenager – until 10 a.m. Cindy has never slept that late before, she said.

Every time she sleeps until 10 a.m. or looks at her leg, Cindy will surely think of Cody. She said, "He was a fantastic kid."

County Board okays action on several highway matters

Warren - Payment of nearly $20,000 for right-of-way easements on 22 parcels of land needed for two highway construction projects was approved by the Marshall County Board of Commissioners at its Tuesday meeting.

In other highway business, the board approved two bridge contracts and called for bids for work on County State Aid Highway 48.

Work on restructuring County Road 150 in the Stephen area requires obtaining easements on 18 parcels. The board authorized issuing $17,941.90 of warrants for the easements. Payments range from $414 to $2,737. Work on Township Road 1 at Alvarado requires easements on four parcels, with total payment of $1,836 authorized. - Warren Sheaf, July 6, 2005

Parents should know four "B" rule

Baudette - Parents should be aware of a new dress code at Lake of the Woods School as back-to-school fliers begin arriving in mailboxes.

Last year, the student council and school administrators reviewed policies from 10 other schools and created their own draft version. Until this was done, the school's dress code policy was vague, saying only that clothing must meet "reasonable standards."

The student council presented its plan to the student body before school let out. In general, the policy covers the four "B" rule: No butt, back, belly or bosom showing. - Baudette Region, July 6, 2005, by Penny Mio

LMC regional meeting held in RLF

Red Lake Falls - Elected and appointed officials from cities across northern Minnesota met June 28 at the Red Lake Falls Community Hall for the first of nine regional meetings led by the League of Minnesota Cities. These meetings were designed to engage officials in discussions of timely issues affecting Minnesota cities. Fifteen cities' representatives participated in the meeting. - Red Lake Falls Gazette, July 6, 2005

Recovered MIA soldier has connection to Fosston residents

Fosston - Siblings Francis Abele, Bernie Schultz of Fosston and Robert Schultz of Montana traveled with their spouses to Fergus Falls to pay their final respects to their cousin and recovered missing-in-action (MIA) soldier, John Oscar Strum.

Strom, whose remains were discovered during a U.S. – North Korea Military recovery mission in 2002, had been MIA since November 1950.

On Nov. 1 and 2, 1950, his division was engaged by Chinese regulars in the Camel's Head area of Unsan County, North Korea. All records indicate that his unit ceased to exist following this firefight. Strom was officially listed as MIA in 1950.

Strom was laid to rest June 29. - The 13 Towns of Fosston, July 5, 2005

Wal-Mart is coming

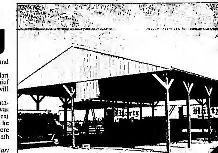
by April Schelnoha
Reporter

It's official – the future site of a Wal-Mart store in Thief River Falls has been sold to a division of the Wal-Mart Corporation.

Two deeds were filed Thursday in the Pennington County Recorder's Office for that parcel and another nearby parcel, according to County Recorder Ken Schmalz. He noted the parcels were purchased for a total of $627,850.

Wal-Mart Real Estate Business Trust was listed as the buyer for the parcel that will be used for the 155,000-square-foot Wal-Mart Supercenter. Wal-Mart Stores Inc. was listed as the buyer for the other parcel, which may be used for a future restaurant or bank.

The parcels, located near Highway 59 Southeast, were previously owned by Jake and Anne Barnick of Thief River Falls.



Thief River Falls Mayor Dale Wennberg signed two papers Thursday morning related to the future Wal-Mart Supercenter. The agreements, covering road improvements and a future traffic control signal system, were approved at the June 28 meeting of the Thief River Falls City Council. However, the council approved those items contingent upon two items, the sale of the property and a signed developer's agreement between Wal-Mart and the city.

The developer's agreement outlines the city's and Wal-Mart's responsibilities pertaining to the future construction of the store. Under the agreement, Wal-Mart would reimburse the city for a nearby traffic control signal system and road improvements.

Wennberg hopes the Wal-Mart store will bring more people to Thief River Falls. "I'm still hoping it will help all the businesses," he said.

In April, a Wal-Mart representative noted the Supercenter was expected to open for business next spring. However, at that time, he also said construction on the store was expected to start last month (June).

In October 2004, Wal-Mart announced plans to open 40 to 45 new discount stores and 240 to 250 new Supercenters in the fiscal year. The company expects that relocations or expansions of existing discount stores will account for approximately 160 of those Supercenters, while the remainder will be new stores.

Pennington County Fair board is in the process of completing construction of a new beer garden shed on the fairgrounds. The shed, which is located near the band shell, should be completed in time for the Pennington County Fair July 12-17.

Summertime

With temperatures in the 80s Thursday, 5-year-old Thief River Falls residents Blaine Murphy (left) and Logan Williams took advantage of the weather at Tindolph Beach in Thief River Falls.

Pennington Co. Fair to open

The Annual Fair runs from July 12-17

"The Best Fair Alive In 2005" is the theme for the 104th Annual Pennington County Fair. Events and activities for this year's fair begin on July 12, though the midway, featuring Rogers Brothers Shows Funland, doesn't open until Wednesday, July 13.

Outdoor Extravaganza

New this year is the Northwest Minnesota Outdoor Extravaganza. Vendors displaying outdoor products and services will have displays set up in the arena. This is the first time the Ralph Engelstad Arena has been opened up to vendors and public during the fair. For information about booth space, contact Ray Safranski at 218-681-4287.

Safranski reported this week that between 20 and 25 vendors have agreed to display products and services on the main floor of the new arena.

There is an admission charge: $3 for adults, and $1 for children 12 and under.

Motocross and ATV Mud Run

Look for lots of action in the grandstand. Feature events at the Pennington County Fair Grandstand include a motocross, two nights of PBR bullriding, demolition derby, and this year, the ATV mud run. The popularity of the mud run has grown so much over the past few years that the event has been moved to the grandstand.

Kick up your heels at TRF bull ride

Get ready to kick up your heels - the two-night Thunder on Hooves Professional Bull Ride event will be thundering into Thief River Falls for the 104th Pennington County Fair again.

Thunder on Hooves will appear before the Pennington County Fair Grandstand beginning at 7 p.m. on July 15 and 16.

Thunder on Hooves is on the U.S. Smokeless Tobacco Challenger Tour. According to the Professional Bull Ride Web site, at www.pbrnow.com, "Similar to baseball's minor league system, the PBR's U.S. Smokeless Tobacco Challenger Tour serves as a "feeder" tour that gives bull riders the opportunity to earn a spot on the 45-man Built Ford Tough Series roster. After every fifth series event, the five top-ranked bull riders in the Challenger Tour standings are bumped up to the series and replace the five lowest-ranked series competitors. This cycle ensures that only the best riders compete in the BFTS. More than 65 Challenger Tour events span the globe each year."

According to the official Thunder on Hooves Web site, this year's barrel man will be Donnie Landis, Eric Olson and James Northey will be the bullfighters, and Dusty Broughton the announcer.

If you've never been to a bull ride, there's more to it than bucking bulls - take Donnie Landis - please.

G8 issue: Local resident shares her perspective on the crisis in Africa

Don't ignore Africa's children

(Editor's note: Kate is the daughter of Dr. Steve Levinson and Teresa Levinson of Newfolden. She is a 2003 graduate of Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls. She attends Ithaca College, N.Y.)

by Kate Levinson

I was home from college last summer for a couple of weeks, and one day the Minnesota sun was shining so brightly it was almost ordering me to wash my dirt-encrusted and slightly neglected car. A friend from New York called while I was lining up my bucket and sponges; when I told him I had to call him back because I was about to wash my car, he said, "What? They actually have car washes there?"

"Of course they do," I laughed. If he was not floored already, my telling him I opt for a sudsy bucket and some elbow grease put him right into the basement.

Yesterday I laughed remembering that phone call and looked up the hose. It didn't take much scrubbing before I saw it: my two-year-old vehicle's very first dent. I doubt I'll ever win any good-driving awards, but my record is clean, and so is my head. Clean enough, I assume, that I would have noticed hitting something or something hitting me had I been in the car when the right door got its ding. A parking lot, I'm sure. Someone opened their door into the side of my little SUV and walked away.

I've always been fairly laid back, and after spending a semester in Uganda, even more so. But I couldn't shake this dent. My mom laughed and told me to calm down, it's only a little dip, my dad, who will pace in circles around his car in parking lots in hot pursuit of a dent, told me he's proud.

Either way, it's not the thought of the imperfection itself that I can't shake from my mind. It's how a person could slam his or her door into the side of another's vehicle and simply walk away.

How people in general make messes and don't clean them up.

How we turn our backs on the things we can't lick our fingers and wipe away.

Or how we wipe away what we don't understand.

In Uganda, people don't habitually wash their cars. In Uganda, the vast majority of the population doesn't own cars. I lived for a month in a refugee settlement, where refugees with 1970s bicycles were about as populous as Americans with Rolls Royces.

During my month there, I researched refugee youth, coming to realize that a particular passage I once read in The Poisonwood Bible was far more than fiction. "I could see that the whole idea and business of Childhood was nothing guaranteed," Barbara Kingsolver, as a young white girl in Africa, writes. "It seemed to me, in fact, like something more or less invented by white people and stuck onto the front end of grown-up life like a frill on a dress."

In that spirit, the following is an excerpt from the introduction of my culmination of my experiences:

I spent the month of April 2005 at Nakivale Refugee Settlement in southwestern Uganda, learning that perhaps not all childhoods are created equal; in fact, many cease to exist at all. I explored the intricacies of the lives of young refugees, doing my best to put myself in their bare, calloused, dirt laden feet seeing the challenges and the joys what they need and what they have, what they have endured and what they hope for.

In just their handful of years, these refugee youth have had the frills of their dresses ripped off in single, swift movements, leaving them with the burden of lives too old for their bodies, their minds and their souls. At the same time, their experiences have given them a wealth of knowledge about society and the world which carries with it

Minnesota Twins Baseball Clinic in Karlstad July 22

A free Minnesota Twins Baseball Clinic will be held at John Oistad Field in Karlstad on Friday, July 22. The event is open to children ages 6 to 16, and a Minnesota Twins cap will be presented to all participants.

The clinic will be divided into two clinics, the first clinic, for ages 6 to 9, will be from 3 to 4:30 p.m. The second clinic, for children ages 10 through 16, will be from 4:30 to 6 p.m.

Karlstad Lions Club will be serving supper of potato salad, beans and hot dogs, from 4 to 7 p.m. at the baseball field.

For more information, contact John Oistad at 218-436-2533. In case of rain, the clinic will be held in the high school gym.

Mutton Busting offered at Thunder on Hooves in TRF

Children can participate in Thunder on Hooves.

Thunder on Hooves, a Professional Bull Ride sanctioned event, will take place in front of the Pennington County Fairgrounds Grandstand July 15 and 16. While the event features some of the country's top professional bull riders, children can participate, too.

Children, ages 4 to 8 and under 70 pounds, can register at the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce for the nightly mutton busting event. Mutton busting involves riding a sheep in the middle of the grandstand arena.

The Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce is located on Highway 59 SE in Thief River Falls. For children to participate in the event, parents must sign a release form at the time of registration. Only 20 children per night will be able to participate in this event, so sign up now. For more information about the event or registration, contact the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce at 218-681-3720.

Rydell NWR to host avian ambassadors

On Sunday, July 10, Rydell National Wildlife Refuge (NWR) will host the fourth in its weekly Learning at the Lakes program series by Greg Brooks, titled Avian Ambassadors: Destiny and Sully. It begins at 2 p.m. at the Rydell NWR Visitor's Center and is free to the public.

The program features Destiny, a bald eagle, and Sully, an owl. Brooks will provide information on bird conservation and birds.

Rydell NWR is located three miles east of Mentor on Highway 2, then south 2.5 miles on Polk County 210. For further information, contact Rydell Refuge at 1-800-841-0172.

It's fair week next week so how about making up some fair food this weekend to get ready:

Here's a fair (or anytime) favorite. I use two of those "disposable" turkey-roasting pans to bake mine:

BAKED CARAMEL CORN
1 cup margarine
2 cup packed brown sugar
1/2 cup corn syrup
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon vanilla
6 quarts popped corn

Melt butter in large pan (mixture will foam up when soda is added). Stir in brown sugar, corn syrup and salt. Bring to boil, stirring constantly. Boil without stirring for about 5 minutes. Remove from heat and stir in vanilla and soda. Gradually pour over popcorn, mixing well.

Put into 2 large cookie sheets and bake at 250 degrees for 1 hours, stirring every 15 minutes. Remove from oven and cool completely. Break apart and store in tightly covered container. Makes about 6 quarts.

Make a bunch of these in different festive colors for your pre-fair party:

RAINBOW POPCORN BALLS
1 cup corn syrup
1/2 cup sugar
1 3 ounce box flavored gelatin
1/2 pound salted peanuts
9 cup popped corn

Combine sugar and syrup and bring to a boil. Remove from heat. Add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Add peanuts. Pour over popcorn, mixing well. Shape into 1-1/2 inch balls. Wrap in waxed paper or plastic wrap. Store in airtight container. Makes 4 dozen little popcorn balls.

Finger foods are just right for fair eating:

CARAMELIZED CHICKEN WINGS
1/2 cup water or more
1/3 cup sugar
1/3 cup soy sauce
6 minced green onions or 1 tablespoon dry onion flakes
6 chicken wings, disjointed with tip removed

Combine ingredients with wings. Cover and simmer for 30 minutes, then uncover and simmer until tender and caramelized, watching carefully so it doesn't burn. These are quick to fix and delicious cold.

Great to serve with the chicken nibbiers above:

NUTS AND BOLTS
6 ounce package pretzels
1 package Wheat Chex cereal
1 package Rice Chex cereal
1 package Cheerio cereal
Salted peanuts
Cashews

Mix above ingredients together in large roasting pan.

Sauce:
1 cup salad oil
1/2 cup butter or margarine
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
2 teaspoons celery salt
1/4 teaspoon garlic salt

Mix sauce ingredients and pour over cereal mixture. Stir well. Bake at 200 degrees for 1-1/2 hours, stirring frequently. Can be stored in freezer.

Have these in a pan in the freezer to pull out and cut into squares when you want your own "fair food":

ICE CREAM CRUNCH
1/2 cup brown sugar
2 cups flour
1 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup oatmeal
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1/2 gallon vanilla ice cream
2/3 jar of butterscotch ice cream topping

Mix all ingredients except ice cream and butterscotch topping. Press onto a cookie sheet. Bake at 400 degrees for 15 minutes. then crumble.

Spread half on bottom of 9x13 pan and top with the ice cream. Crumble remaining crumbs over top. Drizzle with 3/4 jar of butterscotch topping. Freeze until serving.

Lots of peanut bars just right for snacking:

PEANUT MARSHMALLOW CHEWS
1-1/2 cups flour
2/3 cup brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon soda
1/2 cup butter or margarine
2 egg yolks
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 cups miniature marshmallows

Mix flour, brown sugar, baking powder, salt and soda. Add butter, egg yolks and vanilla and mix well. Press in 9x13 inch pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 12-15 minutes.

Sprinkle with marshmallows, return to oven for 1-2 minutes until puffy and then cool. Meanwhile, prepare Topping below.

Topping:
2/3 cup white corn syrup
1/4 cup butter
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 (12 ounce) package peanut butter chips
2 cups crispy rice cereal
2 cups salted peanuts

Heat syrup, butter, vanilla and chips in double boiler (or carefully in micro) until chips are melted and blended. Add cereal and peanuts and spread over crust. Cool. Recipe makes 2 dozen yummy bars.

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Dave Hill, Editor

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Unless specified otherwise, the editorials are written by Editor Dave Hill and do not represent opinion of other staff members. Opinions in items from other publications may not coincide with the editor's own views but are offered for their general interest.

Put on that mosquito spray.

According to the Minnesota Department of Health, a dead crow found in Dakota County on June 24 tested positive for West Nile Virus. They followed that announcement with a warning: "Confirmation of our first bird means that the virus is starting to circulate between birds and mosquitoes and soon there will be a heightened risk of infection in humans."

West Nile Virus is a mosquito-transmitted virus that can cause encephalitis in some people. This virus usually circulates between mosquitoes and birds in Africa and Europe. However, in 1999, an outbreak of West Nile encephalitis was reported in New York City. Since then, the virus has spread to 47 states and the District of Columbia.

Most people who are bitten by infected mosquitoes will experience either no symptoms, or mild illness. However, there is a serious down side to West Nile Virus for those who do experience symptoms. In September of 2004, the Department of Health reported that Minnesota had recorded its second death from West Nile Virus.

Because of the amount of rain the region has recorded in the past days, weeks, and months, (It seems like it rains every other day), it hardly seems worth it for a community to spray for mosquitoes. Under these conditions, widespread spraying for mosquitoes almost seems like a waste of money. Instead of complaining about a spraying campaign that seems doomed to produce, at the most, moderate results at this time, residents should exercise a little personal initiative and put on some bug spray. They can also help by doing as much as possible to remove or eliminate mosquito breeding sites on their property. Doing so may do much more to reduce your chances of getting West Nile virus than any effort by a community when it rains every other day.

The Department of Health offers the following: The number of mosquitoes that are actually capable of causing infection in humans is relatively small, but it is always advisable to take preventive measures to protect yourself.

- Wear mosquito repellent containing up to 30 percent DEET (10 percent for children).
- Wear long sleeve shirts and pants.
- Avoid outdoor activity at peak mosquito feeding times (dawn and dusk).
- Eliminate water-holding containers (buckets, tires, etc.) from your property.

Doing these few things, will reduce numbers of several mosquito species, and may help reduce your risk of getting West Nile Virus.

More information on West Nile and other forms of mosquito-borne encephalitis is available on the MDH Web site, and on the Centers for Disease Control Web site.

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

LETTERS

It's broke, let's fix it

To the Editor:

I am speaking of the Minnesota Legislature and the leadership of both political parties at the state level. One legislative leader indicated this current process is dysfunctional, and I agree.

The average citizen and voter may say, "What can I do about it?" A lot. Start with voting out every incumbent that will file for re-election in 2006, when all house and senate seats are up for election. If members of the current legislature had any sense of decency, each would decline to run again. That may seem harsh to certain individual legislators, however, we elected them to represent us and to lead. They only have themselves to blame as they allow their respective party special interest groups to dominate their party leadership. Each party bears equal responsibility. The extreme 'right' and 'left' positions of the parties has left the legislative process impotent.

While not a proponent of term limits in the past, I feel it's time has come in Minnesota. Limit each to eight years of service, which would be four terms for a representative and three terms for a senator. Part of the problem in Minnesota, is that we have deviated from a citizen's legislature to a professional legislature; contrary to the intent of our state's forefathers. Long-time legislators from 'safe districts' have little to lose by dragging out the process.

Another solution, may be one suggested by Jesse Ventura, during his tenure as governor, that of a unicameral Legislature. I did not think much of that proposal at the time, but maybe Jesse was a person of vision after all.

Any other ideas? It can't get any worse than what we have.

First detectors standing by to help farmers catch soybean rust quickly

When it comes to watching out for soybean rust, Minnesota farmers have support this summer from a volunteer network of agricultural professionals trained as "first detectors" for the crop disease.

The University of Minnesota (U of M) Extension Service created the first detector network in partnership with the U.S. Department of Agriculture's National Pest Diagnostic Network, the Minnesota Department of Agriculture (MDA) and other members of the state's Soybean Rust Task Force. Earlier this spring, the partner organizations trained the volunteer first detectors to serve as contacts for farmers who believe they may have found soybean rust in their fields. Over 140 first detectors were trained. Upon being contacted by a farmer, the first detector will conduct a preliminary examination of samples to determine if they should be sent to a laboratory for further diagnosis.

Soybean rust is a fungal disease that can cause significant yield losses in soybeans and other affected crops such as dry edible beans. It is spread by the wind, and has infected soybean fields in many parts of the world. Last November, the disease was detected in Louisiana – the first time soybean rust had been found in North America. While rust has not yet spread north in 2005, growers across the country remain concerned and watchful.

A number of fungicides are available to protect soybeans from rust-related damage. However, for these products to be effective, they must be applied either before infection occurs (protectants) or in the early stages of an infestation (curatives). This means early detection and diagnosis of soybean rust in a field is vital, according to Dean Herzfeld, coordinator of the Extension Service's Pesticide Safety and Environmental Education program, the first detectors are a very important help in this effort.

"Soybean rust is tough to spot in the field because it looks a lot like other diseases," said Herzfeld. "Early identification of when and where soybean rust shows up in Minnesota gives us an edge. Having a team of trained detectors available around the state will be an important resource for farmers this summer."

The first detectors were recruited from a pool of qualified ag professionals that includes crop consultants, field scouts, MDA and U of M faculty and staff, and staff at seed companies, ag retail dealers, ag co-ops and other industry businesses or organizations.

To find a local first detector, growers should contact their county extension office or the statewide farm information line at 1-800-232-9077. Information is also available at www.extension.umn.edu/distribution/cropsystems/DC8125.html.

more power than they—and likely we—understand.

These children are the injured, oppressed, uncertain future—but they are the future nonetheless, and that is an appointment they cannot decline.

These children live in mud huts and make soccer balls from shreds of plastic bags tied together with banana leaves. They eat what is usually their only meal of the day from large sacks printed with GIFT OF THE USA, and by the end of the month, even that is gone. They contract malaria because they cannot afford mosquito nets and trudge through the mud barefoot because they do not have shoes.

It's worse than a dent in the side of a car—we don't even try to lick our finger and wipe up the mess. We turn around and walk away, to our air-conditioned, three-bedroom, two-bathroom homes with stocked Whirlpool refrigerators and attached garages which store a vehicle for every family member.

Maybe it's because we don't know what to do. The car door smashes into the one next to it and the best we can come up with is running away. Some children in Africa have their lives smashed around them, and all we can do is allow our eyes to well up a little bit when we see pictures of them on our 42-inch plasma TVs. There's nothing we can do anyway.

Or is there?

An American friend of mine studying internally displaced persons during our time in Uganda met a woman in a camp who told him, "When you go back to your country, tell them about what you have seen here. Tell them about our situation. Tell them that they are our only hope."

There are things we can do—give our money, primarily, and our time. However, the weight of Ugandans, of refugees from other African countries living in Uganda, should not rest solely on our shoulders. But the weight of the world does.

By ignoring the messes we've made and the messes of others, we are weakening those very shoulders. But after living in a very different world for four months, mine are strong, and my eyes are open. Because I lived with these refugee children and saw how dire their situations are, and because I lived in a country in the heart of a 19-year-old war against itself, I choose to act in support of these issues. You can act for any reason your heart desires. But please, on behalf of the children who covered my arms with muddy handprints every day, the orphaned boys who told me their stories, the fourth grade girls being sexually exploited, act about something.

The world is heavy, I know. And my experience in Uganda at least doubled that weight in my mind. But the world is not going to get any lighter if we keep up this selective hearing we are so used to, if we only listen to what we want to hear. Our burden will not get any smaller if we change the channel from reports of Darfur to Desperate Housewives. Our shoulders will only get more tired if we don't find a passion and follow it.

We need to stop turning our backs on what is important in exchange for what is easy, convenient and comfortable. Instead, we have to stare the world in the face—and recognize the good, using it to make the bad better. As small as they may be, we can all do things to lighten the weight of the world. And each of us is responsible for doing just that, because it's resting on all of our shoulders.

Even if you just leave a note on the car you dented in the parking lot, hey, it's a start.

Gaddie graduates from OSUT program

Army Pvt. David W. Gaddie has graduated from One Station Unit Training (OSUT) at Fort Sill, Lawton, Okla. The training included completion of basic military training and advanced individual training (AIT).

In basic training, the soldier received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, physical fitness, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

During AIT, the soldier completed the field artillery fire support specialist advanced individual training course. The course is designed to train soldiers to establish, maintain, and operate radio and wire communications and speech security equipment, including encoding and decoding messages using specific line templates; prepare and maintain daily staff journal, fire support situation map, status charts, capability overlay, and other fire support and target processing records; and assist in initiating requests for field artillery, mortar, naval gunfire, and aerial delivered munitions.

Gaddie is the son of James and Cindy Gaddie of Warroad, and a 2001 graduate of Warroad High School.

One Fish, Two Fish, Red Fish, Blue Fish

It's not supposed to be about the catching. It's supposed to be about the camaraderie and the sharing. It's supposed to symbolize the commitment of a community towards today's and tomorrow's youth. It's got something to do with rekindling memories and interest in a pastime that we adults feel passionate about. It should revolve around the search for a higher level of quality in the time that we spend. It is not a demand on the tangible, obvious rewards in life, but a draw on the less-graspable. It isn't even titled in such a way that suggests the catching is an important cog in the machine. It is, after all, called Lake of the Woods Take-A-Kid-Fishing, not Take-A-Kid-Catching. So, when we review the 2005 version of the event and we look for warm and fuzzy places to lay laudatory adjectives citing its success, it's essential that we don't let ourselves be waylaid by the shallow nature of "fish in the cooler." It's not, remember, supposed to be about the catching.

The turnout was good - 121 strong! That's a lot of humanity. Despite the fact that the numbers of kids in the participatory age bracket has dwindled locally, big numbers continue to turn out. Word is obviously getting around. Oh, and by the way, every one of those kids managed to boat at least one fish, if that kind of thing is important to you.

Volunteerism was not lacking. As the number of kids grew with each passing week, petitions to the community for more help continued to be met with positive replies. From captains and first mates to fish cleaning and food preparation, volunteers filled every available niche. If you're still looking for the "warm and fuzzy," simply embrace the notion that you inhabit a chunk of the world that doesn't shuffle backward when asked to step forward. And if that doesn't warm the cockles of your heart, consider that some boats laid claim to catching in excess of 60 walleyes during their five hours on the water. Not that the catching is really that big a deal.

And sponsorship and cash donations were up as well. Prizes, food and goody bags for every kid, a meal and some first-rate giveaways at the guides' dinner, all made possible by the generosity of local and area businesses who see the event as a "good" deal, not necessarily a "money making" deal. And while we'd like to believe that Take-A-Kid-Fishing would continue to flourish even in more Spartan fashion, it certainly seems like a lot more fun with quality food and cool stuff to win. But, if by some odd chance the donor-ism should decline in years to come, for whatever reason, it would probably be good if it declined on a year like this, when quite a few fish were caught, just to help overcome the lack of things for people to get. Not that catching a lot of fish could ever make up for the "bigger picture." Really.

And, even more telling in terms of success was not the turnout or response or volunteerism in Baudette, but the fact that this program has encouraged other communities to make an effort at their own event. Warroad and East Grand Forks, for instance, are now considering Take-A-Kid-Fishing days for next year. And who knows, maybe when they're 8 years into their programs they, too, will have a day when lots of fish get caught, like we had this year. Not that that's what the whole thing is about.

Oh, what the heck. So the fishing was a big deal this year. Lots of fish got caught. Big fish. Little fish. Catch rates were measured in round numbers. Some kids caught five or 10 fish; others lost track at 20. Kids who wanted to take a few fish home, did. Captains and first mates who wanted to eat fish, for a change, at the cookout at day's end, could. Fish were photographed. Fish were kissed. Fish were released. Conservative estimates put the event's boated total well above 1,000 in a five hour span. That's 200 an hour or more than three a minute. This, from a group that sometimes calls two northerns, a perch, and only three seasicknesses a good day. O.K. So it's not supposed to be about the catching. But how 'bout this year, just for once, we let it.

Cousins Mercedes Kim (left), 10, Thief River Falls, and Allyse Olson, 9, Kentucky, worked together to bury Kim in the sand Thursday at Tindolph Beach in Thief River Falls. Temperatures were in the 80s Thursday. No word yet on whether Olson helped her cousin out of the sand after burying her.

stockmen and clowns are so professional, this fun-filled, exciting event never fails to pack the grandstand. This year's event, which begins at 7 p.m. July 15 and 16, also includes mutton-busting. A grand pass is good for admission to all five grandstand events.

Demolition Derby

St. Hilaire Lions Club will present the final action-packed grandstand event of the fair on Sunday. Classes in this year's event includes cars (no welding); two-wheel drive (pickups), and compacts. For more information about entering this event, call 964-5674.

Grand Passes

Grand passes, which can be purchased for $30 for adults, and $15 for children 12 and under, can be purchased until noon on Wednesday, July 13, in Thief River Falls at Pennington Main, Pennington Square, Petro Pumper and Erl's Market; and in St. Hilaire at Kruse In; in Red Lake Falls at Eagle Square; and in Goodridge at Goodridge Cenex.

Fireworks

Fireworks display - other than the kind taking place during the action-packed grandstand events - there will be fireworks at dusk on Saturday, July 16. The fireworks viewed from the fairgrounds will be synchronized with music.

Free Bandshell

The Pennington County Fair does not charge an admission fee, and there is no charge for entertainment at the bandshell, either. This year's lineup of entertainers includes: The Cathy Erickson Band; Saddle Tramp; Eagle Creek; Amye Scharlau (magician and hypnotist; Betti Jo and the Bandits; The Great Outdoors; and Vern Rogalla. These free acts are financed by the Pennington County Fairboard's raffle. Tickets cost $10.

There's something for everyone at the Pennington County Fair - games, food, prizes, rides, shows, 4-H, and competitive events.

New Shelter

A new shelter for the beer garden has been built. It is located next to the bandshell area. Potted flowers will hang from the outside edge of some of the rafters, and a slatted fence around it.

Visitors may notice more space in the area, as well. The goat barn, which was located next to the rabbit and cavy barn, was taken down this year.

4-H Numbers

Registration numbers for 4-H participants are mixed but reflect very little change over the past two years. Organizers anticipate that a total of 160 4-H exhibitors will participate in the 2005 Pennington County Fair. That's a slight decrease from the 169 participants who registered for the 2004 and 2003 fairs. Exhibit numbers were also down from 489 in 2004 to 454 for the 2005 fair. During the 2003 fair, there were 465 exhibits.

While numbers of participants and exhibits show slight declines, the number of animals registered for the fair (includes beef, dairy, dog, goat, horse, poultry, rabbits, sheep and swine) has increased. This year, 160 animals have been registered, while there were 159 last year, and 126 in 2003.

Cantahcatalope across a rodeo arena while the steed's giraffe-like neck swivels around to give him a 360 degree vision, and set his over-sized "mousetrap" in hopes of catching a bull during the rodeo bull riding event.

Despite his antics, Landis takes his business responsibilities seriously. His work preparation begins long before he enters a rodeo arena. Each act takes careful, precise planning and all props and parts must be in perfect working order. His execution of business is pure seriousness, although he dresses in a funny hat, clown make-up, a big red nose and baggy britches.

During the bull riding, his serious attitude only intensifies. He is there to assist in keeping the bucking bulls from injuring the cowboys. No doubt his ability and attitude are the reasons he was picked by the top 20 PRCA bull riders to be the barrel man at the National Finals Rodeo in 1993 and in 1995, as well as the alternate in 1997.

Riders

Some of the country's top riders are expected to be at Thunder on Hooves. Many of the leaders in the tour's standings have appeared at the event in Thief River Falls, including Chris Shivers, Tater Porter, and Jared Farley. Farley, Kempsey, New South Wales, Australia, was last year's winner. The 2003 winner of Thunder on Hooves was Cauy Hudson of Elm Creek, Alberta, Canada.

Once again, many of the top riders, including many of the top 20 have announced they plan to ride in Thunder on Hooves. The list of riders is constantly being updated. Readers can see that list on the official Thunder of Hooves Web site at www.thunderonhooves.com.

This year's stock contractor is Jerry Nelson.

Knights of Columbus hold family camp-out

Over the weekend of June 17, Knights of Columbus Council 4619 hosted a family camp-out at Old Mill State Park near Newfolden.

Some of the activities included a field mass, celebrated by Father Tim McGee from St. Bernard's Catholic Church in Thief River Falls; a bonfire sing-a-long led by District Deputy Dan Schmitz; swimming, hiking; and horseshoes.

Another camp-out will be held June 23-25, 2006. To join or help plan next year's event, contact Family Director Jeff Fox at 686-0398.

Climb aboard, it's County Fair time

A sunny day, grand passes for the 2005 Pennington County Fair, and parents and grandparents who will take you to the fair - what more could you ask for? Chloe Vanderport, 5, lifts her arms in the air in happiness. Riding with her are Brooklyn DeLap, 3, and Sebastian Vanderport, 8.

NORTHERN WATCH AROUND THE REGION

April Scheinoho

Tornados + wind + rain (lots of it) = Disaster

Hallock - Kittson County commissioners requested a presidential disaster declaration at their July 5 meeting.

Gary Rice, Kittson County's emergency manager, told the commissioners he needed a formal request from the county to ask for the disaster declaration.

"We will not be asking for individual assistance – there isn't enough for that," Rice said. "It looks as if North Dakota may qualify and we could go as a contiguous county or partner with central Minnesota."

Yet, he said he isn't optimistic the state of Minnesota will reach the $5 million threshold needed for Federal Emergency Management Administration support.

The presidential disaster declaration states the county sustained losses caused by severe storms. - Kittson County Enterprise, July 13, 2005, by Cindy Stewart

Springsted advises board on referendum

Erskine - The Win-E-Mac School Board met in a special meeting July 8. The purpose of the meeting was to meet with Connie Hayes, a representative of Springsted Inc., to discuss the upcoming referendum. They also discussed strategies and the proper procedure of how to go about getting the referendum on a ballot and how Springsted will assist the board in running a successful campaign.

The school board must inform the public that without new revenue the district will go into deficit spending during the 2006-07 school year and will not have enough in the operating budget during the 2007-08 school year to cover the cost of running the district. As a result, it would have to make additional cuts in programs.

Some of the areas being looked at for further, potential cuts would be in the elementary school offerings, such as Spanish, physical education teachers, music and art, as well as all day, everyday kindergarten as all of these programs offered at Win-E-Mac are not required by the state. Other items discussed for possible cuts included new and updated learning materials and technology, Learning Readiness, Community Education, small teacher-to-student ratios, and small group academic support and assistance. - McIntosh Times, July 13, 2005

Hughes Elementary School gets grant

Red Lake Falls - Hughes Elementary School has been awarded a grant from Hewlett-Packard (HP) Development Company worth more than $57,000. HP is awarding a total of $2.1 million in wireless technology, cash and professional development to 25 schools in the U.S. and Canada as part of the 2005 HP Technology for Teaching Leadership grant program.

The school was a recipient of a 2004 Technology for Teaching grant and was selected for reinvestment because of its success in integrating HP technology into its classroom curriculum, demonstrating measurable positive impact on student achievement and proposing innovative plans to expand its programs to have broader impact on student success. - Red Lake Falls Gazette, July 13, 2005, by Tawnya Norman

Tuberculosis detected in Roseau Co. herd

The Minnesota Board of Animal Health (BAH), in conjunction with the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA), has detected bovine tuberculosis (TB) in a Roseau County beef cattle herd.

Roger Skime of Wannaska has been identified in local news reports as the owner of the beef cattle herd. The Northern Watch attempted to reach Skime Friday morning but was unsuccessful.

The initial case of TB was detected during routine slaughter surveillance when a USDA veterinarian detected suspicious lesions in a 5-year-old cow. Tissue samples were submitted to the National Veterinary Services Laboratory in Ames, Iowa, where a diagnosis of bovine TB was confirmed. The cow was traced back to northern Minnesota using a "back tag" placed on a cow prior to being sold for slaughter. The herd of origin was quarantined and tested. An investigation was initiated as well.

"The entire herd was tested in order to verify the herd was infected," said Dr. Bill Hartmann, BAH executive director and state veterinarian. "All animals that tested suspect for the disease were purchased by the USDA for further testing."

Further testing at the Minnesota Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory revealed that the majority of the suspect animals had internal lesions consistent with bovine TB. The disease control protocol for continued eradication of this disease calls for destroying the infected herd. The USDA is currently working on details of destroying the infected herd together with the full support and cooperation of the herd owner who has the best interest of the beef industry in mind.

"Our surveillance system worked. The disease was detected," said Hartmann. "Now, we'll focus on tracing any animals that left the herd in the last seven years as well as determining a possible source of infection."

The state of Minnesota has been involved in TB eradication programs since 1917, with the last

TRF man sentenced to 90 months in prison

A Thief River Falls man was sentenced to 90 months in prison Thursday for a sex charge.

Anthony Allen Perfecto, 32, pled guilty in Pennington County District Court to second degree criminal sexual conduct stemming from sexual incidents involving a boy under the age of 5. Perfecto had originally been charged with first degree criminal sexual conduct.

If he does not have any disciplinary offenses in or out of prison, he will only serve 60 months in prison per Minnesota statute. The remainder of the sentence would be served on probation.

Judge Donald Aandal also revoked a stay of imposition on Perfecto's 2004 conviction for second degree criminal sexual conduct. That charge stemmed from the inappropriate touching of a female under the age of 10. In that case, a 25-year stay of imposition had been previously ordered after Perfecto pled guilty to that offense. Even though

Plan would help Kittson County livestock producers

Kittson County has endured flooding due to recent severe storms and heavy rainfall since early May, which has prevented planting and has damaged and destroyed existing crops. Help may be on its way.

Wednesday, July 13, U.S. Senators Mark Dayton and Norm Coleman, U.S. Representative Collin Peterson, and Minnesota Governor Tim Pawlenty announced their support of an important plan to help livestock farmers in Kittson County.

The proposal, made by John Monson, director of the Farm Service Agency for the state of Minnesota, will provide Kittson County farmers with access to normally restricted acres for livestock grazing.

"Kittson County's farmers have been devastated by natural events resulting in personal hardship and tremendous financial losses," Dayton said. "This proposal will help livestock farmers get through these difficult times, and I will do all that I can to make sure Minnesota's agricultural industry remains the backbone of our state's economy."

"By allowing Kittson County farm families access to CRP acreage earlier and without penalty, we can help alleviate some of the financial stress they are experiencing due to weather conditions completely beyond their control," said Coleman. "I expect USDA will use all its authority to provide disaster help to farm families who desperately need it."

"I think this proposal is a good start that will provide some immediate relief to farmers in the region," Peterson said. "But we will continue to pursue more assistance for these

TRF doctor lends a helping hand to people in need

Dr. Campbell helps Ecuadorians

Dr. Judith Campbell, a Thief River Falls resident, examined a patient in Baños, Ecuador, in early June. Campbell traveled to Ecuador with Medical Ministry International to provide medical care for free to local residents who could not afford it or for a small fee for those who could afford medical care. One boy will no longer have to hide a skin tag behind his hand and hair. Soon, another boy will no longer have to live with a cleft palate. They will no longer have to be embarrassed about their appearances, thanks to a Thief River Falls resident.

Dr. Judith Campbell traveled to Baños, Ecuador, and the people she helped there will remember her work for a lifetime.

"It was a wonderful experience, not only the good works that we could do, but the resources we could hook them up with that would not have been possible otherwise," Campbell said.

Campbell works as an emergency medical physician with National Emergency Services at Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls. She also does medical acupuncture. In early June, Campbell traveled to Ecuador on a medical mission trip with Medical Ministry International (MMI).

Campbell had intended to be in Ecuador for two weeks with her sons Mark and Sam, but her sons were unable to go due to passport processing problems.

Once she arrived in Ecuador, Campbell worked in a village clinic. She rode a bus, which was called the "chivre" or goat, to the clinic. The bus was called "the goat" because it "jumps up and down" as it goes over bumps, Campbell recalled.

"We set up in the best building in town, basically the church or one-room schoolhouse," Campbell said.

Medical care is provided free to those who cannot afford it. Those who can afford the medical care pay a small fee that helps cover the clinic's expenses, according to MMI. MMI also supplies patients with medications and other medical items, which are donated or funded with monetary donations.

Upon entering the clinic, patients had their weight and blood pressure checked. Their teeth were checked, and they were given fluoride treatments. "Everybody got their eyes checked and free glasses if needed," Campbell said.

Patients underwent health screenings and general checkups as well as treatment for what may have been bothering them. Evangelism was also part of what the volunteers offered at the clinic.

Patients were also educated about washing their hands and brushing their teeth. They were given hygiene items as well.

"Practically everyone" was suffering from parasitic worms, Campbell noted. She added that the doctors also saw cases of pneumonia, rashes, skin infections and ear infections.

"My most memorable case was this little boy I saw in one of these remote villages," recalled Campbell, who noted the boy was about 6 years old. He had a cleft palate. Through a translator, Campbell was

for women in all of life's roles

If you're a woman reading this, most likely you handle much more than simply getting yourself to the doctor.

You are the decision-maker for your family's health care.

Like bringing your mother to a hearing exam. Your daughter to a "teenage growing-up" class. Or bringing your son to a sports physical.

Those three examples are precisely what The Center for Women's Health is all about. It's for all of the roles you play in life. In fact, we've incorporated the Center into virtually every part of Dakota Clinic.

It's everywhere here. You can be assured there is a team of healthcare providers to take care of you. And just as important, a resource to refer you to the specialists you may need... for everyone you love.

The Center for Women's Health is just one of the many comprehensive services at Dakota Clinic.

Some simple-y delicious meals for these hot summer days when nobody is really very hungry.

Here's another one of those tasty taco salads that everyone likes. Go ahead and put the hamburger mixture on a little hot to wilt the lettuce a bit if you like - otherwise use it at room temperature:

TACO SALAD
1 head lettuce
1 cup cheese (cheddar is good - or American)
1 can whole tomatoes
1 pound hamburger
4 ounces mild taco sauce or 1 package taco seasoning mixed with 1 small can tomato sauce
1 package corn chips

Brown hamburger, salt and pepper. Add taco sauce.

Break lettuce up into salad bowl. Add cheese. Drain juice from tomatoes into hamburger mixture, stir and simmer. Cut tomatoes into lettuce and cheese mixture.

When ready to serve, add hamburger mixture to lettuce and toss. Add about 1/2 package of corn chips and toss again. Serve remaining corn chips on the side.

Bake this side dish next time you grill a nice roast or steaks - it will be the hit of the meal:

FLUFFY POTATO CASSEROLE
2 cups mashed potatoes (hot or cold)
1 (8 ounce) package cream cheese, room temperature
1 small onion, finely chopped
2 eggs
2 tablespoons flour
Salt and pepper to taste
1 can French fried onion rings

Put everything except onion rings into large mixer bowl. Beat fluffy. Spoon into greased 9 inch baking dish and spread onion rings over top. Bake uncovered at 300 degrees for 35 minutes.

When you catch that bunch of fish, use a couple to make this easy dish:

FISH SUPREME
2 pounds fish fillets
1 1/2 cups sour cream
1/2 cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons chopped chives
1/2 lemon, squeezed (or lime)
Salt and pepper to taste

Place fillets in oiled baking dish. Mix all ingredients together and spread over fish. Bake at 375 degrees for 30 minutes. Recipe serves 4.

A little more fish - this one is really easy and great for a quick supper on these hot days. The kids will love them:

TUNA FLYING SAUCERS
1 can tuna, drained and flaked
1/2 cup grated carrot
1 cup diced or shredded cheese
1/8 teaspoon pepper
2 (8 ounces each) packages refrigerated buttermilk biscuits
1 teaspoon onion flakes
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Preheat oven to 400 degrees.

Blend all ingredients except biscuits in bowl. Set aside.

Separate biscuits and roll into 20 (5 inch) circles. Top 10 of the circles with 3 tablespoonfuls of tuna mixture. Cover with remaining circles. Press edges together with a fork and place on greased cookie sheet. Bake 12 minutes or until puffy and golden.

Another easy and quick meal for hot days, the kids will love these, too:

LOLLIPOP FRANKS
Fat for deep frying
1 cup flour
2 tablespoons sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2/3 cup corn meal
2 tablespoons shortening
1 slightly beaten egg
3/4 cup milk
1 pound (8 to 10) hot dogs

Whisk flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Stir in corn meal. Cut in shortening. Combine egg and milk and add to flour mixture, stirring well.

Insert wooden skewer into end of each frank and spread each evenly with batter. Fry in deep hot fat (375 degrees) for 4-5 minutes.

Hillcrest Nursing Home scholarship applicants sought

Hillcrest Nursing Home Auxiliary has announced the availability of a $200 scholarship to any Red Lake County student or Hillcrest Nursing Home employee who will be continuing his or her education in a health-related field.

To qualify for the scholarship, the applicant must have completed one year of a two- or four-year program or will be entering into a one-year program this fall.

Applications can be picked up Aug. 1 and must be returned by Sept. 30. The scholarship will be announced at the October 2005 fall membership meeting. Scholarship money will be rewarded after the student has successfully completed one year of a two- or four-year program or after the first semester of a one-year course.

Interested persons can pick up an application at the Lafayette High School in Red Lake Falls, Red Lake County Central-Plummer, or Oklee School office, Hillcrest Nursing Home or request one to be mailed to the applicant.

the latest case came to light this year, many of the incidents occurred prior to the incident for which he was convicted in 2004.

As a result, Perfecto will serve his original stayed sentence concurrently with the sentence for the latest charge. He was given credit for time served for both charges.

During sentencing Thursday, Assistant Pennington County Attorney Al Rogalla read a statement from the victim's family. "I hope you sit there and realize how many people you have harmed," he read from the statement. "You need help."

Rogalla recommended that Perfecto serve 90 months in prison. "This is his third documented conviction in Pennington County," Rogalla said.

Besides the aforementioned two cases, Rogalla added that Perfecto had another conviction for second degree criminal sexual conduct. He noted that conviction, which occurred when Perfecto was a juvenile, was adjudicated. That means that if he did not commit a similar offense, that conviction would not go on his record.

Loretta Hillier, public defender, represented Perfecto. "It is correct that this is a third offense for him," said Hillier, who noted the latest charge stemmed from incidents that occurred prior to his 2004 conviction.

Hillier continued that Perfecto was "very open" with law enforcement and had "readily admitted" his offenses.

"He has taken responsibility for this by pleading guilty," said Hillier, who noted Perfecto wanted help.

Aandal asked Perfecto if he had anything he wanted to say. After several minutes of silence, Perfecto said, "I've known that I have a problem."

Anthony Perfecto

The recent charge stems from incidents that occurred between April 2003 and February 2004. The incidents were reported to police in March 2005. The criminal complaint states that Perfecto openly admitted to touching and engaging in oral sexual activity with a boy's genitalia "approximately 20 times during several months." The boy is under the age of 5. At the time of the incidents, Perfecto was babysitting the boy at Perfecto's former residence in the 200 block of Arnold Ave. N. in Thief River Falls.

The stay of imposition was revoked on a 2004 conviction for second degree criminal sexual conduct in Thief River Falls. That charge stemmed from a Dec. 25, 2003, incident in which he inappropriately touched a female under the age of 10. In March 2004, Perfecto pled guilty to that felony offense, and he was sentenced in May 2004. He was given a 25-year stay of imposition and was ordered to serve 25 years of supervised probation. As a condition of that stayed sentence, he served 93 days in jail. Perfecto was also ordered to register as a sex offender.

Upon his release for his latest conviction, Perfecto will serve five years on conditional release. He was also ordered to pay fees and fines.

DEATH NOTICES

Ira G. Protz, 85

McLean, Va. - Ira G. Protz, 85, formerly of Thief River Falls, died on Thursday, May 5, 2005 at the Virginia Hospital Center in Arlington, Va.

Funeral services were held at the Murphy Falls Funeral Home in Falls Church, Va., on Friday, May 13 and were followed by interment at the St. James Cemetery in Falls Church, Va.

A complete obituary will appear in the next edition of The Times.

Hwy. 11 reconstruction begins July 22

The Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn/DOT) is announcing the start of the reconstruction of Highway 11 in the city of Roseau beginning Friday, July 22.

According to Shawn Groven, Mn/DOT project engineer, the bituminous reclamation portion of the project will require traffic to be diverted off of Highway 11 and onto adjacent streets. Groven said the reconstruction of this portion of Highway 11 from the junction with Highway 89 to the east city limits includes storm sewer work, traffic signals, grading and surfacing.

The work will continue through late fall and is expected to resume in early June 2006.

Groven, along with J.T. Anderson, Mn/DOT's resident engineer from the Thief River Falls office, will hold a public information meeting about the project on Thursday, July 21 from 4 to 5 p.m. at the Roseau Fire Hall. Interested individuals are encouraged to attend.

Plan would help Kittson County livestock producers

farmers who continue to face weather disasters each year."

"I appreciate the willingness and flexibility USDA has shown in trying to help Kittson County farmers cope with this situation," said Pawlenty. "Allowing for emergency grazing of CRP lands will help alleviate the worst impacts on area livestock producers, and I urge USDA to continue looking for ways to help accommodate our farmers' needs in the coming weeks."

The plan will expand emergency livestock removal provisions of the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) to the entire county. Until now, the provisions have applied only to farmers who own livestock in flooded areas. The plan will also allow Kittson County farmers, effective immediately, to open up all CRP acres for cattle grazing for 14 days. Farmers will not face payment reductions for grazing livestock on CRP acres, meaning that Kittson County producers will not have to return part of their badly needed CRP payments to the government at a time when many of them are already in financial crisis. The emergency provisions also suspend the requirement that CRP acres only be grazed for one out of three years, thus allowing farmers access to all acreage for forage.

The emergency provisions will remain effective for 14 days, after which an extension can be requested.

Tuberculosis detected in Roseau Co. herd

known case in 1971. It is important for Minnesota to maintain its TB-free status as it allows producers to move animals interstate and internationally without added testing requirements.

Bovine TB caused by the bacteria Mycobacterium bovis is a respiratory disease of cattle. It is a chronic, slowly progressive disease that does not spread easily. However, it can spread from cattle to humans, according to the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service Web site. Infected animals may be capable of transmitting an infection to other animals even if they appear healthy. In a cooperative eradication campaign by the livestock industry and animal health officials, the U.S. has all but eliminated bovine TB.

Exposure to bovine TB through the milk or meat supply is extremely unlikely. Meat inspectors check all cattle entering the marketplace for signs of the disease before and after slaughter. Any animal showing these signs is withheld from the food supply. In addition, adequate cooking destroys the bacteria.

For more information on TB, visit the BAH's Web site at www.bah.state.mn.us.

Kick'n Up Kountry kicks off Sept. 2

Kick'n Up Kountry will kick off Friday, Sept. 2 in Hallock. It begins with the Minnesota State Finals of the Colgate Country Showdown. This national contest, hailed as "America's largest country music talent search," will feature the winners of local talent contests from across Minnesota and North Dakota. They will compete at the festival for an opportunity to win $1,000 in prize money and a chance to advance to the Midwest Regional competition to be held at the Royal River Casino in Flandreau, S.D.

Regional winners go on to compete on a national level as a part of the 24th Annual Colgate Country National Finals, where they compete for the Grand Prize of $100,000 and the national title. Over the years, stars such as Garth Brooks, LeAnn Rimes, Sara Evans and John Michael Montgomery have competed in the Country Showdown.

After the showdown competition, the audience will be treated to the sounds of the all-female group Mustang Sally. Its performance is expected to last until about 11 pm when a dance under the grandstand will commence. In fact, every night of the festival from 11 p.m. until 1 a.m., concertgoers will be entertained by the Dusty James River Band. There will be no additional charge for attending the dance, and it is open to all who have tickets to the festival.

Also new this year is a campsite decorating contest co-sponsored by radio stations KKDQ in Thief River Falls and KQ92 in Warroad. The contest will center around the theme of "Kozy Kountry Kabin" and will award prizes for the three best decorated campsites. The prizes will include VIP tickets for the 2006 Kick'n Up Kountry Music Festival. Additional details about the contest can be obtained by going to the Kick'n Up Kountry Web site and clicking on the camping link.

In addition to the arts and craft fair, food vendors and static displays, festivalgoers will also have the opportunity to view and participate in a classic car auction. Up to 10 classic cars will be on display and auctioned off between performances on Saturday and Sunday evening. Persons interested in displaying and auctioning off their classic vehicles should contact the event organizers.

This year's line-up of entertainment 32 Below, Ron Kendricks Band, T.J. Greywolf and the nationally recognized headliner group Sawyer Brown on Saturday, Sept. 3.

On the following Sunday, the country entertainers will include Shotgun Red, The Hewitt Sisters, Billy Currington and Terri Clark.

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Dave Hill, Editor

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Unless specified otherwise, the editorials are written by Editor Dave Hill and do not represent opinion of other staff members. Opinions in items from other publications may not coincide with the editor's own views but are offered for their general interest.

Is it hot enough?

It's so hot that last winter's bitter cold days are quickly fading from our memories.

It's so hot, it's...

• hot enough to melt your cheese curds
• hot enough to wilt a 4-H clover
• hot enough to turn blueberry pie into blueberry muffins

As one young fairgoer said this week, "It's so hot, it's hot in the shade."

It's also hot enough to cause some serious problems for many of our residents. Minnesota Department of Health explains that people suffer heat-related illness when the body's temperature control system is overloaded. The body normally cools itself by sweating. But, under some conditions, sweating just is not enough. In such cases, a person's body temperature rises rapidly. Very high body temperatures may damage the brain or other vital organs. The elderly, the very young and people with mental illness and chronic diseases are at highest risk. However, even young and healthy individuals can succumb to heat if they participate in strenuous physical activities during hot weather.

Korey Stringer's death should still serve as a reminder that even well-conditioned athletes are at risk.

As you visit local fairs, do yard work or other outdoor activities, you would do well to remember the following tips from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention:

• Drink more fluids (nonalcoholic), regardless of your activity level. Don't wait until you're thirsty to drink. If your doctor generally limits the amount of fluid you drink or has you on water pills, ask him how much you should drink while the weather is hot.

• Don't drink liquids that contain caffeine, alcohol, or large amounts of sugar - these actually cause you to lose more body fluid. Also, avoid very cold drinks, because they can cause stomach cramps.

• Stay indoors, and if at all possible, stay in an air-conditioned place. If your home does not have air conditioning, go to a public place that does.

• Electric fans may provide comfort, but when the temperature is in the high 90s, fans will not prevent heat-related illness. Taking a cool shower or bath, or moving to an air-conditioned place is a much better way to cool off.

• Wear lightweight, light-colored, loose-fitting clothing.

• Never leave anyone in a closed, parked vehicle.

• Although anyone at any time can suffer from heat-related illness, some people are at greater risk than others. Check regularly on: infants and young children; people aged 65 or older; people who have mental illness; those who are physically ill, especially with heart disease or high blood pressure;

• Visit adults at risk at least twice a day and closely watch them for signs of heat exhaustion or heat stroke. Infants and young children, of course, need much more frequent watching.

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

LETTERS

To the Editor:

The entire system of watershed districts in the state of Minnesota is in drastic need of reform. The Middle-Snake-Tamarac Rivers Watershed District (MSTRWD) is a prime example of what can go wrong.

The problem is that since board members are appointed by county commissioners and not elected by the people (supposedly to keep the process non-political) - watershed board members seem to believe that they are not accountable to the public. Yet they have the power to tax land owners in our community (without elected representation) and also have the power to condemn and take property. This combination, in my opinion, has led to abuse. Ironically, instead of being free from politics, the process has become more political and less open to the public.

I was somewhat shocked by the comments of local farmer Tracy Anderson in defense of the MSTRWD in this week's Times. (Up until recently, I had considered Tracy a good friend and even worked to get him on the Watershed Board. I would not do it again. In fact, now I would suggest that he, along with several other members, should resign.)

In response to annual audits, the Data Practices Act, and the Open Meeting Law, Mr. Anderson stated: "The watershed is operating within the framework of the law." This is difficult to comprehend when for almost 30 years this watershed district failed to do annual audits as required by Minnesota law. With the current PL566 project (almost a $20 million project); the watershed signed an agreement in 2001 to do project audits every four years. To date, in apparent violation of federal regulations and a signed agreement, no project audits have been done. The watershed has now started to do annual audits, but has refused to answer questions about the audits. (it is almost impossible to find out, for example, how much has been spent by them on attorneys in the past five years or so. It appears to be around a half million dollars of taxpayers money, which should be an eye-opener to all of us.)

With respect to Data Practices, the Minnesota Department of Administration has issued more opinions against the MSTRWD for non-compliance of Minnesota Chapter 13 than any other watershed district in the state of Minnesota. How is this "operating within the framework of the law?"

With respect to Open Meeting Laws, the watershed board continually holds meetings, which are closed to the public stating that they are discussing pending or existing litigation, while their own audits repeatedly state that there is no litigation against the watershed district itself. You had to be there at a meeting one cold winter night (minus 20 below) a year ago when MSTRWD watershed board asked the entire audience to leave the building when they closed the meeting to the public, never announced the meeting would reopen, and then when everyone was gone, reopened the meeting and discussed issues that the public had a great interest in. This certainly violates the spirit of the Open Meeting Law.

Further, it is simply not true that the state auditor found nothing wrong as stated by Mr. Anderson and the state auditor was misquoted by Mr. Anderson. Tracy must be reading a different letter than I have. To respond to why the MSTRWD was required to return $850,000 to the DNR would take two pages. It was certainly not because grant regulations were complied with.

The MSTRWD has now made rules to prohibit the public from talking at its meetings unless board members pre-approve what is going to be said, and you have to provide something like seven copies, making it very difficult to make any verbal comment or complaint to the watershed district. It is incomprehensible how Mr. Anderson and other board members can defend this terrible policy to refuse to allow the public, taxpayers, and landowners to speak at watershed meetings, which is clearly opposed to a state purpose of the Open Meeting Law, which encourages public participation and expression.

What really takes the cake is the condemnation procedures of this watershed district. This watershed district has no difficulty starting the condemnation process while refusing to negotiate with landowners. It also seems to have no difficulty paying almost double to some landowners when comparing tax assessed values.

It appears that the watershed district believes it can even make up its own rules for condemnation (eminent domain). The watershed decided that it only needed to hold a public hearing to tell landowners they were "taking" their land. This is echoed in a statement from its engineer/administrator, Ronald Adrian, in a letter requesting funding from the state. Mr. Adrian wrote, "This procedure is being used in lieu of voluntary acquisition or eminent domain proceedings."

Even more startling, is that this watershed district in the Agassiz project is condemning land from farmers and others for a stated purpose: a for profit native grass farm that will be operated in conjunction with the Agassiz project. Yes, that is correct. If they have the power to do this, what prevents them from taking any farmer's land for whatever purpose they wish? This issue is under appear and The Times indicated that the action had been dismissed, but failed to note that the dismissal is temporary until it can be heard by the court of appeals, which would be after the proper point in the watershed's condemnation lawsuit is reached.

What really puzzles me is what happens to people appointed to a watershed board. They are usually composed of farmers and others who are respected in the community. Individuals on the MSTRWD are not necessarily bad people, but something changes when they are on this board. Does power corrupt? Or do they just throw away their common sense and listen to their many attorneys (the MSTRWD has four or five attorneys, and for the last several meetings, has had two attorneys present).

Whatever happened to the concept that public officials, both elected and appointed, should serve the public?

Respectfully,
Elden John Elseth

To the Editor:

Elden Elseth has made several accusations and allegations against the Middle Snake Tamarac Rivers Watershed District and myself. As I cannot respond for the district as a whole, I can speak for myself. I am saying that these issues have been addressed by the county attorney, state agencies and District and Minnesota Court of Appeals. The courts' rulings have favored the Watershed District.

Flood control is supported by many in the community and efforts by the Watershed District to protect people, their homes, businesses, property and livelihood will continue to be an important part of the Watershed District mission.

Thank you,
Tracy D. Anderson
Manager, MSTRWD

10 pounds off by Aug. 1 – Guaranteed!

I have no air-conditioning in my S-10 pickup and the window crank on the driver's side door is broken off. The fact that it's a crank-down window in the first place makes it somewhat of a dinosaur in this age of electrified automobile windows. It's a 1994 model, which might explain the manual window condition. The fact that it's broken makes it a life-threatening situation in this age of sweltering, relentless July heat. It's a crappy little truck that I treat poorly, which might explain the broken handle condition.

Ironically, it was a cold snap last March that made the handle brittle and the window freeze shut that caused the break in the first place. So I'm suffering in the heat because of something the cold made happen. Ha. Ha. Isn't that humorous? Am I supposed to say winter sucks or summer sucks in this situation? Also, ironically, I haven't made the effort to replace the broken handle yet because my parents imbued me with a nasty level of procrastination at my conception. Why that's ironic, I'm not sure, but I wanted to explain that I'm really not to blame for the non-fixing, or any of my other faults, for that matter. Call my parents, they live on the East Coast.

I lose weight every time I enter that truck. At my age and size, that's a good thing. The weight loss, unfortunately, comes with a cost of great personal pain attached. You see, the inside of the vehicle is dark blue which assures me that, even on a cloudy day, enough sunlight will soak into the cab to make it reach temperatures heretofore achieved only in nuclear fission tests. When I open the door to get in, it feels like the breath of Beelzebub, himself, is wafting across the river Styx and venting from my S-10. The first few minutes inside are hot enough to sweat out the excesses of meals from as far back as last Christmas. My head shrinks by two sizes and my ball cap falls past my ear tops and in front of my eyes. The sweat pours from my armpits at such a rate that the four-wheel drive kicks in automatically. The combination of heat and personal moisture is enough to germinate roadside weeds as I pass. It may not be comfortable, but I'm definitely melting away the pounds.

When I can't take the heat any longer I open a window. No, the driver side crank is cracked, remember? The passenger window. I lean all the way across the empty seat to my right and roll down the opposite window. Yes, this is a tricky maneuver that requires temporary loss of eye-contact with the road ahead. Not a big deal really because, as I mentioned earlier, my hat is sliding down on my shrinking head and covering my eyes anyway. Of course, I only attempt this on straightaways.

The seats in the S-10 are a soft fabric, which makes them tolerable in the heat when I first get in. The center, fold-down arm-rest, however, is of the old naugahyde variety, which makes for a "difficult" transition when I have to perform the lean over. You see, when I stretch towards the passenger window, my T-shirt rides up on my ample midsection and exposes bare skin to the adhesive, overheated surface of the plastic there. And, much like a pork chop dropped into an un-lubricated skillet, flesh sizzles and sticks. Fortunately, since my windows are still rolled up, no one along Highway 172 can hear the pitiful shrieking and the public's perception of my machismo remains intact. And even better, when I'm done cranking the window down and I peel my love-handle off the arm-rest, enough skin and smoking tissue is left behind to account for another .07 pounds of lost weight. Find me an aerobics workout that'll accomplish that level of efficiency!

So, if you're looking to stay in shape this summer, but aren't interested in the insanity of jogging or exercising in this sweltering heat, feel free to track me down and borrow my S-10 pickup. It's a proven method. But don't wait too long, or the benefits of the summer weather will slip by. I'm easy enough to find. Just look for the guy who's fat only on his left side, wearing a big hat on a tiny head swerving recklessly down 172. Either that or just listen for the muffled screams.

Hospital plans fall election

In September of 2005, the terms of Lyle Hanson and Karen Kirkeby will expire as Northwest Medical Center (NWMC) directors.

Kirkeby has served the maximum number of allowed terms and is not eligible for re-nomination to the board of directors. The NWMC board of directors has placed the following names into nomination for three-year terms to expire in September 2008: Lyle Hanson and Jodie Torkelson.

The NWMC by-laws provide the association membership with the opportunity to nominate candidates from among the membership to the board of directors. Each nomination shall be accompanied by the nominee's written consent and shall contain the signatures of five NWMC association members. The additional nominations shall be received from July 1 to August 1 of each year CED's office at Northwest Medical Center. Nominations must be received on or before 5 p.m. on August 1 of each year.

The annual meeting of the NWMC Association is scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 13 at the Best Western Inn of Thief River Falls. The NWMC board of directors has not determined the annual meeting time and agenda; however, the news media and the entire NWMC association membership will receive an advance mailing during the week of Aug. 30.

Bemidji catcher Greg Skerik put the tag on Thief River Falls runner Tom Johanneck to end the second inning of Tuesday's American Legion baseball doubleheader opener at the Multi-Events Center. Johanneck was out at the plate while trying to score from first on a double to center field by Lucas Genereux.

Post 117 splits Legion doubleheader with Bemidji...

First game rally nets TRF win

Stay close and and give yourself a chance to win. You hear that from coaches at every level and every sport. Thief River Falls staged two late-game rallies during a Tuesday American Legion baseball doubleheader against Bemidji at the Multi-Events Center, but had to settle for a split because Post 117 faced too big of a deficit in Game 2.

Three sixth inning runs produced a come-from-behind 5-4 Thief River Falls win in Game 1. However, five seventh inning runs didn't come close to challenging a 10-run Bemidji lead in the nightcap that ended 14-9.

The split gave Bemidji an 11-8 record and a 3-1 season edge over the 13-9 Thief River Falls ball club.

Trailing 4-2 in the bottom of the sixth in Game 1, Post 117 followed a one-out walk issued to No. 9 hitter Tom Johanneck with four consecutive singles to win a free-swinging game in which the two teams combined for 25 base hits.

Lucas Genereux beat out an infield single to short and Michael Benedict bounced a base hit into left field to join Johanneck on the bases in the sixth. Alex Carlson then drove a single to right that scored two runs for a tie and Dan Kaushagen followed with a base hit – also to right – to drive in the go-ahead run.

The top six batters in the Thief River Falls line-up produced 13 hits, with Genereux going 3-for-4 and Benedict, Carlson, Kaushagen, Drew Kjono and Wyatt Reed collecting two hits each.

But through five innings, all those hits generated only two runs – RBI singles by Carlson in the first and Kjono in the third.

Bemidji's offense also featured a top-heavy line-up as Nate Brown, Greg Skerik and Tobin Korpi – the No. 1-2-3 hitters, respectively, produced seven hits.

Brown started the game with a bang by legging out a lead-off triple in the top of the first. Skerik and Korpi followed with singles – the latter had an error tacked on – for a quick 2-0 lead.

A two-out, two-run Brown double in the fourth shattered a 2-2 tie.

Four first-inning walks gave Thief River Falls an early 1-0 edge in Game 2.

That lead disappeared in the third when Bemidji combined four hits with four walks for a seven-run inning. Two of those walks were back-to-back bases-loaded free passes issued to Erik Jensen and Nate Sele. Brown followed with a three-run double.

A Sam Anderson home run in the fifth helped push the difference to 12-1.

Down 14-4 in the seventh, Thief River Falls made the final score look respectable when Kjono hit a two-run home run, Reed came up with an RBI single and Genereux drove in two more runs with a bases-loaded single.

TRF 16-year-olds sweep games vs. Fergus Falls Vets

Results of a second Thief River Falls vs. Fergus Falls VFW baseball match-up duplicated the first meeting as Post 2793 swept a 9-8, 3-2 Monday doubleheader at the Multi-Events Center.

The Thief River Falls 16-year-olds won the opener with a run in the bottom of the seventh and took the nightcap by breaking an eighth inning tie.

"These were two good, fun games for us," reported Thief River Falls coach Shane Zutz. "We didn't play that well offensively, so we had to find other ways to score runs."

Winning twice bumped Thief River Falls' record to 12-5 to start a busy week that also included twin-bills Wednesday vs. Bemidji and Friday against Perham.

"We have lot of games coming up, so it was important for us to sweep today," mentioned Zutz.

A wild pitch and an error on a pick-off play gave Thief River Falls two first inning Game 1 runs.

After falling behind 4-2, Post 2793 tied it when Daniel Nelson, filling in as a call-up from the Babe Ruth level, hit a two-out, two-run single to right in the third inning.

A two-run error and a two-out, two-strike, two-run single to left by Patrick Barry provided Thief River Falls with an 8-5 sixth inning lead.

Fergus Falls led off the top of the seventh with three straight hits and all three runners scored for an 8-8 tie. However, in the bottom of the inning, Ben Espeseth singled to right, Alex Yaggie bunted for a hit and Cole Hunt walked to load the bases with no outs. With one strike on Nelson, a successive suicide squeeze plated the winning run.

Thief River Falls waited until the fourth inning to get on the scoreboard in Game 2 when a walk, error, passed ball and wild pitch moved Yaggie around the base path for a 1-1 tie.

Prowlers have a new cross country coach

Rick Karboviak has accepted the position of Thief River Falls boys and girls high school cross country coach for the 2005 season, it was announced Thursday by Jim Sims, Director of Student Activities for School District 564.

The position was vacated when Cortney Christensen stepped down after the 2004 season. The appointment, noted Sims, is pending school board approval.

Karboviak owns the title of Fitness and Sports Performance Trainer at the Northwest Medical Center Fitness Center, a position he's held since 2002.

He came to Thief River Falls from Gahanna, Ohio, where he was employed by Sports Conditioning Specialists.

A North Dakota native who graduated from Finley-Sharon High School and Mayville State University, Karboviak previously was the RC Cooper Athletic Club manager in Cooperstown, N.D., and worked with Altru Sports Acceleration in Grand Forks, N.D.

While in Cooperstown, Karboviak was the assistant cross country coach at Griggs County Central High School and the town's mayor from June 2002 to June 2003 – a position he left to pursue professional opportunities in Ohio.

Karboviak will be the Prowlers' fourth cross country coach in the past five years. Chad Persons directed the program in 2001; Greg Ueland in 2002, Christensen in 2003 and 2004.

Opening date for all high school fall sports program practices is Monday, Aug. 15.

Thief River Falls wins two

Barry's RBI single to right-center tied the game again at 2-2 in the sixth.

Thief River Falls won it in the eighth when Seth Schmitz came up with a lead-off single and stole second. Barry drew an intentional walk and Espeseth singled to load the bases with no outs. Yaggie then drew a four-pitch walk to end it.

Sportsman Club to meet

Pennington County Sportsman Club membership meeting will be held Wednesday, July 20, at 7:30 p.m. at the clubhouse.

Lucas Genereux of Thief River Falls crossed the plate with the tying run in the bottom of the sixth inning as Bemidji catcher Greg Skerick pulled down a high, wide throw during the Tuesday American Legion baseball doubleheader opener at the Multi-Events Center. A base hit by Alex Carlson scored both Tom Johanneck and Genereux. Moments later a Dan Kaushagen single drove in Michael Benedict with the winning run to finish off a come-from-behind 5-4 Post 117 win.

Greenbush golfer week late with a hole-in-one

Timing could have been a little better, but Derek Janousek of Greenbush nevertheless celebrated his first hole-in-one July 10 when he used a 7 iron to ace the 173-yard seventh hole during the Oak View Triple Event tournament in Greenbush.

It was his first shot of the day, and it won Janousek a dozen golf balls. Had he recorded the hole-in-one a week earlier during the Greenbush Centennial Golf Scramble it would have won a 2005 Mustang, donated by C and M Ford of Hallock.

Janousek's sister, Brittany, aced the same hole in 2003.

Twins clinic slated at Karlstad July 22

Minnesota Twins will offer a free baseball and softball clinic to youth in Karlstad Friday, July 22.

The Twins Youth Clinics program, funded by the Twins Community Fund and sponsored by Great River Energy, gives youth from throughout the Upper Midwest the opportunity to enhance their baseball and softball skills. Twins' clinicians also stress positive messages about staying in school and away from drugs and alcohol.

The clinic is scheduled for a 3 p.m. start at John Ostad Field. In the event of rain, the clinic will be relocated to the Karlstad school gym.

The three-hour clinic is free, requires no registration and is open to boys and girls ages 6 to 16. The clinic will be broken into two 90-minute sessions, the first for 6-8-year-olds and the second for ages 9-16. Twins' baseball instructors will teach hitting, fielding and pitching at each session. Youngsters 6-8 years of age should report at 3 p.m., while those ages 9-16 should arrive one and one-half hour later.

Created in 1961 by longtime Twins scout Angelo Guiliani, the clinics serve as a way for the ball club to promote the game of baseball with youth throughout the region. Since the program began 45 years ago, more than 900,000 boys and girls have taken part in the Twins clinics.

All boys and girls attending the clinic will receive a coupon redeemable for free Twins tickets and other free prizes.

RAIN CARE CO. Goodridge, MN Seamless Aluminum Guttering Heating, Air Conditioning 378-4641 378-4585

Our Seamless gutters are manufactured from .032 gauge pre-painted aluminum, the heaviest gauge used in the industry. If your home is 20 feet or 200 feet in length our seamless gutter is made in one continuous length, eliminating any joints or seams in the middle. Inquire before you purchase "Seamless Gutter" about the thickness of the material used and be certain that it is made in one continuous length.

Seamless gutter is formed, cut and installed on site by a two man crew... saving on labor cost. Freight charges are eliminated. Waste is almost unheard of due to gutter being measured and cut on site to exact lengths. No need to store left over odds and ends that get damaged before they can be used. Most jobs can be completed the same day. Call us for complete information and free estimates of your job at no obligation to you.

In Loving Memory of Hunter Stephen Stavenes
July 18, 2000-October 1, 2000

Happy Fifth Birthday Hunter
No words can express how much
I love and miss you, Hunter.
There are days when the heartache is light and days when the heartache is very heavy and difficult.
You are my firstborn son.
The apple of my eye.
Now that you are gone,
you are my lifetime memory.
I often wonder what kind of boy you would grow up to be,
but I know in my heart,
you'd be the best you could be.
I will Always Love You, Hunter!
Love MOMMY

Minn. reports human West Nile virus case

The first human case of West Nile virus disease in a Minnesota resident for 2005 has been reported. Minnesota Department of Health (MDH) made the announcement on Thursday, July 14.

An adult Wadena County woman tested positive for West Nile virus at the MDH Public Health Laboratory. The woman became ill in late June with symptoms including high fever and severe headache. She has been hospitalized with encephalitis and is improving slowly.

"This case reminds us that we are entering the peak season for West Nile virus in humans, from mid-July through mid-September, so we all need to take steps to prevent mosquito bites," said David Neitzel, an MDH epidemiologist specializing in tick and mosquito-borne diseases. "This is the time of year when we typically see our greatest number of illnesses from West Nile virus because this is the time of year when you're most likely to be bitten by an infected mosquito."

While WNV can occur anywhere in the state, western and central Minnesota are at highest risk for the disease. Also, the older you are, the higher your risk of developing serious forms of illness from the virus.

West Nile virus is transmitted through the bite of a mosquito. It cannot be spread by contact with an infected person. While usually not serious in humans, it can sometimes lead to encephalitis, which is an inflammation of the brain.

To reduce your risk of being bitten:

- While outside among mosquitoes, use a good mosquito repellent, such as those containing no more than 30 percent of the active ingredient DEET. Products containing the active ingredient picaridin are also now commercially available.
- Minimize outdoor activities at dusk or dawn, when mosquitoes are most actively feeding.
- Wear long-sleeve shirts and long pants if you have to spend time in an area where mosquitoes are biting.
- Eliminate mosquito breeding sites on and around your property – including items such as old tires, buckets, clogged rain gutters, cans, other containers and anything else that can hold a small amount of water. Change the water in birdbaths and horse troughs at least weekly.

Of those who become infected with West Nile virus, most people will have no symptoms at all or display only mild symptoms. Approximately one out of 150 people who become infected will develop encephalitis or other severe forms of the disease. Symptoms usually show up three to 15 days after being bitten. They can include headache, high fever, muscle weakness, stiff neck, disorientation, tremors, convulsions, paralysis and coma. Severe cases tend to occur more often in the elderly.

So far in 2005, West Nile virus has also been found in one bird and four horses in Minnesota. A map showing updated West Nile findings in Minnesota can be found on the MDH Web site.

West Nile virus is widespread in Africa, the Middle East, and much of Europe. The virus first appeared in North America (New York City) during 1999 and has since been found in 48 states and the District of Columbia. In 2004, 34 human cases of West Nile virus infection were reported in Minnesota, with two deaths. Nationwide in 2004, there were 2,539 human cases reported with 100 deaths. So far in 2005, 25 other cases of West Nile disease have been reported from 11 states, with one death.

More information on West Nile and other forms of mosquito-borne encephalitis, and a form to report dead birds to help with West Nile virus monitoring, are available on the MDH Web site. Information is also available at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention site. People who have questions about West Nile Virus can call MDH at 612-676-5414 or 1-877-676-5414 (outstate) between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

NASC solar cars to race on Highway 75

This year, the North American Solar Challenge (NASC), a special edition of the American Solar Challenge (ASC), will have Highway 75 as its route.

The ASC is a competition to design, build and race solar-powered cars in a cross-country event. The NASC will be held this month. Solar cars will race across the U.S. to Canada, with the competition beginning in Austin, Texas, on July 17 and ending in Calgary, Alberta, Canada, for a total distance of 2,500 miles.

Highway 75's course will take racers from Galveston, Texas, to Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada. They will enter Minnesota at the Iowa border and travel non-stop to Fargo, N.D./Moorhead, where they will apparently move over to I-29 in North Dakota. They will not continue their Minnesota tour on Highway 75, but those interested in the race can watch it on the other side of the Red River. According to plans at this time, the race south of the border can be seen sometime July 22.

Solar cars are built by engineers and students from a number of the country's colleges, and then the races are held every two years to continue the development and progress of this unusual method of travel.

The NASC stated, "Safety is the first priority for the NASC solar car race. Each team must put its car through grueling and technical inspections. Teams that fail to meet the requirements will not participate. During the race, each team is escorted by lead and chase vehicles sporting rooftop hazard flashers. An official observer will accompany each solar car team to keep it alert to any safety issues."

Highway 1 box culvert project set to start Monday

The Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn/DOT) is alerting the public to the start of a box culvert project on Highway 1, one mile east of Warren, which will require a detour.

The project is scheduled to start Monday, July 18 and will require traffic to be diverted onto Marshall and Polk County roads.

According to Brad Knudson, Mn/DOT project supervisor, the work is part of the Snake River Watershed Diversion effort and will consist of the installation of a triple line of box culverts under the Northern Plains Railroad crossing on Highway 1.

Knudson said the project is expected to be completed by Aug. 2.

RiverView Health to conduct telephone survey

During the next several weeks, area residents may get a telephone call requesting that they complete a health care survey being done for RiverView Health. The hospital is conducting the survey to identify how persons use health care services, and their opinions of doctors, hospitals and the services they provide.

Persons will be asked to complete the brief telephone survey (under 10 minutes) even if they do not use the services provided by RiverView Health. Knowing who does not use the services of RiverView and the reasons why they do not use those services will help the hospital in its planning efforts.

Four hundred-plus households in the area will be randomly selected to receive a telephone call. The hospital asks that persons respond to the request if at all possible because it influences the scientific validity of the survey results, and it will have an impact on planning for the future.

The hospital has hired a professional research firm experienced in doing these kinds of surveys. The firm will complete the research, analyze the results and present recommendations to the hospital related to future services and development. Respondents' individual results will remain confidential. The researchers will only present the compiled results, and no one other than the staff of the research firm will see individual responses.

For more information, call Joy Johnson at RiverView at (218) 281-9401.

Assistance for Medicare prescription drug forms available

Waskish Bridge improvement project began Monday

The Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn/DOT) is notifying motorists that work began Monday to replace the Waskish Bridge over the Tamarac River on Highway 72 in Beltrami County. The project is expected to be completed by Oct. 28.

According to Bill Pirkl, Mn/DOT project engineer, the work includes replacing the bridge, approach panels and guard rail. Pirkl said traffic is restricted to using a single lane, with an 11-foot width, which requires drivers to stop and take turns crossing.

The new bridge will be widened to include a pedestrian/bike path on the eastside. When complete, motor vehicle traffic will be separated from the pedestrian/bike path with the use of guardrail. The pedestrian/bike path portion of the bridge was funded in cooperation with the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources as part of its bike path trail system.

able to tell him to come back to the MMI clinic in August. At that time, a plastic surgeon would be there and able to fix the cleft palate. The surgery should be able to help the boy breathe and eat properly, Campbell noted.

Besides the cleft palate, Campbell noticed the boy had large bruises on his back. She asked one of his parents why he had the bruises. The response was that the boy had been punished by his parents for doing something wrong. Campbell talked about appropriate discipline with the parent. Her translator, who operated an orphanage for abused children, will be doing follow-up work with the parents.

Campbell also treated a man who had a bullet lodged in his shoulder for a year. She was able to remove the bullet for him. Campbell removed a skin tag from a boy as well. He hid the skin tag behind his hair and hand.

In addition to providing medical treatment for those patients, Campbell performed acupuncture on patients with chronic pain.

"I did a lot of acupuncture," said Campbell, who added that another medical acupuncturist saw a lot of patients as well.

Campbell had so many acupuncture patients that she had to improvise. She had to use one acupuncture needle on each person instead of eight needles since she was running out of acupuncture needles. Eventually, Campbell didn't have any needles left or alcohol swabs. Once she ran out of alcohol swabs, she had to use moist towelettes to swab each patient before placing needles into his or her skin.

Campbell's work in Ecuador was possible, in part, due to the contributions of local residents. She thanked those who donated money or items for her trip.

Campbell is grateful for the opportunity to help the people of Ecuador. She enjoyed her trip so much that she plans to go there again – with her sons and their passports.

Penas bill to replace buses

A bill, authored by Rep. Maxine Penas (R-Badger), to create a system to finance replacement Carpenter school buses has been included into the K-12 Education Finance omnibus package that was approved by the Legislature during the special session.

"For many districts, the quality of its bus fleet is declining, and that's a safety concern," Penas said. "Because of the financial constraints of these districts, this legislation would allow them to acquire new buses now and pay for them later."

Penas' interest in this legislation was sparked by a Florida story where a school bus overturned and highlighted a defect in buses made by the Carpenter Manufacturing Co. A study found defective welds that failed and would result in the collapse of the bus roof to seat level.

There are 10 Minnesota school districts that have about 115 defective Carpenter buses, and the Minnesota Department of Public Safety has ordered all defective buses be removed from service. Roseau and TriCounty at Karlstad are the two school districts in House District 1A that have Carpenter buses.

Historically, when a vehicle has a defect, the manufacturer is liable. But Carpenter went out of business in 1995, so Penas' bill will help provide money to districts to partially pay for the replacement of each defective bus.

The bill will create a $2.2 million loan program for districts that have Carpenter buses. The districts would have ten years to pay back the loan with local levies.

"The safety of our children is a primary concern for me," Penas said. "But I'm also aware of the financial needs of our school districts, so I hope this legislation will address both of these needs."

A second Penas bill, which creates $7.5 million for Internet/telecommunications access grants, was also included in the final package. This results in state aid for school districts, charter schools and nonpublic schools to reimburse the schools for a portion of their unreimbursed costs for telecommunications and Internet access. The state had a similar program in place called the Telecommunications Access Revenue Program (TARP).

K-12 education will receive an $800 million increase including a 4 percent increase in each of the next two years on the per pupil funding formula, $139.2 million in local levies and $10 million in aid for early childhood programs. The agreement also provides for education accountability through QComp, a teacher performance pay program

Storm causes damage

Tuesday evening, high winds felled a Newfolden grain elevator's shed, propelling it across the street and into the yard of Angie and Mark Christensen's property. One of the shed's beam went through the couple's roof and tore a hole in their living-room ceiling. The Christensens were sitting in their living room at the time.

Weather's wrath unleashed in Marshall County

by April Scheinuha

Weather's fury was unleashed Tuesday night in Marshall County, and several area residents have seen the carnage.

Newfolden residents Mark and Angie Christensen saw some of that carnage first-hand in their backyard and living room.

At about 10:15 p.m. Tuesday, the Christensens were watching TV when the satellite signal faded. Since they weren't able to watch TV, they decided to go to bed. Before they could even leave their living room, they heard a big boom. The two of them looked outside, thinking their home or shed was struck by lightning or some other calamity.

"Then we looked up and saw the hole in the ceiling," Angie said.

A beam from a neighboring building had impaled their living-room ceiling. Fortunately, the beam didn't make it all the way through the home's insulation. However, there is insulation sticking out of a hole in the Christensens' living-room ceiling.

Despite the damage, the Christensens count themselves lucky. They're glad the beam from the neighboring grain elevator's shed didn't come all the way through the living room and/or near where they were sitting.

The beam wasn't their only problem. They heard water pouring into their home. Water was coming into their living room through a light fixture. They quickly turned off the electricity, and moved their big-screen TV and other belongings away from the gushing water, Angie recalled. Wednesday morning, their living room carpet was still so saturated that people could hear themselves walking on it.

Ironically, the Christensens painted their blue living room two months ago. Mark's parents helped them. They joked that they were now going to tell his parents that they missed a spot.

Those problems weren't the end of it. When they woke up Wednesday morning, they saw the rest of the damage. Strewn across their lawn were beams, boards, siding and roofing from the grain elevator's shed. One beam had impaled their lawn, which had only recently dried enough to enable Mark to mow it. Mark didn't expect that much damage, he said.

There was also damage next door. Renter Sue Burdick was home with her kids when weather's fury was unleashed. "There was a big bang, and it shook the house," Sue said.

Sue thought an object or Public hearing on Roseau Co. water plan

Roseau - County residents who want to know about how the county plans to deal with water and land-management issues should consider attending a public hearing 10 a.m. Tuesday, July 26 at the Roseau County Courthouse.

The subject of the hearing is the current draft of the Roseau County Local Water Management Plan, which sets a course for water resource management activities that the county will pursue the next five years. - The Tribune of Greenbush, July 20, 2005

Magner honored for 50 years of service

Newfolden - The Minnesota Bankers Association (MBA) inducted Joyce Magner of Marshall County State Bank, Newfolden, into its exclusive Pioneer Club during its recent 116th annual meeting in Duluth. The Pioneer Club honors bankers who have been in the banking industry for 50 or more years.

Magner has been involved with MBA for several years and has served on the MBA Regional Compliance Committee. - New River Record of Newfolden, July 20, 2005

Gladen Construction awarded contract for Viking road work

Warren - Gladen Construction's low bid on highway work in the Viking area earned it a contract from the Marshall County Board of Commissioners at the board's Tuesday meeting.

Gladen, a Laporte company, submitted the low bid of $920,685.10. The work involves grading and paving County Road 2 from Viking west and south to Trunk Highway 1.

Commissioners interviewed three applicants for appointment to two three-year terms on the Middle-Snake-Tamarac Rivers Watershed District Board of Managers: incumbent Alvin Nybladh of Stephen, Ben Kleinwachter of Strandquist and Elden J. Elseth of Warren. Nybladh and Kleinwachter were appointed. - Warren Sheaf, July 20, 2005

Jail Committee nearing end of initial planning

Roseau - Although it is all but certain that a jail project will come to pass, what is not certain quite yet, according to County Coordinator Trish Harren, is what exactly to build.

The dynamics of the project have made the decision-making process for the project rather cumbersome from very early on.

Among some of the concerns that County Board members had was the fact that the estimates are now approximately $1 million more than those previously anticipated. The increase was primarily attributed to an 11 percent construction cost increase.

Addressing some of the possible remedies for the new dilemma, the board considered the possibility of changing the budget cap from $6 million to $7.5 million. Another possible avenue of action discussed was that of simply leaving law enforcement in the structure that it is presently in, and proceeding with a jail only. - Roseau Times-Region, July 16, 2005, by Timothy Holmseth

Local Guard soldiers receive notice about possible deployment

by April Scheinuha
Reporter

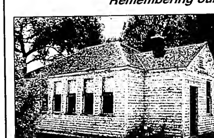
Local Minnesota National Guard soldiers have received an alert for a possible deployment. Just when or where they may be deployed to has yet to be announced.

The soldiers who are in Co. B (Detachment 1) 2nd Battalion 136th Infantry in Thief River Falls recently received the alert. They have not received official orders, according to Lt. Shannon Purvis with the public affairs office of the Minnesota National Guard.

"It's really, really vague right now," Purvis said about the alert. She noted the alert listed a few operations in which the soldiers may serve. Those operations include Operation Noble Eagle, Operation Enduring Freedom and Operation Iraqi Freedom. All three operations may lead to a deployment in the U.S. However, the two latter operations may lead to deployments to Afghanistan or Iraq, respectively.

The alert basically means the soldiers have received word that they may be deployed, Purvis noted. At a later date, they may receive mobilization orders, which would state the specifics of a deployment.

The potential deployment will be the unit's second in recent years. In September 2003, the unit was deployed to Bosnia and Herzegovina. It returned home seven months later in April 2004.



For those families affected by the possible deployment, Guard Family Help at Home will again be in operation to help them out while the soldiers are overseas.

A higher calling

Last week, Alabama resident Tyler Stacey, 17, worked on the roof of a future Baptist church in Badger. Along with 13 other Alabama residents, Stacey did light construction work on the building and hosted Vacation Bible School in the backyard of the property.

Remembering our past

Students return for a country-school reunion

◀ Little Oak School #65 hosted a reunion for former students and their families. At one time, the school was located in Hickory Township in Pennington County. Now it sits within the grounds of Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village.

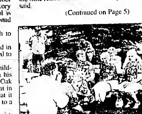
School was in session again at Little Oak School #65

They recalled days of playing a game they called Norwegian Ball and reached for the heavens on an old swing during recess. They recalled days of wonder and report cards, and a time in their past when all little boys carried pocket knives.

Saturday, July 16, over 50 people attended a reunion of Little Oak School. At one time, the one-room school sat where it seemed to belong - in rural Hickory Township in Pennington County. Today, the school is among the many buildings within Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village in Thief River Falls.

"It's nice to be here and in good enough health to visit," said Clarence Bakken.

Little Oak School was built in 1908 and it closed in 1964. Following the closure, the building was moved to Pioneer Village.



Bakken shared a number of stories from his childhood, including some of the names of teachers on his report cards. He also recalled a favorite Little Oak recess game - Norwegian Ball. Bakken recalled that in Norwegian Ball there were only two bases and that it was structured so even the smallest pupil could run to a base during most games.

Bakken also shared stories of making whistles with the pocket knives they carried in their pockets, of smoking pencil shavings, elm root and other substances. "When I was old enough to smoke, I quit," Bakken quipped.

Many other visitors shared stories from their days at Little Oak School.

Alvina Arvesan Hanson, Thief River Falls, told of walking home from school in the winter when one of the Manderud boys began to cry because his hands were so cold. "We stopped at Martin Knutsons and Mrs. Knutson (deceased) took down her long hair and held the little fellow's hands on her scalp to warm them," she said.

Volunteers help resurrect Badger church building

by April Scheinuha
Reporter

A resurrection is happening in Badger – a former Badger church is being remodeled to serve another congregation. The church, which closed in 1982, is being renovated into a Baptist church.

Last week, 10 Alabama youth and their four adult chaperones journeyed to Badger to help with the renovation. The volunteers were from three churches affiliated with the Selma, Ala., Baptist Association. They worked on the roof, cleaned the basement and did other light construction work. They also taught Vacation Bible School (VBS) under a large tent in the church's backyard along Tamarack Street. The group stayed for a week in Badger.

"We're just here to support them, what they're doing, help them get a start," said Tom Stacey, leader of the Alabama group.

The building formerly served as the Badger Evangelical Free Church. The congregation later consolidated with another congregation in Piney, Manitoba, Canada.

"It's been vacant, used as a storage building," Curtis Nyegaard said about the building's use since that time.

In the meantime, Jim Joel was looking for a Baptist church or a place to house a Baptist congregation. Joel was a member of a Baptist congregation in Brainerd. Upon moving to Badger a few years ago, he discovered the community did not have a Baptist church.

The building, which is located down the street from Joel's home, became available. Financing was available, and the Northwoods Baptist Association purchased the building from Christ and Kathy Hamann in December.

A month later, remodeling began on the approximately 100-year-old church. "We're hoping to remodel

Crazy Days in TRF

July 28-30

Shoppers can go crazy in Thief River Falls July 28 through 30 during the community's Crazy Days celebration.

Shoppers will find great savings community-wide throughout this event. Store hours for participating stores begin at 7 a.m.

Visitors and shoppers will be able to participate in many activities, too. Most of the activities take place on Thursday, July 28. There will be live entertainment from various groups. Some of the entertainment will be provided on LaBree Avenue in downtown Thief River Falls, but the "Would Picks" will provide entertainment at the Floyd B. Olson Park Gazebo beginning at 7 p.m.

Also on LaBree Avenue at noon on Thursday will be a petting zoo, and food stands.

Visitors and shoppers worried about all the walking, can choose to ride with Tri-Valley Heartland Express Bus on Thursday and Friday.

Board deals with slide issues, sheriff and personnel policy

Red Lake Falls - The Red Lake County Board of Commissioners met July 12.

Richerd Koehmstedt's truck didn't fare well in Tuesday evening's storm. The Holt resident's cottonwood tree toppled onto the truck, which Koehmstedt uses to plow snow in the winter.

Weather's wrath unleashed in Marshall County

lightning struck the house. It wasn't until 2 a.m. Wednesday that she was willing and able to go outside to see what happened. The shed's roof had struck her house and was still sitting there.

"I was shocked that it was there, and I was wondering where it came from," said Sue, who noted she then looked across the street and saw that the grain elevator's shed was no longer standing.

The community of Holt was also affected by weather's wrath Tuesday evening. High winds felled trees, power lines and other objects.

A cottonwood tree fell onto a truck parked in Richard Koehmstedt's driveway. "I was glad it wasn't on the house," he said.

Richard wasn't home when the tree crashed onto the uninsured truck he uses for plowing snow in the winter. "If I would've been home, my car would've been parked beside it."

A few blocks away, a tree was uprooted. Tree branches were also strewn across a street and some lawns. A pickup camper had tipped on its side as well.

North of Holt, a power outage was reported at 11:30 p.m. Tuesday. Some of the 474 customers were without power for 17 hours, according to Ron Kennedy, manager of Red Lake Electric Cooperative. High winds caused 13 consecutive power poles to fall down in that area.

The affected customers primarily lived north of Marshall County Road 7 and are served by the Holt substation, Ron noted.

Five inches of rain fell in the Holt area, which complicated the replacement of the power poles. "The water was very deep," said Ron, who noted the cooperative received help from three local farmers. The farmers used their four-wheel drive tractors to pull the cooperative's trucks when needed.

Besides the water, high winds and lightning strikes in Marshall County, hail also felt Tuesday evening. Near the intersection of Highway 32 and County Road 7, hail stones looked like a small pile of snow Wednesday morning.

Because everybody gets tired of eating in the hot weather, we're having yummy bars this week to tempt you. There is also a nice recipe at the end for a frozen punch drink that gives you the nutritional information.

Oh, my, but these are rich - but so good. Make them for a party so you won't be tempted to eat them all yourself:

CARAMEL LAYER BARS
1 (14 ounce) package light caramels
1/3 cup evaporated milk
1 box German chocolate cake mix
3/4 cup butter, melted
1/3 cup evaporated milk
1 cup chopped nuts
1 (6 ounce) package chocolate chips

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour 9x13 inch pan.

Combine caramels and evaporated milk. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until caramels melt. Set aside and keep warm.

Combine remaining ingredients except chocolate chips. Stir by hand until dough holds together. Press half of dough into prepared pan, reserving remainder. Bake 6 minutes.

Sprinkle with chocolate chips and spread warm caramel mixture over chips. Add remaining dough mixture. Bake 15-20 minutes. Cool completely before cutting.

Here is the cake from Rev. Terri Skildum that I was wondering about. She kindly e-mailed me the recipe. I haven't tried it yet, but I'm going to use my frozen rhubarb and try it, maybe this weekend:

RHUBARB CAKE
1 1/2 cups brown sugar, packed
1/4 cup white sugar
1/2 cup shortening
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups cut rhubarb
1 cup buttermilk
Topping
1/3 cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Cream brown sugar, white sugar and shortening. Add egg and beat. Stir in vanilla.

In separate bowl, combine dry ingredients but not rhubarb or milk. Add dry mixture alternately with milk to the creamed sugar mixture.

Grease and flour 9x13 inch pan. Pour 2/3 of the batter into the pan, then sprinkle with rhubarb. Pour remaining batter over the rhubarb.

Mix topping sugar and cinnamon and sprinkle over batter. Bake 45 minutes. Serve with whipped cream or ice cream.

My family loves these bars - but I only bake them at Christmas to keep them real treats. Make them now for a special treat, but remember to cut them small for bite-sized delights:

OATMEAL CARAMEL BARS
1 (14 ounce) package caramels
1/2 cup evaporated milk or 1/2 and 1/2 cream
2 cups flour
2 cups quick oats
1 1/2 cups brown sugar
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup butter, melted
1 (6 ounce) package chocolate chips
1 cup chopped pecans

Melt caramels and evaporated milk in heavy saucepan. Cool slightly.

Combine remaining ingredients except chocolate chips and pecans. Press half of crumbs in greased 9x13 inch pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes and remove from oven. Sprinkle with chocolate chips and pecans. Add melted caramel mixture.

Top with remaining oatmeal mixture and bake 15-20 minutes more. Chill 1-2 hours before cutting.

Have these delicious bars on hand for a quick pick-me-up:

ENERGY BARS
2 cup quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
3 cups miniature marshmallows
1/2 cup chunky peanut butter
1/4 cup honey
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup raisins.

Toast oats in shallow baking pan in preheated 350 degree oven about 15 minutes until golden brown. Line a 9 inch square baking pan with aluminum foil and then grease well.

Melt marshmallows with peanut butter, honey and butter in saucepan over low heat, stirring constantly. Remove from heat.

Stir in toasted oats and raisins and place in prepared pan, spreading evenly. Chill until firm. To serve, remove foil and cut into squares.

This is a really tasty drink for those special occasions, and it can be made with less sugar and calories too:

FRUITY SLUSH
1 (3 ounce) package raspberry gelatin
1 cup boiling water
2 cups cold water
2 cups cranberry juice
1 (12 ounce) can frozen pink lemonade concentrate, thawed
1 (12 ounce) can frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed
1 liter lemon lime soda, chilled

In large bowl, dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Stir in cold water, cranberry juice and concentrates. Pour into 2 1/2 quart freezer container, cover and freeze overnight.

Remove container from freezer 2 hours before serving. Fill glasses two-thirds full with slush and stir about 1 cup of soda into each glass. Recipe makes about 13 servings (2 quarts).

Each 1 cup serving (made with sugar free gelatin, reduced calorie cranberry juice and diet soda) equals 102 calories, trace of fat, 0 chol, 14 mg sodium, 26 g carb, trace fiber, 1 g protein. Diabetic Exchange is 1 1/2 fruit.

Road construction now in high gear

Work on several highway projects in northwest Minnesota is in progress. Minnesota Department of Transportation (Mn/DOT) notified us last week that work was being done on Highway 11 in the city of Roseau, and that crews would begin work on a box culvert project on Highway 1, one mile east of Warren. Residents of Thief River Falls were surprised when crews began work on Highway 59 in Thief River Falls this week, too.

There are more projects underway and more will begin, and end, before this summer is over. If you're interested in finding out where crews are working, Mn/DOT is supposed to keep an up-to-date list of projects on its Minnesota 511 Web site: www.511mn.org.

Some of these projects last for months. The overlay project in Thief River Falls was practically done before the end of the week, but these summer road construction projects are necessary and do take time.

The weather in northwest Minnesota is tough on roads. The extreme fluctuations in temperatures quickly cause roads to break apart before their time. Add to that, heavy traffic flows during peak hours and it's relatively easy to understand why our roads quickly deteriorate.

In northwest Minnesota, highway maintenance projects are as important and probably more important than any infrastructure improvements we can make. If ignored for too long, the impact to citizens in northwest Minnesota would far exceed the temporary frustrations caused by having to drive slowly through work zones, detours, and other traffic delays. Businesses would not be unable to compete in the world market, and communities would slowly asphyxiate. Face it, we use our roads to get to work, go to the grocery store, visit our neighbor, haul mail and provide goods and services. Talk about taking something for granted. If you think about it, roads would rank right up there with electricity. We expect electricity to be there when we flip the switch, and we expect roads to be in good condition when we turn the ignition switch in our vehicles.

Minnesota is concerned about safety in work zones. Every year, they pick a theme. This year's theme focuses on the consequences of not paying attention: "Work Zones. Pay Attention or Pay the Price."

Of course, the Minnesota Department of Transportation wants you to return home safely to your family. They offer the following tips to make your trips a little safer:

- Stay alert, expect the unexpected.
- Allow ample space between you and the car in front of you.
- Anticipate lane shifts - merge when directed to do so.
- Don't change lanes unnecessarily.
- Don't speed in work zones; obey the posted speed limits.
- Avoid using mobile phones while driving in work zones.
- Be especially alert at night while driving in work zones.
- Be patient!

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

Polaris buys 24 percent in KTM Power Sports

Polaris Industries Inc. has announced that it will purchase a 24-percent interest in Austrian motorcycle manufacturer KTM Power Sports AG, formerly known as Cross Holding AG, and partner with KTM on several important strategic projects. The goal of the partnership is to strengthen the competitive position of both companies and provide tangible benefits to customers, dealers, suppliers and shareholders.

During the first phase of the partnership, each company will continue to be run separately, but will work together on several specific cooperative projects involving new product development, engine technology sharing, distribution, manufacturing, and purchasing. This initial phase of the partnership will last approximately two years and, in addition to the cooperative projects, will involve the following:

- Polaris will purchase a 24-percent stake in KTM Power Sports AG from an institutional investor for 66.6 million euros or approximately $80 million funded from Polaris' existing bank line of credit arrangement. This represents approximately a 12 percent discount to the market value of the shares purchased reflecting the size of the block of shares purchased and the fact that the shares are thinly traded. KTM Power Sports AG (formerly known as Cross Holding AG, which is publicly traded on the Vienna Stock Exchange under the symbol CRO), owns and controls KTM Sportmotorcycle AG, a leading European manufacturer of motorcycles with fiscal year 2004 revenue of over 400 million euros. Over its history, KTM has earned a reputation for providing class-leading, ready-to-race, off-road motorcycles, and recently has entered the on-road motorcycle segment. This transaction, subject to customary closing conditions and regulatory approval, is expected to close during the third quarter of 2005. The actual number of shares purchased and the purchase price are subject to reduction depending upon the number of shares of KTM Power Sports AG outstanding on the closing date.
- Polaris CEO Tom Tiller is expected to be named to the KTM Supervisory Board after the closing date of the transaction.
- KTM CEO Stefan Pierer is expected to be named to the Polaris Board of Directors after the closing date of the transaction.

The investment in KTM Power Sports AG is expected to be neutral to calendar year 2005 Polaris consolidated earnings per share and somewhat accretive for the full year 2006. There are no changes in employment anticipated at either company as a result of this announcement.

Additionally, Polaris and KTM Power Sports' largest shareholder, Cross Industries AG ("Cross"), have entered into option agreements which, under certain conditions in 2007, either Cross may purchase Polaris' interest in KTM Power Sports AG or, alternatively, Polaris may become the majority shareholder of KTM Power Sports AG. In the latter case, the majority of the purchase price to Cross will be settled in Polaris shares and Cross will become a significant shareholder in the combined Polaris/KTM organization. Cross' principal shareholders are KTM CEO Stefan Pierer and KTM CFO Rudolf Knunz. The exercise price under both option arrangements are based on market-based, predetermined pricing formulas to be derived from operating results of both companies in 2007.

"I believe this partnership will provide substantial benefits to both Polaris and KTM, and both company's dealers, employees, suppliers and shareholders for many years to come," said Tiller. "We have long admired the success of KTM, and are excited about working together to strengthen both companies. Polaris can benefit from KTM's substantial experience in motorcycles, an outstanding brand, leading technology, and a solid manufacturing presence and dealer network in Europe. Moreover, this relationship complements nearly every aspect of Polaris' five-year strategic vision, which is a roadmap to make Polaris the most dominant brand in the powersports industry. Further, we believe the two-step approach we have outlined significantly lessens the cultural and execution risk associated with a partnership of this magnitude."

"In essence, this partnership combines the substantial strength, passion, and success of two industry leaders with very similar, successful 50-year histories, but who do not compete directly today. It is a very natural fit for both of us," added Tiller.

Pierer commented, "Polaris and KTM complement each other very well, and we are very excited about our new relationship. By joining forces, we believe we can strengthen KTM's presence in North America, reduce our production costs, spread our development costs over a larger base, and substantially accelerate our entry into the ATV business. We also look forward to sharing both chassis and engine technology with Polaris. The KTM and Polaris teams should work well together - both companies are driven by innovation, passion, and demand success."

Local woman suffers injuries in one-vehicle rollover

A Baudette woman suffered minor injuries following an accident Tuesday morning in Marshall County.

Ashley A. Johnson, 23, was taken to Northwest Medical Center. She was treated and released from the hospital, according to an NWMC nursing staff member.

At the time of the accident, Johnson was driving a 1997 Buick westbound on County Road 2, three miles east of County Road 12. The Marshall County Sheriff's Department report indicated Johnson went off the pavement to the right, pulled back and overcorrected. The vehicle went back onto the roadway and rolled into a ditch.

The sheriff's department responded to the accident at 5:48 a.m. Tuesday in Agder Strip Township. Great Plains EMS also responded to the accident

The interior of Little Oak School 65 has been maintained as a replica of many one-room school houses in the region. On Saturday, July 16, it served as the site of a reunion for many students who attended the school when it served as a school.

Memories of an old one-room school become even more important when one realizes that the school served as a church where Norwegian and Swedish were spoken, and where children were baptized, including several who were at the reunion.

In addition to the many families and students served by this little one-room school, the reunion on Saturday attracted six of the nine surviving teachers from those days. Teachers attending the event included: Bernice Kjelgren Johnson, Goodridge, 1945-1946; John Eisbrener, Trail, 1948-1949; Sister Virginia (Virginia Houske), Crookston, 1951-1952; Muriel Magnell Mandt, Oklee, 1953-1954; Phillis Nelson McGregor, Warren, 1954-1957; and Beverly Moen Bakken of Hibbing, 1963-1964.

Ernest Mostrom of Trail was honored as the oldest student at the event.

The families of Alvin and Barbara Bakken (deceased) and Arnold and Ida Haugen (deceased) were honored for having the most immediate family members at the reunion. Bakkens attending included: Clarence, Nashwauk; Stanley, Hibbing; Marvin, Goodridge; Janice, South Milwaukee, Wis.; and Mary, Fairbault. The Haughen siblings attending included: Orrin of Hibbing; Linda Homme of Goodridge, and Lois Burstad and Sharron Johnson of Thief River Falls.

Louise Solseng, daughter-in-law of Ester Bakken Solseng (deceased), a one-time Little Oak student, was an organizer of the event, along with Clarence Bakken, grandson of early Little Oak Clerk C.P. Bakken (deceased). Clarence Bakken and Arlene Christianson Pickard, Camas, Wash., served as co-masters of ceremonies. Former teacher and reunion registrar, Beverly Bakken, and Pickard are granddaughters of the first Little Oak Treasurer Olive Christianson (deceased), as is Corella Christianson Thorbeck, Plymouth, who provided comprehensive student lists and other historical background. Caryl Bugge, Pioneer Village director, provided extensive support.

Volunteers help resurrect Badger church building

enough to start having services this summer or early fall," said Nyegaard, who works with Mission Service Corps.

Since remodeling work began in January, many volunteers have offered their services to the church. A roofing contractor volunteered his time. Groups from Langdon, N.D., and Duluth also volunteered their time. A group of volunteers from Westside Baptist Church in Warroad also provided their expertise. Two local families – Joel's family and his daughter's family – have also volunteered their time to remodel the building.

All of the volunteers have spent a lot of time on the building. The roof is being redone, and the building is getting new wiring and a new heating system, according to Nyegaard.

The whole building is being redone top to bottom, Joel said.

Stacey and his group are happy to help. "We just love northern Minnesota," said Stacey, who has helped congregations in Warroad, Bemidji, Cloquet and Ely with other groups of Alabama residents.

"The people up here are nice," said Stacey's 14-year-old daughter, Tamara, who cleaned the building's basement and helped with crafts for VBS as well.

John Brunson, 24, also traveled to northern Minnesota from Alabama. This wasn't his first trip to this area. He noted he's made a lot of friends in Minnesota.

While in Badger, Brunson helped clean moss out of the building's basement. He also taught missions for VBS. Brunson said, "That's part of the great commission – You're called to preach the gospel to all the nations."

Northland Community and Technical College is offering computer-based ASE exams

Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC) - Thief River Falls, will provide testing services this summer for the Automotive Service Excellence (ASE) certification exams. Testing will be offered in July and August at NCTC's testing center.

The ASE exams are in a computer-based form. This allows for more flexibility in scheduling exams, including weekend options. Technicians also get immediate feedback on their scores.

ASE exams will be available at the testing center in computer-based form in six areas: Auto (A1-A8), Collision (B2-B6); Service Cons (C1); Advanced (L1); Parts (P2); M/H Truck (T1-T8).

ASE certification is a professional credential recognized in many automobile maintenance and repair positions. Today, there are more than 400,000 ASE-certified professionals working in dealerships, service stations, collision repair shops, auto parts stores, machine shops, schools and other institutions throughout the country.

Registration for the first round of tests will continue until August 15. Testing will be available from July 18 through August 21. To register for the exams, call ASE's toll-free number at 1-800-525-6929. For more information on the exams, call the ASE Help Desk at (319) 337-1433 or visit the ASE Web site at www.ase.com/cht

For more information about the testing center, contact Jennifer Sundberg at (218) 683-7056 or visit www.northlandcollege.edu/business_industry.

Thank you to friends, co-workers and neighbors who participated in Saturday's benefit. The response was overwhelming and I appreciate everyone of you. With your support and prayers my family and I will get through this.
Thank you,
Vicki, Danielle, Ashley & Brady Meunier

Busy Legion schedule for TRF

From July 1-17, the Thief River Falls American Legion baseball game played just twice – two doubleheaders. Weather and schedule alterations erased four other twinbills during that stretch.

This week, Post 117 played eight games in four days – consecutive twinbills Monday at Perham, Tuesday at Fergus Falls, Wednesday at East Grand Forks and Thursday vs. East Grand Forks again, this time at the Multi-Events Center.

The Perham and Fergus Falls games were played as scheduled. A Thursday trip to East Grand Forks was moved up to Wednesday, and an earlier rain-out between the two teams was played the next night in Thief River Falls.

Post 117 was 13-9 heading into the week. The record dipped to 15-15 after two losses at Perham, a split at Fergus Falls, two setbacks at East Grand Forks and a split in the next-night rematch.

After losing 9-1, 14-7 Wednesday, Thief River Falls picked up a 9-7 Game 1 win over East Grand Forks Thursday. The visitors rebounded with a one-sided 14-0 five-inning romp in the night-cap.

Trailing 7-5, Thief River Falls scored four times in the bottom of the sixth for the win. Drew Kjono and Dan Kaushagen both had three hits to help pitcher Justin Brooks notch the victory.

The second game was decided early as East Grand Forks scored 10 second inning runs.

Ninth District American Legion Division I baseball tournament will be played July 27-31 at East Grand Forks' Stauss Park.

Seventh inning run caps a VFW sweep

Spencer Johnson's tie-breaking two-out single in the bottom of the seventh inning gave Thief River Falls a 6-5 second-game win and a Friday (July 15) VFW baseball doubleheader sweep against Perham at the Multi-Events Center.

A three-run first inning carried Post 2793 to a 5-3 Game 1 win.

An RBI single by Seth Schmitz and a run-producing sacrifice fly by Michael Blix highlighted Thief River Falls' early first-game offense.

It became a 5-0 game in the third inning when Schmitz picked up another RBI with a sacrifice fly and Patrick Barry, who had doubled with one out, scored on a suicide squeeze bunt by Ben Espeseth.

Perham combined two hits with a walk and two ground-outs in a three-run sixth inning.

"We played as complete of a game as we have all year," said Thief River Falls coach Shane Zutz, whose team was coming off a 4-3, 7-2 sweep at the hands of Bemidji. "We really wanted to bounce back after Wednesday," he added.

Post 2793 scored early again in Game 2 when Schmitz came up with an RBI single and Michael Blix drove in a run with a ground-out.

After falling behind 3-2, Thief River Falls struck for three runs in the bottom of the fifth off a fielder's choice ball hit by Barry, a three-base throwing error by the Perham pitcher and a sacrifice fly by Johnson.

Perham tied the game in the sixth, but Thief River Falls won it in the seventh when Espeseth bounced a double off the left field fence, Schmitz was given an intentional walk and, after two pop-out outs, Johnson plated with winning run with a bloop single to center.

"This was a fun game to play," reported Zutz. "Both teams battled hard."

EGF wins both games vs. TRF on Wednesday

East Grand Forks reaffirmed its position as the favorite in Ninth District American Legion baseball by sweeping visiting Thief River Falls 9-1, 14-7 Wednesday.

The 2005 Ninth District Division 1 tournament will run from July 21-31 in East Grand Forks.

A schedule adjustment moved what was going to be a Thursday Thief River Falls-East Grand Forks match-up at Stauss Park to Wednesday.

Thief River Falls mustered just one hit in the opener – a one-out seventh inning single by Dan Kaushagen that spoiled a no-hit bid by East Grand Forks pitcher Mark Marek.

Kaushagen also pitched five innings of two-run ball, only to see East Grand Forks break things open with a seven-run sixth that featured a 3-run Talon Grabow home run.

Post 117 improved its offensive numbers in Game 2, but not to a point that the outcome was affected.

The losses evened Thief River Falls' record at 14-14.

Pricketts catch largest contest fish

Thief River Falls father-son combination of Jerry and Todd Prickett came up with an eighth place finish among the 86 two-person teams taking part in the sixth annual Streiff Sporting Goods Fishing Derby July 16 on Lake of the Woods.

The Pricketts' catch weighed in at 13.31 pounds. First place Tony Montebello and Brian Johnston of Warroad came up 23.3 pounds of fish.

Jerry Prickett earned additional honors with the biggest fish award for a walleye weighing 12.17 pounds.

Team Prickett won $170 for the eighth place finish. The biggest fish award was worth $200 and a free mount.

Top prize was $1,360. Entry fee was $100 per team. Prize money went to the top 12 teams.

There were 312 fish caught during the tournament. The catch was donated to nursing homes in Greenbush and Warroad.

Top 12 Teams

1. Tony Montebello-Brian Johnston, 23.22 pounds. 2. Lorne Jonasson-Mark Sindelir, 17.75. 3. Byron Ellertson-Steve Oblitz, 16.66. 4. Tim Hunter-Dave Johnston, 16.21. 5. LHS, FMS student-athletes are given reminder for forms, fees

All Lincoln High School and Franklin Middle School student-athletes planning on participating in a fall sports program are reminded to have their required forms completed and user fee paid prior to the start of practice.

Participants will not be allowed to practice until all fees are paid and all forms are completed and on file in the Lincoln activities office.

Forms can be picked up at the activities office starting Aug. 1. Office hours are 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Activities fees are $95 ($47.50 with approved free or reduced lunch) for LHS participants and $80 ($40 with approved free or reduced lunch) for FMS participants.

Athletes are required to have a physical exam every three years. If you need a physical, appointments should be made in advance of the start of practice.

Fall sports participants should bring a check, or the correct amount of cash, along with all necessary forms to the activities office at Lincoln. They will then be issued a white permit card to be presented to their coach. Once the coach receives the card, the student-athlete is cleared to begin practice.

Opening dates for fall varsity sports practice (football, boys/girls cross country, girls tennis, girls swimming, volleyball) is Aug. 15.

Equipment issue dates, official start of practice times and the announcement of parent/player meetings for all levels of each sport will be announced the first week of August.

One inning ends Post 117 bid for a twinbill sweep

One bad inning cost Thief River Falls an opportunity to complete an American Legion baseball doubleheader sweep at Fergus Falls Tuesday.

Thief River Falls bunched together nine runs in the fifth and sixth inning to win the opener 11-5.

Post 117 appeared well on its way to a sweep with a 7-2 lead through 5 1/2 innings in the nightcap.

But that's when things went haywire for the visitors, who watched Fergus Falls push 10 runs across the plate in the bottom of the sixth for a 12-7 win and a split.

Fergus Falls went through seven pitchers in the twinbill – a group that combined for 20 walks, including 13 free passes in the Game 1 loss.

TRF VFW wins a pair against Detroit Lakes

Final week of the 2005 regular season schedule for the Thief River Falls VFW baseball team began with 16-5, 13-3 Monday wins at Detroit Lakes for the Shane Zutz-coached 16-year-olds.

It was the second Thief River Falls sweep of Detroit Lakes this summer, with Post 2793 winning 4-3, 5-3 in a June 21 match-up at the Multi-Events Center.

Winning pitchers Ben Espeseth (Game 1) and Spencer Johnson (Game 2) benefitted from a Thief River Falls offense that totaled 29 runs and 29 hits in the two games.

Eric Blix, Cole Hunt, Seth Schmitz and Espeseth had three hits apiece in the opener. Ben Carlson, Alex Yaggie and Sean Sorteberg led the second-game attack with two hits each.

Thief River Falls, 16-7 following the sweep, had a Wednesday twinbill in Perham, a Thursday doubleheader at home vs. East Grand Forks and a make-up date with Crookston to squeeze in prior to the start of the district tournament, scheduled July 27-31 in East Grand Forks.

Perham sweeps Legion games

Two Perham wins were accomplished in contrasting style Monday as the Buzz hosted Thief River Falls in a Ninth District American Legion baseball doubleheader.

Perham won the opener 1-0, then romped to a 12-2 five-inning Game 2 victory.

A bases-loaded walk issued to Matt Kalina produced the only first-game run. Perham pitcher Brock Collins got the shutout even though he gave up nine hits.

Thief River Falls got on the board early in the nightcap, only to see Perham snap a 2-2 tie with a five-run second inning that featured back-to-back home runs by Tyler Anderson (a three-run shot) and Matt Richter.

Errors add up to Post 2793 losses vs. Bemidji VFW

Errors made the difference as Bemidji swept host Thief River Falls 4-3, 7-2 in a Tuesday (July 12) VFW baseball doubleheader. The winners played 14 innings of error-free ball. Post 2793 was charged with nine errors.

"We just didn't show up to play," offered Thief River Falls coach Shane Zutz. "We weren't sharp defensively, or mentally and it cost us a couple of games."

Thief River Falls began the day with a pair of first inning Game 1 runs on singles by Cody Bottem and Seth Schmitz, a double-steal and a base hit by Michael Blix.

Bemidji went ahead with three unearned runs in the fourth.

Post 2793 tied it in the fifth when, with two outs, Alex Yaggie was hit by a pitch and scored on back-to-back singles by Matt Nelson and Bottem.

However, another unearned Bemidji run in the sixth proved to be the game-winner.

Thief River Falls out-hit Bemidji 8-7 in Game 2, but still ran into trouble on defense.

Old Mill plans music event

Pack a picnic lunch, round up your friends and family and come out to Old Mill State Park Sunday, July 31, from 1 to 5 p.m. for some old-fashion fun, entertainment and free ice cream cones during the park's Music Festival and Country Jam Session.

Enjoy local musical talent and add your voice to sing along at the event sponsored by the Newfolden Lions Club. Those interested in sharing their musical talent or who have friends or relatives who would like to showcase their talent at the festival are encouraged to call 218-437-8174 for more information and to reserve a performance time. All participating musicians will be given a free vehicle permit for entrance to the park that day.

In addition to music, a potluck napkin lunch (sweet treats and refreshments) will be served. Guests are encouraged to bring a treat to share. The Marshall County Historical Society will provide free ice cream cones in celebration of the old-time creamery picnics that were once held at the park.

A special event for senior citizens also will be held at the park July 31. The Marshall County Council on Aging is sponsoring a Senior Citizen's Celebration of Summer potluck picnic beginning at 1 p.m. in the park's picnic shelter. Any senior citizen attending the park event can participate in the potluck. Beverages and eating utensils will be provided. Seniors are asked to bring a dish to share.

Old Mill State Park is located on Marshall County Road 39. From Argyle, take Marshall County Road 4 approximately 12 miles east to County Road 39. From Newfolden, go approximate 11 miles west on Marshall County Road 4 to County Road 39. From Warren, take Marshall County Road 3 northeast for approximately 17 miles and watch for signs to the park.

All programs are free and open to the public. However, a Minnesota state park vehicle permit is required to enter the park. Permits can be purchased at the park office. For program location within the park call 218-437-8174.

Again and Again and Again and, ... Where's that Penny?

Fishing Lake of the Woods each year is a patterned event. Over time, an angler becomes comfortable with the seasons and the weather and the habits of walleyes and blends that knowledge into a fishing strategy. A deer hunter does the same thing, having acquired a feel for food sources, bedding areas, the rut or whatever else might trigger the activities of deer. A stockbroker develops an understanding of market trends and the way the public reacts to them. A farmer plants, sells, and invests based on historical events and the personal consideration he applies to those precedents. Meteorologists devote a lot of their time to combining notions of past weather, recent storms, climactic trends, scientific data and personal historical perception before formulating a forecast. Oh, yeah, and they flip quite a few coins, too. Predicting the weather and looking for fish have a lot in common.

Unfortunately, when fishing Lake of the Woods, we're often looking at the patterns in a microscopic fashion. That is, we look at a very tiny piece of the big picture and try to make generalizations based on the information. A good example might be the ongoing global warming debate. On the one hand, yes, temperature trends have risen over the last century. On the other, however, is the fact that a century is a relatively short time when held next to 4 billion years of earth history. Is that warming a trend, or just a blip in the system?

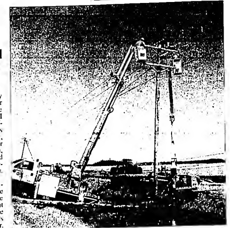
Likewise in fishing. Even the most diehard of anglers is able to fish similar conditions on similar calendar dates only very rarely during the course of his lifetime. Even if he were fortunate enough to drop a line in on Aug. 1 for 50 of his 80 years, the chances of having any three of those times being the exact same would be pretty minimal. Hang on, I realize that I'm slipping into a confusing level. Let's look at it in terms of this season.

It's late July and we're still catching walleyes in areas that are normally reserved for early June fame. Shallow sand bars, gravel shelves, and weed lines- the fun stuff. Historically we'd be working the rocks or the deep mud, especially after such an extended period of mid-summer heat. There's probably a good reason for the fish being where they are, but that's not my point. I'm simply cataloguing the fact that they're where they are.

Now, I take into account all the factors that surround this phenomenon. Lots of rain, a cold spring, a hot July, high water, a weak Mayfly hatch – anything that might factor into the fishing equation. Feel free to add your own variables. Then I ponder a moment, take a sip of coffee, and remember that two years ago, under eerily similar conditions, we had fish stay on early summer spots longer. The water was high, the weather was cold early, and there was a lot of extraordinary current gushing out of the Rainy. Hmmm.

It might be any one of those factors that are putting the fish where they are and it might be the delicate combination of all of them. It might have to do with the mysteries of the Lake Shiner population. Perhaps it's the muddy character of the water. Maybe it's something chemical like the acidic quality of the run-off. It could be something as unconsidered and remote as the phases of the moon or even the level of truck traffic along Highway 2 from Bemidji to Duluth. How about those rocks they took off the moon? I can't claim to knowing which has effect and which doesn't, so I have to consider as much as possible.

And if, perhaps, my memory and powers of observance were better, I could tap into a host of other possibilities and generalize patterns from many different fishing seasons. Whatever, armed with a little bit of observation and a small dose of personal recollection, I can enter late July 2006 with yet another avenue of consideration for fishing. That's how this fishing thing works.



And as the years go by and my experiences on the lake grow dimmer as increased age stymies the ability of recall and examination, I can take comfort in knowing that I won't be at a loss for developing a fishing pattern. As a matter of fact, my approach probably won't be too dissimilar to present day efforts. I could, after all, just flip that coin again.

Fire causes damage Wednesday in TRF

Fire caused some damage early Wednesday morning in Thief River Falls.

At 12:40 a.m. Wednesday, a fire was reported in a shed owned by Donovan Stonecouse, 128 Belleville Ct. The Thief River Falls Fire Department was on the scene for about an hour. A damage amount is not known, according to the department.

The department also does not know how the fire started. Even though there were lightning strikes at that time, it did not appear that a lightning strike caused the fire.

EMPLOYEE PRICING PLUS
DODGE CHRYSLER Jeep

The new car market is changing, prices are coming down, quality is going up. Daimler-Chrysler has given us another tool to help you, the customer, save money! That is what Employee Pricing Plus is all about. Your brand new Chrysler group vehicle will cost you the same amount of money it will cost a Chrysler employee!

This pricing is good on most 2005 vehicles; cars*, pickups, minivans and SUV's*.

Now, through August 1, 2005 YOU are a Chrysler employee and you don't even have to punch a time clock!

Call Roger Shaffer, Matt Shaffer, Rob Burkel or Terry Voecks at 218-681-4303 for information and to take advantage of this great program.

Here are some examples of how the Employee Pricing works:

2005 Dodge Stratus SXT V-6

M.S.R.P. Price: $21,780
Employee Price: $19,683
Rebate: $1,000
Your Price $18,683

Rebate: $3,000
Your Price $27,462
You Save $8,068.00

2005 Jeep Grand Cherokee Laredo 4x4 V-8

M.S.R.P. Price: $32,435
Employee Price: $28,859
Rebate: $2,000
Your Price $26,859
You Save $5,576.00

2005 Dodge Grand Caravan SXT

M.S.R.P. Price: $32,295
Employee Price: $28,582
Rebate: $2,000
Your Price $26,582
You Save $5,713.00

We are looking forward to seeing you BEFORE AUGUST 1st and helping you find your Chrysler, Dodge or Jeep vehicle.

Coleman announces grant for Karlstad EDA

Karlstad - Sen. Norm Coleman has announced that the Karlstad Economic Development Authority has received an $88,959 grant through the U.S. Department of Agriculture Rural Development Program.

The grant will be used to create a revolving loan for two local businesses that will create 13 jobs. The Karlstad businesses are The Variety Store and Black Bear Grill. - North Star News of Karlstad, July 28, 2005, by Marcia Heath

$5.6 million in grants to help seniors

Middle River - The Minnesota Department of Human Services has awarded 74 Community Service/Community Services Development grants totaling $5.6 million to help aging Minnesotans live independently and to help caregivers.

Local organizations selected to receive grants are the Middle River - Thief Lake Living at Home/Block Nurse Program, Roseau Area Hospital and Homes Inc., and Tri-Valley Opportunity Council Inc. - New River Record of Middle River, July 27, 2005

Homark stockholders vote to pursue building a new manufacturing plant

Red Lake Falls - After building thousands of new homes for its customers, Homark Inc. may get a new home of its own.

On July 18, Homark's board of directors and its employee stockholders held a special meeting to vote to approve and move forward with planning a new manufacturing facility, as well as offices, in Red Lake Falls. - Red Lake Falls Gazette, July 27, 2005, by Tawnya Norman

Landowners speak out on County Ditch 4

Hallock - A public hearing for re-determining benefits of landowners along Kittson County Ditch 4 was held last Tuesday in Hallock.

In response to a petition received by the county board in July 2003, three ditch reviewers were appointed by the board to hold meetings and obtain information on drainage areas. Their report was final this June, and they responded with a landowners' report that was sent later that month.

The assessment currently on County Ditch 4 benefits 3,215 acres.

Concerned landowners present voiced their opposition to the project for a myriad of reasons. - Kittson County Enterprise, July 27, 2005 by Louise Money

Canadian couple passes through Roseau in fight against diabetes

Roseau - If heart and soul, body and mind, and a lot of sweat formed the components that constitute royalty, then Roseau was honored July 14 by a visit from a Canadian couple who are anything but "common."

Jim and Christine Peets of Napanee, Ontario, passed through town. Jim and Christine are a husband and wife cycling/walking team, so to speak, and their goal is to expand public awareness of diabetes. - Roseau Times-Region, July 23, 2005, by Timothy Holmseth

TRF stands ready to hire arenas events manager

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

After several months of determining what the position would entail, the Thief River Falls City Council is seeking applications for an arenas marketing and events manager.

"There has been a lot of thought put into this," said City Administrator Jodie Turkelson.

Since April, Parks and Recreation Committee members, who include several City Council members, have been discussing what the position would entail. Their discussions were precipitated by the resignation of Ralph Engelstad Arena (REA) General Manager Tim Goddard. Since Goddard's resignation, Mayor Dale Weinberg has been serving as interim REA general manager.

The committee recommended and the council approved changing the position's title from general manager to arenas marketing and events manager. The employee will report to the Parks and Recreation Committee and be responsible for marketing REA and Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center. The person will also coordinate events and hire temporary employees for those events. Those temporary employees include security personnel, ticket personnel, parking lot attendants and others.

In addition, the council approved the creation of an arenas advisory committee. According to the plan presented to the council, the committee will "offer input on vision and management of arenas." Committee members will include representatives of arena user groups as well as interested citizens. Turkelson noted that it is hoped that the committee will include members with marketing expertise.

Council member Dave Carlson asked whether it was determined how many people would serve on that committee.

"I don't think there was any thought given to the size of the committee or commission," Turkelson said.

The council seemed to agree that it did not need to determine the number of people for the committee since a similar advisory committee for the airport does not have a stipulated number of people serving as members.

Breaking Barriers

Natasha Henderson is the first female minority student to complete the Northland Community and Technical College aviation maintenance technology program and earn Federal Aviation Administration certification as an airframe power plant mechanic. Henderson recently accepted a job at Mesa Airlines in Charlotte, N.C.

80 Years and counting

These four men, who live in the Gatzke and Grygla area, have been friends for about eight decades, and at least one of them claims they've never had an argument. The friends include (from left) Cheslie Ruud, 89; Alton Sparby, 89; Bill Bernstein, 90; and Walter Lunsetter, 89. (Submitted photo)

Gatzke buddies are still buddies

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

When they were children, they may not have realized they'd still be friends about 80 years later. Yet, that's the case for four local men.

Gatzke residents Cheslie Ruud, Bill Bernstein and Walter Lunsetter, and Grygla resident Alton Sparby have been friends for a lifetime.

"Well, we can't be enemies, I suppose," Walter, 89, said.

"Everybody's sociable around here," Alton, ~~89, said about~~ his hometown of Gatzke.

The four men grew up in Gatzke. "We've known each other all our life," said Walter, who noted he met them through church or school.

The four men have seen each other through school and then some. "They're really fun to be with," said Bill, who at 90 is the oldest member of the group.

And they never have fights, according to Walter. "I guess we never had any arguments," he said.

Cheslie's wife, Arlette, disagreed. She noted there have been some arguments when the four have been playing the card game Rook.

Playing Rook isn't the only thing they have in common. Earlier in their lives, all four men worked as farmers.

And they have other things in common. Cheslie, 89, said they have everything in common, which is why they're such good friends.

They've also remained active over the years, and all four still drive their cars.

For his part, Alton drives to places where he can dance. "I've danced for 70 years," Alton said.

"[Alton] still dances," said Walter, who still chops firewood.

They also gather every other Wednesday at the Gatzke Senior Center for lunch, gather every year for birthday parties and gather to play Rook.

Throughout the years, the men have been good to each other, Bill said. He noted they've been friends all these years "because they're nice people."

National Night Out on Tuesday

National Night Out will be celebrated Tuesday, Aug. 2 at Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village in Thief River Falls. The event will be held from 5 to 7 p.m.

The event includes free food, door prizes, root beer floats, entertainment, paintball target shooting, fire truck mist, kids' games and more.

Shuttle service will be provided from Floyd B. Olson Park. That service is donated by Tri-Valley Bus. Rides into the village are available for senior and handicapped visitors.

NCTC graduate is pioneer in her field

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

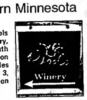
Natasha Henderson, a recent graduate of Northland Community and Technical College, is a bit of a pioneer (pun intended) and it's not in the same sense as her Pioneer classmates. Henderson, 24, is the first female minority student to complete NCTC's aviation maintenance certification.

Henderson, half-caucasian and half-native american, recently accepted a job with Mesa Airlines in Charlotte, N.C., and she is ecstatic about her opportunity to work in a field that interests her greatly.

"This is definitely a great career to get in to," Henderson said. "It's challenging and it's interesting."

But being NCTC's first female minority student to complete the school's aviation maintenance certification program is a different story. Henderson wasn't told of her accomplishment until a few hours before departing for Charlotte, N.C. on July 13. The significance may not have set in yet.

"Where's my trophy," she jokingly responded, after being told of the honor, adding, "This is amazing. I had no idea."



The fact that Henderson was unaware of her accomplishment may speak volumes for NCTC. Despite the common preconception that women would struggle in a program like aviation maintenance, Henderson said NCTC staff and fellow students treated her "just like everyone else." Her expectations

A vineyard and winery opens in northwestern Minnesota

To find Two Fools Vineyard and Winery, drive seven miles south from Thief River Falls on Highway 59, four miles east on County Road 3, then 2.5 miles south on 240th Ave. SE.

Two Fools Vineyard, which is owned and operated by LeRoy and Carol Stumpf, is located near Plummer. The vineyards, which occupy three to four acres, are surrounded by seven strands of electrified fence to keep the deer out. Customers are welcome at the visitor's center/production building.

Two Fools Vineyard and Winery opens near Plummer

by David Hill
Editor

Northwestern Minnesota is known mostly for its snowmobiles, ATVs and acres and acres of wheat and corn, but not grapes and vineyards. If Sen. LeRoy Stumpf and his wife Carol have anything to say about it however, it will eventually be known for its grapes and wines.

LeRoy has dabbled in wine making for years. In fact, his mother and his grandmother made wine for many years, but it's a lot different when you're talking about producing thousands of gallons of wine.

As LeRoy recalls, it was actually Carol who suggested doing something more with their gardening. He recalls her saying something like, "wouldn't it be more interesting ...or something like romantic... if we raised grapes."

Carol recalls that she wanted something more exotic. "If I am going to do this hard labor, I would rather be laboring in the vineyard," said Carol.

In any event, they planted their first vines in 2000. The first year was such a success it left them wanting more vines. Their success eventually resulted in the creation of Two Fools Vineyard and Winery.

Learning Curve

Even though he'd had some experience in making wine, LeRoy noted that there is a significant learning curve.

The Stumpfs consulted Dr. Richard Nelson at the University of Minnesota - Crookston. Stumpf said Nelson helped them avoid big mistakes and helped them do things that ended up actually improving the quality of the wine.

"The quality is superb," said Stumpf. He said they also visited nearly every winery in the state of Minnesota, and learned a lot from those visits.

Don't laugh. While the East and West Coast states are generally known for wineries, the popularity of wine making is growing. There are several wineries in Minnesota, in fact. Most of them are in southern Minnesota. The closest winery to Two Fools is one in Laporte.

Certainly, the location of Two Fools in northwestern Minnesota has played a role in the selection of grapes. It has to be pretty hardy to be able to survive harsh winters and relatively short growing seasons. For that reason, the Stumpfs are growing Frontenac, LaCrescent, Frontenac Gris, Prairie Star, King of the North and Sabrevois grapes.

"We'll probably get some new varieties," said Stumpf. Currently, they are looking at a variety from the Baltic region. "There's a little bit of testing taking place right now," he said.

Stumpf said they also made some big purchases - tanks, a crusher/de-stemmer, apple crusher and chopper, presses, filtering equipment and bottling equipment.

They also joined the Minnesota Grape Growers Association, and Wine America, which has certainly helped.

Most of the wines produced at Two Fools Vineyard include juice from other vineyards or producers, but more than 51 percent of their grapes and fruit used in the production of their wine comes from Minnesota producers. Their three to Carol Stumpf enjoys visiting with customers who make the trek to Two Fools Vineyard and Winery, located near Plummer. The Vidal Blanc under the Two Fools Vineyard label is a tasty table wine. Visitors to the vineyard can taste many different varieties.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere
email: lacours@mncable.net

Recipes today for hot summer days - good even if it rains.

Here's a recipe for at least two people, made special with fresh veggies:

GARDEN FRESH PORK CHOPS
1 tablespoon butter
2 pork chops (about 1 inch thick)
1 carrot cut into 1/2 inch pieces
1/2 cup fresh green beans
1 small potato, cut into chunks
1/4 teaspoon basil
2 envelopes Lipton cream of mushroom cup-a-soup
2/3 cup water

Brown chops in butter. Mix water and soup packets and add vegetables and basil to soup. Pour over chops in skillet.

Cover and simmer about 45 minutes or until chops and vegetables are tender.

Just a simple dish to make on a busy day:

BUSY DAY CASSEROLE
1 pound round steak, cut into bite-sized pieces
1 can cream of chicken soup
1 can cream of celery soup
1/2 cup cooking sherry
1/2 package onion soup mix

Place steak in 2 quart casserole. Mix soups with wine and soup mix and pour over meat. Bake 3 hours at 300 degrees. Serve over rice, potatoes or noodles.

Use those fresh green peppers to make these for dinner this week:

STUFFED GREEN PEPPERS
6 green peppers
1 pond hamburger
2 tablespoons onion, chopped
1 (15 ounce) can tomato soup
1 cup rice, cooked
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon garlic salt

Slice tops off green peppers and remove seeds and membrane.

Place in enough boiling water to cover and parboil for 5 minutes. Drain.

Cook hamburger and onion until hamburger is done. Drain. Return to pan and add remaining ingredients, heating thoroughly. Fill peppers with stuffing, cover and bake 45 minutes at 350 degrees. Uncover and cook for 15 minutes more. Can top with cheese the last 15 minutes, if desired.

These are easy to make for a quick meal, and tasty too:

BURRITOS
1 pound ground beef
2 (12 ounce) cans refried beans
1 package shredded cheddar cheese
1 package taco seasoning
Flour tortillas

Brown hamburger in skillet and drain. Return to skillet and mix with beans and taco seasoning, heating thoroughly. Place meat mixture in tortillas and roll. Place rolls in baking pan and sprinkle with cheese. Bake about 15 minutes at 350 degrees, until hot and cheese is melted.

Here's a tasty meatless meal for those of you watching your weight:

STIR FRIED VEGETABLES
2 medium green peppers, julienned
2 medium sweet red peppers, julienned
2 medium carrots, julienned
2 cups broccoli florets
3 tablespoons vegetable oil
2 tablespoons light soy sauce
1 teaspoon ground ginger
6 green onions, thinly sliced
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 cup low sodium chicken broth
1/4 cup cold water

In large skillet or wok, sauté peppers, carrots and broccoli in oil until crisp-tender, about 3 minutes.

Combine soy sauce and ginger and add to pan along with onions. Cook and stir for 1 minute.

Combine cornstarch, broth and water until smooth. Gradually stir into vegetables. Bring to a boil and cook and stir for 2 minutes, or until thickened. Serve alone or over rice.

Recipe serves 4. Nutritional Info: 1 half cup serving equals 183 calories, 308 mg sodium, 1 mg chol, 20 gm carb, 4 gm protein, 1 gm fat. Diabetic Exchange is 2 vegetable, 2 fat, 1/2 starch.

Crop disaster assistance program deadline announced

Producers who suffered crop losses from damaging weather in 2003 and 2004 crop losses are eligible for assistance. The Farm Service Agency announced that eligible producers may sign-up for the Crop Disaster Program (CDP) until the close of business Sept. 9 for the 2003 and 2004 crop years.

"We are pleased to be able to provide these benefits to producers as quickly as possible," said John Nelson, Pennington County executive director. "Drought, floods and hurricanes are unpredictable weather events that put farmers and ranchers at risk in producing a dependable and affordable national food supply."

Producers suffering a greater than 35-percent production loss and/or more than a 20-percent quality loss are eligible. The payment rate for CDP has been increased to 65 percent of the established commodity price for insured crops and noninsured crops, and 60 percent of the price for uninsured commodities. Previous disaster assistance provided payments of 50 percent of the established commodity for insured and non-insurable crops and 45 percent for uninsured crops.

Producers may apply for CDP for any crops that are eligible for coverage under the Federal Crop Insurance or the Noninsured Assistance Program.

For more information, visit the United States Department of Agriculture's Web site (http://disaster/fsa/usda/gov/).

UCare Minnesota will to hold informational meetings

UCare Minnesota will hold informational meetings about UCare for Seniors, a Medicare Advantage plan now available in Kittson, Roseau, Marshall, Polk, Pennington and Red Lake counties.

Local meetings are scheduled as follows:

• Thursday, August 4 at 12:30 p.m. at Fosston Senior Center;
• Wednesday, August 10 at 9:30 a.m. at Fairview Senior Center, Red Lake Falls;
• Thursday, August 18 at 9:30 a.m. at Warroad Senior Center;
• Thursday, August 18 at 1:30 p.m. at Four Seasons Senior Center, Roseau;
• Tuesday, August 23 at 2 p.m. at Hallock Senior Center;
• Wednesday, August 24 at 12:30 p.m. at Karlstad Senior Center;
• Thursday, August 25 at 9:30 a.m. at Warren Senior Center

Members of UCare's sales staff will discuss the UCare for Seniors Grand and Superior plans, the two health plan options being offered in northwestern and other Greater Minnesota counties. The UCare for Seniors Superior Plan features comprehensive coverage plus coverage for prescription drugs, eyewear and hearing aids. The UCare for Seniors Grand Plan offers comprehensive coverage but at a lower monthly premium.

Rydell to host food preservation program

On Sunday Aug. 7, Rydell National Wildlife Refuge will host the eighth program of its weekly "Learning at the Lakes" series, titled Food Preservation — How to Preserve Jams and Jellies.

Beginning at 2 p.m., Paula Robinson, Mahnomen County extension agent, will demonstrate food preservation techniques and equipment using University of Minnesota standards. Come learn the dos and don'ts to preserving jams and jellies of various fruits, how to avoid common preservation mistakes, and how to prepare both low sugar and high sugar jams and jellies. The program will be held at the refuge's Visitor's Center, and it is free to the public.

Rydell is located three miles east of Mentor along Highway 2, then south 2.5 miles on Polk County Road 210. For further information, contact Rydell Refuge at 1-800-841-0172

Rydell seeks youth for youth hunt

Youth are encouraged to apply for the 2005 Rydell National Wildlife Refuge Youth Deer Hunt. The application deadline is August 19.

The refuge likes to introduce youth between the ages of 12 and 15 to a unique and worthwhile refuge management opportunity. During the weekend of Oct. 22 and 23, the refuge will be conducting its annual youth deer hunt. Twenty youth hunters who apply and are randomly selected will be allowed to take one deer of either sex at the refuge. The youth hunters will be required to purchase a regular deer hunting license, and have successfully completed the Minnesota Firearms Safety Course. An additional requirement will be to attend a one-day Advanced Hunter Education workshop Saturday, Sept. 10. A $5 fee is requested for the workshop.

The deer hunt is a mentorship event, utilizing the experiences of adults to assist and introduce youth to the outdoors and the use of hunting as a big game management tool. Adult mentors are required to accompany the youth during the hunt and at the Advanced Hunter Education workshop. Adults do not need a hunting license and are not allowed to carry or discharge a firearm. All other aspects of the hunt will be discussed at the workshop.

To register for the hunt, go to any of the 1,750 Electronic Licensing Center (ELC) stations throughout the state and inform them you would like to apply for the hunt. If more than 20 youths apply, the ELC system will randomly select 20 hunters. Youths must be no younger than 12 and no older than 15 by Oct. 21. If no mentor is available for your youth, or if you would like more information, contact the refuge at 1-800-841-0172 or Rydell@fws.gov.

DEATHS

Scott Schimanski, 53

McIntosh - Scott Schimanski, 53, died Sunday, July 24, 2005 at First Care Hospital in Fosston.

Hallock man pleads guilty to sex charge

A Hallock man pled guilty Tuesday in Kittson County District Court to a criminal sexual conduct charge.

Duane Houkom Jr.

Duane Allan Houkom Jr., 57, pled guilty to second degree criminal sexual conduct, according to Kittson County Attorney Roger Malm. In a plea agreement, two counts of fifth degree criminal sexual conduct were dismissed. Houkom will be sentenced sometime in the near future.

The criminal complaint stated that Houkom caused a female individual who was under the age of 10 at the time to inappropriately touch him in the summer of 2003. The incident occurred at Houkom's home in Thompson Township in Kittson County. On at least two occasions that summer, Houkom also exposed himself to the girl while she was at his home.

The charges stem from an April 13 report to the Kittson County Sheriff's Department from a family social services agency.

Street Wizards plan car show for August 6

Street Wizards Car Club and its members will hold their Fourth Annual Car Show in Thief River Falls on Saturday, August 6. Registration is from 8:30 to 9:45 a.m. with the show hours from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. An awards ceremony will take place at 3 p.m.

Minnesota farms recognized as 2005 century farms

The Minnesota State Fair and Minnesota Farm Bureau (MFB) have recognized 209 Minnesota farms as 2005 century farms.

Qualifying families own farms that have been in continuous family ownership for at least 100 years and are at least 50 acres in size. Century farm families receive a commemorative sign as well as a certificate signed by the president of the State Fair, president of the MFB and the governor of Minnesota. Since the program began in 1976, over 8,000 Minnesota farms have been recognized as century farms.

Local 2005 century farms are listed below by county. The year the farm was first owned by the family is listed after the family name. Those farms include – from Kittson County: Allen Clow, 1904, Stanley Kraska, 1904, John Nolte, 1896, and Leon, Glen and Virginia Olson, 1905; from Marshall County: Norma Edman and Lyla Flagg, 1902, Edmund Borowicz, 1905, Roger and Willard Landreville, 1888, and Jason and Jana Wagner, 1897; from Pennington County: Glenn Hofstad, 1904, John and Leona Konickson, 1905, Kenneth and Ruth Sanders, 1904, and Bruce and Diane Solberg, 1904; from Polk County: Lloyd Anderson, 1904, Kenneth and Evelyn Bergeson, 1904, Iona Berry, 1905, David Gordon, 1886, Christopher Hove, 1899, and Ilane and Roland Rue, 1905; from Red Lake County: Edward and Sharon Larson, 1904; and from Roseau County: Brian Berge, 1900, Rafine and Lorraine Blawat, 1901, Mae and Ingvald Borreson, 1902, Byron, Carolyn and Garner Eeg, 1903, James Halvorson, 1904, Floyd and David Hlucny, 1903, and Hattie Meier, 1904.

If your century farm is being recognized this year and is not on the above list, call (651) 288-4452.

From Pharaoh to Fishermen

We're in the midst of the seasonal stable fly plague. I suppose it's actually not appropriately termed a plague if it occurs regularly. Plagues of locusts, frogs, or buboes (that's what you get on your body if you contract the bubonic plague) do not occur with any predictable frequency. They simply show up and make your life either miserable, or over. I'm really not too sure about that frog one, I mean, what the heck is the problem with a bunch of frogs? The fact that they stick to your wagon wheel rims on the way to Pharaoh's castle or that they keep you up late at night with their incessant peeping and burping? And if the problem really got out of hand, like it suggests in Exodus, why didn't those ancients simply pluck a bunch of the frogs' legs off and eat them? Plague? How about a cornucopia?

Anyway, we're in the middle of the worst of stable fly times around here and their legs are way to small to pluck and fry. Lots of heat, lots of humidity, lots of bites on the ankle. At least if they targeted somewhere I could reach, maybe they wouldn't be so annoying. Hey, I stopped tying my shoes eight years ago, how am I supposed to be able to successfully swat a fast-moving parasite from those regions?

Several levels of good news go along with this time of infestation. First, the fact that it ends. We typically curse and swing low up here from mid June to late July. People along the coast of the Gulf of Mexico, however, experience year-round annoyance. Down there, a host (no parasitic pun intended) of possibilities, from hay piles to horse manure, trigger never ending hatches, while our season revolves around the Mayfly hatch. When dead adult Mayflies or their previously shed exoskeletons wash up in huge, soggy mats along lake shorelines, they provide perfect egg laying possibilities for the stable fly. Since the waves of Mayflies typically occur in June at this latitude and since it takes two to three weeks for the maggots to grow to fly size, we usually take our first leg slap somewhere shortly before the 4th of July. When the last of the big piles of rotting bugs end, so does the stable fly cycle.

The bad news is that the flies can live three to four weeks after they mature into a biting mode, meaning that a late hatching batch will be around until almost Labor Day in the right conditions. And, unlike mosquitoes, both the males and females require blood meals and they need to feed twice a day. That all adds up to a lot of pain potential for a month to come, even after the mosquitoes and gnats have relegated their barbs to the level of T-shirt witticisms.

The good news is that the stable fly bite is only an immediate annoyance, prompting little in the way of itchy, allergic reactions after-the-fact like bees, mosquitoes, and black flies.

The bad news is that like any blood-seeking pest, they pose a potential risk for the transfer of disease. Already proven to transmit anthrax and encephalitis to animals, and considering the way we've watched the West Nile and Lyme's Disease transitions occur, I'd guess that beyond the initial pain, any stable fly bite could be a bad bite.

The good news is that eliminating breeding areas goes a long way in keeping stable fly populations down. By raking and drying out those piles of beach-bound dead mayflies, you can rid the lake of thousands of aggressive bloodsuckers.

The bad news is that stable flies can migrate up to 10 miles a day. Which means that over the course of a week, the maggots that hatched from a remote sand bar on Channel Island just a few miles south of Kenora, are now the biting stable flies that infest your boat on the Rainy River.

And the really good news is that those flies are so focused on the thinner skin around your ankles where the blood flows close to the surface that if you can keep them away from there, you can avoid most of the biting stable fly problem.

Unfortunately, the bad news is that the only effective repellent is that thick pair of thigh-high, woolen, Norwegian cross-country skiing socks that you got from Aunt Helga two Christmases ago. And if you wear those out in public in the middle of July, the least of your worries will be if the Pharaoh had a decent recipe for deep-fried frogs' legs.

Local school districts named academic "outperformers"

This week, Standard & Poor's School Evaluation Service recognized 22 Minnesota school districts as academic "outperformers." Among those recognized were the following local school districts: Badger, Greenbush/Middle River, Lancaster and Stephen-Argyle Central.

To be identified as an outperformer by Standard & Poor's, school districts had to report significantly higher percentages of students who scored proficient or above on state reading and math tests than other school districts with similar levels of student poverty in Minnesota over two school years. Academic achievement levels were compared with the percentage of economically disadvantaged students because they are often correlated.

"We congratulate the students, teachers, administrators and entire communities that support public education in these districts," said William Cox, executive managing editor of Standard & Poor's School Evaluation Services. "The data we analyzed show that these 22 school districts had truly noteworthy performances; each district deserves public recognition for its efforts."

Standard & Poor's developed the analysis used to identify outperforming school districts as a way to highlight outstanding academic performance, and to help educators in school districts with similar demographics identify appropriate benchmarks to guide their own improvements.

Achieving proficiency in reading and math for all students by 2014 is one of the goals of the federal No Child Left Behind law. Linking school districts in need of improvement with outperformers that have similar students so that effective practices may be replicated is one method that can help educators reach that target.

Standard & Poor's conducted its outperformer analysis using data provided by the state. The number of economically disadvantaged students in each school district is determined by the percentage of students receiving free or reduced-price lunches. Academic performance was determined by using the aggregate percentages of students scoring proficient or better on the state's reading and math tests.

West Nile virus mosquito population grows

Residents of western and central Minnesota could face a higher risk for West Nile virus (WNV) this year than in previous years because of unusually high numbers of the mosquito that carries the disease, the Minnesota Department of Public Health (MDH) recently warned. Early summer rains and recent warm weather have created conditions that produce large numbers of Culex tarsalis mosquitoes, the primary carrier of WNV in Minnesota.

"In several counties, we've recently been collecting several hundred to more than 1,000 Culex tarsalis a night in carbon dioxide-baited traps," said David Neitzel, an MDH epidemiologist specializing in diseases carried by ticks and mosquitoes. "These mosquitoes and their offspring will pose the biggest health risk for the rest of the summer."

Neitzel added that in some parts of the state, numbers of other pest mosquito species are going down with the warm and dry weather, so people are not being bitten as often, and may believe that WNV risk is declining. "However, Culex tarsalis thrives in this type of weather," Neitzel said.

He added, "The Culex tarsalis mosquito prefers open, agricultural areas of Minnesota, and we've seen a higher proportion of disease in people coming from these areas in past years."

NOTICE OF UPCOMING BIBLE READ-A-THON

The third annual Bible Read-a-thon will be starting in Thief River Falls on Sunday, July 31, 2005 at 4:00 p.m. in the Gazebo at Floyd B. Olson Park.

We welcome new readers and veterans from last two year's event to join us in the Gazebo from Sunday through Wednesday evening. We will again begin the book of Genesis and read continually until we finish the book of Revelations sometime late Wednesday afternoon or evening.

Last year over 70 people representing at least ten different congregations participated as readers in the 74+ hour event. Many of those people have already indicated they plan to read again, and we have new people who have expressed interest as well. Stop by the Gazebo anytime during the reading and check the signup sheet for opportunities to read. Several people sign up for the same two hour block of time and rotate reading during their shift. We can always fit more people into the schedule - or you can just sit and listen.

Producers reminded about maintaining beneficial interest

The Pennington County Farm Service Agency (FSA) Office reminds producers that in order to obtain marketing assistance loans or Loan Deficiency Payments (LDPs), they must maintain title, control and risk of loss in the commodity, otherwise known as beneficial interest.

Beneficial interest rules apply to all commodities eligible for marketing assistance loans and LDPs. They include wheat, barley, oats, corn, flax, canola, soybeans, sunflowers, honey, and wool and mohair.

In an effort to simplify the process for applying for LDPs, FSA has created a new form for the 2005-crop year. The new form allows producers to indicate their intentions to receive LDP benefits before loss of beneficial interest and allows producers to submit an LDP request at any time during the loan/LDP availability period, before or after losing beneficial interest provided the agreement is filed with the FSA County Office before beneficial interest is lost.

The agreement does not lock in an LDP rate or commit the producer to obtaining an LDP. In order to obtain LDP benefits, producers must file a CCC-633 EZ-LDP request (Page 2) with the FSA County Office.

The form has been developed for both field-direct LDPs, where the harvested product is hauled directly from the field to the buyer and beneficial interest is lost upon delivery, and basic LDPs.

Current market prices have resulted in market repayment rates for hard red spring wheat and barley to be at or below the loan rate. If prices continue to decline when harvest starts, more commodities may be eligible for LDPs. Therefore, producers should stop by the FSA County Office before the start of harvest to sign the agreement in order to avoid the possibility of losing beneficial interest in a commodity before applying for an LDP.

Producers with questions concerning LDPs or beneficial interest requirements should contact the Pennington County FSA Office at 681-1612, ext. 2 before starting the harvesting process.

Goodridge man pleads guilty to drug charge

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

A Goodridge man pled guilty Thursday in Pennington County District Court to a drug charge after a substantial amount of marijuana was found at his residence.

Lonnie Watne

Lonnie LeRoy Watne, 50, pled guilty to an amended charge of third degree controlled substance crime. He was originally charged with first degree controlled substance crime. In a plea agreement, that charge was amended to the third-degree charge.

During the plea hearing, Watne was represented by Attorney Kevin Duffy. Duffy noted that Watne and the state disputed the amount of marijuana that was found at Watne's Star Township residence. The criminal complaint indicated approximately 236 pounds of marijuana were found there. Duffy and Watne said the amount was less than that, but noted it was a "substantial amount." However, both sides agreed that the marijuana filled 16 garbage bags.

Watne also noted the marijuana was not his. He said the marijuana was stored in his quonset after he and others agreed they would store it there if they did shingling work for Watne. At the plea hearing, Watne did not state who those individuals were. It was also not mentioned whether those individuals would be charged with a crime.

According to the plea agreement, Watne will serve 21 months in prison. He will also forfeit the five acres of land on which the crime was committed. However, Watne has not yet been sentenced. Sentencing is scheduled Aug. 31. Until that time, Watne is out on bond.

Originally, Watne would have received a stayed sentence of 21 months in prison. However, at the plea hearing, he told Judge Dennis Murphy that he did not want to deal with probation as he travels out-of-state for his music gigs. As a result, Watne will serve time in prison once he is sentenced.

The charge stems from an Oct. 4 report from the Boundary County, Idaho, Sheriff's Department. Authorities there reported that Watne was in possession of a large amount of marijuana.

The confiscated marijuana is worth an estimated street value of $1 million, a Pennington County deputy sheriff said in October.

When authorities laid out the wet marijuana at the Pennington County Law Enforcement Center, it spanned an estimated area of 25 feet by 9.75 feet by 1 foot.

Embassy to hold country music jam session

The monthly Country Music Jam Session in Fosston will be on Sunday, Aug. 7, beginning at 1 p.m. in the Embassy Community Center of Fosston.

All country musicians are welcome to attend and present a sampling of their music. Music will continue through the afternoon and into the evening following the potluck supper served at 5:30 p.m.

There is no charge for the afternoon of music and all who enjoy a variety of country music are welcome to attend.

Blood alcohol content law lowered in Minn.

Several new laws take effect on Aug. 1. Among those laws is one which should be of particular interest is the law that lowers the threshold for impaired driving.

In the not too distant past, roughly 90 percent of all criminal court cases seen in our district courts involved alcohol. No one should have to make comparisons, but it is sad to note that alcohol has been replaced by methamphetamine as the drug most commonly linked to criminal charges in our courts. It is unfortunate indeed because methamphetamine is much more insidious.

The new law addresses the threshold past which someone is considered too drunk to drive. It does not criminalize alcohol consumption. It should, however, serve as another reminder that alcohol should be enjoyed in moderation.

In any event, the state's new law (passed in 2004) lowering the blood-alcohol content threshold for which someone would be considered too drunk to drive takes effect Aug. 1, 2005. The law changes the level from 0.10 to 0.08. An additional provision in the law would have provided that if a person is convicted of drunken driving with a blood-alcohol content level of 0.8 or 0.09, is a first-time impaired driving offender, and has no other impaired driving offense in the next 10 years, that their record would be expunged. But, this 2004 law was superceded by a 2005 enactment that requires that all DWI revocations and convictions be kept on record "permanently" (in conformity to a federal licensing requirement).

So, don't drink alcohol and drive.

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

Insurer seeks input on hospital expansion in MN

BlueCross and BlueShield of Minnesota has asked the Citizens League to bring together healthcare stakeholders and develop policy recommendations on the impact of hospital capacity on healthcare in Minnesota. This action follows a BlueCross study that shows a continued pattern of growth among Minnesota hospitals, focused in a few specialities.

"Metropolitan hospital facilities are continuing to expand and build at a fast pace, especially for specialties like cardiac care," said Michael Morrow, senior vice president of business development and network management for BlueCross. "More public discussion is needed by all affected parties regarding the kind and type of healthcare we want and need in Minnesota. We're pleased to take this step to initiate this expanded dialogue."

BlueCross, the state's largest insurer, has asked the Citizens League, a nonprofit, independent public policy group, to create an expert study panel from all stakeholders, conduct independent research, involve citizens, and come up with recommendations for addressing hospital capacity issues. The intent of the study is to present information on hospital expansion and encourage broader public discussion of the issues related to expansion. "As a community, we have the opportunity to build the healthcare system we want, but we need broader community input to define and support that vision," Morrow said.

"Healthcare is a critical public policy issue for Minnesotans," said Sean Kershaw, president of the Citizens League. "Minnesota depends on high quality healthcare to sustain our high quality of life - and we can't allow rapidly increasing costs to put either of these in jeopardy. The Citizens League is excited by the opportunity to be part of the solution in looking at this issue. BlueCross' work sets the stage for a larger effort to engage citizens and other stakeholders in this effort.

The BlueCross study, called "Hospital Expansion in Minnesota: Is Growth Worth the Cost?" inventoried expansion plans since 2002 and benchmarked Minnesota hospitals against national averages.

• One-third of Minnesota's hospitals are growing. The report cited 56 of 148 Minnesota hospitals are planning or conducting new building or expansion projects since 2002 totaling $1.78 billion, continuing a sharp upward trend. The majority of expansion projects are in the Twin Cities metropolitan area.

• Much of the expansion occurs in a few specialties, for which Minnesota already exceeds the national average. For example, Minnesota has 28 percent more cardiac intensive care beds than the national average and yet 40 percent fewer psychiatric beds than the national average.

"We can make better informed decisions about the kind of hospital care we build so that it will result in higher quality, lower prices and better access," Morrow said. "But it will take all of us working together for the benefit of everyone."

Yellow Rose 5K Walk/Run to be held in August

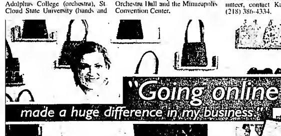
Marvin Windows and Doors has announced the second annual Yellow Rose 5K Walk/Run will be held Saturday, Aug. 20. All proceeds will be donated to the Warroad Share and Care Clothing Exchange.

The registration fee for the Yellow Rose 5K is $15 on or before Aug. 5 or $18 for all registrations after that date. Children under the age of 6 may participate free of charge when accompanied by a parent or guardian; however, children must pay the registration fee in order to receive a t-shirt and be eligible for door prizes. In addition to the donation to the Clothing Exchange, the registration fee includes a t-shirt, refreshments, awards, coupons from local businesses, and a chance to win a number of prizes.

The race will begin at 9 a.m. All participants are asked to arrive at the Warroad Park Shelters by 8 a.m. to sign-in and receive their race packets. Medals will be presented to the top three male and female winners in each of seven age divisions. There will be a drawing after the race for a wide range of gift certificates and merchandise provided by area businesses.

Registration brochures can be picked up at the Marvin Home Center or online at www.raceberryjam.com/yellowrose.html.

For more information or to volunteer, contact Karen Hontvet at (218) 386-4334.



Willis chosen for MMEA All-State

Ben Willis of Thief River Falls has been selected for membership in the Minnesota Music Educators Association (MMEA) All-State Orchestra for the 2005-06 school year.

Willis' director at Lincoln High School is Derek Druse. His private instructor is Val Buchmeier of Crookston.

Willis was one of 571 students selected from over 2,200 students who auditioned this spring for a position in one of the seven MMEA All-State performing groups. The students will attend summer camps, which will be held at Gustavus Adolphus College (orchestra), St. Cloud State University (bands and jazz ensemble) and St. John's University (choirs).

The participating students will have the opportunity to work with some of the finest conductors and music educators in the country as well as meet other outstanding music students from across the state of Minnesota. All camps begin Monday, Aug. 1 and conclude Saturday, Aug. 6 with a 1:30 p.m. concert for All-State bands, jazz ensemble and orchestra, and a 10:30 a.m. concert for the All-State choirs. In addition, the students will gather next February in Minneapolis for rehearsals and performances at Orchestra Hall and the Minneapolis Convention Center.

Breastfeeding group to meet in Red Lake Falls on Aug. 4

Three years ago, Laci Peterson and Amy Mereil decided they wanted to promote and support mothers who breastfed. They went into action and revived a breastfeeding support group for mothers in the area, like the La Leeche League group that was active several years ago in Red Lake Falls. At that time, they sent out invitations to the pregnant women and those who were currently breastfeeding to get the support group off the ground. The first meeting was very successful and they have been meeting regularly ever since.

The meetings are currently held on the third Tuesday of every month in the evenings. Those involved in the support group take turns hosting the meeting at their home and usually provide a small snack of some sort. The mothers who attend are encouraged to bring their children so they can form relationships with others while the meeting is held.

The support system, while growing, uses many forms of information to provide support for mothers. People attending the meetings include those who are just starting families to those who have been breastfeeding for years. Tammy Conn, a certified lactation consultant with the Quin WIC program, and Marge Schafer, a former LLL leader, attend regularly to provide information and answer questions.

The Breastfeeding Support Group strives to give and share anticipatory guidance for the working and the stay-at-home mom. Meetings are very informal and discussions arise about many topics. Helpful hints are shared about prenatal information, birthing experiences, breastfeeding and other experiences.

World Breastfeeding is celebrated in the United States from Aug. 1-7 and the local support group plans to celebrate at Riverside Park in Red Lake Falls on Thursday, Aug. 4, at 7 p.m. Families who support breastfeeding are invited to attend this meeting.

For more information, call Amy Mereil at 253-4402 or Laci Peterson at 253-4908.

Area students earn degrees from Univ. of MN Morris

Bachelor of arts degrees were awarded to approximately 350 graduates during the 42nd Commencement ceremony held this spring at the University of Minnesota, Morris.

Among the graduating students were Jason Lee Steinbrenner of Fosston, who graduated with a bachelor of arts in statistics; Elizabeth Joy Anderson of Gully, who graduated with a bachelor of arts degree in English; and Christopher Charles Olson of Salol with a bachelor of arts degree in music, computer science and statistics.

Family Caregivers Concerns Group meets August 1

The Family Caregivers Concerns Group will meet from 10 to 11 a.m. on August 1 at Summerfield Apartments community room, 434 South McKinley, Warren.

This meeting is for family members or friends who provide care and/or support to elderly persons. Many of the members of this group have loved ones diagnosed with Alzheimer's Disease or other related disorders. Individuals with a loved one in the nursing home or at home are encouraged to attend.

Marshall Manor has a unit specializing in care and services for people with Alzheimer's or related disorders. It is the desire of this facility to provide a supportive environment for families of people with theses disorders. Alzheimer's Disease has a major impact on the family, which experiences "loss" of the individual long before death. Marshall Manor is also dedicated to providing education and support for families facing Alzheimer's Disease issues.

Two Fools Vineyard and Winery near Plummer opens

four acres of grapes, which are surrounded by seven strands of electrified fence to keep the deer out, don't produce enough to fill all their needs. Their rhubarb, for example, comes from Aunt Cookies Red Rhubarb in Warren.

Work and Socializing

Even though it took a lot of work to get to this point, Stumpf said, "We just kind of fell in to it and it has been a nice diversion."

By falling in to it, he doesn't mean falling into a vat, either, as tasty as that sounds. And by diversion, he means something else entirely.

Sen. LeRoy Stumpf - ever the politician - enjoys visiting with people. "It's a great opportunity for socializing," he said.

You won't find LeRoy or Carol with purple feet from stamping on grapes, but there are lots of little jobs - and some big jobs that keep them busy. Bottling is one of the more time-consuming jobs. There's nothing mechanized when it comes to bottling. On their most productive weekend, they used 270 gallons of wine.

Open

Since Two Fools Vineyard and Winery opened in June there has been a steady stream of customers making their way to the vineyard.

Word has been getting around. LeRoy said they have had visitors from all over the country.

The Stumpfs don't mind. In fact, they have a tasting room at the front of their winery, and have produced a advertising pamphlet inviting the public to stop by from noon to 6 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays June through October.

To LeRoy, the greatest satisfaction comes from seeing people enjoying the wines.

Two Fools Vineyard is also planning a grand opening celebration in October.

More information about the winery also can be found at www.twofoolsvineyard.com. From Thief River Falls, Two Fools Vineyard is seven miles south on highway 59, four miles east on County Road 3 (Center Street East), then 2.5 miles south on 240th Ave. SE.

More people will soon be able to taste the wines for themselves. Last October, they harvested their first significant batch and began bottling the wines in the spring. Last year, Two Fools produced 1,000 gallons. Next spring, they plan to have between 1,800 and 2,000 gallons of wine ready for bottling. Eventually, they hope to produce between 2,000 and 3,000 gallons of wine, which would be about the capacity of their equipment, and still allow them to be a small winery, which is something they very much want it to remain.

Local Distributors

Falls Liquor in Thief River Falls and Café Rhombus in Thief River Falls will soon be displaying and selling the product from Two Fools Vineyard and Winery, which includes 12 different wines from three classifications - fruit wines, white grape wines, and red grape wines. Each 750 ml bottle sells for between $8 and $13.

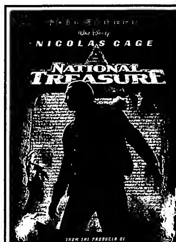
The wine tasting club at the Evergreen Eating Emporium in Thief River Falls has been taste-testing the wine. Stumpf said they've asked them for some feedback, which will help guide their future plans.

The most popular of their wines has been a white wine called Celebrate and a red wine called Blackberry. Both make good table wines. The Strawberry-Rhubarb fruit wine is also gaining in popularity, especially as people have discovered that it goes well while eating chocolate.

Popular Pastime

Wine making is growing in popularity in the Midwest. Stumpf attributes the popularity of wine making to recent medical studies stating that drinking wine in moderation can be healthful, the reasonable cost and availability of wine, the need of farmers to diversify, and some quirky things like movies - "Sideways," for example. One day, LeRoy hopes there will be vineyards wineries located up and down the valley and the region will be known as much for its wine as its wheat, corn, snowmobiles and ATVs.

The Name



But how did they come up with a name like "Two Fools Vineyard"?

It isn't the obvious, though at times, LeRoy and Carol may feel they are on a fool's errand. LeRoy said when the family sat down and started talking about it Clearwater Vineyard was suggested, because the vineyard is located near the Clearwater River, and so too were other names. But, LeRoy said, Carol said she was reading a book and it was talking about two fools. Well, they started laughing, but the more they thought about it, the more they liked the sound of that name. Their daughter Jenny thought it was real catchy, too, and a friend of hers designed a label that features a jester's cap, which they really liked. That's how they arrived at the name.

Carol and LeRoy Stumpf discuss their wine varieties under the Two Fools Vineyard lxbel. Their vineyard is located nexr Plummer xnd is now producing over 1,000 gxllons of wine x yeer.

were the same as other aviation students and she often exceeded them.

Lynn McGlynn, NCTC Aviation secretary/test administrator, sees a bright future for Henderson.

"It was a pleasure having Natasha in our aviation program at NCTC," McGlynn said. "Seeing her emerge from a shy person to a very determined young lady was very exciting. I know she will be successful as an airframe and power plant mechanic."

For Henderson, who was born in Asheville, N.C., the job at Mesa Airlines will mean a trip home. Both of her parents served in the military, her mother in the Air Force, her father in the Marine Corps. The experience provided Henderson with a childhood that saw frequent moves.

"I like moving around," said Henderson "I don't mind that."

Besides North Carolina, Henderson's childhood was spent in Texas, Arkansas and for two years, Okinawa, Japan. The family moved from Okinawa to Duluth when her parents' military careers ended. Henderson developed an appreciation for aviation during her youth and decided two years ago to attend NCTC, because of its prestigious aviation maintenance technology program.

"I figured I could get a good education, not too far from home," She said.

Her training at NCTC focused on aircraft, airframe and power plant maintenance. During the program students are trained on over 30 aircrafts, which Henderson said will help her adjust to her first job.

"Where I'll be working, they'll want you to be pretty good in all areas," Henderson said.

Henderson was one of two female students to complete the aviation maintenance program this year and the only one to be certified as a Federal Aviation Administration airframe power plant mechanic.

Sen. LeRoy Stumpf and his wife Carol have done much of the work to bring their dream of a vineyard to life. LeRoy built this bar, which is located at their processing facility near Plummer.

More seats needed for TRF flights

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

The city of Thief River Falls is fielding complaints from residents who are not able to book flights out of the Thief River Falls Regional Airport.

"The other cities that [Mesaba Airlines] stops at get more seats than we do, typically," said Al Walseth, owner of Bergan Travel.

Walseth has encountered problems booking flights for himself and his clients out of Thief River Falls.

"A lot of people are frustrated because we have a lot of commercial flights out of here," he said about the lack of available seats.

Ironically, Walseth was able to book 15 seats at one time for a November trip for his clients. He was surprised he was able to do so.

For air service in Thief River Falls, the city receives a subsidy from the federal government through the Essential Air Service (EAS) program. The subsidy enables Mesaba Airlines to provide passenger air service to the airport.

Public Works Director Ron Lindberg believes Mesaba must provide seats for approximately half of a plane load or 15 to 17 seats. However, he has been unable to get an actual number from Mesaba or its affiliate, Northwest Airlines.

"If we can have 15 seats in this plane, that would definitely help," Lindberg said.

"We are in full compliance with our EAS," said Kurt Ebenhoch, spokesperson for Northwest Airlines. Just how he knew Northwest Airlines was in full compliance is anyone's guess given that he admitted he didn't know the number of guaranteed seats for Thief River Falls and he admitted he didn't have the contract in front of him while he talked to The Times.

Yet, the U.S. Department of Transportation (DOT) believes seats are not guaranteed for any airport with an EAS contract. "There's no particular number of seats being reserved for Thief River Falls or any city wherever," said Bill Mosley with the DOT.

Dave Jackson, director of communications at Mesaba, noted that the booking problems may have resulted from a number of issues. He said those issues could be flights being oversold or the weight and balance being off on a small aircraft.

Stating that Mesaba had a contract with Northwest Airlines to provide air service to Thief River Falls, Jackson referred all other questions to Ebenhoch.

Ebenhoch compared Thief River Falls' revenue passenger miles or the percentage of available seats that were actually sold. Domestically, he said, the average amount for June was 84.2 percent. Systemwide, it was 87.7 percent. "Thief River Falls is consistently well below that," said Ebenhoch, who noted he could not provide any Thief River Falls market-specific numbers.

Yet, Ebenhoch did note that most communities receiving EAS subsidies are only served by 19-seat aircraft. "Thirty-four seats is the smallest aircraft in our fleet," said Ebenhoch, referring to the number of seats in aircraft serving Thief River Falls.

The lack of people using the airport has led to a decrease in the number of flights to and from the airport. Last year, Mesaba provided 13 weekly, subsidized round trips (two one-stop round trips each weekday and three one-stop round trips each weekend). Under the new EAS contract, it provides 12 weekly, subsidized round-trip flights.

Ebenhoch said, "Were it not for the Essential Air Service subsidy, we would not be able to provide the service."

Residents who don't have any trouble flying in and out of TRF

Alert, but certainly not too concerned, these Canada geese gathered next to the National Guard Armory and Thief River Falls campground on Tuesday, Aug. 2, and fed on some of the fresh shoots of grass and seed. Interestingly, a bit of information reached The Times/Northern Watch office recently, which readers might find interesting and maybe even amusing. Geese are becoming a nuisance in many communities. Geese have become such a problem that, believe it or not, a new organization called GeesePeace has taken flight. According to its Web site (www.geesepeace.org), GeesePeace is dedicated to building better communities though innovative, effective, and humane solutions to wildlife conflicts. The organization works in partnership with local governments, business and community leaders to assure full support and availability of community resources to resolve the wildlife conflicts humanely. GeesePeace notes that in recent years, a once small population of "resident," non-migratory Canada geese, the remnants of hunting stocks, have grown in numbers so that in many of our communities, the Canada goose is seen as a nuisance and is the source of a growing controversy, pitting neighbor against neighbor and institution against institution, on what to do about it.

Council approves arena bid and explores funding

Red Lake Falls - A public meeting was held July 26 in the Red Lake Falls Community Hall basement to discuss the bids for the Cardin-Hunt Arena addition.

The Red Lake Falls City Council approved Schmitz Builders' low bid of $556,900, which includes a space for the weight room, finished bathrooms, larger water service and relocation of the existing rubber flooring to the new area if possible.

The Blue Line Club has offered to provide the funding and materials necessary to finish the public bathrooms, which could reduce the bid by almost $20,000. - Red Lake Falls Gazette, Aug. 3, 2005

Fire heavily damages second floor apartment of Warren residence

Warren - An early Friday morning fire, believed to have been caused by a faulty extension cord, heavily damaged the second-floor apartment at 727 N. Second St. in Warren.

A woman living in the apartment was hospitalized for treatment of cut feet and possible back injuries after she leapt from a second-story window to escape the flames. Benita Lorenson may owe her life to being awakened by the family cat, who, in turn, may have saved three people in the downstairs apartment from injury or death, according to Warren Fire Chief Lonnie Stauffenecker. - Warren Sheaf, Aug. 3, 2005

Daughter receives Purple Heart for a father she never met

Lake Bronson - Rae Ann Linjala never met her father, Ray Mattson of Jupiter Township. But the emotions she felt when awarded his Purple Heart at the Lake Bronson centennial celebration last Thursday made their connection, after nearly 63 years, seem very real.

While on duty as a radioman with the U.S. Coast Guard near Greenland, a German U-Boat sank Mattson's ship, and he was listed as missing in action Dec. 17, 1942. Once he was officially declared dead, he was the first boy from the Halma-Lake Bronson area to be killed in action in World War II.

"I was born while my father was out at sea," recalled Linjala. "I know they told him that he had a baby girl. My aunt Clara [Olson] sent a photo, but I guess he never got it."

After notification of his death, Linjala and her mother, stationed in New London, Conn., headed to Mattson's parents' home in Lake Bronson.

"I was about 1-year-old and had my entire life packed in a green cardboard suitcase, which I still have," said Linjala. "My mother brought me to Alfred and Nellie's, my grandparents. She left and I never saw her again."

Her grandparents continued to raise her for the remainder of her childhood. Rae Ann currently lives with her husband in Rock, Mich. - Kittson County Enterprise, Aug. 3, 2005, by Louise Money

Back Behind the Barn Boys to perform in TRF Saturday

Free concert is part of Barn Again! event

Back Behind the Barn Boys will conduct a free outdoor concert from 8 to 10 p.m. at Hartz Park in Thief River Falls on Saturday, Aug. 6. The event has been included as part of the summerlong Barn Again! celebration in Thief River Falls. Concessions will be available prior to and during the concert.

Other than last weekend, the last time Back Behind the Barn Boys performed publically was for the Reunion Tour in 2002. Joe Kezar of Kezar Music in Thief River Falls said when the group met to practice for a benefit for Brady Anderson, "it was like old times."

"We always have a good time," said Gene Lunsetter, a member of the band.

Lunsetter said Faye Auchenpaugh called him last winter about performing on Saturday. At first, he said, he was a little reluctant and said he'd have to check with the members of the band. Lunsetter said everyone said they wanted to do it.

Lunsetter said though the group is no longer performing together regularly, members of the band have never turned down an opportunity to perform together. Last year, for example, the band performed for the Grygla Fall Festival, and more recently, performed for a benefit for

Digi-Key employment opportunities grow

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

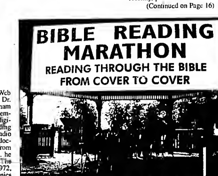
Between now and the end of the year, Digi-Key plans to hire 60 to 80 new employees.

"We do expect to add people," said Mark Larson, Digi-Key's president. "We are continuing to add people."

In June, the company also expanded to Singapore, Hong Kong, China and Taiwan. "We're expanding internationally, and we have service centers that handle our customers over there," said Larson. "We support the service centers here."

That international expansion was the latest of many international expansions the company has had. Earlier this year, it expanded to include the western countries of the European Union (EU). Next year, it intends to expand to the eastern countries of the EU.

Digi-Key also does business in many countries – five of which it has specifically-geared links off of its Web site (www.digi-key.com). Besides the U.S., those countries include Canada, Germany, Hong Kong, Japan and Singapore. The links are written in each country's official language.



In addition to gearing its Web site links to those countries, Digi-Key is printing versions of its catalogue in the U.S., Canada, England, Austria, China, Japan and Korea. In Austria, it is also printing versions of the Digi-Key catalogue for other European catalogues. Just last year, most of those catalogues were only printed in Canada or the U.S.

"Digi-Key is the type of business that everybody wants," said Thief River Falls Community Development Director Mike Moore, who noted the company's benefits, pay and diverse jobs.

According to the Digi-Key Web site, the corporation began after Dr. Ron Stordahl took an interest in ham radio. While in college, he assembled and sold the Digi-Key, "a digital electronic keyer kit for sending radiotelegraph code for ham radio operators." After obtaining his doctorate in electrical engineering from the University of Minnesota, he returned to Thief River Falls. The kit was discontinued, and in 1972, Stordahl started selling electronics components.

The business grew. Now, Digi-Key has sold components that are now in satellites orbiting Earth. It has also sold components to Paramount Pictures as well as to Disneyland.

Digi-Key is now the ninth largest electronic distributor in North America.

Area residents participated in a Bible Reading Marathon in Thief River Falls this past week. This is the Third Annual Bible Reading Marathon. The marathon, which began Sunday afternoon, took place in the gazebo in Floyd B. Olson Park. As of Tuesday at noon, readers were a couple hours ahead of schedule. They were expected to conclude sometime on Thursday. Last year, over 70 people representing at least 10 different congregations participated in the 74-plus hour event.

NCTC welcomes its new president, James Davis

Dr. James R. Davis
Interim president of NCTC

Dr. James R. Davis of Worthington, officially began his duties as interim president of Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC) Monday, Aug. 1.

"I have quickly been welcomed into the community," said Davis. "I've met a few community members and many staff. The Northland College facilities are great, and I've been involved with a lot of allied health programs in my career, but this college has some I've never seen before. I'm really looking forward to a great year."

NCTC Vice President and Provost Kent Hanson says he has great expectations for working with the new president. "Dr. Davis is very knowledgeable. His skills and background will lend themselves to the progress of our college and help us move forward. I am excited to work with him, I feel comfortable with where we are at, and believe it's going to be a very good year for Northland," said Provost Hanson.

Davis was recommended as interim president by Minnesota State Colleges and Universities (MnSCU) Chancellor James H. McCormick. The MnSCU Board of Trustees approved the appointment on April 20, which was announced the following day at press conferences on the East Grand Forks, and Thief River Falls, campuses of NCTC.

Davis replaced Dr. Orley D. Gunderson, who retired July 11 after 25-years as president of Thief River Falls-based colleges. Davis will lead the college for approximately one year while a national search for a permanent replacement is conducted.

Davis served as president of Lehigh Carbon Community College, Penn., from 1992 to 2000. Prior to that, he served as president of the Royal Oak and Southfield campuses of Oakland Community College in Michigan, Wenatchee Valley College in Washington, McHenry County College in Illinois, and Wabash Valley College in Illinois. He holds a bachelor's degree in English from the University of Dubuque and a master's degree and doctorate in educational administration and supervision from the University of Illinois at Urbana.

Davis will split his time between the two campuses of NCTC. He says his goals as president include strengthening ties with business and industry and expanding the NCTC Foundation to represent both campuses.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere
email: lacourse@mncable.net

All but one of today's recipes are from Myrtle Tydlacka's cookbook, "The Best From My Desk." Myrtle died earlier this year and it's so nice to have her yummy recipes.

Myrtle said this casserole is like lasagna:

SUPER SUPPER CASSEROLE

8 ounce package noodles
1-1/2 pounds ground beef
Pepper
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon garlic salt
1 (8 ounce) can tomato sauce
1 cup dairy sour cream
3/4 cup grated sharp American cheese
1 cup creamed cottage cheese
6 green onions, chopped

Cook noodles until tender as directed on package. Drain and rinse with cold water.

Melt butter in skillet. Add beef and cook until it has lost red color. Drain. Mix in salt, pepper, garlic salt and tomato sauce. Simmer about 5 minutes. Remove from heat.

Combine cottage cheese, sour cream, onions and noodles. Alternate layers of noodles and meat mixture in 2 quart casserole. Top with grated cheese. Bake at 350 degrees about 30 minutes until brown on top. Serves 6-8.

Mix it all together for a quick supper - I think this is also called Tater Tot Hot Dish, isn't it?

BEEF, BEAN AND TATER CASSEROLE

1-1/2 pound ground beef
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 can French style green beans, drained
1 pound package tater tots
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup chopped onion
1 can cheddar cheese soup

Season meat with salt and pepper. Add chopped onion and spread in bottom of 9x13 inch pan. Add drained beans evenly over meat. Spread undiluted soup over beans. Top with tater tots.

Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour. Serves 6 with large servings.

These are almost like hot dogs, only more fun and nobody's hot dog will slip out of the bun, either:

SURPRISE HOT DOGS

3/4 pound sharp cheese
1/4 cup mustard
1 teaspoons chopped sweet pickles or relish
1 pound bologna
1/3 cup mayonnaise
Onion to taste
Hot dog buns

Put ingredients in food processor. Fill buns and wrap each bun in foil. Bake 25 minutes at 325 degrees.

Those new salads are all the rage at fast food places. Here - make your own with this recipe, or use other ingredients that you like:

WALDORF SALAD

1/2 cup celery
1/2 cup dates
4 marshmallows (or equivalent mini marshmallows)
1/2 cup mayonnaise salad dressing
2 cups apples
1/2 cup walnuts

Cut up celery, dates and marshmallows and mix with mayonnaise (or low fat yogurt, if you would like). Chill. Fold in apples and nuts just before serving.

Here's another nice salad you can make yourself:

PICNIC SPINACH SALAD

1 package frozen spinach (or fresh - see below)
1/2 cup chopped onion
2-3 tablespoons horseradish
2 hard cooked eggs, chopped
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup grated cheddar cheese
1-1/2 cups mayonnaise salad dressing
Salt to taste

Defrost spinach completely and squeeze out all juice. Add remaining ingredients. (Can use fresh spinach and toss in salad bowl.)

Make this quick skillet dish any time for an easy meal:

SAUSAGE HOT DISH

1 pound pork sausage links
1 cup chopped onions
1 cup chopped celery
1 green pepper, chopped
1 can mushrooms
1 cup washed rice
Dash of Worcestershire sauce
2 cans cream of chicken soup
1/2 cup water

Cut sausage in small pieces and brown. Sauté onion, celery and green pepper. Add soup, mushrooms, rice, water and Worcestershire sauce. Cook slowly in heavy skillet 45 minutes, adding water if necessary.

This isn't from Myrtle's book, but it is a good idea for this time of year when zucchini and tomatoes are coming around. It's just right if you're watching your diet:

ZUCCHINI TOMATO SOUP

2 small zucchini, coarsely chopped
1/4 cup chopped red onion
1-1/2 teaspoons olive or canola oil
1/8 teaspoons salt
1 cup spicy hot V-8 juice
1 small tomato, cut into thin wedges
Dash each of pepper and dried basil
2 tablespoons shredded cheddar cheese, if desired
1 - 2 tablespoons cooked crumbled bacon, if desired

In skillet, sauté zucchini and onion in oil until crisp-tender. Sprinkle with salt. Add V-8, tomato, pepper and basil and cook until heated through. Garnish with cheese and bacon, if desired. Recipe serves 2.

Nutritional Info: One serving (without cheese or bacon) equals 89 calories, 4 g fat, 0 chol, 545 mg sodium, 12 g carb, 3 g fiber, 3 g protein. Diabetic Exchange is 2 vegetable, 1/2 fat.

Leaders will break barriers we can't even see

It wasn't that long ago Billie Jean King and Bobby Riggs squared off on the tennis court in another "battle of the sexes." For many, that televised match in 1973 was seen as a definitive moment in the battle of the sexes - a moment that fueled a growing awareness of inequity and contributed to a momentum against barriers faced by women in this country.

Another barrier fell last spring, and there were no television crews or media to record the moment. Oh, people were surprised when they found out, but I'm not sure, however, how they perceived it, or even understood what it meant.

Natasha Henderson graduated from Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls last spring. As it turns out, she was the first female minority student to complete the aviation maintenance certification course at the school.

Graduating from college is no easy task. Henderson and all of the graduates from Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC), and for that matter, all college graduates, are to be commended for their dedication and hard work. Knowledge is highly valued in this country because from the ranks of these people, our future leaders are often identified...or stand out on their own.

Just because we didn't notice before it happened, is no reason to discount Nathasha's accomplishment in breaking down another barrier. What she accomplished may encourage other students to pursue this career. What she accomplished may encourage other students to seek to break down other barriers, barriers like this one that we may not even be able to see.

Should we be embarrassed by our failure to recognize the barrier, or our failure to empathize with minorities?

Natasha, too, was even unaware of her accomplishment until someone told her. Good naturedly, she asked, "Where's my trophy?"

In addition to admiring her tenacity, one has to admire her sense of humor, too.

Henderson was hired almost before she graduated, and she's ecstatic about her opportunity to work in a field that interests her. Who wouldn't? She has a job in her field of education, an employer who needs a person with her skills, and she's the kind of person who has the persistant determination to get the job done. Whether she recognizes it now or not, she's a leader.

This momentous event may say a lot about NCTC. Natasha said she was treated just like everyone else, and no one noticed that there was a barrier to break. Occasions like this make one wonder whether we have finally reached a point where traditional roles no longer exist...at least until we look at national statistics that show that women still aren't paid on par with men occupying the same jobs and performing the same duties, and by men or women who occupy jobs in their traditional roles. Yes, we have miles to go, and discoveries to make, and we should hope that during this journey, we come into contact with events and experiences that open our eyes and minds to new possibilities.

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

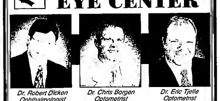
Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.



Shrine Club to host screening clinic in Bemidji

Headwaters Shrine Club will sponsor the Eighth Annual Shrine Screening Clinic from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 9, at the Lake Region Bone and Joint Clinic, Bemidji.

Children under the age of 18 who have orthopedic problems are encouraged to attend the clinic for evaluation of his or her condition and possible referral to the Minneapolis Shrine Hospital for treatment. Attendance at the clinic is free and if accepted by the hospital, all treatment and expenses are without charge of any kind.

For more information and or an appointment, contact Robert Melchior, 615 S. Movil Lake Rd. N.E., Bemidji, MN 56601; or e-mail melch@paulbunyan.net; or call 218-751-1399.

The clinic begins a busy weekend in Bemidji that includes a Shrine parade and the annual Shrine football game. The parade, which begins at 11 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 10, will feature Shrine bands and mechanized units along with a number of entries from the University and community. Starting from the Pamida parking lot, the parade will proceed along Beltrami Ave. to the old high school. The football game, which features Bemidji State University and Mankato State, follows at 1 p.m.

Thank You

I would like to thank the organizers of the Little Oak District #65 school reunion held at Englestad Pioneer Village July 16, 2005. I enjoyed meeting former students and a classmate. Three of my five teachers were also in attendance. It was a memorable event.

Thanks again,

More children with lead poisoning could get help sooner

Children in Minnesota with high levels of lead in their blood will now get help from health and housing officials sooner than they have in the past, thanks to a change in state law that took effect Aug. 1.

This year, the Minnesota State Legislature changed the minimum blood lead level that triggers intervention from 20 to 15 micrograms of lead per deciliter of whole blood. When a child has a single elevated veinous blood lead level of 15 micrograms per deciliter of whole blood, risk assessment tests must be made of the home and surrounding area. A blood level of 10 micrograms per deciliter of whole is still considered elevated and requires clinical follow-up, however, 15 micrograms per deciliter of whole blood will be the new housing intervention level.

The law requires that when the Minnesota Department of Health (MDH) is notified by healthcare providers that a child has a blood test indicating a high lead level of 15 micrograms per deciliter of whole blood, within 10 days an assessment must be made of the child's home for lead dust and paint, lead-contaminated soil and other possible sources of lead poisoning and exposure. The same assessment will be necessary within 48 hours for a pregnant woman or a child with a blood lead level of 60 micrograms per deciliter of whole blood or higher.

The lead risk assessment is conducted by trained and certified experts. As part of the assessment, home and property owners are given information about how to reduce the risk of future exposure. By controlling any existing lead hazards, home and property owners can prevent children who live in or visit the house (now or in the future) from being exposed.

Urban areas with aging housing, especially Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth, have the most cases of childhood lead poisoning in the state. However, lead poisoning can happen anywhere. Lead is a heavy metal that was widely used in interior and exterior paint before 1978, when lead-based paint was banned for residential use.

The new blood lead intervention level will mostly affect agencies and organizations that test and treat people for high blood lead levels and those who might be at risk for lead exposure.

"This change means that assessment and cleanup of lead will be done more quickly for those who suffer from lead poisoning and those who are at risk for lead poisoning," said Dianne Mandernach, Minnesota health commissioner. "While there has been a steady decline in the cases of lead poisoning in the last 10 to 15 years, there are still too many children at risk. The lowering of the blood lead intervention level will greatly aid in our efforts to reduce the number of children affected by this preventable health problem."

Children under the age of 6 are the most vulnerable to the health impacts of lead, which are often hard to detect and can be irreversible. Some potential impacts of childhood lead poisoning include decreased intelligence (as measured by IQ testing), decreased coordination, hearing loss, reduced attention span, aggressive behavior and reading disabilities. The MDH Childhood Lead Poisoning Prevention Program (CLPPP) monitors blood test results in Minnesota. Of the 72,168 children tested by health providers in 2004, 250 children had veinous blood lead levels of 15 micrograms per deciliter of whole blood or higher.

The MDH has modified case management guidelines for health professionals to reflect this change. These guidelines and other information about childhood lead poisoning and lead-safe housing practices are available on the MDH Web site (www.health.state.mn.us/divs/eh/lead/) or contact the CLPPP at (651) 215-0911.

Dayton applauds passage of sex offender registry

U.S. Senator Mark Dayton has announced the passage of legislation to create the first-ever national sex offender registry. Current federal law requires each state to maintain such a registry, but no national database exists to link the state lists together. By establishing the National Sex Offender Public Database, this legislation, introduced by Senator Dorgan (D-ND), authorizes the federal government to create, manage, and make available the registry to all states and the general public via the Internet.

Last November, this legislation, known as Dru's Law, passed the Senate by unanimous consent, but the House of Representatives failed to act on the bill in time. Dayton, who is a co-sponsor of the bill, is hopeful the House will pass it in the fall.

"It is terrible that we do not have a federal registry to track some of the most dangerous people in our society," said Dayton. "We, as elected officials, are duty bound to protect our communities. The National Sex Offender Public Database will help track people known to be repeat offenders. With this legislation, Minnesotans will know when these potentially dangerous people move into our neighborhoods."

Dru's Law will also strengthen the rules monitoring high-risk sex offenders, by requiring correctional facilities to immediately notify the state attorneys general about the planned release of any high-risk sex offender. An attorney general could then determine the worthiness of the offender's case for a legal proceeding to determine if the individual is fit to return to society. Additionally, states will be required to transfer information regarding all sex offenders to the national database.

This legislation was prompted by the case of Dru Sjodin, a young woman from Minnesota who was abducted in North Dakota. Although Dru's suspected abductor was a registered sex offender in Minnesota, North Dakota authorities did not have access to the Minnesota state registry, and, therefore had no way of knowing about his criminal history. Dru's Law seeks to close this dangerous loophole and prevent similar tragedies from occurring in the future.
